Soviets Interested in U.S. Plan For Atomic Bomber 'Bonfire'

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union indicated a move today to meet the American position on a proposed "bonfire" of nuclear bomber planes.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin told the 17-nation disarmament conference a forthcoming new Kremlin plan will modify the Jan. 28 Soviet proposal calling for total destruction of all bombing planes.

The January proposal was rejected by the United States as impractical and unacceptable to the West. An American counterplan on March 19 called for destruction of 480 American B47s, matched by the destruction of 480 Soviet TU16s over a two-year period. The Soviets rejected the counterproposal.

Zorin hinted today his new proposal will take into account the American objections to scrapping all bombers.

The Soviet delegation will present its views on how and in what order we think it most appropriate, taking into account opinions advanced by other delegates, to carry out the elimination of bomber aircraft," he said. "At present we would like only to state that the Soviet Union is going to occupy a flexible position in this matter."

American officials were intrigued by Zorin's use of the word flexible. Immediately after the morning conference session, U.S. disarmament negotiator William C. Foster took Zorin aside in an unscheduled private talk lasting nearly an hour.

Plans to Picket LBJ Criticized By Democrats

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—California Democratic leaders have criticized the Congress of Racial Equality for its plans to picket a dinner honoring President Johnson Friday night.

CORE officials had announced plans to picket the dinner to protest civil rights trials currently being held in San Francisco.

"We feel that such a picket line would be highly irresponsible and a very real insult to our President who has been in the forefront in the fight for civil rights," five Democrats told CORE Chairman William Bradley in a letter Wednesday.

Bradley said the demonstration would go on as planned.

The letter was signed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Senate nominee Pierre Salinger, Assemblyman Byron Rumford, a Negro and vice chairman of the din-

Reds Gaining in Viet War, Officials Admit

By ROY ESSOYAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A high-ranking U.S. military adviser said today the Communist threat to South Viet Nam is far more serious than it was when he first came here nearly three years ago.

Communist Viet Cong forces who control much of the countryside are "much better armed and professionally more competent" today than they were three years ago, he told newsmen in a farewell briefing before his departure for Washington.

The biggest problem the United States faces, the officer said, is the problem of getting the Vietnamese government and army to accept American advice.

The officer's unusually outspoken remarks were given to newsmen on condition that he could not be quoted by name but he could be identified as a high-ranking U.S. Army officer.

His comments were similar to informal comments from American military advisers frequently heard in the field but in sharp contrast to the relatively optimistic statements of official U.S. military spokesmen in Saigon.

Scranton Blasts Goldwater on 'Courage' Issue

By RICHARD L. GRAVES

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton accused Sen. Barry Goldwater Wednesday of lacking the courage to face him in a television debate, and then retracted the statement hours later.

The attack was the Pennsylvania governor's sharpest ever on a political opponent.

Scranton set a precedent in his own style of political campaigning at St. Louis when he said Goldwater "lacks the courage to face people." The question came up when Scranton was asked to comment on Goldwater's refusal to debate him on television.

Scranton said Goldwater had insulated himself from the public by refusing to hold news conferences and using only prepared material in his addresses. "I don't consider that to be the right type of candidate to have in America," the governor told newsmen.

A few hours later Scranton told a Denver news conference that his use of the word 'courage' in that earlier press conference "was an ill-advised use of the word."

He said he believed Goldwater has personal courage and nobody denies that. I don't."

Scranton added "but since the New Hampshire campaign he has been guarded and hemmed in by the politicians around him."

The reason, said Scranton, is because the American people would become even more disenchanted by what are his real views.

Despite the criticism, Scranton said he would support Goldwater for the presidency if the senator is nominated. He said any Republican would be better than President Johnson.

Storms Diminish, Rains Continue In Wide Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRES

Rainy weather continued today across scattered sections of the nation but storms which struck some areas during the night diminished.

Showers covered many areas in the West, except for the Southwest desert region. Showers and light rain fell in parts of Michigan, most of the Ohio Valley and in southern Forida. Nearly 2½ inches of rain doused Moorcroft, in northeast Wyoming.

An inch of snow was reported in Leadville, more than 10,000 feet above sea level, in central Colorado. In Denver, east of Leadville, the mercury reached 89 Wednesday.

Severe thunderstorms, with strong winds, swept areas during the night in south central Missouri, Arkansas, Texas and North Dakota.

Floods which followed torrential rains in eastern Nebraska earlier this week caused property damages estimated at $6 to $8 million and were blamed for seven deaths.

Madame Nhu Is Cleared For Another Visit to U.S.

NEW YORK—(Special)—Under Secretary of State Fred Dutton advised Mr. Charles P. Hostek of the Conservative Party of Flushing that all clearances have been made in Washington for Madam Ngo Dinh Nhu to obtain her visa to enter the U.S.

All State Department Field Offices have been notified to this effect, and told to extend her every courtesy to make her trip as expeditious and comfortable as possible.

There had been some question only last week, that the State Department in Washington was aware of Madame Nhu's planned visit or that any action would be taken until a formal application had been received here. However, Under-Secretary Dutton gave out this information today and advised that he was still not aware of the fact that Madam Nhu had applied for her visa.

In a letter to the Flushing Club dated June 12th Madame Nhu advised that she had completed all necessary application forms which were forwarded to U.S. Ambassador Charles Bohlen in Paris on June 11th. She futher advised that she had the necessary travel documents in hand.

Madame Nhu will give the keynote address at a "Truth Rally" sponsored by the Flushing Conservative Club. The Rally will be held on July 7th at Sunnyside Gardens, in Sunnyside, N.Y.

'Human Salvage' Program of LBJ 'Disappointment'

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration's "human salvage" program to rehabilitate rejected draftees has proved a dismal disappointment so far.

Of 134,500 youths contacted in the first three months, only 189 have been placed in training programs. Jobs—many of them of brief duration—were found for 2,200.

Only 17.5 per cent of the rejected draftees even bothered to respond to the government's letters telling them where to get help.

When first announced last Janaury, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz hopefully called it "the most important human salvage program in the history of our country."

Administration officials had hoped to assist some 35,000 young men in the first four months.

While conceding some serious problems in the initial stage of the program, the Labor Department isn't giving up.

Spokesmen say the biggest problem is getting in direct contact with youths who have been rejected for physical or educational reasons and convincing them there are federal programs that can help them.

Selective Service officials have held the addresses of rejected youths are confidential and insisted in sending contact letters, rather than letting Labor Department counselors get in touch directly with the youths.

The two agencies are now working on a procedure to get

Chile's Politicians Fear Red Takeover by Vote

In the quiet luxury of Santiago's Club de la Union, the wealthy and influential will boast of Chile's long record of political stability and react with fierce national pride against any suggestion that the country's pattern of democracy is something less than perfect.

It is true that since 1931, all Chilean presidents have been duly elected without resort to revolution, demonstrating a consistent devotion to democracy.

It is also true that in the slums of bustling Santiago and among farm laborers there is hunger and disease on a scale equal to any to be found in South America.

And, further, it is true that Chile's Communist party, with a membership estimated at 50,000 and with other thousands of sympathizers, is probably the strongest and best organ-

Negroes Plan to Switch Tactics in St. Augustine

By DON MCKEE

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — Negroes switched tactics again in their determined three-week siege against segregation in this city and marched singing through a white residential section in the middle of the night.

What form the next demonstration might take in this strange struggle was a matter of speculation as a grand jury in special session continued its closed door investigation of racial unrest.

Wednesday night's march, covering perhaps two miles, was the longest, loudest, latest and least eventful since the night treks over St. Augustine's historic pavements resumed nine days ago.

Three hundred marchers, including a group of Jewish clergymen from nine states, began the long walk shortly before 11 p.m.

As usual, they had a heavy police escort. The march route, checked out in advance by state police, was deserted until the procession neared U.S. 1A, a major tourist route.

A few white spectators watched, some perched on parked cars.

No spectator said anything. The marchers wound into the parking lot in front of Monson Motor Lodge, the major target in sit-in attempts. They held a prayer service and returned to the church where the march began.

The slow procession went through some of the city's narrowest and darkest streets. Policemen searched the shadows constantly with flashlights.

Before the march, Rabbi Israel Dresner of Plainfield, N.J., told a church rally that the integration drive "is a struggle for all people. We Jews are in this struggle because of our history as well as our faith. We know what it is to suffer."

Dresner was among 16 rabbis who arrived Wednesday to join the integration drive.

The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy an associate of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., urged the crowd to march—this time through the white residential area because white segregationists last week marched through a Negro residential section.

"If they can come through our neighborhood, we can go through theirs," he said to the cheers from the crowd.

Earlier Wednesday, 35 Negroes staged a two-hour wade-in at St. Augustine beach. All the white bathers except a

Typhoid Epidemic 'Contained' in Aberdeen

ABERDEEN, Scotland (AP) —A nightmare that lasted a month seems to be over for this old granite city swept by Scotland's northern winds.

Aberdeen's health officer, Dr. Ian MacQueen, announced Wednesday that the city's typhoid epidemic has been "contained." Although 447 persons are still under treatment, MacQueen said there was no evidence of any new sources of infection.

Assured that the main danger is past, Aberdeen lifted the self-imposed quarantine that cut off its lucrative tourist trade.

Hotels are advertising again for vacation bookings. Aberdeen citizens are no longer shunned when they travel south to Edinburgh or Glasgow.

The epidemic started last month with a local woman feeling ill. Her temperature rose; she broke out with a pinkish rash. Within days it became clear that Britain was undergoing its biggest postwar outbreak of typhoid.

Thanks to modern antibiotics, only one death was recorded. A typhoid epidemic in Croydon, outside London, in 1937 caused 43 deaths out of only 344 cases.

U.S. Keeps Alive Plan to Strike At North Viets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is keeping alive the possibility of a strike against Communist North Viet Nam to drive it out of the fighting in neighboring South Viet Nam and Laos, U.S. officials report.

They did not spell out what form the action would take or what could bring it about. But obviously it could be triggered by a situation—such as critical Red offensive—where the danger of a strike would be outweighed by the danger of not launching one.

But for now at least, the officials said Wednesday in discussing the Southeast Asian outlook, the crisis in South Viet Nam and Laos has eased.

They stressed, however, that the Communists cannot be allowed to treat the Plaines des Jarres of Laos, which they overran in May, as theirs.

The officials said the United States sees merit in Poland's proposal for a six-nation conference of Britain, the Soviet Union, Poland, India, Canada and Laos, but not Red China.

Administration officials hope such a conference would pave the way for resumption of the three-nation control commission inspections in Laos and pinpoint Communist violation of the Geneva pact which guaranteed Laos' neutrality.

This, in the American view, would focus diplomatic pressure on the Communists.

The Soviet Union, however, has recently shown less interest in the Polish proposal than before. The officials said they did not know what caused this apparent change.

One possibility is that the

Wife Is Worth $417,000, Court Is Told

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A 20-year-old mother is worth $417,000 to her husband during his lifetime, a University of Florida economics professor testified Wednesday in circuit court.

Dr. Roy Lassiter Jr. said he based his estimate on a wife's economic contribution to the home by combining the average salaries of a public school teacher and domestic servant.

He testified in Wright E. Sarvis' negligence suit against the Seaboard Air Line Railroad in connection with the death of Sarvis' wife in a car-train collision last November.

Chavez Trial Witness Tells About Assault

"He said if I didn't go back to him he would kill me rather than see me with another man," Martha Chavez, a prosecution witness in the trial of Eliseo Antonio Chavez, testified in District Court Wednesday.

Chavez, 29, 231 Cheyenne Ave., is charged with assault with a deadly weapon and is alleged to have attacked his wife, Martha, 29, 317 E. Vermijo St., with a butcher's knife and paring knife at her home, April 15.

He has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity, and although Dr. Paul Draper has declared him legally sane, his attorneys Lee and William Goodbar are still standing on the insanity issue.

The trial finally started Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 after one and a half days spent in selecting a jury.

Mrs. Chavez testified that her husband who had a restraining order against him as she had filed for a divorce before the alleged incident, came to her place of work the night of April 14.

She said he pleaded with her to come back to him and tried to kiss her, but she pushed him away. Mrs. Chavez told the court she had once said to the defendant that "she would rather die than live with him again."

On the night of April 14 she asked him if he had escaped from the Veteran's Hospital at Fort Lyons and he replied he had. He followed her home as he wanted to collect his clothes. The witness testified he could collect them and then leave. When they arrived at her apartment where her two young children were present with a babysitter, he asked for a cup of coffee which she made for him.

Chavez, she said, started striking her and threw her to the floor. As she got up he ran

Wallace Urges South to Wield Power Balance

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)— Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace says a united South can be the balance of power in the November presidential election.

Wallace, a candidate for president on the Free Electors ticket, told a joint session of the Louisiana Legislature Wednesday that no man could win the presidency without the seven Southern states carried by the Democratic party in 1960.

We can and we do have the balance of power in the presidential election," he said. "We can use the Electoral College to get the liberals off the backs of all the American people."

"They say that we must stay in the mainstream of American politics. Well, the mainstream leads right down the road to state socialism. I'm for getting out of the mainstream," Wallace said.

Wallace, smiling and confident wound up his activities Wednesday night with a speech stressing Southern unity, states rights and free enterprise at a $25-a-plate banquet of the Louisiana Committee for Free electors. About 1,000 persons gave him repeated cheers and applause.

Goldwater Counts on 361 Sure First-Ballot Votes

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has 361 Republican National Convention delegates bound to him by state laws or party convention actions. That's more than half of the 677 first-ballot votes credited to him by an Associated Press survey.

The remainder of the votes in Goldwater's column come from delegates who say they favor the Arizona senator, including 35 who consider themselves personally pledged or committed and 28 who say they'll vote for him but are not personally pledged.

The total credited to Goldwater in the AP survey is 22 more than the 655 needed for the nomination — provided he can keep them between now and the GOP convention opening in San Francisco July 13.

Goldwater's votes stemming from a binding state primary election total 118; from instructions of a state or district GOP convention, 243.

This could rise if the last 14 delegates to be chosen, in Montana Friday are instructed for Goldwater.

Most politicians privately scoff at such terms as "legally binding." They contend that even such strict statutes as those in Oregon and Wisconsin governing the actions of delegates would be hard to uphold in the courts of another state, such as California, where the convention is to be held.

Republican convention rules recognize the right of any delegate to vote as he pleases, regardless of instructions from state conventions.

It is pointed out, however, that a rebel who ignored specific instructions from a state convention might find a chilly political atmosphere when he gets back home.

Assuming that instructions

Man With Gun Taken To Hospital

A 24-year-old Colorado Springs man was taken to the John Emory Brady Hospital for a sanity hearing this morning after he threatened a woman at the Welfare Department in the County Building.

Police said no charges have been filed against the man who reportedly walked into the Welfare Department this morning with a pellet gun and asked to see Mary Ryan, a case worker at the department.

The man, who reportedly has threatened Miss Ryan in the past, took the gun out of a sack and showed it to Fern Farrington, a receptionist.

The sheriff's office was called and Deputy Sheriff Bob Newman arrived at the department to find the man sitting in the reception room. The man reportedly told Newman, "I'm not going to hurt nobody."

The man was taken to the police department and was sent from there to the hospital.

Youth Lives in Ventilation Shaft to Finish College

His niche was a ventilation shaft where he set up housekeeping seven months ago.

"It was a little cold," admitted the Tulsa, Okla., student after leaving his rent-free quarters for good. "In the winter I used an electric blanket."

Kornfeld received his bachelor's degree last June but felt he needed another year of study before entering medical school.

Housing was available in New Haven but rent money wasn't. Kornfeld had attended Yale on a four-year scholarship which was terminated on graduation day.

The 6-foot-3 Oklahoman decided to try living in the attic of Silliman College, one of Yale's 12 residential colleges.

He soon began to attract the attention of campus police. Kornfeld then tried a brick passageway that feeds air into the college's squash courts.

To disguise the entrance, he covered a piece of plywood with brick wallpaper and placed it over the opening. Only a few close friends knew of the hideaway.

As far as university officials knew, special student Kornfeld was living at the off-campus address he gave them. Tuition fees covered his meals in college dining halls.

Inside his cubbyhole, Kornfeld had a mattress, a bureau, a clock and a radio.

Liberation day came with the end of the school year. Kornfeld came out of the shaft and announced what he had done.

Storms Diminish, Rains Continue In Wide Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRES

Rainy weather continued today across scattered sections of the nation but storms which struck some areas during the night diminished.

Showers covered many areas in the West, except for the Southwest desert region. Showers and light rain fell in parts of Michigan, most of the Ohio Valley and in southern Forida. Nearly 2½ inches of rain doused Moorcroft, in northeast Wyoming.

A inch of snow was reported in Leadville, more than 10,000 feet above sea level, in central Colorado. In Denver, east of Leadville, the mercury reached 89 Wednesday.

Severe thunderstorms, with strong winds, swept areas during the night in south central Missouri, Arkansas, Texas and North Dakota.

Floods which followed torrential rains in eastern Nebraska earlier this week caused property damages estimated at $6 to $8 million and were blamed for seven deaths.

Madame Nhu Is Cleared For Another Visit to U.S.

NEW YORK—(Special)—Under Secretary of State Fred Dutton advised Mr. Charles P. Hostek of the Conservative Party of Flushing that all clearances have been made in Washington for Madam Ngo Dinh Nhu to obtain her visa to enter the U.S.

All State Department Field Offices have been notified to this effect, and told to extend her every courtesy to make her trip as expeditious and comfortable as possible.

There had been some question only last week, that the State Department in Washington was aware of Madame Nhu's planned visit or that any action would be taken until a formal application had been received here. However, Under-Secretary Dutton gave out this information today and advised that he was still not aware of the fact that Madam Nhu had applied for her visa.

In a letter to the Flushing Club dated June 12th Madame Nhu advised that she had completed all necessary application forms which were forwarded to U.S. Ambassador Charles Bohlen in Paris on June 11th. She futher advised that she had the necessary travel documents in hand.

Madame Nhu will give the keynote address at a "Truth Rally" sponsored by the Flushing Conservative Club. The Rally will be held on July 7th at Sunnyside Gardens, in Sunnyside, N.Y.

'Human Salvage' Program of LBJ 'Disappointment'

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration's "human salvage" program to rehabilitate rejected draftees has proved a dismal disappointment so far.

Of 134,500 youths contacted in the first three months, only 189 have been placed in training programs. Jobs—many of them of brief duration—were found for 2,200.

Only 17.5 per cent of the rejected draftees even bothered to respond to the government's letters telling them where to get help.

When first announced last Janaury, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz hopefully called it "the most important human salvage program in the history of our country."

Administration officials had hoped to assist some 35,000 young men in the first four months.

While conceding some serious problems in the initial stage of the program, the Labor Department isn't giving up.

Spokesmen say the biggest problem is getting in direct contact with youths who have been rejected for physical or educational reasons and convincing them there are federal programs that can help them.

Selective Service officials have held the addresses of rejected youths are confidential and insisted in sending contact letters, rather than letting Labor Department counselors get in touch directly with the youths.

The two agencies are now working on a procedure to get

Chile's Politicians Fear Red Takeover by Vote

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

In the quiet luxury of Santiago's Club de la Union, the wealthy and influential will boast of Chile's long record of political stability and react with fierce national pride against any suggestion that the country's pattern of democracy is something less than perfect.

It is true that since 1931, all Chilean presidents have been duly elected without resort to revolution, demonstrating a consistent devotion to democracy.

It is also true that in the slums of bustling Santiago and among farm laborers there is hunger and disease on a scale equal to any to be found in South America.

And, further, it is true that Chile's Communist party, with a membership estimated at 50,000 and with other thousands of sympathizers, is probably the strongest and best organ-

Negroes Plan to Switch Tactics in St. Augustine

By DON MCKEE

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — Negroes switched tactics again in their determined three-week siege against segregation in this city and marched singing through a white residential section in the middle of the night.

What form the next demonstration might take in this strange struggle was a matter of speculation as a grand jury in special session continued its closed door investigation of racial unrest.

Wednesday night's march, covering perhaps two miles, was the longest, loudest, latest and least eventful since the night treks over St. Augustine's historic pavements resumed nine days ago.

Three hundred marchers, including a group of Jewish clergymen from nine states, began the long walk shortly before 11 p.m.

As usual, they had a heavy police escort. The march route, checked out in advance by state police, was deserted until the procession neared U.S. 1A, a major tourist route.

A few white spectators watched, some perched on parked cars.

No spectator said anything. The marchers wound into the parking lot in front of Monson Motor Lodge, the major target in sit-in attempts. They held a prayer service and returned to the church where the march began.

The slow procession went through some of the city's narrowest and darkest streets. Policemen searched the shadows constantly with flashlights.

Before the march, Rabbi Israel Dresner of Plainfield, N.J., told a church rally that the integration drive "is a struggle for all people. We Jews are in this struggle because of our history as well as our faith. We know what it is to suffer."

Dresner was among 16 rabbis who arrived Wednesday to join the integration drive.

The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy an associate of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., urged the crowd to march—this time through the white residential area because white segregationists last week marched through a Negro residential section.

"If they can come through our neighborhood, we can go through theirs," he said to the cheers from the crowd.

Earlier Wednesday, 35 Negroes staged a two-hour wade-in at St. Augustine beach. All the white bathers except a

Typhoid Epidemic 'Contained' in Aberdeen

ABERDEEN, Scotland (AP) —A nightmare that lasted a month seems to be over for this old granite city swept by Scotland's northern winds.

Aberdeen's health officer, Dr. Ian MacQueen, announced Wednesday that the city's typhoid epidemic has been "contained." Although 447 persons are still under treatment, MacQueen said there was no evidence of any new sources of infection.

Assured that the main danger is past, Aberdeen lifted the self-imposed quarantine that cut off its lucrative tourist trade.

Hotels are advertising again for vacation bookings. Aberdeen citizens are no longer shunned when they travel south to Edinburgh or Glasgow.

The epidemic started last month with a local woman feeling ill. Her temperature rose; she broke out with a pinkish rash. Within days it became clear that Britain was undergoing its biggest postwar outbreak of typhoid.

Thanks to modern antibiotics, only one death was recorded. A typhoid epidemic in Croydon, outside London, in 1937 caused 43 deaths out of only 344 cases.

U.S. Keeps Alive Plan to Strike At North Viets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is keeping alive the possibility of a strike against Communist North Viet Nam to drive it out of the fighting in neighboring South Viet Nam and Laos, U.S. officials report.

They did not spell out what form the action would take or what could bring it about. But obviously it could be triggered by a situation—such as critical Red offensive—where the danger of a strike would be outweighed by the danger of not launching one.

But for now at least, the officials said Wednesday in discussing the Southeast Asian outlook, the crisis in South Viet Nam and Laos has eased.

They stressed, however, that the Communists cannot be allowed to treat the Plaines des Jarres of Laos, which they overran in May, as theirs.

The officials said the United States sees merit in Poland's proposal for a six-nation conference of Britain, the Soviet Union, Poland, India, Canada and Laos, but not Red China.

Administration officials hope such a conference would pave the way for resumption of the three-nation control commission inspections in Laos and pinpoint Communist violation of the Geneva pact which guaranteed Laos' neutrality.

This, in the American view, would focus diplomatic pressure on the Communists.

The Soviet Union, however, has recently shown less interest in the Polish proposal than before. The officials said they did not know what caused this apparent change.

One possibility is that the

Wife Is Worth $417,000, Court Is Told

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A 29-year-old mother is worth $417,000 to her husband during his lifetime, a University of Florida economics professor testified Wednesday in circuit court.

Dr. Roy Lassiter Jr. said he based his estimate on a wife's economic contribution to the home by combining the average salaries of a public school teacher and domestic servant.

He testified in Wright E. Sarvis' negligence suit against the Seaboard Air Line Railroad in connection with the death of Sarvis' wife in a car-train collision last November.

Chavez Trial Witness Tells About Assault

"He said if I didn't go back to him he would kill me rather than see me with another man," Martha Chavez, a prosecution witness in the trial of Eliseo Antonio Chavez, testified in District Court Wednesday.

Chavez, 29, 231 Cheyenne Ave., is charged with assault with a deadly weapon and is alleged to have attacked his wife, Martha, 29, 317 E. Vermijo St., with a butcher's knife and paring knife at her home, April 15.

He has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity, and although Dr. Paul Draper has declared him legally sane, his attorneys Lee and William Goodbar are still standing on the insanity issue.

The trial finally started Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 after one and a half days spent in selecting a jury.

Mrs. Chavez testified that her husband who had a restraining order against him as she had filed for a divorce before the alleged incident, came to her place of work the night of April 14.

She said he pleaded with her to come back to him and tried to kiss her, but she pushed him away. Mrs. Chavez told the court she had once said to the defendant that "she would rather die than live with him again."

On the night of April 14 she asked him if he had escaped from the Veteran's Hospital at Fort Lyons and he replied he had. He followed her home as he wanted to collect his clothes. The witness testified he could collect them and then leave. When they arrived at her apartment where her two young children were present with a babysitter, he asked for a cup of coffee which she made for him.

Chavez, she said, started striking her and threw her to the floor. As she got up he ran

Wallace Urges South to Wield Power Balance

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace says a united South can be the balance of power in the November presidential election.

Wallace, a candidate for president on the Free Electors ticket, told a joint session of the Louisiana Legislature Wednesday that no man could win the presidency without the seven Southern states carried by the Democratic party in 1960.

"We can and we do have the balance of power in the presidential election," he said. "We can use the Electoral College to get the liberals off the backs of all the American people."

"They say that we must stay in the mainstream of American politics. Well, the mainstream leads right down the road to state socialism. I'm for getting out of the mainstream," Wallace said.

Wallace, smiling and confident, wound up his atcivities Wednesday night with a speech stressing Southern unity, states rights and free enterprise at a $25-a-plate banquet of the Louisiana Committee for Free electors. About 1,000 persons gave him repeated cheers and applause.

Gov. John McKeithen introduced Wallace. Lt. Gov. C. C. Avock was master of ceremonies. Former Governors Ross

Man With Gun Taken To Hospital

A 24-year-old Colorado Springs man was taken to the John Emory Brady Hospital for a sanity hearing this morning after he threatened a woman at the Welfare Department in the County Building.

Police said no charges have been filed against the man who reportedly walked into the Welfare Department this morning with a pellet gun and asked to see Mary Ryan, a case worker at the department.

The man, who reportedly has threatened Miss Ryan in the past, took the gun out of a sack and showed it to Fern Farrington, a receptionist.

The sheriff's office was called and Deputy Sheriff Bob Newman arrived at the department to find the man sitting in the reception room. The man reportedly told Newman, "I'm not going to hurt nobody."

The man was taken to the police department and was sent from there to the hospital.

Youth Lives in Ventilation Shaft to Finish College

His niche was a ventilation shaft where he set up housekeeping seven months ago.

"It was a little cold," admitted the Tulsa, Okla., student after leaving his rent-free quarters for good. "In the winter I used an electric blanket."

Kornfeld received his bachelor's degree last June but felt he needed another year of study before entering medical school.

Housing was available in New Haven but rent money wasn't. Kornfeld had attended Yale on a four-year scholarship which was terminated on graduation day.

The 6-foot-3 Oklahoman decided to try living in the attic of Silliman College, one of Yale's 12 residential colleges.

He soon began to attract the attention of campus police. Kornfeld then tried a brick passageway that feeds air into the college's squash courts.

To disguise the entrance, he covered a piece of plywood with brick wallpaper and placed it over the opening. Only a few close friends knew of the hideaway.

As far as university officials knew, special student Kornfeld was living at the off-campus address he gave them. Tuition fees covered his meals in college dining halls.

Inside his cubbyhole, Kornfeld had a mattress, a bureau, a clock and a radio.

Liberation day came with the end of the school year. Kornfeld came out of the shaft and announced what he had done.

Goldwater Counts on 361 Sure First-Ballot Votes

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has 361 Republican National Convention delegates bound to him by state laws or party convention actions. That's more than half of the 677 first-ballot votes credited to him by an Associated Press survey.

The remainder of the votes in Goldwater's column come from delegates who say they favor the Arizona senator, including 35 who consider themselves personally pledged or committed and 28 who say they'll vote for him but are not personally pledged.

The total credited to Goldwater in the AP survey is 22 more than the 655 needed for the nomination — provided he can keep them between now and the GOP convention opening in San Francisco July 13.

Goldwater's votes stemming from a binding state primary election total 118; from instructions of a state or district GOP convention, 243.

This could rise if the last 14 delegates to be chosen, in Montana Friday are instructed for Goldwater.

Most politicians privately scoff at such terms as "legally binding." They contend that even such strict statutes as those in Oregon and Wisconsin governing the actions of delegates would be hard to uphold in the courts of another state, such as California, where the convention is to be held.

Republican convention rules recognize the right of any delegate to vote as he pleases, regardless of instructions from state conventions.

It is pointed out, however, that a rebel who ignored specific instructions from a state convention might find a chilly political atmosphere when he gets back home.

Assuming that instructions

Soviets Interested in U.S. Plan For Atomic Bomber 'Bonfire'

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union indicated a move today to meet the American position on a proposed "bonfire" of nuclear bomber planes.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin told the 17-nation disarmament conference a forthcoming new Kremlin plan will modify the Jan. 28 Soviet proposal calling for total destruction of all bombing planes.

The January proposal was rejected by the United States as impractical and unacceptable to the West. An American counterplan on March 19 called for destruction of 480 American B47s, matched by the destruction of 480 Soviet TU16s over a two-year period. The Soviets rejected the counterproposal.

Zorin hinted today his new proposal will take into account the American objections to scrapping all bombers.

"The Soviet delegation will present its views on how and in what order we think it most appropriate, taking into account opinions advanced by other delegates, to carry out the elimination of bomber aircraft," he said. "At present we would like only to state that the Soviet Union is going to occupy a flexible position in this matter."

American officials were intrigued by Zorin's use of the word flexible. Immediately after the morning conference session, U.S. disarmament negotiator William C. Foster took Zorin aside in an unscheduled private talk lasting nearly an hour.

Plans to Picket LBJ Criticized By Democrats

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—California Democratic leaders have criticized the Congress of Racial Equality for its plans to picket a dinner honoring President Johnson Friday night.

CORE officials had announced plans to picket the dinner to protest civil rights trials currently being held in San Francisco.

"We feel that such a picket line would be highly irresponsible and a very real insult to our President who has been in the forefront in the fight for civil rights," five Democrats told CORE Chairman William Bradley in a letter Wednesday.

Bradley said the demonstration would go on as planned.

The letter was signed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Senate nominee Pierre Salinger, Assemblyman Byron Rumford, a Negro and vice chairman of the din-

Reds Gaining in Viet War, Officials Admit

By ROY ESSOYAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A high-ranking U.S. military adviser said today the Communist threat to South Viet Nam is far more serious than it was when he first came here nearly three years ago.

Communist Viet Cong forces who control much of the countryside are "much better armed and professionally more competent" today than they were three years ago, he told newsmen in a farewell briefing before his departure for Washington.

The biggest problem the United States faces, the officer said, is the problem of getting the Vietnamese government and army to accept American advice.

The officer's unusually outspoken remarks were given to newsmen on condition that he could not be quoted by name, but he could be identified as a high-ranking U.S. Army officer.

His comments were similar to informal comments from American military advisers frequently heard in the field but in sharp contrast to the relatively optimistic statements of official U.S. military spokesmen in Saigon.

Scranton Blasts Goldwater on 'Courage' Issue

By RICHARD L. GRAVES

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton accused Sen. Barry Goldwater Wednesday of lacking the courage to face him in a television debate, and then retracted the statement hours later.

The attack was the Pennsylvania governor's sharpest ever on a political opponent.

Scranton set a precedent in his own style of political campaigning at St. Louis when he said Goldwater "lacks the courage to face people." The question came up when Scranton was asked to comment on Goldwater's refusal to debate him on television.

Scranton said Goldwater had insulated himself from the public by refusing to hold news conferences and using only prepared material in his addresses.

"I don't consider that to be the right type of candidate to have in America," the governor told newsmen.

A few hours later Scranton told a Denver news conference that his use of the word 'courage' in that earlier press conference "was an ill-advised use of the word."

He said he believed Goldwater "has personal courage and nobody denies that. I don't."

Scranton added: "but since the New Hampshire campaign he has been guarded and hemmed in by the politicians around him."

The reason, said Scranton, is because the American people would "become even more disenchanted by what are his real views."

Despite the criticism, Scranton said he would support Goldwater for the presidency if the senator is nominated. He said any Republican would be better than President Johnson.

Storms Diminish, Rains Continue In Wide Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRES

Rainy weather continued today across scattered sections of the nation but storms which struck some areas during the night diminished.

Showers covered many areas in the West, except for the Southwest desert region. Showers and light rain fell in parts of Michigan, most of the Ohio Valley and in southern Forida. Nearly 2½ inches of rain doused Moorcroft, in northeast Wyoming.

An inch of snow was reported in Leadville, more than 10,000 feet above sea level, in central Colorado. In Denver, east of Leadville, the mercury reached 89 Wednesday.

Severe thunderstorms, with strong winds, swept areas during the night in south central Missouri, Arkansas, Texas and North Dakota.

Floods which followed torrential rains in eastern Nebraska earlier this week caused property damages estimated at $6 to $8 million and were blamed for seven deaths.

Madame Nhu Is Cleared For Another Visit to U.S.

NEW YORK—(Special)—Under Secretary of State Fred Dutton advised Mr. Charles P. Hostek of the Conservative Party of Flushing that all clearances have been made in Washington for Madam Ngo Dinh Nhu to obtain her visa to enter the U.S.

All State Department Field Offices have been notified to this effect, and told to extend her every courtesy to make her trip as expeditious and comfortable as possible.

There had been some question only last week, that the State Department in Washington was aware of Madame Nhu's planned visit or that any action would be taken until a formal application had been received here. However, Under-Secretary Dutton gave out this information today and advised that he was still not aware of the fact that Madam Nhu had applied for her visa.

In a letter to the Flushing Club dated June 12th Madame Nhu advised that she had completed all necessary application forms which were forwarded to U.S. Ambassador Charles Bohlen in Paris on June 11th. She futher advised that she had the necessary travel documents in hand.

Madame Nhu will give the keynote address at a "Truth Rally" sponsored by the Flushing Conservative Club. The Rally will be held on July 7th at Sunnyside Gardens, in Sunnyside, N.Y.

'Human Salvage' Program of LBJ 'Disappointment'

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration's "human salvage" program to rehabilitate rejected draftees has proved a dismal disappointment so far.

Of 134,500 youths contacted in the first three months, only 189 have been placed in training programs. Jobs—many of them of brief duration—were found for 2,200.

Only 17.5 per cent of the rejected draftees even bothered to respond to the government's letters telling them where to get help.

When first announced last Janaury, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz hopefully called it "the most important human salvage program in the history of our country."

Administration officials had hoped to assist some 35,000 young men in the first four months.

While conceding some serious problems in the initial stage of the program, the Labor Department isn't giving up.

Spokesmen say the biggest problem is getting in direct contact with youths who have been rejected for physical or educational reasons and convincing them there are federal programs that can help them.

Selective Service officials have held the addresses of rejected youths are confidential and insisted in sending contact letters, rather than letting Labor Department counselors get in touch directly with the youths.

The two agencies are now working on a procedure to get

U.S. Keeps Alive Plan to Strike At North Viets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is keeping alive the possibility of a strike against Communist North Viet Nam to drive it out of the fighting in neighboring South Viet Nam and Laos, U.S. officials report.

They did not spell out what form the action would take or what could bring it about. But obviously it could be triggered by a situation—such as critical Red offensive—where the danger of a strike would be outweighed by the danger of not launching one.

But for now at least, the officials said Wednesday in discussing the Southeast Asian outlook, the crisis in South Viet Nam and Laos has eased.

They stressed, however, that the Communists cannot be allowed to treat the Plaines des Jarres of Laos, which they overran in May, as theirs.

The officials said the United States sees merit in Poland's proposal for a six-nation conference of Britain, the Soviet Union, Poland, India, Canada and Laos, but not Red China.

Administration officials hope such a conference would pave the way for resumption of the three-nation control commission inspections in Laos and pinpoint Communist violation of the Geneva pact which guaranteed Laos' neutrality.

This, in the American view, would focus diplomatic pressure on the Communists.

The Soviet Union, however, has recently shown less interest in the Polish proposal than before. The officials said they did not know what caused this apparent change.

One possibility is that the

Wife Is Worth $417,000, Court Is Told

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A 29-year-old mother is worth $417,000 to her husband during his lifetime, a University of Florida economics professor testified Wednesday in circuit court.

Dr. Roy Lassiter Jr. said he based his estimate on a wife's economic contribution to the home by combining the average salaries of a public school teacher and domestic servant.

He testified in Wright E. Sarvis' negligence suit against the Seaboard Air Line Railroad in connection with the death of Sarvis' wife in a car-train collision last November.

Wallace Urges South to Wield Power Balance

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace says a united South can be the balance of power in the November presidential election.

Wallace, a candidate for president on the Free Electors ticket, told a joint session of the Louisiana Legislature Wednesday that no man could win the presidency without the seven Southern states carried by the Democratic party in 1960.

"We can and we do have the balance of power in the presidential election," he said. "We can use the Electoral College to get the liberals off the backs of all the American people."

"They say that we must stay in the mainstream of American politics. Well, the mainstream leads right down the road to state socialism. I'm for getting out of the mainstream," Wallace said.

Wallace, smiling and confident, wound up his atcivities Wednesday night with a speech stressing Southern unity, states rights and free enterprise at a $25-a-plate banquet of the Louisiana Committee for Free electors. About 1,000 persons gave him repeated cheers and applause.

Gov. John McKeithen introduced Wallace. Lt. Gov. C. C. Avock was master of ceremonies. Former Governors Ross

Chavez Trial Witness Tells About Assault

"He said if I didn't go back to him he would kill me rather than see me with another man," Martha Chavez, a prosecution witness in the trial of Eliseo Antonio Chavez, testified in District Court Wednesday.

Chavez, 29, 231 Cheyenne Ave., is charged with assault with a deadly weapon and is alleged to have attacked his wife, Martha, 29, 317 E. Vermijo St., with a butcher's knife and paring knife at her home, April 15.

He has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity, and although Dr. Paul Draper has declared him legally sane, his attorneys Lee and William Goodbar are still standing on the insanity issue.

The trial finally started Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 after one and a half days spent in selecting a jury.

Mrs. Chavez testified that her husband who had a restraining order against him as she had filed for a divorce before the alleged incident, came to her place of work the night of April 14.

She said he pleaded with her to come back to him and tried to kiss her, but she pushed him away. Mrs. Chavez told the court she had once said to the defendant that "she would rather die than live with him again."

On the night of April 14 she asked him if he had escaped from the Veteran's Hospital at Fort Lyons and he replied he had. He followed her home as he wanted to collect his clothes. The witness testified he could collect them and then leave. When they arrived at her apartment where her two young children were present with a babysitter, he asked for a cup of coffee which she made for him.

Chavez, she said, started striking her and threw her to the floor. As she got up he ran

Chile's Politicians Fear Red Takeover by Vote

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

In the quiet luxury of Santiago's Club de la Union, the wealthy and influential will boast of Chile's long record of political stability and react with fierce national pride against any suggestion that the country's pattern of democracy is something less than perfect.

It is true that since 1931, all Chilean presidents have been duly elected without resort to revolution, demonstrating a consistent devotion to democracy.

It is also true that in the slums of bustling Santiago and among farm laborers there is hunger and disease on a scale equal to any to be found in South America.

And, further, it is true that Chile's Communist party, with a membership estimated at 50,000 and with other thousands of sympathizers, is probably the strongest and best organ-

Negroes Plan to Switch Tactics in St. Augustine

By DON MCKEE

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — Negroes switched tactics again in their determined three-week siege against segregation in this city and marched singing through a white residential section in the middle of the night.

What form the next demonstration might take in this strange struggle was a matter of speculation as a grand jury in special session continued its closed door investigation of racial unrest.

Wednesday night's march, covering perhaps two miles, was the longest, loudest, latest and least eventful since the night treks over St. Augustine's historic pavements resumed nine days ago.

Three hundred marchers, including a group of Jewish clergymen from nine states, began the long walk shortly before 11 p.m.

As usual, they had a heavy police escort. The march route, checked out in advance by state police, was deserted until the procession neared U.S. 1A, a major tourist route.

A few white spectators watched, some perched on parked cars.

No spectator said anything. The marchers wound into the parking lot in front of Monson Motor Lodge, the major target in sit-in attempts. They held a prayer service and returned to the church where the march began.

The slow procession went through some of the city's narrowest and darkest streets. Policemen searched the shadows constantly with flashlights.

Before the march, Rabbi Israel Dresner of Plainfield, N.J., told a church rally that the integration drive "is a struggle for all people. We Jews are in this struggle because of our history as well as our faith. We know what it is to suffer."

Dresner was among 16 rabbis who arrived Wednesday to join the integration drive.

The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy an associate of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., urged the crowd to march—this time through the white residential area because white segregationists last week marched through a Negro residential section.

"If they can come through our neighborhood, we can go through theirs," he said to the cheers from the crowd.

Earlier Wednesday, 35 Negroes staged a two-hour wade-in at St. Augustine beach. All the white bathers except a

Man With Gun Taken To Hospital

A 24-year-old Colorado Springs man was taken to the John Emory Brady Hospital for a sanity hearing this morning after he threatened a woman at the Welfare Department in the County Building.

Police said no charges have been filed against the man who reportedly walked into the Welfare Department this morning with a pellet gun and asked to see Mary Ryan, a case worker at the department.

The man, who reportedly has threatened Miss Ryan in the past, took the gun out of a sack and showed it to Fern Farrington, a receptionist.

The sheriff's office was called and Deputy Sheriff Bob Newman arrived at the department to find the man sitting in the reception room. The man reportedly told Newman, "I'm not going to hurt nobody."

The man was taken to the police department and was sent from there to the hospital.

Youth Lives in Ventilation Shaft to Finish College

His niche was a ventilation shaft where he set up housekeeping seven months ago.

"It was a little cold," admitted the Tulsa, Okla., student after leaving his rent-free quarters for good. "In the winter I used an electric blanket."

Kornfeld received his bachelor's degree last June but felt he needed another year of study before entering medical school.

Housing was available in New Haven but rent money wasn't. Kornfeld had attended Yale on a four-year scholarship which was terminated on graduation day.

The 6-foot-3 Oklahoman decided to try living in the attic of Silliman College, one of Yale's 12 residential colleges.

He soon began to attract the attention of campus police. Kornfeld then tried a brick passageway that feeds air into the college's squash courts.

To disguise the entrance, he covered a piece of plywood with brick wallpaper and placed it over the opening. Only a few close friends knew of the hideaway.

As far as university officials knew, special student Kornfeld was living at the off-campus address he gave them. Tuition fees covered his meals in college dining halls.

Inside his cubbyhole, Kornfeld had a mattress, a bureau, a clock and a radio.

Liberation day came with the end of the school year. Kornfeld came out of the shaft and announced what he had done.

Goldwater Counts on 361 Sure First-Ballot Votes

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has 361 Republican National Convention delegates bound to him by stats laws or party convention actions. That's more than half of the 677 first-ballot votes credited to him by an Associated Press survey.

The remainder of the votes in Goldwater's column come from delegates who say they favor the Arizona senator, including 35 who consider themselves personally pledged or committed and 28 who say they'll vote for him but are not personally pledged.

The total credited to Goldwater in the AP survey is 22 more than the 655 needed for the nomination — provided he can keep them between now and the GOP convention opening in San Francisco July 13.

Goldwater's votes stemming from a binding state primary election total 118; from instructions of a state or district GOP convention, 243.

This could rise if the last 14 delegates to be chosen, in Montana Friday are instructed for Goldwater.

Most politicians privately scoff at such terms as "legally binding." They contend that even such strict statutes as those in Oregon and Wisconsin governing the actions of delegates would be hard to uphold in the courts of another state, such as California, where the convention is to be held.

Republican convention rules recognize the right of any delegate to vote as he pleases, regardless of instructions from state conventions.

It is pointed out, however, that a rebel who ignored specific instructions from a state convention might find a chilly political atmosphere when he gets back home.

Assuming that instructions

'Amiable Note' Reported in Poverty Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate hearings on President Johnson's anti - poverty program opened on an amiable note Wednesday with Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver and Sen Barry M. Goldwater agreeing in part on the problem of young school dropouts.

As the Senate subcommittee began consideration of the program, the House Rules Committee resumed hearings on the $962 million measure which has been approved by the House Education and Labor Committee but still needs clearance for floor debate.

Shriver, who would head the anti - poverty operation, and Goldwater, a subcommittee member and the leading GOP presidential candidate, agreed it would be folly to expect the job corps portion of the program to be a cure-all for school dropouts.

Shriver said the program was designed to help poor people generally rather than to solve the dropout problem.

"There are very rich kids who drop out of school," Shriver said. "There is not much you can do about that. But the job corps is aimed at students who couldn't afford to stay in school and are untrained."

The 14 subcommittee members, most of them Democrats, questioned Shriver closely on the effects of the proposed anti-poverty war.

Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz testified that the bill "will provide an arsenal of weapons from which to choose in mounting the attack on the various problems of youth, poverty and unemployment."

Wirtz said the program "promises no miracles, pretends at no panacea. It is the product of a hard-headed idealism which is the truest expression of the American character."

West Germany Bars Russian Ballet

BONN, Germany (UPI) — West Germany canceled the entry visas for Moscow's Bolshoi Ballet Tuesday because the troupe followed the Communist line and refused to perform in West Berlin, according to the interior ministry here.

A spokesman said the ballet as a body of West Germany thus was given 48 hours to leave the country.

The ballet had been scheduled to perform in West Berlin on June 24 and June 25. But the spokesman said officials of the troupe refused to honor the commitment on the ground that West Berlin is not a part of West Germany.

PASS 10-MILLION MARK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Attendance at the World's Fair passed the 10,000,000 mark Tuesday night, and officials hoped their good fortune would continue through the summer tourist season.

Tuesday's turnstile reading of 222,481 pulled the total attendance since opening day to 10,003,287.

Bobby Baker Invests In Vending Company

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Baker, former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, has bought a larger interest in the food vending company whose affairs led to an investigation by the Senate Rules Committee, the New York Times said today.

In Washington, Baker declined to discuss the facts involved other than to tell a reporter that the story was "erroneous" in at least some respects. He declined to go into particulars.

The newspaper said Baker now owns about 84 per cent of the stock of the Serv-U Corp., which started in 1961 and built a business in two years grossing more than $3.5 million, mostly by contracts with firms holding government defense contracts.

The rules committee hearing which ended this spring disclosed that Baker had held 28½ per cent of the corporation. Baker resigned his Senate job after a $300,000 damage suit against him, the Serv-U firm and others set off the probe of his outside activities.

Tug Pilot May Face Homicide Charges

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A state police captain said today he would file negligent homicide charges against the crewman pilot of a tug whose tow slammed into the Pontchartrain Causeway early Tuesday, causing the death of six persons on a bus.

The tow ripped a 240 - foot hole in the bridge and a bus with eight persons on board fell through it 20 feet into the lake. The bus driver and one passenger survived.

State police Captain Vincent Ebeier Jr. said he would file charges against Clifford Milley, the tug's mate, who was reported at the wheel at the time of the collision.

Ebeier said the tug was off course some 60 degrees, and had it been on course it would have cleared all obstructions in the lake.

Tug Pilot May Face Homicide Charges

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A state police captain said today he would file negligent homicide charges against the crewman pilot of a tug whose barge tow slammed into the Lake Pontchartrain Causeway early Tuesday, causing the death of six persons on a bus.

The tow ripped a 240 - foot hole in the bridge and a bus with eight persons on board fell through it 20 feet into the lake. The bus driver and one passenger survived.

State police Captain Vincent Ebeier Jr. said he would file charges against Clifford Milley, the tug's mate, who was reported at the wheel at the time of the collision.

Ebeier said the tug was off course some 60 degrees, and had it been on course it would have cleared all obstructions in the lake.

'Amiable Note' Reported in Poverty Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate hearings on President Johnson's anti - poverty program opened on an amiable note Wednesday with Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver and Sen. Barry M. Goldwater agreeing in part on the problem of young school dropouts.

As the Senate subcommittee began consideration of the program, the House Rules Committee resumed hearings on the $962 million measure which has been approved by the House Education and Labor Committee but still needs clearance for floor debate.

Shriver, who would head the anti - poverty operation, and Goldwater, a subcommittee member and the leading GOP presidential candidate, agreed it would be folly to expect the job corps portion of the program to be a cure-all for school dropouts.

Shriver said the program was designed to help poor people generally rather than to solve the dropout problem.

"There are very rich kids who drop out of school," Shriver said. "There is not much you can do about that. But the job corps is aimed at students who couldn't afford to stay in school and are untrained."

The 14 subcommittee members, most of them Democrats, questioned Shriver closely on the effects of the proposed anti-poverty war.

Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz testified that the bill "will provide an arsenal of weapons from which to choose in mounting the attack on the various problems of youth, poverty and unemployment."

Wirtz said the program "promises no miracles, pretends at no panacea. It is the product of a hard-headed idealism which is the truest expression of the American character."

West Germany Bars Russian Ballet

BONN, Germany (UPI) — West Germany canceled the entry visas for Moscow's Bolshoi Ballet Tuesday because the troupe followed the Communist line and refused to perform in West Berlin, according to the interior ministry here.

A spokesman said the ballet on a tour of West Germany thus was given 48 hours to leave the country.

The ballet had been scheduled to perform in West Berlin on June 24 and June 25. But the spokesman said officials of the troupe refused to honor the commitment on the ground that West Berlin is not a part of West Germany.

PASS 10-MILLION MARK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Attendance at the World's Fair passed the 10,000,000 mark Tuesday night, and officials hoped their good fortune would continue through the summer tourist season.

Tuesday's turnstile reading of 222,481 pulled the total attendance since opening day to 10,003,287.

Bobby Baker Invests In Vending Company

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Baker, former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, has bought a larger interest in the food vending company whose affairs led to an investigation by the Senate Rules Committee, the New York Times said today.

In Washington, Baker declined to discuss the facts involved other than to tell a reporter that the story was "erroneous" in at least some respects. He declined to go into particulars.

The newspaper said Baker now owns about 84 per cent of the stock of the Serv-U Corp., which started in 1961 and built a business in two years grossing more than $3.5 million, mostly by contracts with firms holding government defense contracts.

The rules committee hearing which ended this spring disclosed that Baker had held 28½ per cent of the corporation. Baker resigned his Senate job after a $300,000 damage suit against him, the Serv-U firm and others set off the probe of his outside activities.

NEW YORK (AP) — If you really mean something, it's perfectly allright to think it—but don't say it.

In most cases, say just the opposite.

That is the only safe and sane rule for polite conversation. It is also the whole art of double-talk, skill in the use of which can advance you in the worlds of society and business and win you a reputation for warm sincerity.

worlds of society and business and win you a reputation for warm sincerity.

Here are a few more useful examples.

"You're the only one I know who gave up smoking and didn't gain weight." When a bucket is already full of lard, how can you put anymore in?

"Senator, I don't know where we'd be without men like you, selflessly dedicated to the public interest." We'd be better off.

"For once, let's pick a candidate we can all take pride in." For once, let's pick one who can get elected.

"I just adore backyard cookouts. And now that I've seen how you broil your steaks—" I think I'll have some of that yummy charcoal instead.

"There isn't a single gray hair in your head, Ed. How do you keep it that color?" It looks like you use brown shoe polish on one temple, and black on the other.

"The thing I like about Grace is how she always says things in such an amusing way." Half a wit is always funnier than none.

"Oh, what a perfectly darling, darling, darling baby!"—Ugh—this one ought to set back parenthood half a century.

"Mind you, George, I'm not saying you're not worth more money to the firm." What I'm telling you, George, is that you are not going to get any more, now or later.

"According to the boss, young Abernathy looks like a real comer." So let's protect ourselves and gang up on him before the situation gets out of hand.

"Alice, your husband must be a real doll to surprise you on your anniversary with such a stunning mink stole." So the gossip must be true — the old fool is cheating on her.

"Those sunglasses make you look like a movie star, Rosemarie." But they don't hide those big dark bags under your eyes, baby. How late were you out last night?

"Since you took that health course, Ronald, you've looked like a million dollars." Now what are you going to do to improve that 10-cent mind?

Boyle Explores Methods Of Various Doubletalk

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — If you really mean something, it's perfectly allright to think it—but don't say it.

In most cases, say just the opposite.

That is the only safe and sane rule for polite conversation. It is also the whole art of double-talk, skill in the use of which can advance you in the worlds of society and business and win you a reputation for warm sincerity.

worlds of society and business and win you a reputation for warm sincerity.

Here are a few more useful examples:

"You're the only one I know who gave up smoking and didn't gain weight." When a bucket is already full of lard, how can you put anymore in?

"Senator, I don't know where we'd be without men like you, selflessly dedicated to the public interest." We'd be better off.

"For once, let's pick a candidate we can all take pride in." For once, let's pick one who can get elected.

"I just adore backyard cookouts. And now that I've seen how you broil your steaks—" I think I'll have some of that yummy charcoal instead.

"There isn't a single gray hair in your head, Ed. How do you keep it that color?" It looks like you use brown shoe polish on one temple, and black on the other.

"The thing I like about Grace is how she always says things in such an amusing way." Half a wit is always funnier than none.

"Oh, what a perfectly darling, darling, darling baby!"—Ugh—this one ought to set back parenthood half a century.

"Mind you, George, I'm not saying you're not worth more money to the firm." What I'm telling you, George, is that you are not going to get any more, now or later.

"According to the boss, young Abernathy looks like a real comer." So let's protect ourselves and gang up on him before the situation gets out of hand.

"Alice, your husband must be a real doll to surprise you on your anniversary with such a stunning mink stole." So the gossip must be true — the old fool is cheating on her.

"Those sunglasses make you look like a movie star, Rosemarie." But they don't hide those big dark bags under your eyes, baby. How late were you out last night?

"Since you took that health course, Ronald, you've looked like a million dollars." Now what are you going to do to improve that 10-cent mind?

Total tax receipts of the Internal Revenue Service amounted to $106 billion, in 1963 Tax Foundation, Inc., reports.

to a cupboard grabed a knife and began stabbing her on the head She fell and he continued to stab her about the chest and side even though the witness said, one of her young children had climbed on top of her and was shrieking for Chavez to stop

Finally the defendant ran out and Mrs Chavez staggered to her feet and pulled a knife from a wound in her chest

She was taken to St Francis Hospital where she spent about 13 days

The knives were produced as evidence and when Deputy District Attorney Jack Roeser asked the witness to identify them she broke down for a few minutes and wept At the request of Roeser she showed some of her scars to the jury.

During cross - examination, Mrs Chavez testified she had been present at a mental health hearing held for her husband March 12 after which he was sent to the State Hospital She denied she had ever hit him with a bottle but admitted striking him once with her hand after he had "beat her up"

She also admitted she had been jailed three times for fighting with the defendant who "used to beat me up something terrible" She also stated he used to come home after being out with other women and beat her The fights, Mrs Chavez firmly maintained were always started by the defendant.

Testimony was also given by Police Officers Jesse Kyl and Edward Evans.

The court recessed late Wednesday afternoon and reconvened again this morning at 9 30.

and further planning for his presidential nomination bid.

The legislative adjournment led Scranton to cancel a foray into Utah to meet with delegates of that state.

In some 4,000 miles of flying that began Monday morning in Scranton, Pa., the governor met with delegates and GOP leaders in Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Missouri and Colorado, as well as in his home state.

Campaign aides said the governor's flying trip was a success and indicated Scranton could expect great second - ballot strength.

The Associated Press delegate poll now puts Goldwater's delegate support at 677—more than enough for nomination, if they hold up through the first ballot at San Francisco.

After the respite at Harrisburg, Scranton plans to fly to Louisville, Ky., Friday afternoon, and from there to Boston, Mass., to keynote the Massachusetts Republican convention Saturday.

Typhoid Epidemic 'Contained' in Aberdeen

what caused the Aberdeen epidemic

MacQueen believes the infection came from 13-year-old tins of South American beef released from government Food Ministry stocks because of a rise in fresh beef prices.

Secretary of State for Scotland Michael Noble contends that there was no ground for suggesting that government stocks or any other source of beef were to blame.

One theory was that the epidemic began in an Aberdeen market where six-pound tins of beef were sold by the slice and a contaminated slicer used for other meats

No one has estimated what the epidemic cost in terms of medical treatment, loss of tourist trade and destroyed food supplies Local authorities say it will certainly run well beyond $2 8 million.

The epidemic has prompted the British to take a closer look at their methods of handling food.

Newspapers have concentrated their fire on London's Smithfield market, the nation's biggest wholesale meat center, where sides of meat are carried through the streets on open carts.

Also under study is a proposed law to ban dogs from butcher shops.

ized in Latin America not counting Cuba.

Therein lies the possibility that on next Sept. 4 Chile could become the first nation in the Americas freely to elect a government oriented toward communism, if not dominated by it.

Chile's is a copper and nitrate economy, with copper occupying by far the most important position Chile's copper reserves are estimated at 37 per cent of the world's total.

Copper and nitrate make up 65 per cent of the country's exports and produce 90 per cent of Chile's dollar income.

Last March a seemingly strong middle-of-the-road coalition under which President Jorge Allessandri Rodriguez has governed since November, 1958, collapsed.

Two leading candidates have emerged for the presidential elections to be held this September.

One is Sen Eduardo Frei Montalva of the left-of-center Christian Democrats The other is Dr Salvador Alende, representing the big Socialist-Communist bloc, who missed election in 1958 by only 33,000 votes.

Allende is irked by charges that his government would be Moscow-dominated and points out that his popular action front is composed of six parties of which the Communists are only one But the Communists represent nearly half his strength and are especially strong among labor and teachers

A plank in Allende's platform is the takeover by the government of the big copper mines owned by the United States companies, Anaconda and Braden, the latter a subsidiary of Kennecott

He says the takeover will be legal and the companies will be reimbursed But his plan for reimbursement is vague

Frei opposes nationalization of the mines at this time, plugging instead of doubled production and national control of copper sales Both men scorn the Alliance for Progress which has distributed about $270 million in Chile in the last two years

Negro Teachers 'Eliminated' In Integration

PEARISBURG, Va. (AP)—A plan to integrate Giles County public schools has led to protests by a Negro principal that the plan discriminates against Negro teachers by eliminating their jobs.

School board officials say they'll close the county's only two Negro schools next fall and send the 130 pupils to the all-white schools, which have 4,000 pupils.

Laurence Leftwich, principal of the two schools, said Wednesday: "This is an outright case of discrimination against us teachers."

The school officials of this county in Virginia's mountainous southwest have notified Leftwich, principal for 15 years, and the six other teachers that their jobs are being eliminated.

Florence Council To Launch Home Rule Study

The Florence city council, meeting with three members absent Monday night, agreed to launch a study for a possible move to Home Rule status, heard an extensive report from City Manager Frank Carochi, and approved its annual $500 allotment to the Florence Chamber of Commerce for the purchase of Christmas lighting in the business district.

The plan to study the Home Rule Charter was introduced by Councilman Gale Decker, who urged the city to investigate this form of government. Decker suggested calling in C A Fredrickson of Canon City, who helped to get Home Rule for that community. He will be asked to attend a session of the council in the immediate future to explain the Home Rule plan to the Florence councilmen.

Manager Frank Carochi reported on the city's water supply and noted that Reservoirs No. 1 - 2 now have 31 feet, while No. 3 has 10 feet He also noted that about 400,000 gallons of water are coming in every 24 hours from the combined watersheds of Newlin, Mineral - Adobe creeks. The consumers in Florence will use about 200 gallons per household per day, he said.

A great deal of work was reported under way at the Union Highland cemetery including the seeding of some 60 plots with new grass, weed removal, and general clean - up.

Carochi told the council that mosquito spraying will start this week and will be continued throughout the summer on a twice - a - week bases. Tree spraying is nearly completed except in the park areas.

The 496 shares of water have been purchased from Phil Lobach at a cost of $12,000, Carochi reported.

Paving and seal coating is still in the formative stages, he said. The city expects to buy about 10 tons of asphalt mix in Pueblo for patching and about 500 tons of crushed gravel for paving.

It was reported that City Attorney Erick Roberts will present a formal contract at the July 6 meeting to accept the old Eagles hall from the Pioneer Day association.

and primary commitments will be followed. Goldwater can count on 361 first-ballot votes from the following sources

— Primary election laws which require delegates to cast first ballots for the winner in California, with 86 votes, and Indiana, with 32 Besides that, the 86 delegates on Goldwater's winning slate in California also signed a personal pledge to vote for him until he releases them.

— Specific and formal instructions by state conventions in Alabama, 20; Arizona, 16; Georgia, 4, Idaho, 14, Louisiana, 20; Mississippi, 13, Nebraska 10, Oklahoma, 22, South Carolina, 16, Texas, 56, Virginia, 10, and Wyoming 12—a total of 213.

— Specific and formal instructions by district conventions in Georgia, 14, Kansas, 2, Minnesota, 2; Missouri, 2; North Carolina, 2; Tennessee, 2 and Virginia, 6 — a total of 30

The instructions from state and district conventions vary in their wording Alabama Republicans instructed their delegates to vote for Goldwater "until he is nominated" Idaho delegates are instructed "until formally released by" the senator.

In addition to these are some 40 delegates scattered across the nation who say they are personally pledged or committed to Goldwater and will stick with him no matter what

Even in the last solid group—those who favor him but have not said they are pledged to him—are many who maintain they'll vote for Goldwater until he releases them

But there also are many who merely say they favor the senator, and give no indication of how deeply they are committed These are the ones most susceptible to wooing by Gov. William W Scranton of Pennsylvania in his bid to head off Goldwater and win the nomination himself.

She was taken to St. Francis Hospital where she spent about 13 days.

The knives were produced as evidence and when Deputy District Attorney Jack Roeser asked the witness to identify them, she broke down for a few minutes and wept. At the request of Roeser she showed some of her scars to the jury.

During cross - examination, Mrs. Chavez testified she had been present at a mental health hearing held for her husband March 12 after which he was sent to the State Hospital. She denied she had ever hit him with a bottle but admitted striking him once with her hand after he had "beat her up."

She also admitted she had been jailed three times for fighting with the defendant who "used to beat me up something terrible." She also stated he used to come home after being out with other women and beat her. The fights, Mrs. Chavez firmly maintained were always started by the defendant.

Testimony was also given by Police Officers Jesse Kyl and Edward Evans.

what caused the Aberdeen epidemic.

MacQueen believes the infection came from 13-year-old tins of South American beef released from government Food Ministry stocks because of a rise in fresh beef prices.

Secretary of State for Scotland Michael Noble contends that there was no ground for suggesting that government stocks or any other source of beef were to blame.

One theory was that the epidemic began in an Aberdeen market where six-pound tins of beef were sold by the slice and a contaminated slicer used for other meats.

No one has estimated what the epidemic cost in terms of medical treatment, loss of tourist trade and destroyed food supplies. Local authorities say it will certainly run well beyond $2.8 million.

The epidemic has prompted the British to take a closer look at their methods of handling food.

Newspapers have concentrated their fire on London's Smithfield market, the nation's biggest wholesale meat center, where sides of meat are carried through the streets on open carts.

Also under study is a proposed law to ban dogs from butcher shops.

Therein lies the possibility that on next Sept. 4 Chile could become the first nation in the Americas freely to elect a government oriented toward communism, if not dominated by it.

Chile's is a copper and nitrate economy, with copper occupying by far the most important position. Chile's copper reserves are estimated at 37 per cent of the world's total.

Copper and nitrate make up 65 per cent of the country's exports and produce 90 per cent of Chile's dollar inccome.

Last March a seemingly strong middle-of-the-road coalition under which President Jorge Allessandri Rodriguez has governed since November, 1958, collapsed.

Two leading candidates have emerged for the presidential elections to be held this September.

One is Sen. Eduardo Frei Montalva of the left-of-center Christian Democrats. The other is Dr. Salvador Alende, representing the big Socialist-Communist bloc, who missed election in 1958 by only 33,000 votes.

Allende is irked by charges that his government would be Moscow-dominated and points out that his popular action front is composed of six parties of which the Communists are only one. But the Communists represent nearly half his strength and are especially strong among labor and teachers.

A plank in Allende's platform is the takeover by the government of the big copper mines owned by the United States companies, Anaconda and Braden, the latter a subsidiary of Kennecott.

He says the takeover will be legal and the companies will be reimbursed. But his plan for reimbursement is vague.

Frei opposes nationalization of the mines at this time, plugging instead of doubled production and national control of copper sales. Both men scorn the Alliance for Progress which has distributed about $270 million in Chile in the last two years.

Florence Council To Launch Home Rule Study

The Florence city council, meeting with three members absent Monday night, agreed to launch a study for a possible move to Home Rule status, heard an extensive report from City Manager Frank Carochi, and approved its annual $500 allotment to the Florence Chamber of Commerce for the purchase of Christmas lighting in the business district.

The plan to study the Home Rule Charter was introduced by Councilman Gale Decker, who urged the city to investigate this form of government. Decker suggested calling in C. A. Fredrickson of Canon City, who helped to get Home Rule for that community. He will be asked to attend a session of the council in the immediate future to explain the Home Rule plan to the Florence councilmen.

Manager Frank Carochi reported on the city's water supply and noted that Reservoirs No. 1 - 2 now have 31 feet, while No. 3 has 10 feet. He also noted that about 400,000 gallons of water are coming in every 24 hours from the combined watersheds of Newlin, Mineral - Adobe creeks. The consumers in Florence will use about 200 gallons per household per day, he said.

A great deal of work was reported under way at the Union Highland cemetery including the seeding of some 60 plots with new grass, weed removal, and general clean - up.

Carochi told the council that mosquito spraying will start this week and will be continued throughout the summer on a twice - a - week bases. Tree spraying is nearly completed except in the park areas.

The 496 shares of water have been purchased from Phil Lobach at a cost of $12,000, Carochi reported.

Paving and seal coating is still in the formative stages, he said. The city expects to buy about 10 tons of asphalt mix in Pueblo for patching and about 500 tons of crushed gravel for paving.

It was reported that City Attorney Erick Roberts will present a formal contract at the July 6 meeting to accept the old Eagles hall from the Pioneer Day association.

Goldwater Counts on 361 Sure First-Ballot Votes

and primary commitments will be followed. Goldwater can count on 361 first-ballot votes from the following sources:

— Primary election laws which require delegates to cast first ballots for the winner in California, with 86 votes, and Indiana, with 32. Besides that, the 86 delegates on Goldwater's winning slate in California also signed a personal pledge to vote for him until he releases them.

— Specific and formal instructions by state conventions in Alabama, 20; Arizona, 16; Georgia, 4; Idaho, 14; Louisiana, 20; Mississippi, 13; Nebraska 10; Oklahoma, 22; South Carolina, 16; Texas, 56; Virginia, 10; and Wyoming, 12—a total of 213.

— Specific and formal instructions by district conventions in Georgia, 14; Kansas, 2; Minnesota, 2; Missouri, 2; North Carolina, 2; Tennessee, 2 and Virginia, 6 — a total of 30.

The instructions from state and district conventions vary in their wording. Alabama Republicans instructed their delegates to vote for Goldwater "until he is nominated." Idaho delegates are instructed "until formally released by" the senator.

In addition to these are some 40 delegates scattered across the nation who say they are personally pledged or committed to Goldwater and will stick with him no matter what.

Even in the last solid group—those who favor him but have not said they are pledged to him—are many who maintain they'll vote for Goldwater until he releases them.

But there also are many who merely say they favor the senator, and give no indication of how deeply they are committed. These are the ones most susceptible to wooing by Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania in his bid to head off Goldwater and win the nomination himself.

Throughout the day, amid cheers, a parade, Confederate flags and rebel yells, Wallace attacked the civil rights bill, the U.S. Supreme Court, the "liberal press," and "social engineers" in Washington.

At a news conference, he said he planned campaigning in Virginia, Maryland, South Carolina North Carolina, Mississippi, Georgia, Arkansas and perhaps Tennessee and Texas.

Chile's Politicians Fear Red Takeover by Vote

ized in Latin America not counting Cuba.

Therein lies the possibility that on next Sept. 4 Chile could become the first nation in the Americas freely to elect a government oriented toward communism, if not dominated by it.

Chile's is a copper and nitrate economy, with copper occupying by far the most important position. Chile's copper reserves are estimated at 37 per cent of the world's total.

Copper and nitrate make up 65 per cent of the country's exports and produce 90 per cent of Chile's dollar inccome.

Last March a seemingly strong middle-of-the-road coalition under which President Jorge Allessandri Rodriguez has governed since November, 1958, collapsed.

Two leading candidates have emerged for the presidential elections to be held this September.

One is Sen. Eduardo Frei Montalva of the left-of-center Christian Democrats. The other is Dr. Salvador Alende, representing the big Socialist-Communist bloc, who missed election in 1958 by only 33,000 votes.

Allende is irked by charges that his government would be Moscow-dominated and points out that his popular action front is composed of six parties of which the Communists are only one. But the Communists represent nearly half his strength and are especially strong among labor and teachers.

A plank in Allende's platform is the takeover by the government of the big copper mines owned by the United States companies, Anaconda and Braden, the latter a subsidiary of Kennecott.

He says the takeover will be legal and the companies will be reimbursed. But his plan for reimbursement is vague.

Frei opposes nationalization of the mines at this time, plugging instead of doubled production and national control of copper sales. Both men scorn the Alliance for Progress which has distributed about $270 million in Chile in the last two years.

A more hopeful prospect is a system where rejected draftees will be contacted on the spot "one minute after they are rejected," a Labor Department official said.

Tried experimentally in Salt Lake City and in Detroit, this approach won a 70 per cent favorable response from rejected youths who wanted a chance to make up their deficiencies in training projects or other federal programs.

The program was launched after a federal report estimated that one-third of the nation's 18-year-olds couldn't qualify for induction into the armed services.

About half fail for medical reasons and the rest on mental tests. The report said most appear to be victims of inadequate education and poor health care and can be rehabilitated.

Negro Teachers 'Eliminated' In Integration

PEARISBURG, Va. (AP)—A plan to integrate Giles County public schools has led to protests by a Negro principal that the plan discriminates against Negro teachers by eliminating their jobs.

School board officials say they'll close the county's only two Negro schools next fall and send the 130 pupils to the all-white schools, which have 4,000 pupils.

Laurence Leftwich, principal of the two schools, said Wednesday: "This is an outright case of discrimination against us teachers."

The school officials of this county in Virginia's mountainous southwest have notified Leftwich, principal for 15 years, and the six other teachers that their jobs are being eliminated.

Sun Kings Top Dukes

By United Press International

The El Paso Sun Kings took a healthy swing at the Texas League Leading Albuquerque Dukes Wednesday night, outhitting them 14 to 8 but still losing the ball game 7-6.

Tulsa also won its ball game over superior hitting, defeating the Fort Worth Cats 3-1. San Antonio defeated Austin 1-0 in a 10 inning contest.

Florence Council To Launch Home Rule Study

The Florence city council, meeting with three members absent Monday night, agreed to launch a study for a possible move to Home Rule status, heard an extensive report from City Manager Frank Carochi, and approved its annual $500 allotment to the Florence Chamber of Commerce for the purchase of Christmas lighting in the business district.

The plan to study the Home Rule Charter was introduced by Councilman Gale Decker, who urged the city to investigate this form of government. Decker suggested calling in C. A. Fredrickson of Canon City, who helped to get Home Rule for that community. He will be asked to attend a session of the council in the immediate future to explain the Home Rule plan to the Florence councilmen.

Manager Frank Carochi reported on the city's water supply and noted that Reservoirs No. 1 - 2 now have 31 feet, while No. 3 has 10 feet. He also noted that about 400,000 gallons of water are coming in every 24 hours from the combined watersheds of Newlin, Mineral - Adobe creeks. The consumers in Florence will use about 200 gallons per household per day, he said.

A great deal of work was reported under way at the Union Highland cemetery including the seeding of some 60 plots with new grass, weed removal, and general clean - up.

Carochi told the council that mosquito spraying will start this week and will be continued throughout the summer on a twice - a - week bases. Tree spraying is nearly completed except in the park areas.

The 496 shares of water have been purchased from Phil Lobach at a cost of $12,000, Carochi reported.

Paving and seal coating is still in the formative stages, he said. The city expects to buy about 10 tons of asphalt mix in Pueblo for patching and about 500 tons of crushed gravel for paving.

It was reported that City Attorney Erick Roberts will present a formal contract at the July 6 meeting to accept the old Eagles hall from the Pioneer Day association.

Absent Monday night were Councilmen B. A. Lopez, Roy Palmer, and Leonard Lloyd.

According to Deputy Sheriff Charles Dietsche Press has already been in touch with Aubil who now has another business in Chipita Park, but the missing items have not been returned nor has Aubil attempted to make any restitution.

Baby Sitter Training Program To Conclude

A training program for young teen-aged baby sitters will conclude next Thursday when certificates are awarded to 10 girls who completed the six session course, sponsored by the YWCA, a United Fund agency.

In addition to attending class room sessions the participants have visited the Child Day Care Center. Mrs. B. W. Hellgren, executive director of the YWCA, Mrs. David Marvin of the Visiting Nurse Association and Mrs. Roy Ikola and Mrs. Robert Charles, members of the Y-Wives Club, instructed the girls.

"Some sort of training is given to persons employed in almost any type of work. Certainly, baby sitters should be trained before assuming the responsibility for an infant or small child," Mrs. Hellgren said.

At the final session on Thursday, mothers of the girls enrolled will be guests along with the following members of the YWCA board of directors: Mrs. Erma Long, president, Mrs. Catherine Dormire, vice president, Mrs. Earl McAdams and Mrs. Douglas Mertz, members of the program committee.

ner, Roger Kent, Northern California Democratic chairman and chairman of the dinner, and Cyril Magnin, dinner finance chairman.

Police Chief Thomas Cahill called leaders of protest groups to a session and laid down strict limits for demonstrations during Johnson's visit.

"There will be no talking, singing, chanting or anything that will interfere with the President's speech," he told representatives of CORE, the Committee for Non-Violent Action and the Committee to end U.S. Intervention in Viet Nam.

Cahill said the largest police detail in San Francisco's history will assist Secret Service agents during the President's visit. Between 400 and 500 city policemen will be on duty, he said, about 30 per cent of the force.

President and Mrs. Johnson are due to arrive at San Francisco International Airport at 10:55 a.m.

Johnson's schedule includes ground breaking ceremonies for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District at Concord, a motorcade up Market Street, dedication of a new $38.5-million federal building and a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner at the San Francisco Hilton Hotel Friday night.

and primary commitments will be followed. Goldwater can count on 361 first-ballot votes from the following sources:

— Primary election laws which require delegates to cast first ballots for the winner in California, with 86 votes, and Indiana, with 32. Besides that, the 86 delegates on Goldwater's winning slate in California also signed a personal pledge to vote for him until he releases them.

— Specific and formal instructions by state conventions in Alabama, 20; Arizona, 16; Georgia, 4; Idaho, 14; Louisiana, 20; Mississippi, 13; Nebraska 10; Oklahoma, 22; South Carolina, 16; Texas, 56; Virginia, 10; and Wyoming, 12—a total of 213.

— Specific and formal instructions by district conventions in Georgia, 14; Kansas, 2; Minnesota, 2; Missouri, 2; North Carolina, 2; Tennessee, 2 and Virginia, 6 — a total of 30.

The instructions from state and district conventions vary in their wording. Alabama Republicans instructed their delegates to vote for Goldwater "until he is nominated." Idaho delegates are instructed "until formally released by" the senator.

In addition to these are some 40 delegates scattered across the nation who say they are personally pledged or committed to Goldwater and will stick with him no matter what.

Even in the last solid group—those who favor him but have not said they are pledged to him—are many who maintain they'll vote for Goldwater until he releases them.

But there also are many who merely say they favor the senator, and give no indication of how deeply they are committed. These are the ones most susceptible to wooing by Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania in his bid to head off Goldwater and win the nomination himself.

Britisher Proposes Red China U.N. Seat

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home said today Communist China should be admitted to the United Nations so the West can persuade Peking away from the use of force in world affairs.

Speaking in the House of Commons during the windup of a two-day debate on foreign affairs, the Conservative prime minister found himself in one respect agreeing with the opposition Labor party on seating Red China, which the United States opposes.

Douglas-Home based his argument on the idea that the Soviet Union had modified its doctrines on the use of force.

"Far better that China should be in the United Nations, and that there should be increased contact between the West and China," he said, "and that they should be gradually weaned away, as we have weaned the Russians away, from this policy of force."

Britisher Proposes Red China U.N. Seat

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home said today Communist China should be admitted to the United Nations so the West can persuade Peking away from the use of force in world affairs.

Speaking in the House of Commons during the windup of a two-day debate on foreign affairs, the Conservative prime minister found himself in one respect agreeing with the opposition Labor party on seating Red China, which the United States opposes.

Douglas-Home based his argument on the idea that the Soviet Union had modified its doctrines on the use of force.

"Far better that China should be in the United Nations, and that there should be increased contact between the West and China," he said, "and that they should be gradually weaned away, as we have weaned the Russians away, from this policy of force."

Mrs. Simpson said she entered the apartment building a few minutes after her husband and found two men waiting for the elevator. It was stopped at the fourth floor, where the Simpsons' apartment is.

They knocked on the shaft door. Finally the elevator started down, paused at the second floor and then reached the lobby.

Police said the victims' wallet, watch, tieclasp and pen were found on his body, along with about $1 in change. The wallet was empty of bills, although Simpson's younger son, Victor, 23, told police his father usually carried about $50.

Uncommitted Delegates Face Trial of Patience

By DAYTON BLAIR

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Being an uncommitted delegate to the Republican National Convention takes the patience of a Job and the hide of a rhinoceros.

Take the word of Henry Bubb.

Bubb is one of 18 uninstructed delegates from Kansas and one of 11 who have not voiced their preferences for the party's presidential nomination. That makes him a ripe target for candidates and their supporters.

Bubb is president of a Topeka savings and loan company who hopes his business won't be adversely affected, an experienced worker in top-level Republican politics and is chairman of the State Board of Regents for state colleges.

"I'm being flooded by mail," he said today.

Bubb takes it all in stride.

"I don't know who they are," he said of the letter writers. "They may be my customers, but I don't want my feelings on this to get into my business."

Bubb answers all the letters.

Currently his correspondents seek support for Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona or Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania. Previously they had included the other candidates, particularly New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

"My answers probably don't satisfy any of them," Bubb conceded, "but it's the best I can do."

In 1940, Bubb managed convention headquarters for the late Wendell L. Willkie at the Republican National Convention in Philadelphia. In 1952, he was a high-level figure in the campaign of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

This week, along with other Kansas delegates, Bubb visited with Scranton. He missed a recent trip of delegates to Omaha to visit with Goldwater.

Perhaps his independence has slowed down some pressure that otherwise would reach him.

"I don't care whether I ride a losing horse or not," he said bluntly.

"I'm going to vote for what I think is in the best interest of my country and my party, with my country coming first. There isn't a candidate who has got anything I want. I'm in a good position."

O.K.

NEW YORK (UPI)—A presidential campaign 123 years ago was responsible for popularizing expression "O.K.," says a Columbia University professor of English.

He reports the "Democratic O.K. Club" was formed in New York to support Martin Van Buren's drive for reelection. The initials stood for "Old Kinderhook," Van Buren's birthplace near Albany, N.Y.

LOCAL LITTERBUGS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tourists long have been popularly blamed for the bulk of the litter that is dumped along public highways. Now a summary report prepared by the Institute for Motivational Research, Inc. for the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute, Inc. shows that most littering is done by local rather than out-of-state residents. This was found to be true even in Vermont, which is a "heavy tourist state."

"The obvious implication of the discovery is that anti-litter education programs should be directed at state and community residents rather than at tourists passing through on trips and vacations," according to the report.

Danger of Tetanus Reported in State

DENVER (AP) — The State Health Department warned today that danger of tetanus increases in the summer months with various types of outdoor equipment such as camping, fishing or gardening contributing to the possibility of infection.

Dr. Cecil S. Mollohan, chief of the epidemiology section, said all deaths from tetanus are unnecessary since "tetanus toxoid is the most effective of all the immunizing agents."

He said that both adults need tetanus protection, maintained by booster shots every four years.

Dr. Mollohan said the fatality rate from tetanus is about 60 per cent.

Alaska Bears Shaken Up by Big Earthquake

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Alaska lecturer Lowell Thomas Jr. says the March 27 earthquake which shook up his state so badly also stirred up the big Kodiak bears and got them way off schedule.

Thomas told the Seattle Rotary Club Wednesday the quake roused the bears from their winter hibernation.

After a while, the bears went back to their dens for the rest of their winter sleep. Now they're sleeping in, and guides are afraid the bears won't be up and about when the hunting season starts.

The United States annually buys more than 50 million pounds of cashew nuts, according to Britannica Book of the Year.

LOCAL LITTERBUGS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tourists long have been popularly blamed for the bulk of the litter that is dumped along public highways. Now a summary report prepared by the Institute for Motivational Research, Inc. for the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute, Inc. shows that most littering is done by local rather than out-of-state residents. This was found to be true even in Vermont, which is a "heavy tourist state."

"The obvious implication of the discovery is that anti-litter education programs should be directed at state and community residents rather than at tourists passing through on trips and vacations," according to the report.

O.K.

NEW YORK (UPI)—A presidential campaign 123 years ago was responsible for popularizing expression "O.K.," says a Columbia University professor of English.

He reports the "Democratic O.K. Club" was formed in New York to support Martin Van Buren's drive for reelection. The initials stood for "Old Kinderhook," Van Buren's birthplace near Albany, N.Y.

Alaska Bears Shaken Up by Big Earthquake

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Alaska lecturer Lowell Thomas Jr. says the March 27 earthquake which shook up his state so badly also stirred up the big Kodiak bears and got them 'way off schedule.

Thomas told the Seattle Rotary Club Wednesday the quake roused the bears from their winter hibernation.

After a while, the bears went back to their dens for the rest of their winter sleep. Now they're sleeping in, and guides are afraid the bears won't be up and about when the hunting season starts.

The United States annually buys more than 50 million pounds of cashew nuts, according to Britannica Book of the Year.

Greek Soccer Fans Battle Athens Police

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Greek soccer fans battled police, ripped down the goal posts, and set fire to the nets and dressing rooms Wednesday after a match between the country's two top teams ended in a 1-1 tie.

Some 25,000 fans spilled onto the field, charging there had been a fix in the game between Panathinaicos of Athens and Olympiacos of Piraeus.

Police clubbed the demonstrators to drive them out of the downtown stadium.

Law Violators May Pay for New Jail

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Law violators may wind up paying for a new county jail at Louisville.

Beginning today, a $2 fee will be tacked on fines meted in any court in Louisville and Jefferson County for criminal and traffic violations, other than for parking.

County Atty. E. P. Sawyer said the revenue would determine if the county will issue $4 million in bonds to finance a new jail. The fees would be used to pay off the bonds.

A line of fans marched through Athens to the Parliament building, shouting "Fix, Fix" and "Down with the (soccer) association."

A number of fans were reported injured, but no arrests were reported.

GETS APOLLO WORK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Raytheon Co. said Monday it received a $1 million contract from Radio Corp. of America for power amplifiers to be used in the Apollo moon shot.

Civil Rights Bill May Come Up for Voting

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Having shot down the last of the Southern amendments, the Senate prepared to vote tonight or Friday on the civil rights bill.

Passage was foreshadowed Wednesday night—in the 81st day of the long struggle—when the senators substituted, by a 76-18 vote, the package drafted by leaders of both parties for the bill which had been passed by the House Feb. 10.

That set the stage for the final arguments pro and con, and then the vote which leaders hopefully said may come by tonight but more likely Friday night.

The substitute retains the basic antidiscrimination features of the original measure. It puts more emphasis on voluntary compliance and gives states with their own laws an opportunity to handle complaints before federal action is taken.

If the Senate approves the measure this week as expected, House leaders hope to have it on President Johnson's desk before adjourning July 2 in advance of the Republican National Convention.

The current House planning is to accept the Senate bill without change. Among those who have said there is a good chance the House will accept the Senate version is Rep. William M. McCulloch, R-Ohio, who has been called the chief architect of the bill in the House.

Except for key portions of the section banning discrimination in employment, the bill will become effective as soon as the President signs it. Some provisions of this section would become effective immediately, others at intervals over the next three years.

All of Wednesday night's votes against the substitute package were cast by Southern senators who banded together under the leadership of Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., to wage an all-out fight against the legislation.

Russell called the substitute "more obnoxious" than the House version, saying it is "purely a sectional bill aimed at the South. Anyway you look at it, it is a second effort at Reconstruction."

Sen. Humbert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., the bill's floor manager, replied that in framing the substitute the Senate leadership had "sought to provide the maximum cooperation" with state and local officials.

He denied there was "a scintilla of regionalism or sectionalism" in it.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, front-runner for the GOP presidential nomination, was recorded as voting in favor of substituting the package for the House-passed measure, although he actually did not vote. He was paired with Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., who voted against making the substitution.

SAVINGS BOND PROGRAM—The bond program is the reason for the Letter of Appreciation being presented to Betty R. Ludwig, Administrative Branch Chief, Installation Supply. Making the presentation is Maj. Donald R. Roney, Supply Officer. Mrs. Ludwig signed up 43 individuals for bonds totaling over $1,000 a month. This raised Ft. Carson's Installation Supply quota to 6% over the Army's goal for bond participation. (U.S. Army Photo)

73-Year-Old Actor Still Goes Strong in Big Show

By BOB THOMAS

For Reginald Denny it meant 30 minutes to climb into his formal clothes for the opening scene of "My Fair Lady."

Denny, still deucedly handsome at 73, was backstage at the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium where he was appearing as Col. Pickering in "My Fair Lady." He had played the role for two years on Broadway. Later this summer he will switch to the part of Eliza's roguish father when the musical plays the new Valley Music Theater.

Born in Surrey, England, he toured with his parents in stock, later acted in Europe and America.

"I started in films in this country back when actors didn't like to admit it," he recalled. "When I was doing a New York play in 1911, I would sneak over to Flatbush to do some flickers. I did some others for Famous Players in 1914.

"My first real entrance to films was in 1919 during the actors' strike on Broadway."

He became a star with the "Leather Pusher" movies, of which he made 24. Such casting for the urbane Denny now seems odd, but he played the prizefighter role with conviction; during his hungry youth he had fought six bouts, and he was a brigade heavyweight champion in the R.A.F. during the first World War.

His career flourished during the silent era, and his polished diction helped him survive into the talkies. With Ronald Colman, C. Aubrey Smith, Nigel Bruce and others, he became a stalwart of Hollywood's British colony and helped save the empire in many a movie.

An ardent hobbist, Denny had long run a hobby shop in Hollywood and out of it came a pilotless plane model. The actor helped in developing drone planes for the government during World War II. But he lost control of the company—and $4 million, he said—and went back to acting.

He hasn't made a movie since 1956, but he has done many television shows and appears to have found a career with "My Fair Lady."

"I feel quite fit," he said, "even though I've had two operations. I had bleeding ulcers when I was in New York with this show—lost three pints during one performance."

The final knock came at the door. "Curtain, Mr. Denny," said the callboy. The actor smoothed his mustache, took a final look at the costume, and reported onstage for another opening of anther show.

Cuba Refugees Tell of Plans For Sabotage

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Three newly arrived Cuban refugees say that 200 employes of three Havana oil companies were arrested after an alleged attempt to sabotage the plants.

The refugees said Wednesday the arrests, several weeks ago, followed discovery of a fire, an unexploded bomb and evidence of attempts to damage equipment at the former Shell and Esso refineries and Sinclair storage tanks, taken over by the Fidel Castro government.

Jose Antonio Lopez, 25, Orlando Garcia, 21, and Jesus Dominguez, 19, said they had taken turns rowing a 14-foot boat from the Matanzas Province coast to Islamorada in the Florida keys. The trip took three days.

TO OPEN CABLE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson and Premier Hayato Ikeda of Japan will open the first telephone cable between the United States and Japan Thursday night.

Ceremonies will be held in the fish room of the White House.

Farmer's Cow Herd Survives Big Flood

He hadgone to the pasture to round up his 26 cows when he saw a wall of water hit the animals.

"All we could see was their heads bobbing on the flood as they went downstream through fences and over the highway. I just kissed them good-by," he said.

He was wrong. He found 24 of them Wednesday.

What really amazed him was that one cow was swept down a creek for five miles, then four miles down the Platte River. The animal was in good condition when found.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Dave Babbitt has brought into the limelight one of the most dastardly crimes in the history of American science. You laymen can hardly believe that the greed of Judas Iscariot could prevent a fair clinical test of the most widely used new treatment of cancer. But scrapebook this case and its follow-up tomorrow!

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M. D.

CASE S-494: Dave Babbitt, the courageous producer of Cleveland's KYW radio show called "Contact" asked:

"Dr. Crane, what is Krebiozen? How is it produced?

"And why has the Food and Drug Administration been so biased against it?"

CANCER FACTS

Krebiozen is obtained from horse serum.

When you get cancer, it is assumed that your original childhood immunity has simply become reduced.

In youth, we medics believe that most people have 100 per cent resistance to cancer, though occasionally a child has cancer.

By the age of 45 or 50, many of us develop cancer because our earlier resistance has diminished.

The situation is somewhat like diabetes, whichis also an ailment usually striking us at middle age.

Why, for example, does our body supply our blood with plenty of insulin (almost 100 units daily) when we are young, but later its supply is down to only 50 or 75 units?

In case of the diabetic, we may then inject the additional 25 to 50 units by needle to restore the body's normal supply.

Krebiozen is regarded as probably doing much the same thing. It adds the natural cancer immunity of a healthy horse to the cancer victim's own reduced immunity.

As to why the home office of the A.M.A. became so violently opposed to trying Krebiozen back in 1951, I can refer you to Herbert Bailey's remarkable book entitled "A Matter of Life or Death."

Dr. Stevan Durovic refused to sign such a contract, so this medical "Rasputin" behind the throne of organized medicine, is reported to have said he would ruin Dr. Ivy and Dr. Durovic until Dr. Durovic would crawl back and beg to sign that contract.

So 100 quick cases were culled to discredit Krebiozen. They were reported in the October, 1951, Journal of the A.M.A.

And ever since then the usual medic has meekly parroted the dictates of the A.M.A. home office in Chicago, without ever having seen or tried Krebiozen on even one patient!

But a closer analysis of those 100 patients reveals fabrication and also deliberate falsification!

For 72 of these patients were moribund, almost in coma, when they were selected.

They didn't live long enough to get more than four shots of Krebiozen.

Two were admitted to be helped but were written off as happenstance.

Of the remaining 26 who were described as "dead or dying," many were still alive and well long afterwards.

Ten of the "dead or dying" testified before the Committee of our Illinois State legislature long afterwards that they were alive and back on the job, despite that J.A.M.A. article listing them as dead!

The FDA, apparently taking its orders from the A. M. M., then falsified spectrographic data and chemical analyses, as per the scholarly expose released by Senator Paul H. Douglas, of Illinois!

Greek Soccer Fans Battle Athens Police

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Greek soccer fans battled police, ripped down the goal posts, and set fire to the nets and dressing rooms Wednesday after a match between the country's two top teams ended in a 1-1 tie.

Some 25,000 fans spilled onto the field, charging there had been a fix in the game between Panathinaicos of Athens and Olympiacos of Piraeus.

Police clubbed the demonstrators to drive them out of the downtown stadium.

A line of fans marched through Athens to the Parliament building, shouting "Fix, Fix" and "Down with the (soccer) association."

A number of fans were reported injured, but no arrests were reported.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Law violators may wind up paying for a new county jail at Louisville.

Beginning today, a $2 fee will be tacked on fines meted in any court in Louisville and Jefferson County for criminal and traffic violations, other than for parking.

County Atty. E. P. Sawyer said the revenue would determine if the county will issue $4 million in bonds to finance a new jail. The fees would be used to pay off the bonds.

Civil Rights Bill May Come Up for Voting

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Having shot down the last of the Southern amendments, the Senate prepared to vote tonight or Friday on the civil rights bill.

Passage was foreshadowed Wednesday night—in the 81st day of the long struggle—when the senators substituted, by a 76-18 vote, the package drafted by leaders of both parties for the bill which had been passed by the House Feb. 10.

That set the stage for the final arguments pro and con, and then the vote which leaders hopefully said may come by tonight but more likely Friday night.

The substitute retains the basic antidiscrimination features of the original measure. It puts more emphasis on voluntary compliance and gives states with their own laws an opportunity to handle complaints before federal action is taken.

If the Senate approves the measure this week as expected, House leaders hope to have it on President Johnson's desk before adjourning July 2 in advance of the Republican National Convention.

The current House planning is to accept the Senate bill without change. Among those who have said there is a good chance the House will accept the Senate version is Rep. William M. McCulloch, R-Ohio, who has been called the chief architect of the bill in the House.

Except for key portions of the section banning discrimination in employment, the bill will become effective as soon as the President signs it. Some provisions of this section would become effective immediately, others at intervals over the next three years.

All of Wednesday night's votes against the substitute package were cast by Southern senators who banded together under the leadership of Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., to wage an all-out fight against the legislation.

Russell called the substitute "more obnoxious" than the House version, saying it is "purely a sectional bill aimed at the South. Anyway you look at it, it is a second effort at Reconstruction."

Sen. Humbert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., the bill's floor manager, replied that in framing the substitute the Senate leadership had "sought to provide the maximum cooperation" with state and local officials.

He denied there was "a scintilla of regionalism or sectionalism" in it.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, front-runner for the GOP presidential nomination, was recorded as voting in favor of substituting the package for the House-passed measure, although he actually did not vote. He was paired with Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., who voted against making the substitution.

SAVINGS BOND PROGRAM—The bond program is the reason for the Letter of Appreciation being presented to Betty R. Ludwig, Administrative Branch Chief, Installation Supply. Making the presentation is Maj. Donald R. Roney, Supply Officer. Mrs. Ludwig signed up 43 individuals for bonds totaling over $1,000 a month. This raised Ft. Carson's Installation Supply quota to 6% over the Army's goal for bond participation. (U.S. Army Photo)

73-Year-Old Actor Still Goes Strong in Big Show

By BOB THOMAS

For Reginald Denny it meant 30 minutes to climb into his formal clothes for the opening scene of "My Fair Lady."

Denny, still deucedly handsome at 73, was backstage at the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium where he was appearing as Col. Pickering in "My Fair Lady." He had played the role for two years on Broadway. Later this summer he will switch to the part of Eliza's roguish father when the musical plays the new Valley Music Theater.

Born in Surrey, England, he toured with his parents in stock, later acted in Europe and America.

"I started in films in this country back when actors didn't like to admit it," he recalled. "When I was doing a New York play in 1911, I would sneak over to Flatbush to do some flickers. I did some others for Famous Players in 1914.

"My first real entrance to films was in 1919 during the actors' strike on Broadway."

He became a star with the "Leather Pusher" movies, of which he made 24. Such casting for the urbane Denny now seems odd, but he played the prizefighter role with conviction; during his hungry youth he had fought six bouts, and he was a brigade heavyweight champion in the R.A.F. during the first World War.

His career flourished during the silent era, and his polished diction helped him survive into the talkies. With Ronald Colman, C. Aubrey Smith, Nigel Bruce and others, he became a stalwart of Hollywood's British colony and helped save the empire in many a movie.

An ardent hobbist, Denny had long run a hobby shop in Hollywood and out of it came a pilotless plane model. The actor helped in developing drone planes for the government during World War II. But he lost control of the company—and $4 million, he said—and went back to acting.

He hasn't made a movie since 1956, but he has done many television shows and appears to have found a career with "My Fair Lady."

"I feel quite fit," he said, "even though I've had two operations. I had bleeding ulcers when I was in New York with this show—lost three pints during one performance."

The final knock came at the door. "Curtain, Mr. Denny," said the callboy. The actor smoothed his mustache, took a final look at the costume, and reported onstage for another opening of anther show.

Cuba Refugees Tell of Plans For Sabotage

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Three newly arrived Cuban refugees say that 200 employes of three Havana oil companies were arrested after an alleged attempt to sabotage the plants.

The refugees said Wednesday the arrests, several weeks ago, followed discovery of a fire, an unexploded bomb and evidence of attempts to damage equipment at the former Shell and Esso refineries and Sinclair storage tanks, taken over by the Fidel Castro government.

Jose Antonio Lopez, 25, Orlando Garcia, 21, and Jesus Dominguez, 19, said they had taken turns rowing a 14 - foot boat from the Matanzas Province coast to Islamorada in the Florida keys. The trip took three days.

Farmer's Cow Herd Survives Big Flood

He hadgone to the pasture to round up his 26 cows when he saw a wall of water hit the animals.

"All we could see was their heads bobbing on the flood as they went downstream through fences and over the highway. I just kissed them good-by," he said.

He was wrong. He found 24 of them Wednesday.

What really amazed him was that one cow was swept down a creek for five miles, then four miles down the Platte River. The animal was in good condition when found.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D.,Ph.D.

Dave Babbitt has brought into the limelight one of the most dastardly crimes in the history of American science. You laymen can hardly believe that the greed of Judas Iscariot could prevent a fair clinical test of the most widely used new treatment of cancer. But scrapebook this case and its follow-up tomorrow!

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M. D.

CASE S-494: Dave Babbitt, the courageous producer of Cleveland's KYW radio show called "Contact" asked:

"Dr. Crane, what is Krebiozen? How is it produced?

"And why has the Food and Drug Administration been so biased against it?"

CANCER FACTS

Krebiozen is obtained from horse serum.

When you get cancer, it is assumed that your original childhood immunity has simply become reduced.

In youth, we medics believe that most people have 100 per cent resistance to cancer, though occasionally a child has cancer.

By the age of 45 or 50, many of us develop cancer because our earlier resistance has diminished.

The situation is somewhat like diabetes, whichis also an ailment usually striking us at middle age.

Why, for example, does our body supply our blood with plenty of insulin (almost 100 units daily) when we are young, but later its supply is down to only 50 or 75 units?

In case of the diabetic, we may then inject the additional 25 to 50 units by needle to restore the body's normal supply.

Krebiozen is regarded as probably doing much the same thing. It adds the natural cancer immunity of a healthy horse to the cancer victim's own reduced immunity.

As to why the home office of the A.M.A. became so violently opposed to trying Krebiozen back in 1951, I can refer you to Herbert Bailey's remarkable book entitled "A Matter of Life or Death."

But a closer analysis of those 100 patients reveals fabrication and also deliberate falsification!

For 72 of these patients were moribund, almost in coma, when they were selected.

They didn't live long enough to get more than four shots of Krebiozen.

Two were admitted to be helped but were written off as happenstance.

Of the remaining 26 who were described as "dead or dying," many were still alive and well long afterwards.

"All we could see was their heads bobbing on the flood as they went downstream through fences and over the highway. I just kissed them good-by," he said.

He was wrong. He found 24 of them Wednesday.

What really amazed him was that one cow was swept down a creek for five miles, then four miles down the Platte River. The animal was in good condition when found.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Dave Babbitt has brought into the limelight one of the most dastardly crimes in the history of American science. You laymen can hardly believe that the greed of Judas Iscariot could prevent a fair clinical test of the most widely used new treatment of cancer. But scrapebook this case and its follow-up tomorrow!

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M. D.

CASE S-494: Dave Babbitt, the courageous producer of Cleveland's KYW radio show called "Contact" asked:

"Dr. Crane, what is Krebiozen? How is it produced?

"And why has the Food and Drug Administration been so biased against it?"

CANCER FACTS

Krebiozen is obtained from horse serum.

When you get cancer, it is assumed that your original childhood immunity has simply become reduced.

In youth, we medics believe that most people have 100 per cent resistance to cancer, though occasionally a child has cancer.

By the age of 45 or 50, many of us develop cancer because our earlier resistance has diminished.

The situation is somewhat like diabetes, whichis also an ailment usually striking us at middle age.

Why, for example, does our body supply our blood with plenty of insulin (almost 100 units daily) when we are young, but later its supply is down to only 50 or 75 units?

In case of the diabetic, we may then inject the additional 25 to 50 units by needle to restore the body's normal supply.

Krebiozen is regarded as probably doing much the same thing. It adds the natural cancer immunity of a healthy horse to the cancer victim's own reduced immunity.

As to why the home office of the A.M.A. became so violently opposed to trying Krebiozen back in 1951, I can refer you to Herbert Bailey's remarkable book entitled "A Matter of Life or Death."

Only 24 square miles in area, San Marino, Italy, situated on the slopes of the Apennines Mountains, is world's smallest republic.

Dr. Stevan Durovic refused to sign such a contract, so this medical "Rasputin" behind the throne of organized medicine, is reported to have said he would ruin Dr. Ivy and Dr. Durovic until Dr. Durovic would crawl back and beg to sign that contract.

So 100 quick cases were culled to discredit Krebiozen. They were reported in the October, 1951, Journal of the A.M.A.

And ever since then the usual medic has meekly parroted the dictates of the A.M.A. home office in Chicago, without ever having seen or tried Krebiozen on even one patient!

But a closer analysis of those 100 patients reveals fabrication and also deliberate falsification!

For 72 of these patients were moribund, almost in coma, when they were selected.

They didn't live long enough to get more than four shots of Krebiozen.

Two were admitted to be helped but were written off as happenstance.

Of the remaining 26 who were described as "dead or dying," many were still alive and well long afterwards.

Ten of the "dead or dying" testified before the Committee of our Illinois State legislature long afterwards that they were alive and back on the job, despite that J.A.M.A. article listing them as dead!

The FDA, apparently taking its orders from the A. M. M., then falsified spectrographic data and chemical analyses, as per the scholarly expose released by Senator Paul H. Douglas, of Illinois!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

South African Gets Booing, Flat Tire

OXFORD, England (AP) — South Africa's ambasador got a booing and his car a flat tire as he defended his country's racial policies before an Oxford student gathering Wednesday night.

Dr. Carel De Wet's speech to the university's conservative association was interrupted by shouts of "ree Mandela" and "Go home, De Wet" from a crowd of 300 demonstrators outside. De Wet was half dragged to his car by a flying wedge of 10 policemen afterward. Fist fights broke out among the students.

On the way out of Oxford, De Wet's car stopped because of a flat tire. Some students said they had stuck a match into the tire valve.

Students in pursuing cars jumped onto the ambassador's limousine and tried to drag out the chauffeur. Police arrested four students. Other students tried to invade the police station, but the police drove them off.

COWS AS BAD AS GOATS

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Cows often suffer from a stomach ailment known to farmers as "hardware disease." Veterinarians, who know that cows eat fence wire, nails, nuts, bolts, pieces of wood and tin cans, call the disease "traumatic gastritis."

The hardware punctures the lining of the second of the cow's four stomachs. It can be fatal.

Dr. Donald D. Delahanty, professor of the New York State College of Veterinary Medicine at Cornell University, says the cause of the trouble is lack of "oral discrimination in cattle that leads to their swallowing foreign bodies that would normally be rejected by other animals."

Dr. Delahanty has operated on 600 cows for hardware disease. He says about 60 per cent of his cases have been caused by lengths of wire and adds that about the only thing he has not found in a cow's stomach is broken glass.

Cancer Expert, Stricken With Disease, Dies

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A cancer expert, Dr. Charles M. Pomerat, who himself suffered from the disease, is dead of what police say apparently was a self-administered overdose of morphine.

Dr. Pomerat, 58, was a leading authority on biology of the cells and acted as director of research at the Pasadena Foundation for Medical Research. His body was found Wednesday at his home.

Dr. Donald Rounds, director of the foundation's Cellular Biology Department, said Pomerat had learned Monday that treatment for his spinal cancer had been unsuccessful.

Pomerat underwent two operations for an intestinal cancer after it had been discovered five years ago.

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky. (AP) —There was silence when J.V. Hartlage answered his telephone. "Who do you want?" asked Hartlage.

"I don't want anyone. My phone rang and I just picked it up," said the voice at the other end.

"That's what happened here. Who are you?" asked Hartlage.

"I'm Silas Hart in Fort Lauderdale, Fla."

"What! I used to know you when you lived in Elizabethtown," said the astonished Hartlage as the old friends renewed a conversation that stemmed from a mysterious call.

HIS ERROR

HOUSTON (UPI) — In April of 1857, an editor of a newspaper at Columbia, Tex., had this to say about Houston: "Houston is on a shallow bayou, naturally incapable of navigation to any extent, surrounded by post oak, pine barrens and boggy prairies."

Today, Houston is the nation's sixth largest city. A dredged ship channel which brings cargoes from the Gulf Coast 50 miles away, up Galveston Bay to Houston. Columbia, Tex., no longer exists.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

STAY ON: The House was voted to retain the federal excise taxes on luggage, toilet preparations, furs and jewelry —a move that President Johnson hailed as "good sense."

The drive to reduce the levies from 10 to 5 per cent on July 1 and eliminate them a year later was led by Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee.

The effort was beaten back 207 to 185 Wednesday after Democratic leaders cautioned against such action before further study. The taxes yield about $517 million a year.

CALLED OFF: The United States has halted combat flights by American pilots against rebel tribesmen in the Congo.

The State Department's announcement to this effect Wednesday made no comment on reports that the flights involved a clash of purposes between State and the Central Intelligence Agency.

Tuesday the State Department reversed previous denials and acknowledged that the missions had been flown by Americans under civilian contract to the Congolese government.

The rebels were reported to have had the backing of Chinese Communist agents in neighboring Burundi.

State Department press officer Robert McClosky said the American fliers had not violated any law by their "contractual arrangements" with the Congolese government nor did they endanger their U.S. citizenship by assisting a foreign military force.

Officials said privately the activity was small-scale, involving three pilot-mechanics and half a dozen propeller-driven planes, originally trainers.

MESSAGE: A State Department document represents Pope Pius XII as saying he thought "it was plain to everyone that he was referring to the Poles, Jews and hostages" when he condemned wartime atrocities in his Christmas 1942 message.

He is reported as saying he did not mention the Nazis by name because he could not do so without mentioning "the Bolsheviks and this he thought might not be wholly pleasing to the allies."

The late Pope's views were reported by Harold H. Tittmann, assistant to President Franklin D. Roosevelt's personal representative to Pius, and are contained in a diplomatic dispatch dated Jan. 5, 1943, and released with other diplomatic documents by the State Department last week.

MIKE: A microphone used by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in his famous "fireside chats" was enshrined Wednesday in the new Museum of History and Technology.

The instrument was presented to the Smithsonian Institution by CBS and radio station WTOP, Washington, as part of an exhibit of the use of communications in politics.

MISS IS AS GOOD AS THOUSANDS OF MILES

WASHINGTON (AP) —Accuracy requirements for space rocketry are growing more exact every year, according to the National Bureau of Standards, which develops standards for checking instruments used by industry to measure space vehicle parts.

Space requirements are now calling for steel gage blocks to be accurate to one 10-millionth of an inch, reports "Steelways Magazine," published by the American Iron and Steel Institute.

The magazine says an error of one-millionth of an inch in the bore hole of a missile-guiding gyroscope could result in the vehicle missing the moon by thousands of miles.

By Jove, He Says, It Looked Like Taxicab

A city police patrol car appeared. The Englishman ran into the street and started waving his arms frantically.

The patrol car stopped. The Englishman ran to the car, opened the rear door and sat down in the back seat.

Moments later he climbed out and the patrol car departed.

"I had called a taxi, and when I saw this car with the light on top coming down the street, I thought it was my taxi," he explained in a clipped British accent.

"I jumped in the back seat and told the driver to take me to the airport. He told me he was a policeman, not a cab driver.

"By jove — it looked like a taxicab."

SOME INSECT BITE

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) —For two years, little Dawn Bardowell was bothered by an irritating itchy sensation in the top of her shoulder.

He removed two shotgun pellets that had lodged in the youngster's shoulder, apparently parts of a spent charge from a hunter's gun.

Dawn said it apparently happened while she was visiting a relative's farm. "I felt a sting one day, but thought it was an insect."

100 Suspected Reds Arrested in Spain

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Nearly 100 suspected Communists have been arrested in a nationwide crackdown, police announced today. They included several foreigners.

The Franco regime's roundup of leftist agitators began in May and the police announcement indicates it is now completed. The suspects face trial this fall in the new National Court of Public Order, which has been given jurisdiction over all political prisoners except those charged with violence.

Police said several of the more important suspects had been shuttling between Spain and France as liaison between the Spanish and French Communist parties.

Among those arrested earlier was the son of Gen. Francisco Franco's minister of aviation.

GHOST TOWNS GALORE

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—Santa Fe County has 33 ghost towns and 29 ghost post offices according to a ghost town map of New Mexico just published by the State Bureau of Mines and Mineral Resources.

There are three kinds of ghost towns in New Mexico. First, those which have completely disappeared. Second, those that have buildings or foundations remaining. Third, those which are occupied but have a portion of the historical buildings in a state of emptiness or ruin.

Alcohol taxes in this country last year reached $3.4 billion, according to Tax Foundation, Inc.

JETS TO QUITO

NEW YORK (UPI) — Panagra (Pan American-Grace Airways) has inaugurated twice-a-week DC8 jet service from New York to Quito, Ecuador, cutting travel time between the two cities from 14 hours and 15 minutes to less than eight hours.

The new jet service replaces the DC-7 flights which the airline operated on this run via Miami and Panama City over the routes of National Airlines and Pan American World Airways.

If all television sets were this portable, who'd have to gulp down TV dinners?

Most of us might enjoy television more if we enjoyed it a little less.

But night after night we seem to get drawn to the tube like moths.

Every chair in the living room is aimed at it. We even plan dinner around it.

If you stop and think about it for a minute (say during a commercial), you'll realize why.

Because it's there. Larger than life. Too big to ignore. And always on.

Because it's simply less painful to watch television than have a blank TV screen watching you.

The Sony 5" portable finally puts television in its proper perspective.

It doesn't command your attention until you turn it on. Even then it doesn't turn your living room into a theatre.

If you must have it in for dinner, you can just plop it right next to the mashed potatoes.

All transistors® All installed by hand. No tubes to fail, no distortion or spasms. The picture is pin-point sharp.

The Sony works off the battery of a car or boat, as well as A.C. outlets. Or in the middle of nowhere with its own battery pack.

The Sony portable makes watching easier and not watching easier. Who knows? Someday it might even replace the portable dinner.

If all television sets were this portable, who'd have to gulp down TV dinners?

Most of us might enjoy television more if we enjoyed it a little less.

But night after night we seem to get drawn to the tube like moths.

Every chair in the living room is aimed at it. We even plan dinner around it.

If you stop and think about it for a minute (say during a commercial), you'll realize why.

Because it's there. Larger than life. Too big to ignore. And always on.

Because it's simply less painful to watch television than have a blank TV screen watching you.

The Sony 5" portable finally puts television in its proper perspective.

It doesn't command your attention until you turn it on. Even then it doesn't turn your living room into a theatre.

If you must have it in for dinner, you can just plop it right next to the mashed potatoes.

The Sony works off the battery of a car or boat, as well as A.C. outlets. Or in the middle of nowhere with its own battery pack.

The Sony portable makes watching easier and not watching easier. Who knows? Someday it might even replace the portable dinner.

South African Gets Booing, Flat Tire

OXFORD, England (AP) — South Africa's ambasador got a booing and his car a flat tire as he defended his country's racial policies before an Oxford student gathering Wednesday night.

Dr. Carel De Wet's speech to the university's conservative association was interrupted by shouts of "ree Mandela" and "Go home, De Wet" from a crowd of 300 demonstrators outside. De Wet was half dragged to his car by a flying wedge of 10 policemen afterward. Fist fights broke out among the students.

On the way out of Oxford, De Wet's car stopped because of a flat tire. Some students said they had stuck a match into the tire valve.

COWS AS BAD AS GOATS

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Cows often suffer from a stomach ailment known to farmers as "hardware disease." Veterinarians, who know that cows eat fence wire, nails, nuts, bolts, pieces of wood and tin cans, call the disease "traumatic gastritis."

The hardware punctures the lining of the second of the cow's four stomachs. It can be fatal.

Dr. Donald D. Delahanty, professor of the New York State College of Veterinary Medicine at Cornell University, says the cause of the trouble is lack of "oral discrimination in cattle that leads to their swallowing foreign bodies that would normally be rejected by other animals."

Dr. Delahanty has operated on 600 cows for hardware disease. He says about 60 per cent of his cases have been caused by lengths of wire and adds that about the only thing he has not found in a cow's stomach is broken glass.

Cancer Expert, Stricken With Disease, Dies

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A cancer expert, Dr. Charles M. Pomerat, who himself suffered from the disease, is dead of what police say apparently was a self-administered overdose of morphine.

Dr. Pomerat, 58, was a leading authority on biology of the cells and acted as director of research at the Pasadena Foundation for Medical Research. His body was found Wednesday at his home.

Dr. Donald Rounds, director of the foundation's Cellular Biology Department, said Pomerat had learned Monday that treatment for his spinal cancer had been unsuccessful.

Pomerat underwent two operations for an intestinal cancer after it had been discovered five years ago.

Connections Wrong, But Party Was Right

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky. (AP) —There was silence when J.V. Hartlage answered his telephone "Who do you want?" asked Hartlage.

"I don't want anyone. My phone rang and I just picked it up," said the voice at the other end.

"That's what happened here. Who are you?" asked Hartlage.

"I'm Silas Hart in Fort Lauderdale, Fla."

"What! I used to know you when you lived in Elizabethtown," said the astonished Hartlage as the old friends renewed a conversation that stemmed from a mysterious call.

HIS ERROR

HOUSTON (UPI) — In April of 1857, an editor of a newspaper at Columbia, Tex., had this to say about Houston: "Houston (is) on a shallow bayou, naturally incapable of navigation to any extent, surrounded by post oak, pine barrens and boggy prairies."

Today, Houston is the nation's sixth largest city. A dredged ship channel which brings cargoes from the Gulf Coast 50 miles away, up Galveston Bay to Houston. Columbia, Tex., no longer exists.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

STAY ON: The House was voted to retain the federal excise taxes on luggage, toilet preparations, furs and jewelry —a move that President Johnson hailed as "good sense."

The drive to reduce the levies from 10 to 5 per cent on July 1 and eliminate them a year later was led by Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee.

The effort was beaten back 207 to 185 Wednesday after Democratic leaders cautioned against such action before further study. The taxes yield about $517 million a year.

CALLED OFF: The United States has halted combat flights by American pilots against rebel tribesmen in the Congo.

The State Department's announcement to this effect Wednesday made no comment on reports that the flights involved a clash of purposes between State and the Central Intelligence Agency.

Tuesday the State Department reversed previous denials and acknowledged that the missions had been flown by Americans under civilian contract to the Congolese government.

The rebels were reported to have had the backing of Chinese Communist agents in neighboring Burundi.

State Department press officer Robert McClosky said the American fliers had not violated any law by their "contractual arrangements" with the Congolese government nor did they endanger their U.S. citizenship by assisting a foreign military force.

Officials said privately the activity was small-scale, involving three pilot-mechanics and half a dozen propeller-driven planes, originally trainers.

MESSAGE: A State Department document represents Pope Pius XII as saying he thought "it was plain to everyone that he was referring to the Poles, Jews and hostages" when he condemned wartime atrocities in his Christmas 1942 message.

He is reported as saying he did not mention the Nazis by name because he could not do so without mentioning "the Bolsheviks and this he thought might not be wholly pleasing to the allies."

The late Pope's views were reported by Harold H. Tittmann assistant to President Franklin D. Roosevelt's personal representative to Pius, and are contained in a diplomatic dispatch dated Jan. 5, 1943, and released with other diplomatic documents by the State Department last week.

MIKE: A microphone used by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in his famous "fireside chats" was enshrined Wednesday in the new Museum of History and Technology.

The instrument was presented to the Smithsonian Institution by CBS and radio station WTOP, Washington, as part of an exhibit of the use of communications in politics.

MISS IS AS GOOD AS THOUSANDS OF MILES

WASHINGTON (AP) —Accuracy requirements for space rocketry are growing more exact every year, according to the National Bureau of Standards, which develops standards for checking instruments used by industry to measure space vehicle parts.

Space requirements are now calling for steel gage blocks to be accurate to one 10-millionth of an inch, reports "Steelways Magazine," published by the American Iron and Steel Institute.

The magazine says an error of one-millionth of an inch in the bore hole of a missile-guiding gyroscope could result in the vehicle missing the moon by thousands of miles.

RANK: Senior military rank is about to enjoy another privilege—an advantage over enlisted men and lower rank officers in getting on waiting lists for free vacation flights aboard military transport planes overseas.

This change in the "space available" system will go into effect on July 1. Hitherto, all service people—regardless of rank—have been treated on a first-come, first-served basis.

Generals, admirals, colonels and Navy captains will be able to mail in their applications as much as 30 days in advance, naming a specific departure date and destination.

Enlisted men and lower ranking officers must be physically present to have their names placed on a space available list. They cannot make advance application by letter or phone, and they must wait at the terminal for a seat to open up.

By Jove, He Says, It Looked Like Taxicab

A city police patrol car appeared. The Englishman ran into the street and started waving his arms frantically.

The patrol car stopped. The Englishman ran to the car, opened the rear door and sat down in the back seat.

Moments later he climbed out and the patrol car departed.

"I had called a taxi, and when I saw this car with the light on top coming down the street, I thought it was my taxi," he explained in a clipped British accent.

"I jumped in the back seat and told the driver to take me to the airport. He told me he was a policeman, not a cab driver.

"By jove — it looked like a taxicab."

SOME INSECT BITE

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) —For two years, little Dawn Bardowell was bothered by an irritating, itchy sensation in the top of her shoulder.

He removed two shotgun pellets that had lodged in the youngster's shoulder, apparently parts of a spent charge from a hunter's gun.

Dawn said it apparently happened while she was visiting a relative's farm. "I felt a sting one day, but thought it was an insect."

100 Suspected Reds Arrested in Spain

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Nearly 100 suspected Communists have been arrested in a nationwide crackdown, police announced today. They included several foreigners.

The Franco regime's roundup of leftist agitators began in May and the police announcement indicates it is now completed. The suspects face trial this fall in the new National Court of Public Order, which has been given jurisdiction over all political prisoners except those charged with violence.

Police said several of the more important suspects had been shuttling between Spain and France as liaison between the Spanish and French Communist parties.

Among those arrested earlier was the son of Gen. Francisco Franco's minister of aviation.

GHOST TOWNS GALORE

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—Santa Fe County has 33 ghost towns and 29 ghost post offices according to a ghost town map of New Mexico just published by the State Bureau of Mines and Mineral Resources.

There are three kinds of ghost towns in New Mexico. First, those which have completely disappeared. Second, those that have buildings or foundations remaining. Third, those which are occupied but have a portion of the historical buildings in a state of emptiness or ruin.

Alcohol taxes in this country last year reached $3.4 billion, according to Tax Foundation, Inc.

Scranton Plans To Solidify His GOP Campaign

By DAVE LEHERR

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Gov. William W Scranton of Pennsylvania meets with his aides today to solidify and strengthen his hastily arranged campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

The governor returns to take a look at the home situation after a hectic week of whirlwind barnstorming in the Midwest in an attempt to snatch delegate support from Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Aides here said one of the main reasons for Scranton's return was to call an organizational meeting to map strategy for the remaining three weeks before the Republican national convention in San Francisco.

The Scranton campaign began suddenly with his announced candidacy just last Friday at the Maryland Republican convention in Baltimore. Since then he has hit five states, hopping from town to town in a rented airplane.

Three advance men tried to keep ahead of him but found it difficult because of last-minute changes or cancellations.

Most of the campaign arrangements so far have been handled by Scranton himself and Pennsylvania Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alessandroni, a close friend.

Traveling with the governor have been Alessandroni, who headed Scranton's campaign for governor in 1962; William Keisling, 27, assistant to Scranton; Jack L. Conmy, press secretary; Ruth A. Hauck and Dan Buser, assistants to Conmy.

The governor's Harrisburg office is busy from dusk to dawn, answering buzzing phones and writing letters. More than 6,000 to 7,000 letters are still unopened in his office.

Scranton's base of operations is being transferred from his Marworth estate near Scranton, Pa., to an old three-story building in downtown Harrisburg.

William G. Murphy, Scranton's secretary, said thousands of dollars were coming in from volunteers across the state and nation.

Thomas B. McCabe, board chairman of the Scott Paper Co. with main offices in Philadelphia, is one of the main forces behind the financial aspects of the campaign.

The campaign team continues on to Louisville, Ky., Friday afternoon, then on to Boston Saturday for the Massachusetts Republican convention.

'One Man, One Vote' Plan Given High Court Boost

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jubilant over their big victory in the Supreme Court, advocates of the "one man, one vote" theory of government broadened their horizons today.

Their next target such local government organizations as city councils, county boards of supervisors and even such units as water districts.

The Supreme Court, in a decision spelling great changes in the American governmental structure, ruled Monday that both branches of state legislatures must be apportioned according to population.

Aides in the office of Charles S. Rhyne, noted constitutional lawyer, said today the implications of Monday's rulings are even broader than most people realize.

Rhyne is former president of the American Bar Association and has been a kingpin in the drive on behalf of city residents and suburbanites to gain more voice in state legislatures, most of which are dominated by steadily diminishing numbers of rural residents.

Rhyne's office took the view that the Supreme Court decision points the way to wholesale revamping of city councils and other governmental units.

They pointed, for example, to a decision which the Ohio Supreme Court handed down even before the nation's highest court acted.

The Ohio court decreed that Cleveland's City Council must be reapportioned according to population. Cleveland has 33 wards, and there had been complaints that people in some wards were shortchanged in the matter of representation.

Rhyne's aides also said California's highest court had taken action looking toward the reapportionment of the Board of Supervisors in Monterey County, Calif.

There was no exact information on how many states must reapportion their state legislatures as a result of Monday's decrees. Estimates ranged from 24 to 40 or more.

The Supreme Court left a little leeway—though perhaps not much—in its guidelines. Some account can be taken of the problem of preserving existing county lines—but there must be substantially equal representation of city, suburban and rural populations.

Much litigation lies ahead, in the case of particular states. The Supreme Court left it to lower federal courts to decide each case on the merits, following which there may be further appeals to the highest bench.

One thing seems certain: ahead lies vastly increased power for the suburbs, and greater attention to their demands for more money for such things as schools and mass transportation.

This is because the suburbs, in general, have been growing at a much faster rate than the central cores of cities, and thus their voice in state legislatures may become really compelling. As one analyst put it: "The suburbs are about to inherit the earth."

Several members of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity used the stunt to raise $90, then turned the money over to the Red Cross.

Plans for Peace In Borneo Made At Tokyo Talks

By RENE-GEORGES INAGAKI

TOKYO (AP) — The foreign ministers of Malaysia, Indonesia and the Philippines made an encouraging start today toward a summit meeting, then paused for word that withdrawal of Indonesian guerrillas from Malaysia has begun.

In a 2½-hour conference that began with soft words and avowals of peaceful intent, the three ministers hammered out agreement to set up three additional checkpoints to verify withdrawal of several hundred guerrillas who have been plaguing British and Malaysian forces in Malaysian Borneo.

Malaysia has made a start on withdrawal of the guerrillas a condition for taking part in the summit conference which will bring together Indonesian President Sukarno, Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal and Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman.

The foreign ministers also made a start on an agenda for their chiefs to discuss. It is expected to include a review of causes for the deterioration in Malaysian - Indonesian relations after the Manila summit conference last July, two months before Malaysia was formed.

Razak said "the present situation is not of our own doing," and told Subandrio: "If Indonesia will withdraw her troops and guerrillas from our territory and stop making further incursions, I feel it is possible for us to have peace again and live as friends and neighbors."

Subandrio said the Malaysian situation was "fraight with tension" but that he did not believe it had reached the point of no return.

He accused the Colonial powers of leaving a "mental deformation" in Malaysia, Indonesia and the Philippines which had made it possible for them to "dominate us."

The important thing to remember, he said, was that the three new nations are a geographical fact and could not move away from each other.

"Even if we don't like each other, we must live together," he said.

The Indonesians have sworn to crush Malaysia, a federation created last September from former British colonies and protectorates. Sukarno has called the federation a neo-colonialist scheme to preserve Britain's influence in Southeast Asia.

TOKYO (AP) — The foreign ministers of Malaysia, Indonesia and the Philippines made an encouraging start today toward a summit meeting, then paused for word that withdrawal of Indonesian guerrillas from Malaysia has begun.

In a 2½-hour conference that began with soft words and avowals of peaceful intent, the three ministers hammered out agreement to set up three additional chckpoints to verify withdrawal of several hundred guerrillas who have been plaguing British and Malaysian forces in Malaysian Borneo.

Malaysia has made a start on withdrawal of the guerrillas a condition for taking part in the summit conference which will bring together Indonesian President Sukarno, Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal and Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman.

The foreign ministers also made a start on an agenda for their chiefs to discuss. It is expected to include a review of causes for the deterioration in Malaysian - Indonesian relations after the Manila summit conference last July, two months before Malaysia was formed.

Razak said "the present situation is not of our own doing," and told Subandrio: "If Indonesia will withdraw her troops and guerrillas from our territory and stop making further incursions, I feel it is possible for us to have peace again and live as friends and neighbors."

Subandrio said the Malaysian situation was "fraight with tension" but that he did not believe it had reached the point of no return.

He accused the Colonial powers of leaving a "mental deformation" in Malaysia, Indonesia and the Philippines which had made it possible for them to "dominate us."

The important thing to remember, he said, was that the three new nations are a geographical fact and could not move away from each other.

"Even if we don't like each other, we must live together," he said.

The Indonesians have sworn to crush Malaysia, a federation created last September from former British colonies and protectorates. Sukarno has called the federation a neo-colonialist scheme to preserve Britain's influence in Southeast Asia.

'One Man, One Vote' Plan Given High Court Boost

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jubilant over their big victory in the Supreme Court, advocates of the "one man, one vote" theory of government broadened their horizons today.

Their next target: such local government organizations as city councils, county boards of supervisors and even such units as water districts.

The Supreme Court, in a decision spelling great changes in the American governmental structure, ruled Monday that both branches of state legislatures must be apportioned according to population.

Aides in the office of Charles S. Rhyne, noted constitutional lawyer, said today the implications of Monday's rulings are even broader than most people realize.

Rhyne is former president of the American Bar Association and has been a kingpin in the drive on behalf of city residents and suburbanites to gain more voice in state legislatures, most of which are dominated by steadily diminishing numbers of rural residents.

Rhyne's office took the view that the Supreme Court decision points the way to wholesale revamping of city councils and other governmental units.

They pointed, for example, to a decision which the Ohio Supreme Court handed down even before the nation's highest court acted.

The Ohio court decreed that Cleveland's City Council must be reapportioned according to population. Cleveland has 33 wards, and there had been complaints that people in some wards were shortchanged in the matter of representation.

Rhyne's aides also said California's highest court had taken action looking toward the reapportionment of the Board of Supervisors in Monterey County, Calif.

There was no exact information on how many states must reapportion their state legislatures as a result of Monday's decrees. Estimates ranged from 24 to 40 or more.

The Supreme Court left a little leeway—though perhaps not much—in its guidelines. Some account can be taken of the problem of preserving existing county lines—but there must be substantially equal representation of city, suburban and rural populations.

Much litigation lies ahead, in the case of particular states. The Supreme Court left it to lower federal courts to decide each case on the merits, following which there may be further appeals to the highest bench.

One thing seems certain: ahead lies vastly increased power for the suburbs, and greater attention to their demands for more money for such things as schools and mass transportation.

This is because the suburbs, in general, have been growing at a much faster rate than the central cores of cities, and thus their voice in state legislatures may become really compelling. As one analyst put it: "The suburbs are about to inherit the earth."

Scranton Plans To Solidify His GOP Campaign

By DAVE LEHERR

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania meets with his aides today to solidify and strengthen his hastily arranged campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

The governor returns to take a look at the home situation after a hectic week of whirlwind barnstorming in the Midwest in an attempt to snatch delegate support from Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Aides here said one of the main reasons for Scranton's return was to call an organizational meeting to map strategy for the remaining three weeks before the Republican national convention in San Francisco.

The Scranton campaign began suddenly with his announced candidacy just last Friday at the Maryland Republican convention in Baltimore. Since then he has hit five states, hopping from town to town in a rented airplane.

Three advance men tried to keep ahead of him but found it difficult because of last-minute changes or cancellations.

Most of the campaign arrangements so far have been handled by Scranton himself and Pennsylvania Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alessandroni, a close friend.

Traveling with the governor have been Alessandron, who headed Scranton's campaign for governor in 1962; William Keisling, 27, assistant to Scranton; Jack L. Conmy, press secretary; Ruth A. Hauck and Dan Buser, assistants to Conmy.

The governor's Harrisburg office is busy from dusk to dawn, answering buzzing phones and writing letters. More than 6,000 to 7,000 letters are still unopened in his office.

Scranton's base of operations is being transferred from his Marworth estate near Scranton, Pa., to an old three-story building in downtown Harrisburg.

William G. Murphy, Scranton's secretary, said thousands of dollars were coming in from volunteers across the state and nation.

The campaign team continues on to Louisville, Ky., Friday afternoon, then on to Boston Saturday for the Massachusetts Republican convention.

Jury Finds for Defendant After Trip to Zoo

A District Court jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendant in the $25,000 personal injury suit brought by Darwin N. Jackson, Denver, who was suing the Cheyenne Mountain Zoo as he alleged he was bitten by a bear at the zoo, Aug. 24, 1963.

Jackson claimed he received serious and permanent injuries when the bear attacked him and bit off one of his fingers.

The complaint also stated zoo officials had failed to post a notice advising the animal was vicious and that possession of a bear constituted a public nuisance.

On Tuesday the plaintuff testified he dropped a cookie near the bear's cage and when he bent down to pick it up it bit him.

Rector and Kane, attorneys for the defendant insisted the bear could not get his nose through the bars of the cage, and on Wednesday morning Judge David W. Enoch who was on the bench, the lawyers, and members of the jury, made an early morning visit to the zoo to inspect the cage and the bear.

The plaintiff was represented by McLean and McLean, the Denver law firm, and local attorney Ben Fann.

Four Events to Highlight Quarter Horse Show Here

Four performance events will highlight the fifth annual Pikes Peak Quarter Horse Show to be held Friday and Saturday at Penrose Stadium.

In addition to barrel racing, open jumping by the Broadmoor Coxtails Jumpers and the western team tying tournament, the show will feature a new version of the trailer race.

This year revision in the rules of the Trailer Race is expected to make this another crowd pleaser. The Trailer Race involves two men, one pickup truck and a horse trailer, and a horse. The race starts with all horses loaded in the trailers, saddles off and bridles on. Vehicles are parked at the south end of the arena.

At the starter's signal, all horses will be unloaded and saddled. One of the two men on the team must then ride the horse to the north end of the arena, rope and tie a calf down, leave the rope on the calf, and return to the trailer.

Upon his return to the trailer, the rider dismounts where he and his partner unsaddle the horse, load the horse in the trailer, throw the saddle in the pickup, jump in the front seat of the pickup and turn on the lights of the pickup, signalling the end of their time.

Although this has proved to be entertaining in the past, and at times dangerous when the horses became too excited at all the hurrying-up and scurrying-around it is designed to be even more entertaining this year with the addition of the calf roping.

Open cutting will be held Friday morning, with the first go-round of the Team Tying Friday afternoon. All halter events for mares, stallions and geldings will be held Saturay morning, with the second go-round of Team Tying Saturday afternoon.

Performance events begin at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Friday night includes Junior Calf Roping and Junior Reining. Senior Western Pleasure and the first go-round of Open Jumping. Saturday night features the finals in Team Tying, the Trailer Race, Barrel Race, Senior Roping, Senior Reining, Youth Activity Western Pleasure and the finals of the Open Jumping.

Gresham Named To Represent Murder Suspect

Attorney Thomas Gresham was appointed Wednesday by District Judge David W. Enoch to represent Richard Oson Gooch who has been charged with murdering his wife.

The appointment was made after the judge received a pauper's oath signed by the defendant swearing he was without funds.

Gooch, 38, a sergeant at Ft Carson is alleged to have shot his wife, Gloria Dean, 32, to death at the couple's home, 705 Main St. Security, Saturday.

According to a sheriff's report, Gooch first claimed his wife had committed suicide but an examination of the body by County Coroner Dr. R. Urich, showed that it would have been impossible for the two chest wounds to have been self - inflicted.

District Attorney Pat Hinton said Tuesday that the defendant had made an oral confession admitting the slaying. Gooch will appear in District Court Friday for arraignment.

Federal CD Official Urges Local Support for Program

William P. Durkee, director of U.S. Civil Defense, Wednesday told Colorado Municipal League delegates that civil defense is an integral part of the nation's defense posture . . . is unique, in that it can not exist without local initiative and local support. . . ."

The civil defense spokesman's remarks came on the heels of a seminar discussing peaceful uses and regulation of atomic energy.

Mayor Harry Hoth introduced the key speaker at the opening day luncheon in the Antlers Hotel attended by some 600 municipal representatives of 213 cities and towns.

Durkee addressed the state's municipal representatives on "Meeting Emergencies—A Challenge of the Atomic Age."

The director of Civil Defense said that while civil defense is an integral part of national defense, it can not exist without local initiative and budget support. He pointed out that the federal government and the states, are ready to take part in the joint civil defense program, with matching funds and other support.

He cited civil defense efficiency during the recent Alaska earthquake disaster, in utilizing military support in time of civil defense emergency. He emphasized that military assistance would not be a substitute for civil participation in civil defense operations.

"I believe it is clear," Durkee said, "that a well planned and executed nationwide civil defense program centered around fallout shelters could contribute much more, dollar for dollar, to the saving of lives in the event of nuclear attack upon the United States than any further increases in the strategic retaliatory or continental aid and missile forces."

"Civil defense is coming of age, and is coming to be understood as a community program which is as important as schools, streets, pure water, public health, and all the other services which are today . . . accepted as community requirements."

The civil defense chief told listeners that the need for civil defense, rested on details studies by the Defense Department, views of senior military leaders and best judgment of the secretary of defense and his advisors in the civil defense field.

He pointed out that Defense Secretary McNamara in January, emphasized the need for civil defense and fallout shelters to Congress in his statement to the House Commitee on armed services, that a well planned and executed nationwide civil defense program centered on fallout shelters could contribute more "dollar for dollar."

At the same time, Durkee pointed out, Secretary McNamara testified that "the effectiveness of an active ballistic missile defense system in saving lives, depends in large part upon the existence of an adequate civil defense system."

Reporting on progress in the national shelter program, Durkee stated that the nation is relying upon some 5,000 local defense personnel, state and local government leaders to bring into use the potential public shelter located in a national shelter survey by the Defense Department.

Starting about 2½ years ago, teams of architect-engineers examined several millions of the larger buildings across the country. Computer analysis showed that over 13,000 of these offered fallout protection for 112-million people meeting OCD standards.

"To date owners of over 70,000 buildings with space for more than 57-million people, have signed a written "license" authorizing the posting of shelter signs and the stocking of supplies on their premises.

He pointed out that each of the building owners, in terms of work done by local civil defense director who has explained the program and secured that owner's consent.

The Civil Defense director reported that the House of Representatives has passed a bill to produce additional needed shelter spaces with federal financial assistance. Although the Senate deferred action on the bill last September, he said, the administration has not changed its position that the legislative authority should be enacted promptly.

He held that during a civil defense emergency a fully stocked system without adequate support would not function with full effectiveness in case of emergency. He cited the need for adequate warning, direction of movement, equal food and water shares, sick persons care, and communication with other shelters.

". . . our national leaders are relying on . . . a working civil defense program in each jurisdiction of the country. The federal and state governments are ready to participate in this joint venture with matching funds and other support, but the initiative in terms of manpower and budgets and a readiness to work, must come from local communities," the civil defense official said.

Don Descombes, mayor of Bloomfield, was program chairman and Mrs. Janet Robert, Boulder city council member, welcomed officials.

Talks centered on the uses of atomic energy and its impact on municipalities with emphasis on transportation of radioactive materials, radiological assistance and AEC and state regulation of atomic energy.

AEC officials discussed individual problems with municipal officals followng a talk by Dr. Richard Reece of the Colorado Department of Public Health on the state's plans for the regulation of atomic energy.

An exhibit reflecting AEC activities in relation to those of the states will be on display throughout the three-day municipal League meeting.

BUILDING FUND BOOSTED—It was Christmas in June Tuesday for the Rocky Mountain Rehabilitation Center as the Civitan Club's annual Christmas fruit cake sale resulted in a $6,000 check for the center's building fund. In addition, the club presented an electric chair for patient use. ## Chute Chaff Aids In Spotting Parachutists

NORAD's Royal Canadian Air Force Wing Commander L. J. Lomas has every reason to believe in the overly worked quotation — better late than never.

Back in 1954 when he was commanding officer of a radar station at Sydney, Nova Scotia he made a suggestion to his military superiors.

One day in May 1964 he received a suggestion award certificate and a cheque.

Between those times, a decade apart, there lies a tale.

The suggestion concerned a simple method of determining a pilot's position after emergency ejection — when he's within radar coverage — by using chaff as a location aid.

When dropped from an aircraft in quantity, chaff — narrow strips of aluminum foil — produces "snow" on a radar scope, making it difficult for the operator to pick up and follow a target.

Lew Lomas of Toronto, Canada reasoned that a small amount of chaff in a pilot's parachute pack could be released automatically when he ejected. This would show up on radar scopes as a "burst" and indicate the downed airman's position.

Overlooked at first, the value recognized and it has been recognied and it has been adopted not only by the RCAF but by all NATO air forces.

Here the long arm of coincidence enters the picture to produce an interesting flying story as well as a near impossible sequel.

Sitting next to Lomas in the NORAD Directorate of Operations these days is an RCAF Squadron Leader R. J. Brunett of St. James, Manitoba.

He has first hand knowledge of how valuable the Lomas suggestion was and a first hand awareness of how the chaff could pay off for an ejected aviator.

In 1958 Burnett was at North Bay Ontario, as a radar observer on a two-man CF-100 fighter interceptor crew.

As Burnett tells the story he was participating in a night training exercise when his aircraft went out of control and into a spine-chilling power drive.

He took the only course for today's pilot of modern stubby winged jet aircraft and ejected. Later he learned that three diffrent radar stations had spotted the chaff from his chute.

In Burnett's own words, "Although a search wasn't required to find me, it was comforting to know I had the means to be spotted.

I never knew until recently that the originator of the chaff idea sits at a desk beside me."

Jury Finds for Defendant After Trip to Zoo

A District Court jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendant in the $25,000 personal injury suit brought by Darwin N. Jackson, Denver, who was suing the Cheyenne Mountain Zoo as he alleged he was bitten by a bear at the zoo, Aug. 24, 1963.

Jackson claimed he received serious and permanent injuries when the bear attacked him and bit off one of his fingers.

The complaint also stated zoo officials had failed to post a notice advising the animal was vicious and that possession of a bear constituted a public nuisance.

On Tuesday the plaintiff testified he dropped a cookie near the bear's cage and when he bent down to pick it up it bit him.

Rector and Kane, attorneys for the defendant insisted the bear could not get his nose through the bars of the cage, and on Wednesday morning Judge David W. Enoch who was on the bench, the lawyers, and members of the jury, made an early morning visit to the zoo to inspect the cage and the bear.

The plaintiff was represented by McLean and McLean, the Denver law firm, and local attorney Ben Fann.

Four Events to Highlight Quarter Horse Show Here

Four performance events will highlight the fifth annual Pikes Peak Quarter Horse Show to be held Friday and Saturday at Penrose Stadium.

In addition to barrel racing, open jumping by the Broadmoor Coxtails Jumpers and the western team tying tournament, the show will feature a new version of the trailer race.

This year revision in the rules of the Trailer Race is expected to make this another crowd pleaser. The Trailer Race involves two men, one pickup truck and a horse trailer, and a horse. The race starts with all horses loaded in the trailers, saddles off and bridles on. Vehicles are parked at the south end of the arena.

At the starter's signal, all horses will be unloaded and saddled. One of the two men on the team must then ride the horse to the north end of the arena, rope and tie a calf down, leave the rope on the calf, and return to the trailer.

Upon his return to the trailer, the rider dismounts where he and his partner unsaddle the horse, load the horse in the trailer, throw the saddle in the pickup, jump in the front seat of the pickup and turn on the lights of the pickup, signalling the end of their time.

Although this has proved to be entertaining in the past, and at times dangerous when the horses became too excited at all the hurrying-up and scurrying-around, it is designed to be even more entertaining this year with the addition of the calf roping.

Open cutting will be held Friday morning, with the first go-round of the Team Tying Friday afternoon. All halter events for mares, stallions and geldings will be held Saturay morning, with the second go-round of Team Tying Saturday afternoon.

Performance events begin at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Friday night includes Junior Calf Roping and Junior Reining. Senior Western Pleasure and the first go-round of Open Jumping. Saturday night features the finals in Team Tying, the Trailer Race, Barrel Race, Senior Roping, Senior Reining, Youth Activity Western Pleasure and the finals of the Open Jumping.

Jury Finds for Defendant After Trip to Zoo

A District Court jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendant in the $25,000 personal injury suit brought by Darwin N. Jackson, Denver, who was suing the Cheyenne Mountain Zoo as he alleged he was bitten by a bear at the zoo, Aug. 24, 1963.

Jackson claimed he received serious and permanent injuries when the bear attacked him and bit off one of his fingers.

The complaint also stated zoo officials had failed to post a notice advising the animal was vicious and that possession of a bear constituted a public nuisance.

On Tuesday the plaintiff testified he dropped a cookie near the bear's cage and when he bent down to pick it up it bit him.

Rector and Kane, attorneys for the defendant insisted the bear could not get his nose through the bars of the cage, and on Wednesday morning Judge David W. Enoch who was on the bench, the lawyers, and members of the jury, made an early morning visit to the zoo to inspect the cage and the bear.

The plaintiff was represented by McLean and McLean, the Denver law firm, and local attorney Ben Fann.

Four Events to Highlight Quarter Horse Show Here

Four performance events will highlight the fifth annual Pikes Peak Quarter Horse Show to be held Friday and Saturday at Penrose Stadium.

In addition to barrel racing, open jumping by the Broadmoor Coxtails Jumpers and the western team tying tournament, the show will feature a new version of the trailer race.

This year revision in the rules of the Trailer Race is expected to make this another crowd pleaser. The Trailer Race involves two men, one pickup truck and a horse trailer, and a horse. The race starts with all horses loaded in the trailers, saddles off and bridles on. Vehicles are parked at the south end of the arena.

At the starter's signal, all horses will be unloaded and saddled. One of the two men on the team must then ride the horse to the north end of the arena, rope and tie a calf down, leave the rope on the calf, and return to the trailer.

Upon his return to the trailer, the rider dismounts where he and his partner unsaddle the horse, load the horse in the trailer, throw the saddle in the pickup, jump in the front seat of the pickup and turn on the lights of the pickup, signalling the end of their time.

Although this has proved to be entertaining in the past, and at times dangerous when the horses became too excited at all the hurrying-up and scurrying-around, it is designed to be even more entertaining this year with the addition of the calf roping.

Open cutting will be held Friday morning, with the first go-round of the Team Tying Friday afternoon. All halter events for mares, stallions and geldings will be held Saturay morning, with the second go-round of Team Tying Saturday afternoon.

Performance events begin at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Friday night includes Junior Calf Roping and Junior Reining, Senior Western Pleasure and the first go-round of Open Jumping. Saturday night features the finals in Team Tying, the Trailer Race, Barrel Race, Senior Roping, Senior Reining, Youth Activity Western Pleasure and the finals of the Open Jumping.

Federal CD Official Urges Local Support for Program

William P. Durkee, director of U.S. Civil Defense, Wednesday told Colorado Municipal League delegates that civil defense is an integral part of the nation's defense posture ". . . is unique, in that it can not exist without local initiative and local support. . . ."

Mayor Harry Hoth introduced the key speaker at the opening day luncheon in the Antlers Hotel attended by some 600 municipal representatives of 213 cities and towns.

Durkee addressed the state's municipal representatives on "Meeting Emergencies—A Challenge of the Atomic Age."

The director of Civil Defense said that while civil defense is an integral part of national defense, it can not exist without local initiative and budget support. He pointed out that the federal government and the states, are ready to take part in the joint civil defense program, with matching funds and other support.

He cited civil defense efficiency during the recent Alaska earthquake disaster, in utilizing military support in time of civil defense emergency. He emphasized that military assistance would not be a substitute for civil participation in civil defense operations.

"I believe it is clear," Durkee said, "that a well planned and executed nationwide civil defense program centered around fallout shelters could contribute much more, dollar for dollar, to the saving of lives in the event of nuclear attack upon the United States than any further increases in the strategic retaliatory or continental aid and missile forces."

"Civil defense is coming of age, and is coming to be understood as a community program which is as important as schools, streets, pure water, public health, and all the other services which are today . . . accepted as community requirements."

The civil defense chief told listeners that the need for civil defense, rested on details studies by the Defense Department, views of senior military leaders and best judgment of the secretary of defense and his advisors in the civil defense field.

He pointed out that Defense Secretary McNamara in January, emphasized the need for civil defense and fallout shelters to Congress in his statement to the House Commitee on armed services, that a well planned and executed nationwide civil defense program centered on fallout shelters could contribute more "dollar for dollar."

At the same time, Durkee pointed out, Secretary McNamara testified that "the effectiveness of an active ballistic missile defense system in saving lives, depends in large part upon the existence of an adequate civil defense system."

Reporting on progress in the national shelter program, Durkee stated that the nation is relying upon some 5,000 local defense personnel, state and local government leaders, to bring into use the potential public shelter located in a national shelter survey by the Defense Department.

Starting about 2½ years ago, teams of architect-engineers examined several millions of the larger buildings across the country. Computer analysis showed that over 13,000 of these offered fallout protection for 112-million people (meeting OCD standards)."

"To date owners of over 70,000 buildings with space for more than 57-million people, have signed a written "license" authorizing the posting of shelter signs and the stocking of supplies on their premises.

He pointed out that each of the building owners, in terms of work done by local civil defense director who has explained the program and secured that owner's consent.

The Civil Defense director reported that the House of Representatives has passed a bill to produce additional needed shelter spaces with federal financial assistance. Although the Senate deferred action on the bill last September, he said, the administration has not changed its position that the legislative authority should be enacted promptly.

He held that during a civil defense emergency, a fully stocked system without adequate support would not function with full effectiveness in case of emergency. He cited the need for adequate warning, direction of movement, equal food and water shares, sick persons care, and communication with other shelters.

". . . our national leaders are relying on . . . a working civil defense program in each jurisdiction of the country. The federal and slate governments are ready to participate in this joint venture with matching funds anl other support, but the initiative in terms of manpower and budgets and a readiness to work, must come from local communities," the civil defense official said.

Don Descombes, mayor of Bloomfield, was program chairman and Mrs. Janet Robert, Boulder city council member, welcomed officials.

Talks centered on the uses of atomic energy and its impact on municipalities with emphasis on transportation of radioactive materials, radiological assistance and AEC and state regulation of atomic energy.

AEC officials discussed individual problems with municipal officals followng a talk by Dr. Richard Reece of the Colorado Department of Public Health on the state's plans for the regulation of atomic energy.

An exhibit reflecting AEC activities in relation to those of the states will be on display throughout the three-day municipal League meeting.

Chute Chaff Aids In Spotting Parachutists

NORAD's Royal Canadian Air Force Wing Commander L. J. Lomas has every reason to believe in the overly worked quotation — better late than never.

Back in 1954 when he was commanding officer of a radar station at Sydney, Nova Scotia he made a suggestion to his military superiors.

One day in May 1964 he received a suggestion award certificate and a cheque.

Between those times, a decade apart, there lies a tale.

The suggestion concerned a simple method of determining a pilot's position after emergency ejection — when he's within radar coverage — by using chaff as a location aid.

When dropped from an aircraft in quantity, chaff — narrow strips of aluminum foil — produces "snow" on a radar scope, making it difficult for the operator to pick up and follow a target.

Lew Lomas of Toronto, Canada reasoned that a small amount of chaff in a pilot's parachute pack could be released automatically when he ejected. This would show up on radar scopes as a "burst" and indicate the downed airman's position.

Overlooked at first, the value recognized and it has been recognied and it has been adopted not only by the RCAF but by all NATO air forces.

Here the long arm of coincidence enters the picture to produce an interesting flying story as well as a near impossible sequel.

Sitting next to Lomas in the NORAD Directorate of Operations these days is an RCAF Squadron Leader R. J. Brunett of St. James, Manitoba.

He has first hand knowledge of how valuable the Lomas suggestion was and a first hand awareness of how the chaff could pay off for an ejected aviator.

In 1958 Burnett was at North Bay Ontario, as a radar observer on a two-man CF-100 fighter interceptor crew.

As Burnett tells the story he was participating in a night training exercise when his aircraft went out of control and into a spine-chilling power drive.

He took the only course for today's pilot of modern stubby winged jet aircraft and ejected. Later he learned that three diffrent radar stations had spotted the chaff from his chute.

In Burnett's own words, "Although a search wasn't required to find me, it was comforting to know I had the means to be spotted.

I never knew until recently that the originator of the chaff idea sits at a desk beside me."

Suicide is the fourth greatest cause of death among U.S. young people between the ages of 15 and 24.

Looking at Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

HEDDA GETS HER SAY ON

Hollywood, the most delicate question I've handled since Richard Burton married Liz was handed me by the Hollywood Press Club: Should Hollywood and politics mix? The coward in me wanted to say, "The defense rests, but the fighter said, "Speak out!" So I took my place on a panel with Mayor Sam Yorty, Polly Bergen, Jud Baker and Barry Sullivan — all celebrities of a sort and none famous for keeping our mouths shut.

I did something entirely contrary to my nature — tackled the subject LOGICALLY. Let us examine the celebrity, said I. Why is he? Since the dawn of human imagination, man—born in the mud and reaching for the stars, terrified of the unknown and his own puny limitations—has always needed an image beyond himself. He needed the giant killer to stand between him and his fear, the knight in shining armor to right his wrongs, the fairy godmother to work his miracles. He needed an image of perfect beauty, so he created Venus.

And what is a celebrity? A public creation with plenty of help from the subject himself; a pygmy seen thru a magnifying glass; a small voice heard through a bull horn; a soap bubble expanded into a big balloon; the product of enormous publicity. And he's inevitable.

The wise person won't fool around with that image. As a Hollywood columnist, I've learned that the public wants no unmasking of its stars. If one should be hanged for his misdeeds, it's wise to report that he hanged magnificently.

But beneath the inflated ego, he's an individual and a citizen. He's the people, the government. He not only has the moral right but the moral duty to express opinions on any question affecting public welfare. If he forms an opinion, he must believe it's the greatest; and has a right to persuade others. I said persuade — not impose. Nobody has that right.

Some years ago when the "unfriendly ten" Hollywood personalities were being investigated for Communist activities, 20 movie celebrities flew to Washington to protest the hearings. They got their brains knocked out and came limping home crying, "Unfair!" Talented in movie-making, they assumed they were also talented, beyond our FBI and our government, on national security. Afterward Humphrey Bogart growled to me: "If we hadn't been celebrities the press never would have attacked us." Said I, "If you hadn't been Hollywood celebrities, you'd never have gone to Washington in the first place." In the field of government, it behooves the celebrity to examine his conscience. He's not plugging a product — he's endorsing a way of life.

Curtis LeMay is a celebrity in the military field. An authority on national defense and the wisdom of using nuclear weapons. But I don't consider him an authority on show business.

Steve Allen is a celebrity in entertainment. But any man who ever faced an enemy rifle is a greater authority on war than Allen, who did not. Yet he tells the experts what to do with nuclear weapons.

Looking at Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

HEDDA GETS HER SAY ON

Hollywood, the most delicate question I've handled since Richard Burton married Liz was handed me by the Hollywood Press Club: Should Hollywood and politics mix? The coward in me wanted to say, "The defense rests, but the fighter said, "Speak out!" So I took my place on a panel with Mayor Sam Yorty, Polly Bergen, Jud Baker and Barry Sullivan — all celebrities of a sort and none famous for keeping our mouths shut.

I did something entirely contrary to my nature — tackled the subject LOGICALLY. Let us examine the celebrity, said I. Why is he? Since the dawn of human imagination, man—born in the mud and reaching for the stars, terrified of the unknown and his own puny limitations—has always needed an image beyond himself. He needed the giant killer to stand between him and his fear; the knight in shining armor to right his wrongs; the fairy godmother to work his miracles. He needed an image of perfect beauty, so he created Venus.

And what is a celebrity? A public creation with plenty of help from the subject himself; a pygmy seen thru a magnifying glass; a small voice heard through a bull horn; a soap bubble expanded into a big balloon; the product of enormous publicity. And he's inevitable.

The wise person won't fool around with that image. As a Hollywood columnist, I've learned that the public wants no unmasking of its stars. If one should be hanged for his misdeeds, it's wise to report that he hanged magnificently.

But beneath the inflated ego, he's an individual and a citizen. He's the people, the government. He not only has the moral right but the moral duty to express opinions on any question affecting public welfare. If he forms an opinion, he must believe it's the greatest; and has a right to persuade others. I said persuade — not impose. Nobody has that right.

Some years ago when the "unfriendly ten" Hollywood personalities were being investigated for Communist activities, 20 movie celebrities flew to Washington to protest the hearings. They got their brains knocked out and came limping home crying, "Unfair!" Talented in movie-making, they asumed they were also talented, beyond our FBI and our government, on national security. Afterward Humphrey Bogart growled to me: "If we hadn't been celebrities, the press never would have attacked us." Said I, "If you hadn't been Hollywood celebrities, you'd never have gone to Washington in the first place." In the field of government, it behooves the celebrity to examine his conscience. He's not plugging a product — he's endorsing a way of life.

Curtis LeMay is a celebrity in the military field. An authority on national defense and the wisdom of using nuclear weapons. But I don't consider him an authority on show business.

Steve Allen is a celebrity in entertainment. But any man who ever faced an enemy rifle is a greater authority on war than Allen, who did not. Yet he tells the experts what to do with nuclear weapons.

Child Actor Bixby Finds Success Story

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA) — Bill Bixby was having a late breakfast of tomato juice, milk, coffee, melon, eggs, link sausages, French fries, and rye toast which he requested "burst and buttered."

"Ever since I got to New York," he laughed, "I have been ordering my normal breakfast. But every time I do, the waitress says, 'Yes, sir,' and starts to go away when I get to the coffee. I have to keep calling her back so she can get the full order."

Bixby, the costar of CBS-TV's comedy hit My Favorite Martian may have some problems with waitresses, but he had solved the mystery of getting fast service from New York cab drivers.

"I estimate the cost of a metered ride, then pay the driver in advance, adding at least 50 cents to the figure. Then I tell the driver he can keep what is left. The guy today made about 60 whooshing me through traffic."

Bill, who has been acting for several years without major recognition, is considered one of the finds of the past season. He is attractive, with a fine comedy sense and the ability to switch from a slapstick scene to a poignant one without jarring the viewer. His present career is the result of a childhood pronouncement.

"When I was about 8, I said, 'Mommy, I want to be an actor.' And she said, 'Of course, dear.' So I put on shows for friends and family. My parents came to the performances. To a child, this was a great accolade."

Bill continued performing, mostly in the musical comedy field, through high school and college, the University of California at Berkeley. After college and military service, he decided to move to Los Angeles and give himself five years to try for an acting career.

"I decided I would rather try to be an actor and fail than to apologize to myself the rest of my life for not trying."

Bill's break came when he was working as a lifeguard at the swimming pool of a Hollywood hotel.

"I was the pool manager, and it gave me a chance to study, and go on job interviews. A lot of Detroit advertising agency men stayed at the hotel. One day one of them asked me if I ever modeled. I told him to forget it. He said it wasn't really modeling, but sort of posing. I said, 'You really do mean model, don't you.' He said, 'Yes, but it pasy $100 for three hours' work.' So for the next two years I modeled."

Bill went to Detroit where he also acted in industrial films. "It was a great place to learn. If I made a mistake on camera—and I did—it wasn't seen by people who could ruin me. And the work supported me darn well. When I went back to Hollywood to study—and boy, did I study—I had enough money to live on, and I had the basic tools of my trade."

The word "'star" embarrasses Bill—"I may be a small comet," he grants—and his good fortune amazes him.

"The odds against an actor getting a part in a pilot film are about 1,000-to-1. Even if you make a pilot, the odds against it getting on the air are really huge. There are 425 pilots per year competing for about six hours of prime time on all three television networks.

"Then once past that hurdle, there are odds against getting a good time slot and good sponsors. Even when you have all that going for you, when you finally get on the air, you are in the hands of the public. And if they don't like you, you are dead before you start."

Bill went to Detroit where he also acted in industrial films. "It was a great place to learn. If I made a mistake on camera—and I did—it wasn't seen by people who could ruin me. And the work supported me darn well. When I went back to Hollywood to study—and boy, did I study—I had enough money to live on, and I had the basic tools of my trade."

The word "'star" embarrasses Bill—"I may be a small comet," he grants—and his good fortune amazes him.

"The odds against an actor getting a part in a pilot film are about 1,000-to-1. Even if you make a pilot, the odds against it getting on the air are really huge. There are 425 pilots per year competing for about six hours of prime time on all three television networks.

"Then once past that hurdle, there are odds against getting a good time slot and good sponsors. Even when you have all that going for you, when you finally get on the air, you are in the hands of the public. And if they don't like you, you are dead before you start."

Mom Should Not Wear Pants, Booster Warns

By HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK (NEA) — Is the American woman fighting a losing battle against the "male establishment"? Or has she won too much already?

While the arguments flash back and forth in public and private conversation, Americans show signs of forgetting their history.

Before all the fuss about "liberation" mom did a man's job—and did it efficiently and without detriment to the family circle.

The pioneer woman helped build the old homestead, fought the Indians along with her man, tilled the soil and often fired the shot that put venison on Sunday's dinner table. No one censured her for doing dad's work.

She went down in history as a gallant little woman who labored side by side with her husband and raised a family at the same time. Unfortunately, she went right back to the cookstove when Sitting Bull became just a neighbor who would drop by to borrow a cup of corn meal.

So, a century later, when pop totes an attache case in place of a rifle, and the old homestead in most cases has shrunk to a small apartment, mom had to be "liberated" all over again before she could take her place alongside dad in the labor market.

Men invented the washing machine, frozen foods and gadgets of every kind so that the housewive doesn't even have to peel a radish. They gave her hours of leisure time but many men objected when she wanted to use them gainfully. And all marital ills were laid at the feet of the working mother.

Today, according to government sources, 25 million women work. Most of them are married and only about 2¼ million work because they need the money.

How are they really making out? What effect has the working wife had on family values?

"In most cases, family relations have improved because the wife works," says Saul Scheidlinger, group therapy consultant at Community Services Society, who in his work at CSS devotes his time and talents to solving family problems.

"When a wife works," he said "marriage has more give and take. The family is interactive as a group. There are no set rules for mom and dad and this flexibility promotes greater communication. The working mother finds it impossible to run her home without family participation and this gives her children a chance to feel effective."

According to Helen Olson, case supervisor of social workers at CSS, when a competent person is chosen to take over the mother role during mom's working hours, no harm is done to the child.

Often the blame for broken homes is placed on the wife who works. "Not fair," says Scheidlinger. "In fact, conflict between career and home is only a disguise for deeper conflicts that would eventually show up whether or not the wife was employed."

A successful fashion publicist explains why her family lives a happy life, not in spite of, but because she is not tied down at home. "Most neuroses in women are caused by boredom," says this mother of two bright, well-adjusted youngsters. "For an energetic woman our society does not offer enough to do at home. Women were 'liberated' more by need than by choice."

In addition to her full-time job, she teaches one night a week and also takes a course in sculpture. The family eats together every evening, spends summer weekends boating. "It's not the quantity of time you give to your husband and children that's important," she said.

If you are happy, you can genuinely and unselfishly enjoy all their interests and they will share yours. If you're bored, you'll nag and give them nothing."

When a man objects to his wife's working, it's usually because he fears he'll be marked as a poor provider. He believes her job is a reflection on his capacity to earn. A man who feels this way, needs constructive direction, experts on family mental health believe. He must learn that rather than being a reflection on him, her job gives his wife a chance to be as complete a person as he is.

Career women in America do not have a masculine attitude, according to Scheidlinger. Motherhood is not in conflict with a woman's job, but both together are a broadened version of what femininity is.

But one sad by-product of the new status of women, he feels, must be avoided. And that's the possibility that mom might decide she wears the pants. "A matriarchal setup is wrong," he maintains. "Dad must not be treated as just another kid to be sent out to play with the kids, or made to feel like a fool, falling off ladders, hitting his thumb with a hammer, while mom runs to the rescue and efficiently repairs all damage."

So leave the psychological pants in dad's closet, mom. They're too big for you. You may trip and pull the family down with you.

NEXT: Second-class workers.

A successful fashion publicist explains why her family lives a happy life, not in spite of, but because she is not tied down at home. "Most neuroses in women are caused by boredom," says this mother of two bright, well-adjusted youngsters. "For an energetic woman our society does not offer enough to do at home. Women were 'liberated' more by need than by choice."

In addition to her full-time job, she teaches one night a week and also takes a course in sculpture. The family eats together every evening, spends summer weekends boating. "It's not the quantity of time you give to your husband and children that's important," she said.

If you are happy, you can genuinely and unelfishly enjoy all their interests and they will share yours. If you're bored, you'll nag and give them nothing."

When a man objects to his wife's working, it's usually because he fears he'll be marked as a poor provider. He believes her job is a reflection on his capacity to earn. A man who feels this way, needs constructive direction, experts on family mental health believe. He must learn that rather than being a reflection on him, her job gives his wife a chance to be as complete a person as he is.

Career women in America do not have a masculine attitude, according to Scheidlinger. Motherhood is not in conflict with a woman's job, but both together are a broadened version of what femininity is.

But one sad by-product of the new status of women, he feels, must be avoided. And that's the possibility that mom might decide she wears the pants. "A matriarchal setup is wrong," he maintains. "Dad must not be treated as just another kid to be sent out to play with the kids, or made to feel like a fool, falling off ladders, hitting his thumb with a hammer, while mom runs to the rescue and efficiently repairs all damage."

So leave the psychological pants in dad's closet, mom. They're too big for you. You may trip and pull the family down with you.

Mom Should Not Wear Pants, Booster Warns

By HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK (NEA) — Is the American woman fighting a losing battle against the "male establishment"? Or has she won too much already?

While the arguments flash back and forth in public and private conversation, Americans show signs of forgetting their history.

Before all the fuss about "liberation" mom did a man's job—and did it efficiently and without detriment to the family circle.

The pioneer woman helped build the old homestead, fought the Indians along with her man, tilled the soil and often fired the shot that put venison on Sunday's dinner table. No one censured her for doing dad's work.

She went down in history as a gallant little woman who labored side by side with her husband and raised a family at the same time. Unfortunately, she went right back to the cookstove when Sitting Bull became just a neighbor who would drop by to borrow a cup of corn meal.

So, a century later, when pop totes an attache case in place of a rifle, and the old homestead in most cases has shrunk to a small apartment, mom had to be "liberated" all over again before she could take her place alongside dad in the labor market.

Men invented the washing machine, frozen foods and gadgets of every kind so that the housewive doesn't even have to peel a radish. They gave her hours of leisure time but many men objected when she wanted to use them gainfully. And all marital ills were laid at the feet of the working mother.

Today, according to government sources, 25 million women work. Most of them are married and only about 2¼ million work because they need the money.

How are they really making out? What effect has the working wife had on family values?

"In most cases, family relations have improved because the wife works," says Saul Scheidlinger, group therapy consultant at Community Services Society, who in his work at CSS devotes his time and talents to solving family problems.

"When a wife works," he said "marriage has more give and take. The family is interactive as a group. There are no set rules for mom and dad and this flexibility promotes greater communication. The working mother finds it impossible to run her home without family participation and this gives her children a chance to feel effective."

According to Helen Olson, case supervisor of social workers at CSS, when a competent person is chosen to take over the mother role during mom's working hours, no harm is done to the child.

Often the blame for broken homes is placed on the wife who works. "Not fair," says Scheidlinger. "In fact, conflict between career and home is only a disguise for deeper conflicts that would eventually show up whether or not the wife was employed."

Price Tag Is No Indication Of Food Value

It probably comes as no surprise to you that ground beef is the meat item we most frequently buy.

Also, it is good to know that this popular meat contains the same valuable nutrients, the high quality protein, B vitamins as well as essential minerals that are in a steak or a beef standing rib roast. Price tag is not an indication of nutritive value.

Reba Staggs, noted meat authority, suggests that when buying ground beef plan to use it within a day or two after purchase. Otherwise, shape the meat into patties or divide into amounts for meat loaves or other dishes. Wrap meat closely and seal tightly in moisture-vapor-proof material. Freeze quickly and store at 0 degrees Fahrenheit or lower.

Here's an excellent beef loaf recipe to add to your file. Canned mushrooms and dehydrated onion soup are added to the beef mixture for an outstanding blend of flavors.

Not only is meat loaf a perfect dinner entree, the tender juicy slices make good sandwich filling for early spring outings. What could be more carefree than a do-it-yourself picnic? The meat loaf could be baked the day before and chilled. At picnic time, let the family and friends build their own sandwiches.

Beef-Mushroom Loaf

- 2 pounds ground beef
- ¾ cup milk
- 1½ cups soft bread crumbs
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1 package (1½ ounces) dehydrated onion soup
- 1 can (4 ounces) mushrooms, stems and pieces
- ¼ cup catchup
- 2 eggs, beaten

Pour milk over bread crumbs. Add ground beef, salt, pepper, soup mix, mushrooms and liquid catchup and eggs. Mix thoroughly. Pack into a 9 x 5-inch loaf pan. Bake in a slow oven (300 degree to 325 degrees Fahrenheit) for 1½ to 1¾ hours or until done. 8 servings.

Price Tag Is No Indication Of Food Value

It probably comes as no surprise to you that ground beef is the meat item we most frequently buy.

Also, it is good to know that this popular meat contains the same valuable nutrients, the high quality protein, B vitamins as well as essential minerals that are in a steak or a beef standing rib roast. Price tag is not an indication of nutritive value.

Reba Staggs, noted meat authority, suggests that when buying ground beef plan to use it within a day or two after purchase. Otherwise, shape the meat into patties or divide into amounts for meat loaves or other dishes. Wrap meat closely and seal tightly in moisture-vapor-proof material. Freeze quickly and store at 0 degrees Fahrenheit or lower.

Here's an excellent beef loaf recipe to add to your file. Canned mushrooms and dehydrated onion soup are added to the beef mixture for an outstanding blend of flavors.

Not only is meat loaf a perfect dinner entree, the tender juicy slices make good sandwich filling for early spring outings. What could be more carefree than a do-it-yourself picnic? The meat loaf could be baked the day before and chilled. At picnic time, let the family and friends build their own sandwiches.

Beef-Mushroom Loaf

2 pounds ground beef
¾ cup milk
1½ cups soft bread crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 package (1½ ounces) dehydrated onion soup
1 can (4 ounces) mushrooms, stems and pieces
¼ cup catchup
2 eggs, beaten

Pour milk over bread crumbs. Add ground beef, salt, pepper, soup mix, mushrooms and liquid catchup and eggs. Mix thoroughly. Pack into a 9 x 5-inch loaf pan. Bake in a slow oven (300 degree to 325 degrees Fahrenheit) for 1½ to 1¾ hours or until done. 8 servings.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Our church has cut strips of carpet to fit the bottom of the hymn book racks. It's marvelous!

Now no more clunk, clunk during the final, "Amen." — Faithful Reader

Dear Folks:

Now isn't this a wonderful idea?

We all have little strips of leftover carpeting around the house.

Why not donate it to your church?

Be sweet enough to take along your scissors and a pencil. Measure the holder, turn the carpet over, draw a line the correct size on the back of it, and cut away.

I am sure that any minister would appreciate your donation of time, and the thought behind it.

And another idea just occurred to me: If you have any bit of carpet left, why not put a dab of it in the bottom of your own magazine rack? Not only would it catch the dust—it can be taken out and vacuumed when you vacuum your rug—but would keep the bottom of those magazines from fraying. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Before I do my weekly marketing, I get all the small dishes of leftover vegetables, bits of scallions, celery and tops, and make soup.

I add some canned tomatoes, a bit of thyme and a can of minced clams and have the most delicious clam chowder . . . plus making space for the vegetables I am going to bring home from the market.

So I suggest cleaning your refrigerator "before" going to the store and start making soup while cleaning. . . —Irene

Dear Heloise:

Don't throw away the empty roll-on deodorant bottles. Wash all parts and fill (as directed below); then snap roller assembly in place and put the cap back on, labeling each bottle with a marker.

Fill one bottle with hand lotion to keep at your bedside. Fill another and keep it in the car.

In the nursery these bottles are wonderful for baby oil.

Also mercurochrome or other disinfectants roll over small cuts and abrasions and get the medicine on the desired surface . . . not on the floor or clothes. Neither do the bottles jab the sore spot and the children can use it without help. —Mrs. Edward Strella

Dear Heloise:

I buy odds and ends of artificial flowers and leaves (any size or shape) for a small price when they are tossed in the bin at the dime store.

In the fall I spray them and also some dried weeds with spray paint. (They look like nothing as is, but, like me, a coat of paint does wonders!)

You will be surprised what a lovely flower arrangement you can make. —Mrs. Frank Humphrey

Dear Heloise:

When I had trouble with shirts tangling in the automatic washer, I decided to do something about it. Here's my solution.

Before putting the shirts into the washer, I button the sleeves together on each shirt. Now they come out untangled.

After I hang them on the line I unbutton the sleeves.

Opening lead: Five of ♠ South managed to bring in his vulnerable slam despite the best efforts of an alert defender.

North's hand is worth 18 points in support of spades, and is an eyelash short of the requirements for an immediate jump shift. Instead, he waged an indirect campaign by making simple forcing bids in hearts and clubs and then, over South's three diamond call, North gave a jump preference in spades. This procedure not only shows a strong hand but his diamond on the established promises a singleton in the fourth suit. It now became routine for South to bid the slam.

In an effort to cut down the dummy's ruffing power, West opened a spade and East continued the suit. This was the most effective defense for, in the absence of a trump lead, declarer can ruff out two diamonds and discard the third one on the ace of hearts. As matters stood, South was restricted to a single diamond ruff, and he was obliged to find some other way to dispose of the other diamond loser.

The second trick was taken by dummy's jack of spades and a diamond was discarded on the ace of hearts. A small heart was trumped in the closed hand, the ace of diamonds was cashed, and a diamond ruffed with North's last spade. Another heart was ruffed and the jack fell from West's hand.

Declarer observed that he had two prospects for developing a diamond discard. In the adverse clubs were divided three-three, dummy's fourth club would become a winner. Or, South could try to establish North's queen of hearts as a trick by ruffing out the king. This latter objective could be accomplished by trumping one more heart if declarer thought the suit was divided four-four or, if he decided to play East for both of the remaining hearts, he could take a ruffing finesse through the latter since dummy's queen and ten were now equals.

So that he might test both prospects without committing himself irrevocably, he played the king and then another club to the ace. When East showed out on the second round, the club suit had to be abandoned. However, the bad split in clubs provided declarer with an indication of how to handle the hearts.

Since East showed up with only one club while West had five, South resolved to play East for both of the missing hearts. He led North's queen and, when it was not covered, he discarded his last diamond. The queen of hearts held the trick and the slam was home.

If East had covered with the king, South would have ruffed, reentered dummy with the queen of clubs, and discarded

New Casserole Idea for Frankfurters

For years youngsters and adults alike have sung the praises of frankfurters. There's just nothing like a frankfurter roasted over an open fire and popped into a bun!

Here's a new indoor cookery idea. It's a Frankfurter-potato Combo. Hearty chunks of franks are combined with sliced potatoes in a zesty cheese sauce and baked. It's a thrifty, delicious dish to set before your family some night soon.

Actually frankfurters are completely cooked and ready to eat when you purchase them, states meat expert Reba Staggs. They need only to be heated through to serve hot.

By adding a little thought and imagination, thrifty meals can be exciting meals. Frankfurter-Potato Combo is one such choice, and your family will never guess they are eating on a "shoe - string" budget.

Actually frankfurters take on new dignity as they come to the dinner table in an attractive casserole dish. To mention a few, try frankfurter slices baked with spaghetti in tomato sauce. Spanish rice, baked beans, creamed noodles or caraway sauerkraut. Any way that you prepare this versatile "ready-to-serve" meat, it makes for good eating.

Frankfurter-Potato Combo

1 pound frankfurters
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1¼ cups milk
½ cup grated Swiss cheese
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
2 cups sliced potatoes, cooked and seasoned
2 tablespoons cornflake crumbs

Brown onion lightly in butter or margarine. Stir in flour. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add grated cheese, salt, pepper and garlic salt. Cook until cheese is melted. Cut frankfurters diagonally into bite-size pieces. Fold frankfurter pieces and potatoes into cheese sauce. Pour into a 1½-quart casserole. Top with cornflake crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 30 minutes. 4 to 6 servings.

Alpha Phis Hold Formal Banquet During Convention

Alpha Phis attending the 45th Biennial International Convention in Colorado Springs at the Broadmoor were given a free showing of the United Artist Movie, "One Man's Ways," Wednesday night in the hotel theatre. The show was shown through the courtesy of the Westland Theatres, Inc. and is based on the life of Norman Vincent Peale, the well-known religious leader, and shows scenes of his courtship of Mrs. Peale, the former Ruth Stafford, an Alpha Phi at Syracuse University at the time. Dr. and Mrs. Peale both claimed that the recreation of the Alpha Phi house at Syracuse in the 1920s is so realistic that it made them feel as if time had been turned back when they saw it.

Alpha Phi was the first women's fraternity to own and occupy a chapter house and it was this house on the Syracuse campus where Alpha Phi was founded in 1872 that was copied for the movie. The house was dismantled only within the last five years with due ceremony by the University. Several colored windows and other mementoes were incorporated into the executive building of Alpha Phi in Evanston, Illinois at that time.

FAIR SOLVES RE-ENTRY PROBLEM

NEW YORK (UPI) — Visitors to the New York World's Fair who want to take time out for a ball game at nearby Shea Stadium, visit their yacht at the Fair's Marina or dine and dance for a shower and a change of clothes, can return to the Fair the same day without paying an additional admission charge.

The visitor tells the guard at any of the eight gates he intends to return later. The guard then stamps the visitor's palm or the back of the hand. A new stamp is used each day. The visitor can enter the Fair at any gate with an invisible stamp—that is except when sold under an unrevealed date which the guard reenters. The visitor is warned not to wash the stamp off and wears it in about 12 hours.

North's hand is worth 18 points in support of spades, and is an eyelash short of the requirements for an immediate jump shift. Instead, he waged an indirect campaign by making simple forcing bids in hearts and clubs and then, over South's three diamond call, North gave a jump preference in spades. This procedure not only shows a strong hand but his diamond on the established promises a singleton in the ten of hearts.

fourth suit. It now became routine for South to bid the slam.

In an effort to cut down the dummy's ruffing power, West opened a spade and East continued the suit. This was the most effective defense for, in the absence of a trump lead, declarer can ruff out two diamonds and discard the third one on the ace of hearts. As matters stood, South was restricted to a single diamond ruff, and he was obliged to find some other way to dispose of the other diamond loser.

The second trick was taken by dummy's jack of spades and a diamond was discarded on the ace of hearts. A small heart was trumped in the closed hand, the ace of diamonds was cashed, and a diamond ruffed with North's last spade. Another heart was ruffed and the jack fell from West's hand.

Declarer observed that he had two prospects for developing a diamond discard. In the adverse clubs were divided three-three, dummy's fourth club would become a winner. Or, South could try to establish North's queen of hearts as a trick by ruffing out the king. This latter objective could be accomplished by trumping one more heart if declarer thought the suit was divided four-four or, if he decided to play East for both of the remaining hearts, he could take a ruffing finesse through the latter since dummy's queen and ten were now equals.

So that he might test both prospects without committing himself irrevocably, he played the king and then another club to the ace. When East showed out on the second round, the club suit had to be abandoned. However, the bad split in clubs provided declarer with an indication of how to handle the hearts.

Since East showed up with only one club while West had five, South resolved to play East for both of the missing hearts. He led North's queen and, when it was not covered, he discarded his last diamond. The queen of hearts held the trick and the slam was home.

If East had covered with the king, South would have ruffed, reentered dummy with the queen of clubs, and discarded his diamond on the established ten of hearts.

Alpha Phis Hold Formal Banquet During Convention

Alpha Phis attending the 45th Biennial International Convention in Colorado Springs at the Broadmoor were given a free showing of the United Artist Movie, "One Man's Ways," Wednesday night in the hotel theatre. The show was shown through the courtesy of the Westland Theatres, Inc. and is based on the life of Norman Vincent Peale, the well-known religious leader, and shows scenes of his courtship of Mrs. Peale, the former Ruth Stafford, an Alpha Phi at Syracuse University at the time. Dr. and Mrs. Peale both claimed that the recreation of the Alpha Phi house at Syracuse in the 1920s is so realistic that it made them feel as if time had been turned back when they saw it.

Alpha Phi was the first women's fraternity to own and occupy a chapter house and it was this house on the Syracuse campus where Alpha Phi was founded in 1872 that was copied for the movie. The house was dismantled only within the last five years with due ceremony by the University. Several colored windows and other mementoes were incorporated into the executive building of Alpha Phi in Evanston, Illinois at that time.

FAIR SOLVES RE-ENTRY PROBLEM

NEW YORK (UPI) — Visitors to the New York World's Fair who want to take time out for a ball game at neighboring Shea Stadium, visit their yacht at the Fair's Marina or go home for a shower and a change of clothes, can return to the Fair the same day without paying an additional admission charge.

The visitor tells the guard at any of the eight gates he intends to return later. The guard then stamps the visitor's palm, heel of the hand, back of the hand or one side of the wrist with an invisible dye—invisible, that is, except when held under an ultraviolet light when the visitor re-enters. The dye is harmless to the skin and cloth- ing and wears off in about 12 hours.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Our church has cut strips of carpet to fit the bottom of the hymn book racks. It's marvelous!

Dear Folks:

Now isn't this a wonderful idea?

We all have little strips of leftover carpeting around the house.

Why not donate it to your church?

Be sweet enough to take along your scissors and a pencil. Measure the holder, turn the carpet over, draw a line the correct size on the back of it, and cut away. . .

I am sure that any minister would appreciate your donation of time, and the thought behind it.

And another idea just occurred to me: If you have any bit of carpet left, why not put a dab of it in the bottom of your own magazine rack? Not only would it catch the dust (it can be taken out and vacuumed when you vacuum your rug), but would keep the bottom of those magazines from fraying —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Before I do my weekly marketing, I get all the small dishes of leftover vegetables, bits of scallions, celery and tops, and make soup.

I add some canned tomatoes, a bit of thyme and a can of minced clams and have the most delicious clam chowder . . . plus making space for the vegetables I am going to bring home from the market.

So I suggest cleaning your refrigerator "before" going to the store and start making soup while cleaning. . . —Irene

Dear Heloise:

Don't throw away the empty roll-on deodorant bottles. Wash all parts and fill (as directed below); then snap roller assembly in place and put the cap back on, labeling each bottle with a marker.

Fill one bottle with hand lotion to keep at your bedside. Fill another and keep it in the car.

In the nursery these bottles are wonderful for baby oil.

Also mercurochrome or other disinfectants roll over small cuts and abrasions and get the medicine on the desired surface . . . not on the floor or clothes. Neither do the bottles jab the sore spot and the children can use it without help. —Mrs. Edward Strella

Dear Heloise:

I buy odds and ends of artificial flowers and leaves (any size or shape) for a small price when they are tossed in the bin at the dime store.

In the fall I spray them and also some dried weeds with spray paint. (They look like nothing as is, but, like me, a coat of paint does wonders!)

You will be surprised what a lovely flower arrangement you can make. —Mrs. Frank Humphrey

Dear Heloise:

When I had trouble with shirts tangling in the automatic washer, I decided to do something about it. Here's my solution:

Before putting the shirts into the washer, I button the sleeves together on each shirt. Now they come out untangled.

After I hang them on the line I unbutton the sleeves.

No more Monday blues! — Pinkie

Lamb Follow-Up Wise Use for Sunday Roast

Planned meat leftovers can be a wise investment. Next time why not purchase a leg of lamb or other lamb roast large enough for two meals. This will enable you to prepare this savory "Lamb Follow-Up" entree.

The cooked lamb is diced, then combined with cooked noodles and dressed with a tomato sauce. It's seasoned with caraway and garlic and baked for 30 minutes in a moderate oven to make a perfect follow-up dish for Sunday's roast.

Meat authority Reba Staggs says that proper cooking is important for juicy, tender cooked meats. The secret for roasting a perfect leg of lamb is to use a slow oven, 300 to 325 F.

Wrap leftover meat closely and store in the coldest part of the refrigerator or in the area designed for meat storage.

Lamb Follow-Up

2 cups diced cooked lamb
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed tomato soup
¼ cup water
½ teaspoon caraway seed
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups cooked noodles
4 green pepper rings, cut ⅛ inch thick
¼ cup grated American cheese

Mix together soup and water. Add lamb, caraway seed, garlic salt, salt and noodles, pour into a greased 1½-quart casserole. Place green pepper rings on top and sprinkle with cheese. Bake in moderate oven (350 F.) 30 minutes. 6 servings.

BILL APPROVED

WASHINGTON (UPI)— A public works appropriations bill which included nearly $24 million in funds for Colorado received House approval Tuesday. ## Cook's Tour

By JEANNE LESEM
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—A bride's pots and pans merit the same careful selection she gives her trousseau. They'll be used a lot longer and make cooking easier.

But how does an inexperienced cook discover the cookwear best suited to her needs from the bewilderingly large choice of designs, materials and sizes now available? Some guidelines and suggestions follow from the Committee of Stainless Steel Producers and two major manufacturers, Wear-Ever Aluminum, Inc., and Corning Glass Works.

Some basic utensils and their uses—a ⅝ or a 1 quart pan or a 7-inch covered fry pan is useful for melting butter or chocolate and heating small amounts of liquid or leftovers; the fry pan also will cook an egg or two, a single chop or a small steak. A 1, 1½ or 1¾ quart covered pan is best for cooking small whole vegetables, packaged frozen ones, diced or cubed ones, fruits, sauces and packaged puddings.

A 2 or 2½ quart covered pan is needed for bulky whole vegetables and fruit, such as potatoes or peaches. If you use this size for cooking small quantities, add extra liquid so that the pan surface remains covered, and doesn't burn.

For dried foods, such as beans and pasta, and for large quantities of fruit and vegetables, a 3½ quart covered pan is useful; for soups, stews, chowders, canning and preserving, a 5 or 6 quart covered pan or some types of casseroles, such as enameled iron. In covered fry pans, a 9-inch size can be used both for pan broiling and frying and for cooking broccoli, asparagus and corn on the cob; the 10-inch or larger size, for pan broiling, frying and sauteed dishes.

Each type of pan material has special qualities. Copper, which must be lined to prevent corrosion, is the best heat conductor, but needs special care to keep it shiny. Aluminum, the second fastest heat conductor, will pit or discolor if not cleaned and dried regularly. Stainless steel, often clad with copper or aluminum for faster heating, is durable, and doesn't rust, pit, stain or tarnish.

Copper-clad or aluminum-clad cookwear also is fairly lightweight for easy handling, but heavy enough to resist denting.

Cast iron also is durable, heats evenly and holds heat well, but is heavy and porous and needs special care to avoid rusting, unless it is coated with porcelain enamel. Enamel, which also may be fused to aluminum or steel, is non-porous and cleans easily, but chips if carelessly handled, and cannot be used on electric ranges because it will fuse to the burner if the heat is too high.

Fired clay, such as china, stoneware and earthenware, and — like glass — is breakable, but all make handsome cook-and-serve utensils, especially for oven dishes.

Glass - ceramic serves the same purposes and is, additionally, guaranteed against breakage from temperature changes, so that it can go directly from freezer to stove-top or oven to table, but it is heavier than most metals. Small glass-ceramic pans, such as the 5-inch shallow ones, can serve as fry pans, individual casseroles or soup dishes.

Double boilers have several uses, if the top unit is heavy enough for placing on direct heat, and if its surface is flat enough to sit securely on a burner without tipping. The upper unit that has slightly rounded sides also will use heat well, and can serve as a small mixing bowl or an ice bucket. For the latter use, line it with foil to create air pockets that will make the ice resist melting.

Make sure that lids fit tightly to lessen evaporation of liquids.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

It Should Never Happen!

DEAR ABBY: Last night I received a call from the mother of a 15-year-old girl. She said our 14-year-old son gave her daughter a black eye and a split lip. I was shocked and told my husband, who then gave our son a good beating. I have seen the girl, and she is a good six inches taller than our son and at least 30 pounds heavier, so it was not a very fair match. Our boy said this girl started calling him names and, when he ignored her, she started hitting and kicking him. He said he didn't want to fight her, but he wasn't going to stand there and let her beat him up, so he hit her in self-defense. Do you think our boy was wrong? What was he supposed to do? —MRS. M.

DEAR MRS. M.: Under NO circumstances should a boy ever hit a girl. Being 30 pounds lighter, he could have easily left her a half block behind.

DEAR ABBY: My husband got a Mexican divorce four months ago, or at least he claims he did. He has now remarried and is living in California. I did not sign any divorce papers. In fact, I didn't even see any. I didn't have a lawyer represent me in Mexico and I have it on good authority that my husband was never in Mexico. He got this divorce by proxy or something like that. Is he legally divorced from me? And if he isn't, how can he be legally married to somebody else? Am I a bigamist? —BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: If your husband married another woman while he was still legally married to you, HE is the bigamist, not YOU. See a lawyer and find out where you stand.

DEAR ABBY: Why do people think they are doing a friend a favor when they go in gangs to visit them in a hospital? My sister recently had a baby and six of her friends came at exactly two p.m. and they stayed the full two-hour visiting time. When more came, nobody left—they just crowded in, sitting all over the bed and the window sill. They laughed and talked among themselves and made a regular party out of it. When nighttime came, my poor sister was so exhausted she had to have a hypo to put her to sleep. Whose fault is this? I say the nurses should not allow visitors to wear the patients out. —BURNED UP

---

DEAR BURNED: Nurses cannot police every room. Most hospitals have rules limiting the number of visitors each patient may have, and how long they may stay. Furthermore, surely a friend would not take offense if the patient, on becoming tired, frankly told her guests she wanted to nap a bit.

New System May Save Submarine in Trouble

REDLANDS, Calif. (AP) — The Navy has awarded a $4.2-million contract for development of a system engineers say might have saved the ill-fated submarine Thresher.

The plan calls for installing solid-propellant rocket engines in submarine ballast tanks to expel water quickly during a deep-sea emergency.

The Thresher went down off New England April 10, 1963, with all 129 aboard, during a deep-test dive. What happened hasn't been determined, but experts said the Thresher couldn't exhaust water ballast swiftly enough with the normal compressed air system to halt the dive.

Lockheed Propulsion Co. of Redlands, which was awarded the contract Wednesday, said as many as 16 of the engines, would be installed in a sub of the Thresher class. They would be triggered from the control room.

Lamb Follow-Up Wise Use for Sunday Roast

Planned meat leftovers can be a wise investment. Next time why not purchase a leg of lamb or other lamb roast large enough for two meals. This will enable you to prepare this savory "Lamb Follow-Up" entree.

The cooked lamb is diced, then combined with cooked noodles and dressed with a tomato sauce. It's seasoned with caraway and garlic and baked for 30 minutes in a moderate oven to make a perfect follow-up dish for Sunday's roast.

Meat authority Reba Staggs says that proper cooking is important for juicy, tender cooked meats. The secret for roasting a perfect leg of lamb is to use a slow oven, 300 to 325 F.

Wrap leftover meat closely and store in the coldest part of the refrigerator or in the area designed for meat storage.

Lamb Follow-Up

2 cups diced cooked lamb
1 can (10½) ounces) condensed tomato soup
¼ cup water
½ teaspoon caraway seed
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups cooked noodles
4 green pepper rings, cut ⅛ inch thick
¼ cup grated American cheese

Mix together soup and water. Add lamb, caraway seed, garlic salt, salt and noodles. pour into a greased 1½-quart casserole Place green pepper rings on top and sprinkle with cheese. Bake in moderate oven (350 F.) 30 minutes. 6 servings.

Cook's Tour

By JEANNE LESEM
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—A bride's pots and pans merit the same careful selection she gives her trousseau. They'll be used a lot longer and make cooking easier.

But how does an inexperienced cook discover the cookwear best suited to her needs from the bewilderingly large choice of designs, materials and sizes now available? Some guidelines and suggestions follow from the Committee of Stainless Steel Producers and two major manufacturers, Wear-Ever Aluminum, Inc., and Corning Glass Works.

Some basic utensils and their uses—a ⅝ or a 1 quart pan or a 7-inch covered fry pan is useful for melting butter or chocolate and heating small amounts of liquid or leftovers; the fry pan also will cook an egg or two a single chop or a small steak. A 1, 1½ or 1¾ quart covered pan is best for cooking small whole vegetables, packaged frozen ones, diced or cubed ones, fruits, sauces and packaged puddings.

A 2 or 2½ quart covered pan is needed for bulky whole vegetables and fruit, such as potatoes or peaches. If you use this size for cooking small quantities, add extra liquid so that the pan surface remains covered, and doesn't burn.

For dried foods, such as beans and pasta, and for large quantities of fruit and vegetables, a 3½ quart covered pan is useful; for soups, stews, chowders, canning and preserving, a 5 or 6 quart covered pan or some types of casseroles, such as enameled iron. In covered fry pans, a 9-inch size can be used both for pan broiling and frying and for cooking broccoli, asparagus and corn on the cob; the 10-inch or larger size, for pan broiling, frying and sauteed dishes.

Each type of pan material has special qualities. Copper, which must be lined to prevent corrosion, is the best heat conductor, but needs special care to keep it shiny. Aluminum, the second fastest heat conductor, will pit or discolor if not cleaned and dried regularly. Stainless steel, often clad with copper or aluminum for faster heating, is durable, and doesn't rust, pit, stain or tarnish.

Copper-clad or aluminum-clad cookwear also is fairly lightweight for easy handling, but heavy enough to resist denting.

Cast iron also is durable, heats evenly and holds heat well, but is heavy and porous and needs special care to avoid rusting, unless it is coated with porcelain enamel. Enamel, which also may be fused to aluminum or steel, is non-porous and cleans easily, but chips if carelessly handled, and cannot be used on electric ranges because it will fuse to the burner if the heat is too high.

Fired clay, such as china, stoneware and earthenware, and — like glass — is breakable, but all make handsome cook-and-serve utensils, especially for oven dishes.

Glass - ceramic serves the same purposes and is, additionally, guaranteed against breakage from temperature changes, so that it can go directly from freezer to stove-top or oven to table, but it is heavier than most metals. Small glass-ceramic pans, such as the 5-inch shallow ones, can serve as fry pans, individual casseroles or soup dishes.

Double boilers have several uses, if the top unit is heavy enough for placing on direct heat, and if its surface is flat enough to sit securely on a burner without tipping. The upper unit that has slightly rounded sides also will use heat well, and can serve as a small mixing bowl or an ice bucket. For the latter use, line it with foil to create air pockets that will make the ice resist melting.

Make sure that lids fit tightly to lessen evaporation of liquids.

It Should Never Happen!

DEAR ABBY: Last night I received a call from the mother of a 15-year-old girl. She said our 14-year-old son gave her daughter a black eye and a split lip. # Bridal Chapels Give Reno New Reputation, Problems

By CARL N. INGRAM

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — The image of a divorcee casting her wedding ring into the Truckee River has given way to one of a bride darting from a neon lighted marriage chapel.

Reno, long called the "divorce capital of the world," has become also the center of a multi-million dollar industry at the opposite end of the spectrum.

In fact, marriage licenses outnumber divorce decrees five to one. But the around-the-clock marriage industry is not overflowing with bliss.

For the organized clergy has accused wedding chapel operators of "degrading and commercializing the marriage rite." The operators, most themselves ministers, reply that denominational preachers are angry "because they feel we are cashing in on something."

Chapels dot Reno. They offer 24-hour non-denominational services with plastic bridal bouquets for those who don't want fresh flowers, piped-in music, limousine service and witnesses. The standard minimum is $15.

Why Reno? Because it is easy to obtain a marriage license—no blood tests or waiting period. It's uncomplicated by red tape and inexpensive. the justice of the peace is across the street from the license bureau, or two blocks away there's a wedding chapel.

The bureau issued 23,361 marriage licenses last year. The courts granted 4,366 divorces and the ratio has been climbing steadily for almost 10 years.

But there is a three-way battle over matrimony. The chapel operators don't like the Washoe County Ministerial Association, they don't like each other, and the clergy opposes the chapels.

"We try to stay away from commercializing it," said the Rev. George Flint, the full-time minister of one chapel. "But there's as much cut-throat business among wedding chapels as there is in any other business in this city."

"Chapels feel misunderstood because many denominational churches frown upon the necessary need to charge a definite fee," he said. "Or because they feel we are cashing in one something that is here."

But the Rev. Eugene Duncan, president of the ministerial association, charged that "some of their setups are nothing but front organizations and very questionable."

"We are not a bit concerned about the money. None of our churches are depending on marriage money for their operation anyway," Duncan said.

He explained that under Nevada law, a wedding chapel must operate with an ordained minister and qualify as a religious organization with a three-member board of directors. Duncan said that a group may organize, hire a non-denominational minister or ordain a minister itself and go into the wedding chapel business.

Duncan said the association in 1948 adopted a code of ethics in which members agreed they "would not be a party to the commercialization of marriage."

The code prohibits members from officiating at marriages in chapels, hotels and motels.

Duncan said the private chapels "often are nothing but a front organization that met the requirements of the law. There is no way the government can control it because of the separation of church and state."

"The churches are antagonistic toward us because their ministers are tip conscious," said an operator of one of Reno's largest chapels. "Many churches are also too busy and they can't handle the people. Some have a three-day waiting period and that isn't going to suit someone who comes from California, Oregon or Washington for a weekend."

The manager of one of the first chapels, Joe Melcher Jr., insists that "Reno is a town that caters to tourists and just like everybody else, we like to make them feel at home and give them good service."

Everybody agrees the nutial industry is just about as competition for couples as the gambling casinos are for players. It's lucrative for the motels and hotels, restaurants and even the justice of the peace. His monthly salary is $260, but his annual income is reputed to pass the $50,000 a year mark. At election time there are more candidates for his job than any other on the ballot.

Every chapel is prepared for almost any expected or unexpected wedding variation. When florists close on Sundays, the chapels are equipped with their own fresh flowers. The artificial ones, called "everlasting bouquets," are for services late at night. Some sell colored photographs taken by the minister after the ceremony. Many supply free wedding counseling and parking.

'Hot' Wash Comes Clean Scientific Way

By ROBERT E. HUBER

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — Workers in one laundry in Santa Fe use Geiger counters to sort clothing and wear protective suits looking like a prop from a television space show.

That's because the laundry specializes in cleaning radioactive garments from nearby Los Alamos Scientific Laboratories, birthplace of the atom bomb.

The building at the Interstate Industrial Laundry has been designed especially to handle both nuclear laundry and regular industrial garments. It has two separate departments. The sections are divided by a solid wall with only one door between. That door is guarded at all times.

The laundry is one of seven "atomic laundries" in the nation. Interstate has other plants in Springfield, Mass., and Jeannette, Pa.

Workers at the laundry undergo a unique routine in cleaning the Los Alamos clothing. Garments which are placed inside marked laundry bags and then sealed inside wooden boxes are sorted with Geiger counters first. Really "hot" items are returned to Los Alamos to be buried. Workers must shower before going home after work.

Garments at the laundry are washed much the same as at any laundry, but the air and water used in the building is specially filtered to keep radioactive lint, dust and minute particles from reaching the outside. The firm keeps a $1 million insurance policy as protection against failure.

All radioactive wastes from the various air and water filters are placed in steel drums, monitored, sealed, labeled and buried near Los Alamos. Water is discharged into a concrete trough, passed through filters and emptied into a 15,000-gallon tank for dilution.

After testing, the water passes through three more tanks for more dilution. Finally, it is dumped into the sewer when it is less radioactive than the outside air.

The laundry has an accident-free record. It is another example of modern technology—even on washday.

Right Job, Wrong Place, Painter Finds

GAFFNEY, S.C. (AP)—When painting contractor W. H. Dorman Jr. and his men arrived to paint the home of Mrs. Margaret Love she wasn't at home, so the men went ahead and applied the first coat of paint.

When the first coat was on, the painters found they had painted the house belonging to Mrs. Love's neighbor. Their next coat of paint was applied to the right house.

Pollen, Plants Cause Itch

They stem from poison ivy, hay fever and other allergies.

The most common, poison ivy, is estimated to be a potential vacation hazard for four out of five Americans.

To avoid this summer plague learn to recognize the characteristic three leaf pattern of poison ivy. When you see the creeping plants, head the other way.

If, after being careful to avoid the stuff, you come down with a rip-roarin' case, check the dog. He may have romped through a bed of the poisonous plants and got his coat covered with the plant oil. The oil causes the allergic reaction.

Consult your doctor for cure or prevention. In recent years, a poison ivy pill has been used to help build up immunity to the ivy poisoning.

Sufferers of another summer allergy, hay fever, feel theirs is the worst. Unfortunately, there is no easy way to avoid its cause, unless you can afford inoculations, a summer - long ocean voyage, or a vacation in the mountainous or arctic country to avoid summer pollens causing the trouble.

Rapid, long-lasting relief from ragweed hay fever is obtained in some cases by using a new tablet—actually a tablet within a tablet.

The double - duty pill (Naidecon) contains two antihistamines and two decongestants. Simultaneously, according to medical reports, these shrink the swollen nasal passages and combat the allergic causes of the condition.

An increasing number of hay fever sufferers obtain season long relief by receiving immunizing innoculations from allergists who specialize in this field.

Each year more and more qualified allergists employ a technique pioneered by an intrepid woman doctor on the faculty of Cornell Medical College.

Dr. Mary H. Loveless, who developed the one-shot inoculation for ragweed pollen hay fever and, has taught her method and techniques to allergists from Athens to Denver, comes by the word intrepid honestly.

Her one shot for hay fever technique led also to means to immunize patients against potentially fatal bee, hornet and wasp stings. She uses pure venom as an inoculant.

Because there is no commercial supply of wasps and hornets available, Dr. Loveless captures a high percentage of the creatures she employs to maintain immunity in her patients who, lacking it, might go into fatal shock if stung.

You are a candidate for this inoculation treatment if you ever had a serious shock - type reaction to bee, wasp, or hornet sting or stings.

Exotic Dish For Hostess — Beef Curry

Many a hostess planning a buffet supper for friends wants something just a bit exotic to serve.

Here's a suggestion for that different and delicious dish — Beef Curry Deluxe. Cubes of boneless beef are braised with curry and a mingling of other spices and herbs, tart apple and raisins.

In the oriental manner it's served over a mound of fluffy white rice. Reba Staggs, home economist and meat expert, suggests chutney, finely chopped almonds and coconut might be served in separate bowls as accompaniment for the curry.

Beef Curry Deluxe

- 2 pounds boneless beef, cut in 1-inch cubes
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 3 whole cloves
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 1 large onion, thinly sliced
- 1 clove garlic
- 1 cup water
- 3 large tart apples (approximately 1 pound), cut in eighths
- 1 cup raisins

Cook rice if desired

Combine flour, salt and pepper. Dredge meat in seasoned flour. Brown meat in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add bay leaf, curry powder, cloves, sugar, onion, garlic and water. Cover tightly and cook slowly 2 hours. Add apple wedges and raisins and continue cooking 45 minutes. Discard bay leaf, cloves and garlic. Serve beef curry over cooked rice, if desired. 6 servings.

Chapels dot Reno. They offer 24-hour non-denominational services with plastic bridal bouquets for those who don't want fresh flowers, piped-in music, limousine service and witnesses. The standard minimum is $15.

Why Reno? Because it is easy to obtain a marriage license—no blood tests or waiting period. It's uncomplicated by red tape and inexpensive. the justice of the peace is across the street from the license bureau, or two blocks away there's a wedding chapel.

The bureau issued 23,361 marriage licenses last year. The courts granted 4,366 divorces and the ratio has been climbing steadily for almost 10 years.

But there is a three-way battle over matrimony. The chapel operators don't like the Washoe County Ministerial Association. they don't like each other, and the clergy opposes the chapels.

"We try to stay away from commercializing it," said the Rev. George Flint, the full-time minister of one chapel. "But there's as much cut-throat business among wedding chapels as there is in any other business in this city."

"Chapels feel misunderstood because many denominational churches frown upon the necessary need to charge a definite fee," he said. "Or because they feel we are cashing in one something that is here."

But the Rev. Eugene Duncan, president of the ministerial association, charged that "some of their setups are nothing but front organizations and very questionable."

"We are not a bit concerned about the money. None of our churches are depending on marriage money for their operation anyway," Duncan said.

He explained that under Nevada law, a wedding chapel must operate with an ordained minister and qualify as a religious organization with a three-member board of directors. Duncan said that a group may organize, hire a non-denominational minister or ordain a minister itself and go into the wedding chapel business.

Duncan said the association in 1948 adopted a code of ethics in which members agreed they "would not be a party to the commercialization of marriage."

The code prohibits members from officiating at marriages in chapels, hotels and motels.

Duncan said the private chapels "often are nothing but a front organization that met the requirements of the law. There is no way the government can control it because of the separation of church and state."

"The churches are antagonistic toward us because their ministers are tip conscious," said an operator of one of Reno's largest chapels. "Many churches are also too busy and they can't handle the people. Some have a three-day waiting period and that isn't going to suit someone who comes from California, Oregon or Washington for a weekend."

The manager of one of the first chapels, Joe Melcher Jr., insists that "Reno is a town that caters to tourists and just like everybody else, we like to make them feel at home and give them good service."

Everybody agrees the nutial industry is just about as competition for couples as the gambling casinos are for players. It's lucrative for the motels and hotels, restaurants and even the justice of the peace. His monthly salary is $260, but his annual income is reputed to pass the $50,000 a year mark. At election time there are more candidates for his job than any other on the ballot.

Every chapel is prepared for almost any expected or unexpected wedding variation. When florists close on Sundays, the chapels are equipped with their own fresh flowers. The artificial ones, called "everlasting bouquets," are for services late at night. Some sell colored photographs taken by the minister after the ceremony. Many supply free wedding counseling and parking.

Right Job, Wrong Place, Painter Finds

GAFFNEY, S.C. (AP)—When painting contractor W. H. Dorman Jr. and his men arrived to paint the home of Mrs. Margaret Love she wasn't at home, so the men went ahead and applied the first coat of paint.

When the first coat was on, the painters found they had painted the house belonging to Mrs. Love's neighbor. Their next coat of paint was applied to the right house.

'Hot' Wash Comes Clean Scientific Way

By ROBERT E. HUBER

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — Workers in one laundry in Santa Fe use Geiger counters to sort clothing and wear protective suits looking like a prop from a television space show.

That's because the laundry specializes in cleaning radioactive garments from nearby Los Alamos Scientific Laboratories, birthplace of the atom bomb.

The building at the Interstate Industrial Laundry has been designed especially to handle both nuclear laundry and regular industrial garments. It has two separate departments. The sections are divided by a solid wall with only one door between. That door is guarded at all times.

The laundry is one of seven "atomic laundries" in the nation. Interstate has other plants in Springfield, Mass., and Jeannette, Pa.

Workers at the laundry undergo a unique routine in cleaning the Los Alamos clothing. Garments which are placed inside marked laundry bags and then sealed inside wooden boxes are sorted with Geiger counters first. Really "hot" items are returned to Los Alamos to be buried. Workers must shower before going home after work.

Garments at the laundry are washed much the same as at any laundry, but the air and water used in the building is specially filtered to keep radioactive lint, dust and minute particles from reaching the outside. The firm keeps a $1 million insurance policy as protection against failure.

All radioactive wastes from the various air and water filters are placed in steel drums, monitored, sealed, labeled and buried near Los Alamos. Water is discharged into a concrete trough, passed through filters and emptied into a 15,000-gallon tank for dilution.

After testing, the water passes through three more tanks for more dilution. Finally, it is dumped into the sewer when it is less radioactive than the outside air.

The laundry has an accident-free record. It is another example of modern technology—even on washday.

Pollen, Plants Cause Itch

They stem from poison ivy, hay fever and other allergies.

The most common, poison ivy, is estimated to be a potential vacation hazard for four out of five Americans.

To avoid this summer plague learn to recognize the characteristic three leaf pattern of poison ivy. When you see the creeping plants, head the other way.

If, after being careful to avoid the stuff, you come down with a rip-roarin' case, check the dog. He may have romped through a bed of the poisonous plants and got his coat covered with the plant oil. The oil causes the allergic reaction.

Consult your doctor for cure or prevention. In recent years, a poison ivy pill has been used to help build up immunity to the ivy poisoning.

Sufferers of another summer allergy, hay fever, feel theirs is the worst. Unfortunately, there is no easy way to avoid its cause, unless you can afford inoculations, a summer - long ocean voyage, or a vacation in the mountainous or arctic country to avoid summer pollens causing the trouble.

Rapid, long-lasting relief from ragweed hay fever is obtained in some cases by using a new tablet—actually a tablet within a tablet.

The double - duty pill (Naldecon) contains two antihistamines and two decongestants. Simultaneously, according to medical reports, these shrink the swollen nasal passages and combat the allergic causes of the condition.

An increasing number of hay fever sufferers obtain season long relief by receiving immunizing innoculations from allergists who specialize in this field.

Each year more and more qualified allergists employ a technique pioneered by an intrepid woman doctor on the faculty of Cornell Medical College.

Dr. Mary H. Loveless, who developed the one-shot inoculation for ragweed pollen hay fever and, has taught her method and techniques to allergists from Athens to Denver, comes by the word intrepid honestly.

Her one shot for hay fever technique led also to means to immunize patients against potentially fatal bee, hornet and wasp stings. She uses pure venom as an inoculant.

Because there is no commercial supply of wasps and hornets available, Dr. Loveless captures a high percentage of the creatures she employs to maintain immunity in her patients who, lacking it, might go into fatal shock if stung.

You are a candidate for this inoculation treatment if you ever had a serious shock - type reaction to bee, wasp, or hornet sting or stings.

Exotic Dish For Hostess — Beef Curry

Many a hostess planning a buffet supper for friends wants something just a bit exotic to serve.

Here's a suggestion for that different and delicious dish — Beef Curry Deluxe. Cubes of boneless beef are braised with curry and a mingling of other spices and herbs, tart apple and raisins.

In the oriental manner it's served over a mound of fluffy white rice. Reba Staggs, home economist and meat expert, suggests chutney, finely chopped almonds and coconut might be served in separate bowls as accompaniment for the curry.

Beef Curry Deluxe

2 pounds boneless beef, cut in 1-inch cubes
3 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon curry powder
3 whole cloves
2 teaspoons sugar
1 large onion, thinly sliced
1 clove garlic
1 cup water
3 large tart apples (approximately 1 pound), cut in eighths
1 cup raisins
Cook rice if desired

Combine flour, salt and pepper. Dredge meat in seasoned flour. Brown meat in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add bay leaf, curry powder, cloves, sugar, onion, garlic and water. Cover tightly and cook slowly 2 hours. Add apple wedges and raisins and continue cooking 45 minutes. Discard bay leaf, cloves and garlic. Serve beef curry over cooked rice, if desired. 6 servings.

Woes on World's Fair Visit Dogs Michigan Family

NEW YORK (AP)—A Michigan judge, his wife and their four children — victims of the city's hotel room shortage — staged a sit-in in a private dining room of the Statler Hilton Hotel until they got the bedrooms for which the judge had made reservations April 1.

But the children have only one day to see the World's Fair. The family was tied up with the room problem yesterday, and they have to go back home tomorrow.

"They can say they're sorry but they can't give you back lost time," said Associate Judge John L. Kadela of the Municipal Court of Dearborn, Mich.

While the children were missing the fair, the judge was missing the regional traffic court conference of the American Bar Association being held at the Fordham School of Law.

His 10-year-old daughter, Janice, surveying the situation in general, said "It's crummy."

The judge, his Brooklyn-born wife and their two sons and two daughters—aged 8 to 18—arrived by auto Tuesday morning. They drove directly to the hotel.

When the judge went to the desk to get keys for the rooms he thought had been reserved, he was told about the critical hotel room shortage. The family would have to sleep in what normally is a private dining room.

They were given mattresses—some with box springs, and some just laid on the floor. That's how they spent Tuesday night.

The family were told Wednesday that they would have to move out of their makeshift quarters because an accountants association was going to meet in the private dining room.

Judge Kadela quickly overruled that idea. And he made his ruling stick. The family sat in, and the accountants met elsewhere.

The hotel staff finally found rooms for the family.

Tugboat Man Explains Crashing Into Bridge

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The helmsman of the tugboat Rebel Jr. says he fainted and apparently fell against a steering lever which drove the tug and its barges into the Lake Pontchartrain causeway.

The barges knocked out a 224-foot section of the 24-mile long bridge Tuesday and tumbled a bus into the water, killing six of the eight persons aboard.

Clifford Milley, 26, said Wednesday in an interview from his hospital bed he must have fallen on the lever after blacking out, turning the tug on its collision course in the pre-dawn hours. He was alone in the pilothouse.

Tug Capt. Ned Palmer, 40, testified at a Coast Guard inquiry that Milley had never complained of blackouts or dizzy spells.

He said he believed Milley, the first mate, was competent to pilot the tug alone.

Blazing Inferno Follows Quake in Japanese City

By AKIO OGAWA

NIIGATA, Japan (AP) — Flames from blazing oil storage tanks were being brought under control in Niigata today. Thousands were returning to homes they fled after Tuesday's devastating earthquake.

Firefighters said they hoped by tonight or Friday to be in control of the inferno the quake set off along the waterfront of the northern Japanese port, center of the domestic petroleum industry.

Ninety of Niigata's 300 big storage tanks were set afire, but by noon today the columns of black smoke were lightening as firetrucks poured foam extinguisher into the flames. Most of the foam was supplied by U.S. forces and was flown from Tokyo.

The people of Niigata, hardened to disaster like most Japanese began picking up the threads of their lives.

Thousands of uniformed men from the armed services joined local workers in clearing away debris and mending roads.

Tons of relief goods poured in. Donations came from abroad. The king and queen of Malaysia on a state visit to Japan, contributed $8,333.

The first of some 20,000 evacuees began returning to their homes, or to what was left of them. Low-lying areas were still flooded from the tidal wave that poured in from the Sea of Japan after the quake.

The national police reported 1,158 houses destroyed and 18,500 damaged by the quake, another 11,000 were flooded.

Although the quake was the strongest in Japan since the 1923 quake that took 143,000 lives in the Tokyo-Yokohama area, experts attributed the remarkably low loss of life to the fact that the quake hit after lunch, when cooking stoves were off and there were no residential fires.

The casualty toll was 25 dead and 11 missing although the damage was estimated at hundreds of millions of dollars.

The 1923 quake came a few minutes before noon, upsetting charcoal cookers then widely in use. Huge sections of Tokyo and Yokohama were razed, and most of the victims died in the flames.

FLOODS

Rusk Will Open Drive for U.S. Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk formally opens today the administration's drive for Senate passage of the $3.5 - billion foreign aid authorization bill.

Rusk appears before a closed session of the Foreign Relations Committee where opposition is spearheaded by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., who led the fight to slash the program in the Senate last year.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said he hoped for general approval of President Johnson's request which won House Acceptance June 10.

Morse served notice he will fight the program in the committee and on the Senate floor. His particular target is the funds for military aid to South Viet Nam. He charges U.S. troops have been sent illegally to that jungle war.

He told the Senate Wednesday the aid program is loaded with "unconscionable waste."

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara planned to talk today to some members of the committee. He had dates with Sens. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., and Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio.

Aiken said he understood McNamara wanted to talk about the $1,055,000,000 military assistance request.

Aiken predicted the authorization bill will be passed by the Senate "about the way it passed by the House," but that the program will be cut when Congress takes up a subsequent appropriations bill for which the foreign aid bill simply sets ceilings.

Woes on World's Fair Visit Dogs Michigan Family

NEW YORK (AP)—A Michigan judge, his wife and their four children — victims of the city's hotel room shortage — staged a sit-in in a private dining room of the Statler Hilton Hotel until they got the bedrooms for which the judge had made reservations April 1.

But the children have only one day to see the World's Fair. The family was tied up with the room problem yesterday, and they have to go back home tomorrow.

"They can say they're sorry but they can't give you back lost time," said Associate Judge John L. Kadela of the Municipal Court of Dearborn, Mich.

While the children were missing the fair, the judge was missing the regional traffic court conference of the American Bar Association being held at the Fordham School of Law.

His 10-year-old daughter, Janice, surveying the situation in general, said "It's crummy."

The judge, his Brooklyn-born wife and their two sons and two daughters—aged 8 to 18—arrived by auto Tuesday morning. They drove directly to the hotel.

When the judge went to the desk to get keys for the rooms he thought had been reserved, he was told about the critical hotel room shortage. The family would have to sleep in what normally is a private dining room.

They were given mattresses—some with box springs, and some just laid on the floor. That's how they spent Tuesday night.

The family were told Wednesday that they would have to move out of their makeshift quarters because an accountants association was going to meet in the private dining room.

Judge Kadela quickly overruled that idea. And he made his ruling stick. The family sat in, and the accountants met elsewhere.

The hotel staff finally found rooms for the family.

Tugboat Man Explains Crashing Into Bridge

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The helmsman of the tugboat Rebel Jr. says he fainted and apparently fell against a steering lever which drove the tug and its barges into the Lake Pontchartrain causeway.

The barges knocked out a 224-foot section of the 24-mile long bridge Tuesday and tumbled a bus into the water, killing six of the eight persons aboard.

Clifford Milley, 26, said Wednesday in an interview from his hospital bed he must have fallen on the lever after blacking out, turning the tug on its collision course in the pre-dawn hours. He was alone in the pilothouse.

Tug Capt. Ned Palmer, 40, testified at a Coast Guard inquiry that Milley had never complained of blackouts or dizzy spells.

He said he believed Milley, the first mate, was competent to pilot the tug alone.

Milley, under a doctor's care, did not appear at the inquiry.

PRINTERS STRIKE

ROME (UPI) — A printers' strike left Italy without newspapers Wednesday. The 24-hour walkout followed a breakdown in contract talks. The unions demanded 25 per cent more pay, and walked out when management offered only 2 per cent.

SUSTAINED SUPERIOR AWARD — Mrs. Mary Jane Evans receives a Sustained Superior Award citation from Col. Edward J. Stealy, DCS-Plans and Operations Officer. Mrs. Evans also received a $150 check for her consistently high degree of accuracy as a secretary within the DCS-P&O. The citation read that the production level of the office had been greatly improved by her performance in all aspects of her career assignment. (Air Force Photo)

Blazing Inferno Follows Quake in Japanese City

By AKIO OGAWA

NIIGATA, Japan (AP) — Flames from blazing oil storage tanks were being brought under control in Niigata today. Thousands were returning to homes they fled after Tuesday's devastating earthquake.

Firefighters said they hoped by tonight or Friday to be in control of the inferno the quake set off along the waterfront of the northern Japanese port, center of the domestic petroleum industry.

Ninety of Niigata's 300 big storage tanks were set afire, but by noon today the columns of black smoke were lightening as firetrucks poured foam extinguisher into the flames. Most of the foam was supplied by U.S. forces and was flown from Tokyo.

The people of Niigata, hardened to disaster like most Japanese began picking up the threads of their lives.

Thousands of uniformed men from the armed services joined local workers in clearing away debris and mending roads.

Tons of relief goods poured in. Donations came from abroad. The king and queen of Malaysia on a state visit to Japan, contributed $8,333.

The first of some 20,000 evacuees began returning to their homes, or to what was left of them. Low-lying areas were still flooded from the tidal wave that poured in from the Sea of Japan after the quake.

The national police reported 1,158 houses destroyed and 18,500 damaged by the quake, another 11,000 were flooded.

Although the quake was the strongest in Japan since the 1923 quake that took 143,000 lives in the Tokyo-Yokohama area, experts attributed the remarkably low loss of life to the fact that the quake hit after lunch, when cooking stoves were off and there were no residential fires.

The casualty toll was 25 dead and 11 missing although the damage was estimated at hundreds of millions of dollars.

The 1923 quake came a few minutes before noon, upsetting charcoal cookers then widely in use. Huge sections of Tokyo and Yokohama were razed, and most of the victims died in the flames.

FLOODS

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Floods continued to sweep through central and eastern Turkey today, and eight more dead were reported. The death toll attributed to the floods and lightning this week stands at 21, according to reports reaching Istanbul.

Rusk Will Open Drive for U.S. Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk formally opens today the administration's drive for Senate passage of the $3.5 - billion foreign aid authorization bill.

Rusk appears before a closed session of the Foreign Relations Committee where opposition, is spearheaded by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., who led the fight to slash the program in the Senate last year.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said he hoped for general approval of President Johnson's request which won House Acceptance June 10.

Morse served notice he will fight the program in the committee and on the Senate floor. His particular target is the funds for military aid to South Viet Nam. He charges U.S. troops have been sent illegally to that jungle war.

He told the Senate Wednesday the aid program is loaded with "unconscionable waste."

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara planned to talk today to some members of the committee. He had dates with Sens. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., and Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio.

Aiken said he understood McNamara wanted to talk about the $1,055,000,000 military assistance request.

Aiken predicted the authorization bill will be passed by the Senate "about the way it passed by the House," but that the program will be cut when Congress takes up a subsequent appropriations bill for which the foreign aid bill simply sets ceilings.

Lily Pond May Need Control, Expert Advises

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Who, shopping the real estate ads, is not attracted by mention of a "lakeside setting" or "garden with lily pond"?

Such words conjure visions of crystal clear water mirroring trees, darting fish, a cool breeze. A pond can be all this—and more.

It also can be filmed with a pea soup scum and emitting an obnoxious odor over the land. It can, but need not be, with a little care.

The culprit in the latter picture is algae, primitive plants which have no true roots, leaves or flowers but reproduce by means of minute spores.

Familiar pond scums made up of long hair-like strands are called filamentous algae and begin near the bottom of shallow water areas. Others occur as millions of tiny, single, floating cells which form a thick mat as they increase. Some of these single-celled algae give pond water a bad odor or taste and a few kinds produce poisonous substances which can kill fish, birds and livestock.

Happily, algae is not hard to control.

Mechanical methods — cutting, raking and digging out weeds and algae — can be used with success but, more often, chemical control is recommended. And, most commonly, copper sulfate is suggested. The bright blue crystals, available at seed and hardware stores, are a safe and inexpensive chemical.

Phelps Dodge refining Corporation's Information Service suggests the following procedure for care of lake or pond:

Copper sulfate concentrations of ¼ — or 1 part per million should be used — preferably in solution sprayed over the pond by means of a portable tank spray although the crystals can be strewn in the water as is.

To determine the amount required, Phelps Dodge explains, find the volume of the pond in acre feet by multiplying the surface area by one-half the maximum depth. Rule of thumb for ¼ part per million is to use 1 ounce of the chemical per one-tenth acre feet. For ½ part per million the figure is doubled, etc. It is important that only the required amount be used.

Ponds should be treated when algae and weeds first appear. Shallow, unshaded areas should be checked constantly for appearance of algae.

On large ponds, treatment should be in sections, rather than treating the entire area at one time with larger amounts of the chemical.

Treatment is more effective when water temperature is 60 degrees Fahrenheit or higher.

Repeat treatment may be necessary because no permanent way of controlling algae is known.

Lily Pond May Need Control, Expert Advises

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Who, shopping the real estate ads, is not attracted by mention of a "lakeside setting" or "garden with lily pond?"

Such words conjure visions of crystal clear water mirroring trees, darting fish, a cool breeze. A pond can be all this—and more.

It also can be filmed with a pea soup scum and emitting an obnoxious odor over the land. It can, but need not be, with a little care.

The culprit in the latter picture is algae, primitive plants which have no true roots, leaves or flowers but reproduce by means of minute spores.

Familiar pond scums made up of long hair-like strands are called filamentous algae and begin near the bottom of shallow water areas. Others occur as millions of tiny, single, floating cells which form a thick mat as they increase. Some of these single-celled algae give pond water a bad odor or taste and a few kinds produce poisonous substances which can kill fish, birds and livestock.

Happily, algae is not hard to control.

Richard Adler Keeps Lyndon's Lights Burning

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA) — When it comes to one-upsmanship in the name-dropping department, Broadway producer Richard Adler is champion.

Within a one-week period Adler, a tall, nervous young man, has entertained such people as President Johnson, President Eamon de Valera of Ireland and Prime Minister Levi Eshkol of Israel.

In the process of entertaining President Johnson, Adler has also managed to help raise several million dollars for the Democratic party.

Adler, the composer - lyricist of such Broadway hits as "Damn Yankees" and "Pajama Game," is officially called "talent consultant for the White House." As such he helps plan the entertainment at state dinners, as well as fund - raising spectaculars which he calls "presidenticals."

"I don't want it to sound as if I decide what goes on at White House state dinners. Mrs. Johnson, Bess Abell, her social secretary, and I discuss suggestions and ideas," Adler says.

For the dinner honoring De Valera, Adler recruited George C. Scott and Colleen Dewhurst to read from the works of Irish poets. For Eshkol he had violinist Mischa Elman playing Bach — "that's tried and proven," he says — and The Swingle Singers, a group Adler says will soon be the hottest in the industry, doing their vocal Bach. When jazz fan King Hussein was guest at the White House, Dave Brubeck entertained.

Adler, who produces all these shows from a large office furnished in Early Empty, overlooking Broadway ("this decor is not my taste," he laughs), says no rules of parotocol or taboos have been set down.

"The only criterion is good entertainment. What is good we do, and what is bad we don't. Blue (risque) material is not a problem because I never use blue material to start with."

Everyone who works on one of these shows, except Adler's small staff, donates his services. The major problem in casting, is to fit the schedules of major entertainers into the shows' demands.

"There is always trouble with performers when they are not paid, even if the show is for the President of the United States. The fund - raising shows are given on two separate dates—one in Washington and one in New York—and this takes five days out of a performer's schedule. And the good ones are always booked far in advance.

"Some people do refuse to participate on the grounds that they are Republicans. After all, this is fund-raising."

Adler, who is married to lovely Sally Ann Howes, presently starring on Broadway in "What Makes Sammy Run?", never repeats performers from season to season.

"The members of the New York City Ballet are the only ones who have repeated, but they performed two different ballets."

Because Sally Ann knows the rules, there is no trouble in the Adler household. Her one appearance was before the late President Kennedy when she starred in a version of "Brigadoon" presented at a state dinner.

"Sally was with me at a party after a gala last year, and President Kennedy asked her why I didn't use her more often. She said, 'Richard and I thought it was best not to push family.' With all his family around him, President Kennedy roared."

Adler, who is working on a musical version of "Roman Holiday" for Broadway next season, has now produced his last "presidentical."

"I'm not able to do any more," he says. "Not unless I join President Johnson's poverty program."

Richard Adler Keeps Lyndon's Lights Burning

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA) — When it comes to one-upsmanship in the name-dropping department, Broadway producer Richard Adler is champion.

Within a one-week period Adler, a tall, nervous young man, has entertained such people as President Johnson, President Eamon de Valera of Ireland and Prime Minister Levi Eshkol of Israel.

In the process of entertaining President Johnson, Adler has also managed to help raise several million dollars for the Democratic party.

Adler, the composer - lyricist of such Broadway hits as "Damn Yankees" and "Pajama Game," is officially called "talent consultant for the White House." As such he helps plan the entertainment at state dinners, as well as fund - raising spectaculars which he calls "presidenticals."

"I don't want it to sound as if I decide what goes on at White House state dinners. Mrs. Johnson, Bess Abell, her social secretary, and I discuss suggestions and ideas," Adler says.

For the dinner honoring De Valera, Adler recruited George C. Scott and Colleen Dewhurst to read from the works of Irish poets. For Eshkol, he had violinist Mischa Elman playing Bach ("that's tried and proven," he says) and The Swingle Singers, a group Adler says will soon be the hottest in the industry doing their vocal Bach. When jazz fan King Hussein was guest at the White House, Dave Brubeck entertained.

Adler, who produces all these shows from a large office furnished in Early Empty, overlooking Broadway ("this decor is not my taste," he laughs), says no rules of parotocol or taboos have been set down.

"The only criterion is good entertainment. What is good we do, and what is bad we don't. Blue (risque) material is not a problem because I never use blue material to start with."

Everyone who works on one of these shows, except Adler's small staff, donates his services. The major problem, in casting, is to fit the schedules of major entertainers into the shows' demands.

"There is always trouble with performers when they are not paid, even if the show is for the President of the United States. The fund - raising shows are given on two separate dates—one in Washington and one in New York—and this takes five days out of a performer's schedule. And the good ones are always booked far in advance.

"Some people do refuse to participate on the grounds that they are Republicans. After all, this is fund-raising."

Adler, who is married to lovely Sally Ann Howes, presently starring on Broadway in "What Makes Sammy Run?" never repeats performers from season to season.

"The members of the New York City Ballet are the only ones who have repeated, but they performed two different ballets."

Because Sally Ann knows the rules, there is no trouble in the Adler household. Her one appearance was before the late President Kennedy when she starred in a version of "Brigadoon" presented at a state dinner.

"Sally was with me at a party after a gala last year, and President Kennedy asked her why I didn't use her more often. She said, 'Richard and I thought it was best not to push family.' With all his family around him, President Kennedy roared."

Adler, who is working on a musical version of "Roman Holiday" for Broadway next season, has now produced his last "presidentical."

"I'm not able to do any more," he says. "Not unless I join President Johnson's poverty program."

Lily Pond May Need Control, Expert Advises

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Who, shopping the real estate ads, is not attracted by mention of a "lakeside setting" or "garden with lily pond"?

Such words conjure visions of crystal clear water mirroring trees, darting fish, a cool breeze. A pond can be all this—and more.

It also can be filmed with a pea soup scum and emitting an obnoxious odor over the land. It can, but need not be, with a little care.

The culprit in the latter picture is algae, primitive plants which have no true roots, leaves or flowers but reproduce by means of minute spores.

Familiar pond scums made up of long hair-like strands are called filamentous algae and begin near the bottom of shallow water areas. Others occur as millions of tiny, single, floating cells which form a thick mat as they increase. Some of these single-celled algae give pond water a bad odor or taste and a few kinds produce poisonous substances which can kill fish, birds and livestock.

Happily, algae is not hard to control.

Mechanical methods — cutting, raking and digging out weeds and algae — can be used with success but, more often, chemical control is recommended. And, most commonly, copper sulfate is suggested. The bright blue crystals, available at seed and hardware stores, are a safe and inexpensive chemical.

Copper sulfate concentrations of ¼ — or 1 part per million should be used — preferably in solution sprayed over the pond by means of a portable tank spray although the crystals can be strewn in the water as is.

To determine the amount required, Phelps Dodge explains, find the volume of the pond in acre feet by multiplying the surface area by one-half the maximum depth. Rule of thumb for ¼ part per million is to use 1 ounce of the chemical per one-tenth acre feet. For ½ part per million the figure is doubled, etc. It is important that only the required amount be used.

Ponds should be treated when algae and weeds first appear. Shallow, unshaded areas should be checked constantly for appearance of algae.

On large ponds, treatment should be in sections, rather than treating the entire area at one time with larger amounts of the chemical.

Treatment is more effective when water temperature is 60 degrees Fahrenheit or higher.

Repeat treatment may be necessary because no permanent way of controlling algae is known.

Some states require a permit before a pond may be treated. Check with your local health department.

Adler, who produces all these shows from a large office furnished in Early Empty, overlooking Broadway, "this decor is not my taste," he laughs, says no rules of parotocol or taboos have been set down.

"The only criterion is good entertainment. What is good we do, and what is bad we don't. Blue (risque) material is not a problem because I never use blue material to start with."

Everyone who works on one of these shows, except Adler's small staff, donates his services. The major problem, in casting, is to fit the schedules of major entertainers into the shows' demands.

"There is always trouble with performers when they are not paid, even if the show is for the President of the United States. The fund - raising shows are given on two separate dates—one in Washington and one in New York—and this takes five days out of a performer's schedule. And the good ones are always booked far in advance.

"Some people do refuse to participate on the grounds that they are Republicans. After all, this is fund-raising."

Adler, who is married to lovely Sally Ann Howes, presently starring on Broadway in "What Makes Sammy Run?," never repeats performers from season to season.

"The members of the New York City Ballet are the only ones who have repeated, but they performed two different ballets."

Because Sally Ann knows the rules, there is no trouble in the Adler household. Her one appearance was before the late President Kennedy when she starred in a version of "Brigadoon" presented at a state dinner.

"Sally was with me at a party after a gala last year, and President Kennedy asked her why I didn't use her more often. She said, 'Richard and I thought it was best not to push family.' With all his family around him, President Kennedy roared."

Adler, who is working on a musical version of "Roman Holiday" for Broadway next season, has now produced his last "presidentical."

"I'm not able to do any more," he says. "Not unless I join President Johnson's poverty program."

Richard Adler Keeps Lyndon's Lights Burning

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA) — When it comes to one-upsmanship in the name-dropping department, Broadway producer Richard Adler is champion.

Within a one-week period Adler, a tall, nervous young man, has entertained such people as President Johnson, President Eamon de Valera of Ireland and Prime Minister Levi Eshkol of Israel.

In the process of entertaining President Johnson, Adler has also managed to help raise several million dollars for the Democratic party.

Adler, the composer - lyricist of such Broadway hits as "Damn Yankees" and "Pajama Game," is officially called "talent consultant for the White House." As such he helps plan the entertainment at state dinners, as well as fund - raising spectaculars which he calls "presidenticals."

"I don't want it to sound as if I decide what goes on at White House state dinners. Mrs. Johnson, Bess Abell, her social secretary, and I discuss suggestions and ideas," Adler says.

For the dinner honoring De Valera, Adler recruited George C. Scott and Colleen Dewhurst to read from the works of Irish poets. For Eshkol, he had violinist Mischa Elman playing Bach ("that's tried and proven," he says) and The Swingle Singers, a group Adler says will soon be the hottest in the industry, doing their vocal Bach. When jazz fan King Hussein was guest at the White House, Dave Brubeck entertained.

MY ANSWER
by Billy Graham

© 1964 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: I try to live a Christian life but I always seem to fail. What can I do? —L. J.

ANSWER. You must realize that the Christian life is not a matter of self effort. The secret of successful Christian living is "Christ in you". The Bible says, "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling," but it adds very quickly, "for it is God that worketh in you both to will and to do of His good pleasure." While many schemes of salvation are self-help plans, the Christian life is not a matter of just lifting ourselves by our own bootstraps. It is God in Jesus Christ who both saves us and keeps us saved. If you will but trust Christ for your initial salvation, you can also trust Him for your continuous salvation.

The Apostle Paul says: "I am crucified with Christ, nevertheless, I live, but the life I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God who loved me and gave Himself for me." You can be a radiant Christian if you will yield yourself to Christ alone and trust Him to keep you.

QUESTION: I became a Christian by reading the New Testament. Is it necessary for me to join a church? If so, how can I choose the right one? —L. H.

ANSWER. You have made a wonderful start, and your being converted through reading the New Testament is living proof that the word of God is quick and powerful.

If you will continue to read the New Testament you will find that Christian conversion finds fulfillment in church membership. In the second chapter of Acts we read: "Then they that gladly received his word were baptized: and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls." Conversion, after the receiving of the Word, was followed by the obedience of baptism, and uniting with other believers. The New Testament knows nothing of the solitary Christian. Just as our physical existence is enhanced by family life, so our spiritual lives are enriched by fellowship with other believers.

As to the matter of which church you should join, my advice would be to find a group of believers who have believed and received the Word of God; who depend upon the Holy Spirit; and who by life and walk give evidence that they have been with Jesus. I'm sure that you will find such a church, and that your life will be enriched by joining it.

QUESTION: Is there anything in the Bible about people "sponging" on other people? —W. S.

ANSWER: Yes, in II Thessalonians. 3:10, 11, 12, Paul writes: "For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, that if any would not work, neither should he eat. For we hear that there are some which walk among you disorderly, working not at all, but are busy-bodies. Now them that are such we command and exhort by our Lord Jesus Christ, that with quietness they work, and eat their own bread."

I do not know the character or extent of the "sponging" to which you refer is taking place but the Bible makes it plain that each is to work to the best of his ability to provide for the necessities of life. At the same time, it is the duty of the Christian to help others in need, "especially to the household of faith." There is not more effective witness for Christ than for us to show a concern for the needs of others. On the other hand, for a Christian to look to others for things he should himself provide is a poor testimony to his faith. If the question is not clear I would advise to always err on the side of generosity and help to others.

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Police thought they were plagued with an Oriental mystery when they began to look into the case of the elm trees.

Officers investigating vandalism at a housing project where about 25 elm trees were felled were puzzled when witnesses told them two young boys did it with a Japanese sword.

The trees were Chinese elms.

MY ANSWER
by Billy Graham

© 1964 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: I try to live a Christian life but I always seem to fail. What can I do? —L. J.

ANSWER: You must realize that the Christian life is not a matter of self effort. The secret of successful Christian living is "Christ in you". The Bible says, "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling," but it adds very quickly, "for it is God that worketh in you both to will and to do of His good pleasure." While many schemes of salvation are self-help plans, the Christian life is not a matter of just lifting ourselves by our own bootstraps. It is God in Jesus Christ who both saves us and keeps us saved. If you will but trust Christ for your initial salvation, you can also trust Him for your continuous salvation.

The Apostle Paul says: "I am crucified with Christ, nevertheless, I live, but the life I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God who loved me and gave Himself for me." You can be a radiant Christian if you will yield yourself to Christ alone and trust Him to keep you.

QUESTION: I became a Christian by reading the New Testament. Is it necessary for me to join a church? If so, how can I choose the right one? —L. H.

ANSWER: You have made a wonderful start, and your being converted through reading the New Testament is living proof that the word of God is quick and powerful.

If you will continue to read the New Testament you will find that Christian conversion finds fulfillment in church membership. In the second chapter of Acts we read: "Then they that gladly received his word were baptized: and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls." Conversion, after the receiving of the Word, was followed by the obedience of baptism, and uniting with other believers. The New Testament knows nothing of the solitary Christian. Just as our physical existence is enhanced by family life, so our spiritual lives are enriched by fellowship with other believers.

As to the matter of which church you should join, my advice would be to find a group of believers who have believed and received the Word of God; who depend upon the Holy Spirit; and who by life and walk give evidence that they have been with Jesus. I'm sure that you will find such a church, and that your life will be enriched by joining it.

QUESTION: Is there anything in the Bible about people "sponging" on other people? —W. S.

ANSWER: Yes, in II Thessalonians, 3:10, 11, 12, Paul writes: "For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, that if any would not work, neither should he eat. For we hear that there are some which walk among you disorderly, working not at all, but are busy-bodies. Now them that are such we command and exhort by our Lord Jesus Christ, that with quietness they work, and eat their own bread."

I do not know the character or extent of the "sponging" to which you refer is taking place but the Bible makes it plain that each is to work to the best of his ability to provide for the necessities of life. At the same time, it is the duty of the Christian to help others in need, "especially to the household of faith." There is not more effective witness for Christ than for us to show a concern for the needs of others. On the other hand, for a Christian to look to others for things he should himself provide is a poor testimony to his faith. If the question is not clear I would advise to always err on the side of generosity and help to others.

Japanese Sword Cuts Elm Trees

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Police thought they were plagued with an Oriental mystery when they began to look into the case of the elm trees.

Officers investigating vandalism at a housing project where about 25 elm trees were felled were puzzled when witnesses told them two young boys did it with a Japanese sword.

The trees were Chinese elms.

Trip to Sikkim Is Shown to U.S. Video Viewers

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK AP —Sikkim is a sparkling little jewel of a kingdom set in the lofty Himalayas between Tibet and India. Most Americans probably had never heard of it until last year when Hope Cooke of New York married its crown prince.

Now, courtesy of the magic of television and the talents of NBC's imaginative producer Lou Hazam and his camera-writing team, millions of us know a lot about this tiny beautiful Buddhist country—its rain forests and orchids, its principal export—cardamon, a fragrant spice—its market places and its royal palace.

The former Miss Cooke is now Sikkim's queen and her husband Thondup is its king. They were our guides Wednesday night during an hour's trip around the country. Color cameras made the most of the bold reds of the lamas, the uniforms of the palace guard, the burnished gold of the religious statues and of the magnificent mountain scenery.

It was not all a visit to a Shangri-la to savor a fairyland with a heroine who looked like a young Lillian Gish. We were shown the impressive funeral services for the old king—ancient religious rites which started incongruously with the arrival of the casket by helicopter. We were permitted to tour makeshift camps where refugees from Communist-held Tibet huddled unhappily. We were told of Sikkim's constant state of readiness and shown Indian troops ready to defend the little country should the Communists decide to invade.

Like other Hazam-produced special programs — "The Nile" a camera trip down U.S. Route 1 and a journey on the Orient Express — the program was a treat to the eyes, ears and mind and a reminder of television's potential as a real window on the whole wide world.

Confirming our worst fears, there is now a singing group called "The American Beatles." For disbelievers, they will be singing "School Days" next Saturday on ABC's "American Bandstand" show.

NBC's "Sunday" show on June 21 will include some highlights of the Army - McCarthy senate hearings of 10 years ago.

Governor William W. Scranton will be CBS' "Face the Nation" guest next Sunday.

ABC plans a series of four hour-long specials for sportsmen next season about hunting and fishing—lions, elephants, pheasants, tuna and trout among the quarry.

CBS - Radio's Arthur Godfrey is taping his way around the world. Recordings of his experiences during the six-week trip will be used on the daily show starting next Monday.

Girl Still in Coma After Blow on Head

NEW YORK (AP) — Monica Lesser, 9, today began her second week in a coma, the result of a glancing blow on the head from a flowerpot that fell from a 16th-floor window.

Monica was walking with her mother, Mrs. Hans Lesser, on 65th Street in Manhattan when the flowerpot toppled from the window sill.

She has been taken off the critical list at New York Hospital, but has shown no sign of recognition.

Young and Old Are Settled in Twin Buildings

BY MARGERY McELHENY

CHICAGO (UPI) — An ancient Roman scheme for urban living — the condominium — has almost overnight become one of the hottest new concepts to hit the American building scene

Under the condominium plan, the individual has title to a unit in a multi-family dwelling. The project has been given legal status via enabling acts already passed in 38 states and the District of Columbia. Three years ago, only Puerto Rico had condominium legislation.

Illinois was among the first states to pass a condominium law, and in the past nine months since it became effective the Chicago area has become one of the most active condominium markets in the country.

There already are 32 projects completed, under construction or planned in the city and suburbs, accounting for nearly 2,100 new apartment-homes.

The projects represent more than a $48 million investment by Chicago builders.

Chicago condominium housing ranges in price from $11,800 suburban apartments to $110,000 high-rise penthouses overlooking Lake Michigan.

Most condominiums have been aimed at present home owners who no longer have need for a home because their children are grown.

One development, Bel Oaks, is divided into twin four-story condominium buildings. The East wing is reserved for persons over 50 without children, while the West wing is open to a mixed age group, with or without children and pets.

Condominium buyers have the security of ownership along with its financial and tax advantages, as well as the convenience and freedom of an apartment dweller, he said.

In a condominium project buyers own their own apartment, while hallways, roof and other structural portions of the building, are owned in common with the other residents. Owners have individual title to their units and are responsible only for their own mortgages and taxes, and a small fee to maintain the grounds and common area.

The condominium plan differs from the cooperative in that individual dwelling units can be sold, exchanged or rented by the owners independently or are owned by stockholder-tenants, and permission is required from a governing body to sell or buy an apartment.

Roddy McDowall Popular With Fellow Actors

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Roddy McDowall would be the greatest star in the business if he were as popular with the public as he is with other actors and celebrities at large.

McDowall is one of the few individuals, for instance, who is friend of both Elizabeth Taylor and Sybil Burton.

He's also a pal of Richard Burton, Sir Laurence Olivier, Ethel Merman and, well, believe me, everybody likes the English-born actor who has managed to survive his early years as a child star to become a busy and competent adult performer.

His sharp-featured face and British accent have made him an ideal charactor in such period epics as "Cleopatra" and "The Greatest Story Ever Told" in movies, and "Camelot" in the theater.

Roddy recently arrived in Hollywood for a guest shot in a segment of "The Alfred Hitchcock Show" at Revue Studios.

Roddy has made his many friendships pay off.

In addition to being an actor, he has become an accomplished still photographer. He gets many magazine assignments which pay him almost as well as his acting chores.

But his secret is that his friends among the stars trust him to do right by them with the lens. Whereas other photogs might catch an actor with his dental plate on a shelf, his tuxedo on a hat rack and his shoulders on a clothes hanger, Roddy is more circumspect.

Testimony Near Completion in Suit Against AP

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)— Attorneys expected to complete testimony today in the trial of former Maj Gen. Edwin A. Walker's $2-million libel suit against The Associated Press.

The AP defense rested Wednesday after offering three days of testimony in which several witnesses testified that Walker led student segregation rioters at the University of Mississippi in 1962. Two men died in the night-long rioting.

Last week Walker testified that he visited the campus only to observe and his only active part in the riots was a brief speech in which he said violence was not the answer to the use of federal authority in the admission of Negro James H. Meredith.

Attorneys indicated that rebuttal testimony would be completed today, with final arguments Friday or Monday. The trial began June 8.

Donald J. Proehl, 29, a graduate student at the university, testified Wednesday he heard Walker tell campus rioters "that they had a right to protest under the Constitution, that they were doing the right thing and that he would lean them in their protest."

John C. Hill, 22, Dover, Del., another student, testified he heard Walker say, "Good, good" when the former Army general was told a news man had been beaten. After the riot had been under way about an hour Hill said he heard Walker say "Keep it up all night, we've got more people coming."

On cross examination, Hill was asked if Walker assumed command of the crowd. "General Walker was leading the mob, yes sir," Hill answered.

Another witness was Travis Buckley, 29, a former student who is now county prosecuting attorney at Bay Springs, Miss. He said some students asked Walker to lead them in a charge against the marshals and Walker nodded his head and said "I will, I will."

The final defense witness was Tom Gregory, 29, reporter for the Meridian (Miss.) Star. He told of seeing Walker striding toward the marshals with about 200 persons behind him. He asked if he considered this "a charge."

"Yes, I did," Gregory answered. However, on cross examination he said he did not use the word "charge" in writing his story on Walker's activities that night.

Washington, D. C., ranks first among U.S. large population centers in proportion of families headed by college graduates.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)— In the news from Washington:

CYPRUS: The State Department says "there is no truth" in published reports the United States favors union of Cyprus with Greece.

A statement Tuesday by Undersecretary of State George W. Ball, who has just returned from an urgent peacekeeping mission to Greece and Turkey, said that the U.S. government is not supporting any specific solution for the Cyprus question.

"But the United States does feel, and what I did express in both capitals is that the solution is urgent," Ball added. "That solution should be found by agreement of the parties."

JFK STAMP: It took more than two weeks for the Boston post office to complete the more than two million "first day of issue" cancellations for the John F. Kennedy memorial postage stamp.

The Post Office Department said Tuesday that although the stamp went on sale May 29, cancellations were not completed until June 15.

The record of 2,003,096 cancellations surpassed the previous record of 1.6 million first day cancellations of the New York World's Fair stamp issued on April 22.

HOFFA-FEES: Six maverick Teamsters Union members are preparing to step up their efforts to recover union funds used to defend Teamsters President James R. Hoffa and other union officials involved in criminal trials.

Their attorney, Seymour Spelman, said he plans to add the names of three bonding companies within a few days to a federal court suit already filed against Hoffa and 18 other officials to recover the legal fees.

The amount involved is reported to be $1 million or more.

The union has so far resisted efforts by Spelman, the Labor Department and the Justice Department to divulge how much has been spent to defend Hoffa in a long series of federal trials, including his conviction—now being appealed—on a jury tampering charge.

The attorney named the companies as the Citizens Casualty Co. of New York, Niagara Fire Insurance Co. of New York and Resolute Insurance Group of Hartford, Conn.

CUBA: The Council of the Organization of American States plans to meet June 24 to vote on a Venezuelan proposal that the hemisphere's foreign ministers meet here July 8 to impose sanctions on Cuba.

Venezuela seeks a collective break in diplomatic relations with Cuba by all Latin-American countries, suspension of all commercial ties with Cuba and a halt to air and sea communication with Havana.

Mexico, Chile, Uruguay and Bolivia are the only Latin-American countries which still maintain embassies in Havana.

LEGISLATURES: Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., has introduced a bill to strip federal courts of jurisdiction in reapportionment cases involving the state legislatures.

Thurmond introduced his bill Tuesday, a day after the Supreme Court ruled that both houses of state legislatures must be based on population only.

Widow on Schedule on Round-World Flight

HONG KONG (AP) — Anna Hirschberg's attempt to break the woman's record for a round-the-world flight by commercial airliner was still on schedule today.

The 72-year-old widow from Lake Hopatcong, N.J., spent an hour and a half in Hong Kong, then flew on to Tokyo. She is remaining on the airliner she took from New York until she reaches San Francisco.

Mrs. Hirschberg left New York at 8:01 p.m. Tuesday. Her schedule calls for her to get back there at 7:06 a.m. Friday, setting a record of 59 hours, 5 minutes.

The record of 62 hours 59 minutes was set in June 1960, by Sue Snyder, 26, of New York.

THE FARMER'S SHARE—In all but one category—ice cream—the farmer's share of the retail food dollar has decreased. The U.S. Department of Agriculture has compared the 1957-59 average with the last three months of 1963, as shown on the News-chart.

Testimony Near Completion in Suit Against AP

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Attorneys expected to complete testimony today in the trial of former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker's $2-million libel suit against The Associated Press.

The AP defense rested Wednesday after offering three days of testimony in which several witnesses testified that Walker led student segregation rioters at the University of Mississippi in 1962. Two men died in the night-long rioting.

Last week Walker testified that he visited the campus only to observe and his only active part in the riots was a brief speech in which he said violence was not the answer to the use of federal authority in the admission of Negro James H. Meredith.

Attorneys indicated that rebuttal testimony would be completed today, with final arguments Friday or Monday. The trial began June 8.

Donald J. Proehl, 29, a graduate student at the university, testified Wednesday he heard Walker tell campus rioters "that they had a right to protest under the Constitution, that they were doing the right thing and that he would lean them in their protest."

John C. Hill, 22, Dover, Del., another student, testified he heard Walker say, "Good, good" when the former Army general was told a news man had been beaten. After the riot had been under way about an hour Hill said he heard Walker say: "Keep it up all night, we've got more people coming."

On cross examination, Hill was asked if Walker assumed command of the crowd. "General Walker was leading the mob, yes sir," Hill answered.

Another witness was Travis Buckley, 29, a former student who is now county prosecuting attorney at Bay Springs, Miss. He said some students asked Walker to lead them in a charge against the marshals and Walker nodded his head and said: "I will, I will."

The final defense witness was Tom Gregory, 29, reporter for the Meridian (Miss.) Star. He told of seeing Walker striding toward the marshals with about 200 persons behind him. He asked if he considered this "a charge."

"Yes, I did," Gregory answered. However, on cross examination he said he did not use the word "charge" in writing his story on Walker's activities that night.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)— In the news from Washington:

CYPRUS: The State Department says "there is no truth" in published reports the United States favors union of Cyprus with Greece.

A statement Tuesday by Undersecretary of State George W. Ball, who has just returned from an urgent peacekeeping mission to Greece and Turkey, said that the U.S. government is not supporting any specific solution for the Cyprus question.

"But the United States does feel, and what I did express in both capitals is that the solution is urgent," Ball added. "That solution should be found by agreement of the parties."

JFK STAMP: It took more than two weeks for the Boston post office to complete the more than two million "first day of issue" cancellations for the John F. Kennedy memorial postage stamp.

The Post Office Department said Tuesday that although the stamp went on sale May 29, cancellations were not completed until June 15.

The record of 2,003,096 cancellations surpassed the previous record of 1.6 million first day cancellations of the New York World's Fair stamp issued on April 22.

HOFFA-FEES: Six maverick Teamsters Union members are preparing to step up their efforts to recover union funds used to defend Teamsters President James R. Hoffa and other union officials involved in criminal trials.

Their attorney, Seymour Spelman, said he plans to add the names of three bonding companies within a few days to a federal court suit already filed against Hoffa and 18 other officials to recover the legal fees.

The amount involved is reported to be $1 million or more.

The union has so far resisted efforts by Spelman, the Labor Department and the Justice Department to divulge how much has been spent to defend Hoffa in a long series of federal trials, including his conviction—now being appealed—on a jury tampering charge.

The attorney named the companies as the Citizens Casualty Co. of New York, Niagara Fire Insurance Co. of New York and Resolute Insurance Group of Hartford, Conn.

CUBA: The Council of the Organization of American States plans to meet June 26 to vote on a Venezuelan proposal that the hemisphere's foreign ministers meet here July 8 to impose sanctions on Cuba.

Venezuela seeks a collective break in diplomatic relations with Cuba by all Latin-American countries, suspension of all commercial ties with Cuba and a halt to air and sea communication with Havana.

Mexico, Chile, Uruguay and Bolivia are the only Latin-American countries which still maintain embassies in Havana.

LEGISLATURES: Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., has introduced a bill to strip federal courts of jurisdiction in reapportionment cases involving the state legislatures.

Thurmond introduced his bill Tuesday, a day after the Supreme Court ruled that both houses of state legislatures must be based on population only.

Tourney Moves to Quarters In This Afternoon's Play

By TOM C USHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Wednesday was a day like all other days — except at the NCAA Golf Tournament.

At the annual conclave of the nation's top collegiate swingers, which is currently in progress at the Broadmoor, Wednesday was an extremely bad day for favorites — and caddies.

Favorites, if there can be such designat ions in a tournament of this type, stand about as much chance this week as a putt on a Broadmoor green. No fewer than eight of the more-highly-regarded players who ate breakfast Wednesday as a competitor, ate lunch as a spectator.

One consoling factor in this tournament, however, is that losers need wait only a few hours before they have company. The format calls for a bulky match play bracket of 64 golfers, but once the action starts the field shrinks like a pair of two - dollar pants. Wednesday's double round reduced the number from 64 to 16 and following another parir of 18 hole rounds today, only four players will remain.

The pace will slow a bit Friday but not the endurance test. The quartet entering the semi-finals will be required to play 36 hole matches to determine which two get to play another 36 Saturday for the championship. The morning 18 each day will start at 9 with the second round scheduled to pick up at 1 p.m.

It the present trend continues, trying to guess the eventual winner is going to produce a press - room full of confusion. Wednesday's first round eliminated 3 members of Houston University's championship team and three from the Oklahoma State squad which was runner-up. Included in the list of casualties were the Cougars' Wright Garrett and the Cowboys' George Hixon, the two who had most frequently been mentioned as possible winners before the tourney got underway.

Hixon took a 5 and 4 shellacking from John Kurzynowski of Acquinas College, who is sort of a displaced person in this big school festival. Kurzynowski is one of six small college players invited to participate. Just last week he won the small college title at Springfield, Mo., and from the way he started here, Kurzynowski may have to rent a truck to take home all the hardware. After dumping Hixon, he polished off Robert Carlson of the University of Washington, 3 and 2.

Other surprises were turned up by Kenneth Lindsey of Memphis State who eliminated Wichita's John Stevens, 5 and 4; Vernon Novak of Maryland who ousted Jim Hardy of Oklahoma State 1 up; and Carlson, who dumped Mark Hopkins of Houston, 2 up. Stevens contributed to his own downfall by three-putting six straight greens. Hardy strolled down the 17th fairway with a one - hole advantage but eventually picked up at that hole and bogied the 18th to lose.

Among the more impressive winners were medalist Jerry Potter of Miami U., CSU's Bob Douma, Forest Evashevski, Jr. of Michigan, Marty Fleckman of Houston, Larry Beem of New Mexico, Novak, and Kurzynowski. All were among those who survived the gruelling twin - round schedule.

The most ironic twist of fate of the entire tournament also occurred Wednesday and Gerald Hanweck of Stanford, for one, will never forget it. Hanweck led by one hole as he hit his second shot to the 18th green. At that point his caddy moved forward to replace a divot and accidentally moved the ball of Hanweck's opponent, Randy Petri of Houston.

The error caused Hanweck to forfeit the hole and sent the match into overtime. On the 22nd hole, Petri slipped in a par putt for the victory and Hanweck was left with nothing except a conversation piece. Petri eventually went on to defeat Southeast Conference Champion, Bert Greene of Tennessee U. in the afternoon, 2 and 1, to advance to this morning's third round.

Potter, who has shown a flair for dramatic finishes throughout the week, outdid himself Wednesday afternoon. After birdies on the first two holes of his match with Arizona State's Ted Lyford, the tourney medalist ran into a string of bogies and eventually fell behind. He then salvaged victory by ramming in a 10 - foot eagle putt on the 17th hole to tie the match and polished off his startled opponent by dropping a similar shot on the 18th green for a birdie.

Horse-Buggy Style

It's as obvious as the sullen look on a duffers face just after he's shanked another into the boondocks that something will have to be done to correct the situation.

In the case of the NCAA golf championships now going thru the fourth round of match play this afternoon at the beautiful but often brutal Broadmoor course, it's a matter of changing the format to modern times.

The field from throughout the land this year swelled to a bulging 246 entries, of which all but the top 64 were eliminated by Wednesday's first round of individual match play. And then yesterday and today they were dropping out like flies in a honey pot as with each round half were sent home with only the consolation of being in the national championships.

The sticky wicket in this is that there are few if any college type course able to handle the traffic of this congestion for the first three days the way the tournament is set up at present. And the whole thing has been amplified by the fact that next year the tourney is scheduled for Tennessee, where it should be e asy driving distance for several hundred to come just from the immediate vicinity.

That means that the field could be pushing 300 or more — unless something is done in the very near future. And the big wigs of the NCAA have at least shown enough foresight to start new blueprints for the future.

Actually, the whole trouble is that the game of golf has grown too popular throughout the land. And this has been reflected in the increased number of colleges and universities with teams in competition.

It's only natural as papa can obviously read and count up the loot being taken in by such tycoons as Arnie Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Tony Lema, etc., and it would be a fool that doesn't shove putter in hand to the son who seems to have the inclination to put the ball in the hole.

So the result is that more and more high schoolers are taking up the game. . .and then following up when they advance to the institutions of higher learning. Also the scholarships provided by some of the schools nowadays makes the links another avenue for an inexpensive education for the lad who may not know how to buckel on shoulder pads but does have the savvy for pitching a wedge shot for a gimme putt.

Back before the turn of the century when they first dreamed up this bit of golfing between exams, there wasn't much of a problem. The tournament stayed close to the Atlantic side of the nation and only a handful of schools were inclined to send representatives to the tournament even when only a few miles away. A cross-country jaunt such as players coming from New York or California like in the present edition was unheard of.

Even as late as the mid-50's, or when the Broadmoor held the tourney for the first time of four in the last 11 years, there weren't more than a dozen teams and the individual entry list hardly went over the 100 mark. But that's all changed in the past fewyears—and it's obviously getting out of hand.

When the list of top collegiate golfers was limited to only a few from one section of the country, the team championship was relatively minor. The important thing in those days was the individual who was crowned for the whole country.

But now it's a different story. The tournament has truly progressed to a national championships as far as teams are concerned — and yet the tournament format has changed little from the days when Harvard, Yale and Princeton dominated the scene like there was nothing but cowboys and Indians west of the Mississippi.

Some say times have outworn the match play which takes up the majority of the tournament to settle to individual champ. The trend now in the mill is a switch to stroke play with the team championship the important item.

Problems will arise no matter what is determined from the meetings of the coaches association which has been holding meetings during the stay here in Colorado Springs. It's evident that something will have to give — but it may take more than a year or so to work out the wrinkles.

The recommendation is to conduct a qualifying section series of tournaments to trim the field to a reasonable number. This sounds fine and dandy, but it's not quite that simple since there are many, many schools not alligned with a conference that would be whittled during the regular school season. And there will always be individuals who definitely should be in the national finals despite perhaps being on a losing team while district titles are decided.

Perhaps the most logical solution would be sectional tournaments with the best golfers progressing to the nationals. But then again, this could slash many teams to one or two players and there would be little accomplished as far as bringing in the better teams if the same number of a minimum four is required for the team title.

Already there has been a pitch for a future tourney to be held here at the Broadmoor, with Colorado College again acting as official host school. The next time it comes here, there should be little problem in handling the ifeld — no matter what size — as by that time the Broadmoor will have completed the ~~now in the~~ making double 18 holes which should make the local course one of the very finest in the land.

But there are very few courses that can tackle this type of traffic so it's obvious that changes will be made before any school hosts another NCAA tournament.

It's here that the future headliners of the professional circuit are molded, as evidenced by some of the past winners — not to mention the also-rans who didn't make it here but went on to greater things.

Among the past NCAA winners are such names as Arnold Palmer ('49-'50 from Wake Forest), Jack Nicklaus ('61 Ohio State), Phil Rodger ('58 Houston), Jackie Cupit ('59 Houston), Rex Baxter ('56 Houston), Bo Winninger ('47 Oklahoma State), and Gardner Dickinson ('58 LSU). . .just to mention a few who have hit it rich with the pros.

The names in this week's tournament may not be familiar to the average fan, but wait a few years and they will be known throughout the world.

Medlicott Posts No-Hitter To Highlight Legion Play

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Lefty Tom Medlicott overpowered the Elks baseballers with his sweeping fastball Wednesday night as the portside chucker recorded a no-hitter and paced the Rotary nine's 8-0 triumph over the Elks in American Legion "A" competition at Memorial Field.

In the second game of the twin bill Wednesday night, the Sertoma crew stormed past the Lions, 10-1, behind the pitching of rapid Bob Kochis who turned in a three-hit performance during the seven-inning contest.

This Sunday's agenda calls for a doubleheader at Memorial Field and pits the Elks against the Rotary squad in the first game at 6:30 p.m., followed by the Sertoma-Lions game at 8:30 p.m.

After walking two batters in the opening frame, Medlicott settled down and blazed his fast ball across the plate for the remainder of the game to deny the Elks any hits. In addition to stifling the Elks batsmen's hitting attack, the Rotary pitching ace recorded 17 strikeouts while giving up four walks.

Medlicott was at a peak form despite a strong, cold wind which prevailed throughout the game and it made for difficult fielding. After the brief shaky start, Medlicott settled down and retired the next nine Elks batters with nine consecutive strikeouts.

Meanwhile, his teammates jumped the Elks starting pitcher Bill Brandt for nine hits during his four and two-thirds inning on the mound. John Garmon relieved Brandt in the fifth and snuffed out the Rotary's hot bats. But two errors in the sixth stanza resulted in the eighth tally for the Rotary group which was unearned.

Olie West and Chuck Reinking supplied the stick power for the winning Rotary team with West collecting two hits for three times at bat and drove in two runs. Reinking went 2-5 at the plate and collect two RBIs.

Coach Jerry Hughes' charges struck in the first frame for two runs and followed with two more tallies in the fourth. The Rotary put the game on ice with a three-run rally in the fifth and scored its final run in the sixth.

Kochis held the Lions to three hits while the strong right-hander struck out 13 batters and only gave up one walk. Sertoma tabbed starting pitcher Ron Cheek for six runs on four hits during the Lions' portside chucker's five-inning performance on the mound. Cheek was charged with the loss.

The Sertoma group jumped on reliever Mike Romero for four additional runs on three hits to sew up the victory. But Romero was only charged with two earned runs.

In addition to his pitching chores, Kochis also fared well at the plate collecting two hits and driving in two runs. Clay Chambers and Al Maynard also recorded two hits.

The Lions scored their single tally in the fourth frame when John Jamison doubled and scored when Sertoma second sacker Terry Stillwaught made a miscue.

Sertoma scored one run in the opening frame and followed with a five-inning rally in the second stanza. The winning team put the game on ice with four more runs in the sixth.

Greek Soccer Fans Cause Riot

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—An estimated 25,000 Greek soccer fans rioted Wednesday following a 1-1 tie between two top teams —Panathinaicos of Athens and Olympiacos of Piraeus.

Shouting that the game had been fixed, the mob invaded the playing field, set fire to nets and dressing rooms, tore down railings and goalposts and battled police before being driven into the streets.

Three Boxers Die From Ring Injuries

Boxing again found itself under attack today after a flurry of three ring deaths within 24 hours ran the toll of fatalities in the sport this year to six. A seventh fighter, Alejandro Lavorante, died in April of injuries suffered in a 1962 bout.

The three latest deaths came Tuesday and Wednesday. Henry Stephens, an 18-year-old Australian amateur, and Rey Romero, a 21-year-old Filipino who had only three professional fights, died Tuesday of injuries sustained in bouts a few days earlier. Lyn James, a 21-year-old Welshman, died Wednesday after his sixth round knockout at the hands of featherweight Colin Lake.

The deaths brought protests against the sport in Britain and demands for revision of ring rules in the Philippines, where five boxers have died in the last three years.

Tourney Moves to Quarters In This Afternoon's Play

By TOM C USHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Wednesday was a day like all other days — except at the NCAA Golf Tournament.

At the annual conclave of the nation's top collegiate swingers, which is currently in progress at the Broadmoor, Wednesday was an extremely bad day for favorites — and caddies.

Favorites, if there can be such designat ions in a tournament of this type, stand about as much chance this week as a putt on a Broadmoor green. No fewer than eight of the more-highly-regarded players who ate breakfast Wednesday as a competitor, ate lunch as a spectator.

One consoling factor in this tournament, however, is that losers need wait only a few hours before they have company. The format calls for a bulky match play bracket of 64 golfers, but once the action starts the field shrinks like a pair of two - dollar pants. Wednesday's double round reduced the number from 64 to 16 and following another parir of 18 hole rounds today, only four players will remain.

The pace will slow a bit Friday but not the endurance test. The quartet entering the semi-finals will be required to play 36 hole matches to determine which two get to play another 36 Saturday for the championship. The morning 18 each day will start at 9 with the second round scheduled to pick up at 1 p.m.

But now it's a different story. The tournament has truly progressed to a national championships as far as teams are concerned — and yet the tournament format has changed little from the days when Harvard, Yale and Princeton dominated the scene like there was nothing but cowboys and Indians west of the Mississippi.

Some say times have outworn the match play which takes up the majority of the tournament to settle to individual champ. The trend now in the mill is a switch to stroke play with the team championship the important item.

Problems will arise no matter what is determined from the meetings of the coaches association which has been holding meetings during the stay here in Colorado Springs. It's evident that something will have to give — but it may take more than a year or so to work out the wrinkles.

The recommendation is to conduct a qualifying section series of tournaments to trim the field to a reasonable number. This sounds fine and dandy, but it's not quite that simple since there are many, many schools not alligned with a conference that would be whittled during the regular school season. And there will always be individuals who definitely should be in the national finals despite perhaps being on a losing team while district titles are decided.

Perhaps the most logical solution would be sectional tournaments with the best golfers progressing to the nationals. But then again, this could slash many teams to one or two players and there would be little accomplished as far as bringing in the better teams if the same number of a minimum four is required for the team title.

Already there has been a pitch for a future tourney to be held here at the Broadmoor, with Colorado College again acting as official host school. The next time it comes here, there should be little problem in handling the ifeld — no matter what size — as by that time the Broadmoor will have completed the now-in-the-making double 18 holes which should make the local course one of the very finest in the land.

But there are very few courses that can tackle this type of traffic so it's obvious that changes will be made before any school hosts another NCAA tournament.

It's here that the future headliners of the professional circuit are molded, as evidenced by some of the past winners — not to mention the also-rans who didn't make it here but went on to greater things.

Among the past NCAA winners are such names as Arnold Palmer ('49-'50 from Wake Forest), Jack Nicklaus ('61 Ohio State), Phil Rodger ('58 Houston), Jackie Cupit ('59 Houston), Rex Baxter ('56 Houston), Bo Winninger ('47 Oklahoma State), and Gardner Dickinson ('48 LSU). . .just to mention a few who have hit it rich with the pros.

The names in this week's tournament may not be familiar to the average fan, but wait a few years and they will be known throughout the world.

Medlicott Posts No-Hitter To Highlight Legion Play

By CHARLIE DREUX

Lefty Tom Medlicott overpowered the Elks baseballers with his sweeping fastball Wednesday night as the portside chucker recorded a no-hitter and paced the Rotary nine's 8-0 triumph over the Elks in American Legion "A" competition at Memorial Field.

In the second game of the twin bill Wednesday night, the Sertoma crew stormed past the Lions, 10-1, behind the pitching of rapid Bob Kochis who turned in a three-hit performance during the seven-inning contest.

This Sunday's agenda calls for a doubleheader at Memorial Field and pits the Elks against the Rotary squad in the first game at 6:30 p.m., followed by the Sertoma-Lions game at 8:30 p.m.

After walking two batters in the opening frame, Medlicott settled down and blazed his fast ball across the plate for the remainder of the game to deny the Elks any hits. In addition to stifling the Elks batsmen's hitting attack, the Rotary pitching ace recorded 17 strikeouts while giving up four walks.

Medlicott was at a peak form despite a strong, cold wind which prevailed throughout the game and it made for difficult fielding. After the brief shaky start, Medlicott settled down and retired the next nine Elks batters with nine consecutive strikeouts.

Meanwhile, his teammates jumped the Elks starting pitcher Bill Brandt for nine hits during his four and two-thirds inning on the mound. John Gannon relieved Brandt in the fifth and snuffed out the Rotary's hot bats. But two errors in the sixth stanza resulted in the eighth tally for the Rotary group which was unearned.

Olie West and Chuck Reinking supplied the stick power for the winning Rotary team with West collecting two hits for three times at bat and drove in two runs. Reinking went 2-5 at the plate and collect two RBIs.

Coach Jerry Hughes' charges struck in the first frame for two runs and followed with two more tallies in the fourth. The Rotary put the game on ice with a three-run rally in the fifth and scored its final run in the sixth.

Kochis held the Lions to three hits while the strong right-hander struck out 13 batters and only gave up one walk. Sertoma tabbed starting pitcher Ron Cheek for six runs on four hits during the Lions' portside chucker's five-inning performance on the mound. Cheek was charged with the loss.

The Sertoma group jumped on reliever Mike Romero for four additional runs on three hits to sew up the victory. But Romero was only charged with two earned runs.

In addition to his pitching chores, Kochis also fared well at the plate collecting two hits and driving in two runs. Clay Chambers and Al Maynard also recorded two hits.

The Lions scored their single tally in the fourth frame when John Jamison doubled and scored when Sertoma second sacker Terry Stillwaught made a miscue.

Sertoma scored one run in the opening frame and followed with a five-inning rally in the second stanza. The winning team put the game on ice with four more runs in the sixth.

Greek Soccer Fans Cause Riot

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—An estimated 25,000 Greek soccer fans rioted Wednesday following a 1-1 tie between two top teams —Panathinaicos of Athens and Olympiacos of Piraes.

Shouting that the game had been fixed, the mob invaded the playing field, set fire to nets and dressing rooms, tore down railings and goalposts and battled police before being driven into the streets.

THE GAME'S CALLED GOLF — Even though Sacramento State's Bob Smith looks as though he might be getting ready to hit a high curve ball during this action from the NCAA Golf Tournament Wednesday. Actually, Smith was just trying to wave a putt closer to the hole in his first round match which he lost to Bob Douma of Colorado State University, 4 and 3. (Photo by Bob McIntyre)

Three Boxers Die From Ring Injuries

Boxing again found itself under attack today after a flurry of three ring deaths within 24 hours ran the toll of fatalities in the sport this year to six. A seventh fighter, Alejandro Lavorante, died in April of injuries suffered in a 1962 bout.

The three latest deaths came Tuesday and Wednesday. Henry Stephens, an 18-year-old Australian amateur, and Rey Romero, a 21-year-old Filipino who had only three professional fights, died Tuesday of injuries sustained in bouts a few days earlier. Lyn James, a 21-year-old Welshman, died Wednesday after his sixth round knockout at the hands of featherweight Colin Lake.

The deaths brought protests against the sport in Britain and demands for revision of ring rules in the Philippines, where five boxers have died in the last three years.

Tourney Moves to Quarters In This Afternoon's Play

By TOM C USHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Wednesday was a day like all other days — except at the NCAA Golf Tournament.

At the annual conclave of the nation's top collegiate swingers, which is currently in progress at the Broadmoor, Wednesday was an extremely bad day for favorites — and caddies.

Favorites, if there can be such designat ions in a tournament of this type, stand about as much chance this week as a putt on a Broadmoor green. No fewer than eight of the more-highly-regarded players who ate breakfast Wednesday as a competitor, ate lunch as a spectator.

One consoling factor in this tournament, however, is that losers need wait only a few hours before they have company. The format calls for a bulky match play bracket of 64 golfers, but once the action starts the field shrinks like a pair of two - dollar pants. Wednesday's double round reduced the number from 64 to 16 and following another parir of 18 hole rounds today, only four players will remain.

The pace will slow a bit Friday but not the endurance test. The quartet entering the semi-finals will be required to play 36 hole matches to determine which two get to play another 36 Saturday for the championship. The morning 18 each day will start at 9 with the second round scheduled to pick up at 1 p.m.

It the present trend continues, trying to guess the eventual winner is going to produce a press - room full of confusion. Wednesday's first round eliminated 3 members of Houston University's championship team and three from the Oklahoma State squad which was runner-up. Included in the list of casualties were the Cougars' Wright Garrett and the Cowboys' George Hixon, the two who had most frequently been mentioned as possible winners before the tourney got underway.

Hixon took a 5 and 4 shellacking from John Kurzynowski of Acquinas College, who is sort of a displaced person in this big school festival. Kurzynowski is one of six small college players invited to participate. Just last week he won the small college title at Springfield, Mo., and from the way he started here, Kurzynowski may have to rent a truck to take home all the hardware. After dumping Hixon, he polished off Robert Carlson of the University of Washington, 3 and 2.

Other surprises were turned up by Kenneth Lindsey of Memphis State who eliminated Wichita's John Stevens, 5 and 4; Vernon Novak of Maryland who ousted Jim Hardy of Oklahoma State 1 up; and Carlson, who dumped Mark Hopkins of Houston, 2 up. Stevens contributed to his own downfall by three-putting six straight greens. Hardy strolled down the 17th fairway with a one - hole advantage but eventually picked up at that hole and bogied the 18th to lose.

Among the more impressive winners were medalist Jerry Potter of Miami U., CSU's Bob Douma, Forest Evashevski, Jr. of Michigan, Marty Fleckman of Houston, Larry Beem of New Mexico, Novak, and Kurzynowski. All were among those who survived the gruelling twin - round schedule.

The most ironic twist of fate of the entire tournament also occurred Wednesday and Gerald Hanweck of Stanford, for one, will never forget it. Hanweck led by one hole as he hit his second shot to the 18th green. At that point his caddy moved forward to replace a divot and accidentally moved the ball of Hanweck's opponent, Randy Petri of Houston.

The error caused Hanweck to forfeit the hole and sent the match into overtime. On the 22nd hole, Petri slipped in a par putt for the victory and Hanweck was left with nothing except a conversation piece. Petri eventually went on to defeat Southeast Conference Champion, Bert Greene of Tennessee U. in the afternoon, 2 and 1, to advance to this morning's third round.

Potter, who has shown a flair for dramatic finishes throughout the week, outdid himself Wednesday afternoon. After birdies on the first two holes of his match with Arizona State's Ted Lyford, the tourney medalist ran into a string of bogies and eventually fell behind. He then salvaged victory by ramming in a 10 - foot eagle putt on the 17th hole to tie the match and polished off his startled opponent by dropping a similar shot on the 18th green for a birdie.

Horse-Buggy Style

It's as obvious as the sullen look on a duffers face just after he's shanked another into the boondocks that something will have to be done to correct the situation.

In the case of the NCAA golf championships now going thru the fourth round of match play this afternoon at the beautiful but often brutal Broadmoor course, it's a matter of changing the format to modern times.

The field from throughout the land this year swelled to a bulging 246 entries, of which all but the top 64 were eliminated by Wednesday's first round of individual match play. And then yesterday and today they were dropping out like flies in a honey pot as with each round half were sent home with only the consolation of being in the national championships.

The sticky wicket in this is that there are few if any college type course able to handle the traffic of this congestion for the first three days the way the tournament is set up at present. And the whole thing has been amplified by the fact that next year the tourney is scheduled for Tennessee, where it should be e asy driving distance for several hundred to come just from the immediate vicinity.

That means that the field could be pushing 300 or more — unless something is done in the very near future. And the big wigs of the NCAA have at least shown enough foresight to start new blueprints for the future.

Actually, the whole trouble is that the game of golf has grown too popular throughout the land. And this has been reflected in the increased number of colleges and universities with teams in competition.

It's only natural as papa can obviously read and count up the loot being taken in by such tycoons as Arnie Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Tony Lema, etc., and it would be a fool that doesn't shove putter in hand to the son who seems to have the inclination to put the ball in the hole.

So the result is that more and more high schoolers are taking up the game. . .and then following up when they advance to the institutions of higher learning. Also the scholarships provided by some of the schools nowadays makes the links another avenue for an inexpensive education for the lad who may not know how to buckel on shoulder pads but does have the savvy for pitching a wedge shot for a gimme putt.

Back before the turn of the century when they first dreamed up this bit of golfing between exams, there wasn't much of a problem. The tournament stayed close to the Atlantic side of the nation and only a handful of schools were inclined to send representatives to the tournament even when only a few miles away. A cross-country jaunt such as players coming from New York or California like in the present edition was unheard of.

Even as late as the mid-50's, or when the Broadmoor held the tourney for the first time of four in the last 11 years, there weren't more than a dozen teams and the individual entry list hardly went over the 100 mark. But that's all changed in the past fewyears—and it's obviously getting out of hand.

When the list of top collegiate golfers was limited to only a few from one section of the country, the team championship was relatively minor. The important thing in those days was the individual who was crowned for the whole country.

But now it's a different story. The tournament has truly progressed to a national championships as far as teams are concerned — and yet the tournament format has changed little from the days when Harvard, Yale and Princeton dominated the scene like there was nothing but cowboys and Indians west of the Mississippi.

Some say times have outworn the match play which takes up the majority of the tournament to settle to individual champ. The trend now in the mill is a switch to stroke play with the team championship the important item.

Problems will arise no matter what is determined from the meetings of the coaches association which has been holding meetings during the stay here in Colorado Springs. It's evident that something will have to give — but it may take more than a year or so to work out the wrinkles.

The recommendation is to conduct a qualifying section series of tournaments to trim the field to a reasonable number. This sounds fine and dandy, but it's not quite that simple since there are many, many schools not alligned with a conference that would be whittled during the regular school season. And there will always be individuals who definitely should be in the national finals despite perhaps being on a losing team while district titles are decided.

Perhaps the most logical solution would be sectional tournaments with the best golfers progressing to the nationals. But then again, this could slash many teams to one or two players and there would be little accomplished as far as bringing in the better teams if the same number of a minimum four is required for the team title.

Already there has been a pitch for a future tourney to be held here at the Broadmoor, with Colorado College again acting as official host school. The next time it comes here, there should be little problem in handling the ifeld — no matter what size — as by that time the Broadmoor will have completed the now-in-the-making double 18 holes which should make the local course one of the very finest in the land.

But there are very few courses that can tackle this type of traffic so it's obvious that changes will be made before any school hosts another NCAA tournament.

Greek Soccer Fans Cause Riot

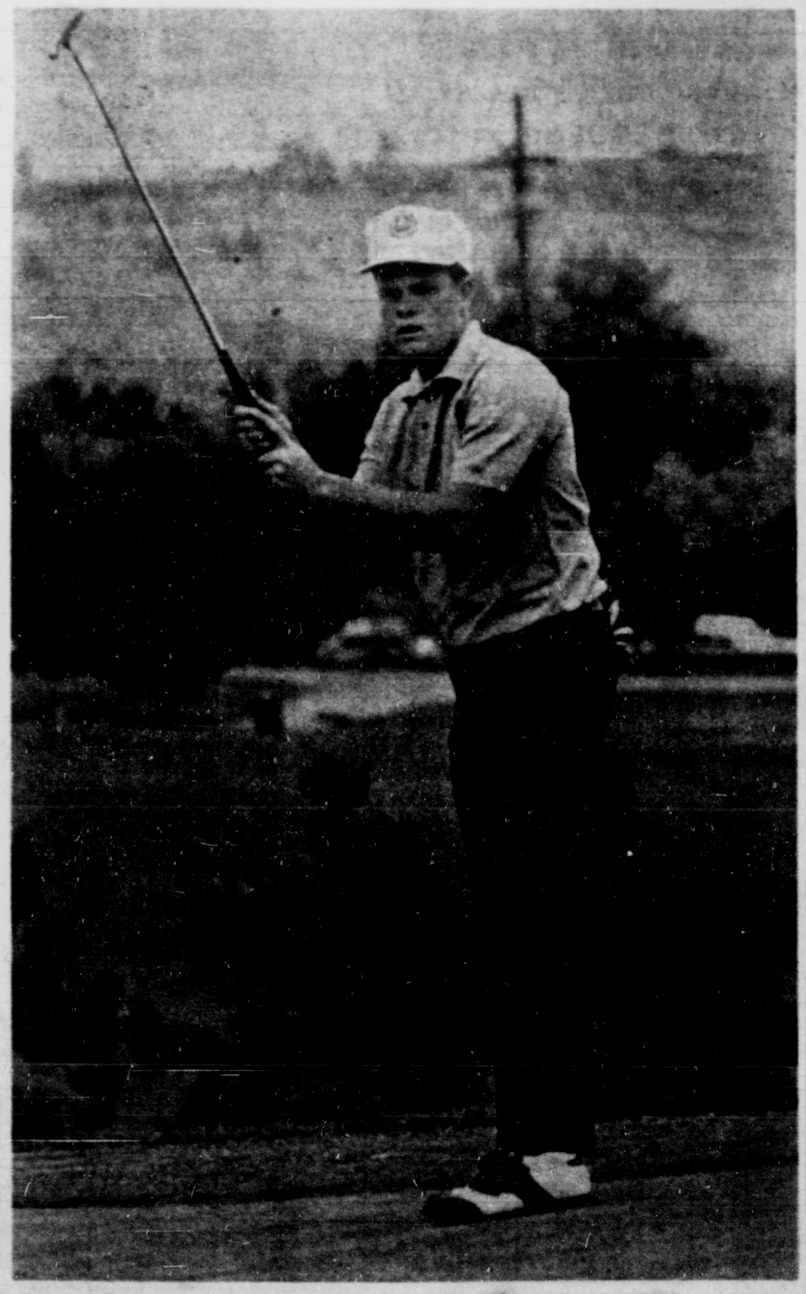
ATHENS, Greece (AP)—An estimated 25,000 Greek soccer fans rioted Wednesday following a 1-1 tie between two top teams —Panathinaicos of Athens and Olympiacos of Piraes.

Shouting that the game had been fixed, the mob invaded the playing field, set fire to nets and dressing rooms, tore down railings and goalposts and battled police before being driven into the streets.



THE GAME'S CALLED GOLF — Even though Sacramento State's Bob Smith looks as though he might be getting ready to hit a high curve ball during this action from the NCAA Golf Tournament Wednesday. Actually, Smith was just trying to wave a putt closer to the hole in his first round match which he lost to Bob Douma of Colorado State University, 4 and 3. (Photo by Bob McIntyre)

Three Boxers Die From Ring Injuries

Boxing again found itself under attack today after a flurry of three ring deaths within 24 hours ran the toll of fatalities in the sport this year to six. A seventh fighter, Alejandro Lavorante, died in April of injuries suffered in a 1962 bout.

The three latest deaths came Tuesday and Wednesday. Henry Stephens, an 18-year-old Australian amateur, and Rey Romero, a 21-year-old Filipino who had only three professional fights, died Tuesday of injuries sustained in bouts a few days earlier. Lyn James, a 21-year-old Welshman, died Wednesday after his sixth round knockout at the hands of featherweight Colin Lake.

The deaths brought protests against the sport in Britain and demands for revision of ring rules in the Philippines, where five boxers have died in the last three years.

Player -- and Others -- Have Dream Of Winning National Open Tourney

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like Hamlet, Gary Player dresses all in black, and has dreams. Player dreams about golf.

If one of his dreams had only lasted a little longer, the world's best golfer would have been saved a lot of nightmares at the U.S. Open this weekend. And heartacehs. And shocks.

But Gary woke up too soon.

Or, as W. Shakespeare had his Hamlet say:

"To sleep, no more. And via sleep to end the heartache. The heartache and the thousand natural shocks that flesh is heir to."

Player doesn't talk quite like that. But he had a dream that he won the Open, the only major golf title that he has never won. There was just one trouble — he woke up before he found out whether he won it this year or another one.

"I know my name is written on the cup," Player said, as the field of 150 set out today over the Congressional Country Club course in pursuit of this most important golf title of all.

"I have seen it," Player said. "I have dreamed it. But I don't know what year."

So the stars of golf will battle through Saturday—18 holes today and Friday and 36 holes on the pressure packed final day—to see if Player's dream comes true this year.

In Shakespeare's phrase, there are plenty of heartaches in store.

Congressional is listed at par 70, but it is the longest course ever used for the Open, 7,053 yards.

That means that the two big belters of golf, Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, share the role of favorite, and only five or six other players are seriously considered as contenders.

Player, once rated a member of golf's Big Three - and now struggling to rejoin the group, is one of them. Champaigne Tony Lema, winner of the last two tour tournaments and the fellow who would like to take Player's old spot at the top, is another.

The others would include defenders Julius Boros, sharp-putting Billy Casper, and old Sam Snead, at 52 playing in his 24th consecutive Open.

Snead is the sentimental favorite in the tournament he has never won. But that won't help him much when Saturday comes with 36 holes in the Open pressure cooker.

Nobody expects par to take a beating.

"We won't score well here," Player said. "There won't be 20 rounds below 70.

"The winner might get under 280, say 279. It's possible if the weather stays nice."

Asked to single out his most dangerous competitors, Palmer said:

"Nicklaus could do it, of course. Lema could do it, if he keeps on putting the way he has been. Player could.

"This is not a course that somebody is going to tear up. The winner will have to string together a lot of pars. Julius Boros does that.

"There are a couple of others but those are the main ones."

Deane Beman Could Upset the Pros

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Deane Beman, a cheerful pint-sized chap, has the best chance of any amateur in many years to win the U.S. Open Golf Tournament.

At least that's the opinion of Jack Nicklaus, who won the Open in 1962 in his first year as a professional after winning the National Amateur title a year earlier.

No amateur has won the event since Johnny Goodman in 1933. None even made the cut for the final 36 holes last year. There are only 17 amateurs competing in the Open this year.

Beman, who won his second straight National Amateur title last year and also is a former British Amateur champion, does not see any amateur on the horizon, including himself, who is capable of threatening the professional strangle hold on the open championship.

"Challenging for the open is a full-time job," he said, "and Congressional is too demanding a course for an amateur to come out of nowhere."

The 25-year-old Bethesda, Md. insurance salesman tied for 12th in the 1961 Open, was 14th and low amateur in 1962, when his final round 67 was the best score in the tournament but did not play well enough last year to be included in the final rounds.

In practice rounds Monday and Tuesday, Beman played only nine holes.

Sixth - seeded Lenior, who swings with both hands on the racket, downed Dave Sanderlin of UCLA 6-3, 6-1, while Parker turned back fifth-seeded Dave Reed of UCLA 9-7, 6-4, in the upset.

Ralston and Riessen came up with straight - set victories again. Ralston eliminated Doug Sylkes of California 7-5, 6-2. Riessen defeated Gary Johnson of Los Angeles State, new NCAA college division champion, 6-2, 6-4.

The favored doubles teams of Riessen and Clark Graebner and Ralston and Bill Bond also moved into the quarter-finals.

Congressional is listed at par 70, but it is the longest course ever used for the Open, 7,053 yards.

That means that the two big belters of golf, Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, share the role of favorite, and only five or six other players are seriously considered as contenders.

Player, once rated a member of golf's Big Three - and now struggling to rejoin the group, is one of them. Champaigne Tony Lema, winner of the last two tour tournaments and the fellow who would like to take Player's old spot at the top, is another.

The others would include defenders Julius Boros, sharp-putting Billy Casper, and old Sam Snead, at 52 playing in his 24th consecutive Open.

Snead is the sentimental favorite in the tournament he has never won. But that won't help him much when Saturday comes with 36 holes in the Open pressure cooker.

Nobody expects par to take a beating.

"We won't score well here," Player said. "There won't be 20 rounds below 70.

"The winner might get under 280, say 279. It's possible if the weather stays nice."

Asked to single out his most dangerous competitors, Palmer said:

"Nicklaus could do it, of course. Lema could do it, if he keeps on putting the way he has been. Player could.

"This is not a course that somebody is going to tear up. The winner will have to string together a lot of pars. Julius Boros does that.

"There are a couple of others but those are the main ones."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Deane Beman, a cheerful pint-sized chap, has the best chance of any amateur in many years to win the U.S. Open Golf Tournament.

At least that's the opinion of Jack Nicklaus, who won the Open in 1962 in his first year as a professional after winning the National Amateur title a year earlier.

No amateur has won the event since Johnny Goodman in 1933. None even made the cut for the final 36 holes last year. There are only 17 amateurs competing in the Open this year.

Beman, who won his second straight National Amateur title last year and also is a former British Amateur champion, does not see any amateur on the horizon, including himself, who is capable of threatening the professional strangle hold on the open championship.

"Challenging for the open is a full-time job," he said, "and Congressional is too demanding a course for an amateur to come out of nowhere."

The 25-year-old Bethesda, Md. insurance salesman tied for 12th in the 1961 Open, was 14th and low amateur in 1962, when his final round 67 was the best score in the tournament but did not play well enough last year to be included in the final rounds.

In practice rounds Monday and Tuesday, Beman played only nine holes.

Player -- and Others -- Have Dream Of Winning National Open Tourney

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like Hamlet, Gary Player dresses all in black, and has dreams. Player dreams about golf.

If one of his dreams had only lasted a little longer, the world's best golfer would have been saved a lot of nightmares at the U.S. Open this weekend. And heartacehs. And shocks.

But Gary woke up too soon.

Or, as W. Shakespeare had his Hamlet say:

"To sleep, no more. And via sleep to end the heartache. The heartache and the thousand natural shocks that flesh is heir to."

Player doesn't talk quite like that. But he had a dream that he won the Open, the only major golf title that he has never won. There was just one trouble — he woke up before he found out whether he won it this year or another one.

"I know my name is written on the cup," Player said, as the field of 150 set out today over the Congressional Country Club course in pursuit of this most important golf title of all.

"I have seen it," Player said. "I have dreamed it. But I don't know what year."

So the stars of golf will battle through Saturday—18 holes today and Friday and 36 holes on the pressure packed final day—to see if Player's dream comes true this year.

In Shakespeare's phrase, there are plenty of heartaches in store.

Congressional is listed at par 70, but it is the longest course ever used for the Open, 7,053 yards.

That means that the two big belters of golf, Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, share the role of favorite, and only five or six other players are seriously considered as contenders.

Player, once rated a member of golf's Big Three and now struggling to rejoin the group, is one of them. Champaigne Tony Lema, winner of the last two tour tournaments and the fellow who would like to take Player's old spot at the top, is another.

The others would include defenders Julius Boros, sharp-putting Billy Casper, and old Sam Snead, at 52 playing in his 24th consecutive Open.

Snead is the sentimental favorite in the tournament he has never won. But that won't help him much when Saturday comes with 36 holes in the Open pressure cooker.

Nobody expects par to take a beating.

"We won't score well here," Player said. "There won't be 20 rounds below 70.

"The winner might get under 280, say 279. It's possible if the weather stays nice."

Asked to single out his most dangerous competitors, Palmer said:

"Nicklaus could do it, of course. Lema could do it, if he keeps on putting the way he has been. Player could.

"This is not a course that somebody is going to tear up. The winner will have to string together a lot of pars. Julius Boros does that.

"There are a couple of others but those are the main ones."

George Low Called 'America's Guest'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—They can start the U.S. Open golf championship any time because George Low, America's guest, arrived on the scene today.

George is the man who, Jimmy Demaret claims, was "born retired." He worked for a while at being a golf pro but then quit because he was "a victim of circumference."

Low is a fascinating character who makes "one-eyed" Connolly look like a charity case.

Connolly merely crashed gates. George drives through them in a Cadillac, somebody else's, of course. He lives at the best hotels, if they have first class room service; insults his friends with charming malice; scorches his wealthy "clients" if they ever dare have an impediment in their reach, and casually accepts his friends' wealth and good fortune as being his personal due.

Low's father, George, Sr., was a fine golf professional at Baltusrol Golf Club in Springfield, N. J., where George was foaled. The elder Low was the first president of the Professional Golfers Association, was runnerup in the 1899 U.S. Open.

He lists among his intimates such as the Prince of Wales and any loose millionaire who happens to be in George's exclusive neighborhood.

"It isn't easy to pick your friends," George says. "You have to have a real good rating in Dun and Bradstreet."

Close-fisted characters don't rate in George's private social register. Of one who was being lauded, the rotund one drew himself up off his cane seat, and observed haughtily:

"He wouldn't give a duck a drink if he owned Lake Erie."

Gorgeous George, as a youngster too sensitive to play for petty cash without giving his victim a handicap, developed a technique of putting with the toe of his shoe and trimmed hundreds of hapless professionals on the greens. In 1943 he halted Byron Nelson's string of 11 straight triumphs at Memphis but then decided that working was demeaning his reputation.

"Let's say I hurt my back," he recalls. "I changed my stance at the bar from an open stance to a hook stance. Something snapped and my friends have been happy to shoulder the burden."

Souchak Gets Help From Coach

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (UPI)—When Wallace Wade gathered his football squad around him the first time in 1948 the hard-bitten Duke coach, chin jutting out, glared around the circle of Huskies.

"I'll never forget what he said," observed big Mike Souchak, who was an end and place - kicker the next three years for the Blue Devils before going on after graduation to become one of the nation's top professional golf stars.

Wade took his time staring them down. Then he growled:

"If there are any prima donnas here who think they are only going to play football on Saturdays, I want them to check in their gear and go up to the campus and chase girls. If you stay, you have to be willing to play Monday and right on through the week."

Souchak sobered at the memory of that day.

"But," he said, breaking the silence, "the determination and dedication which he instilled in us have helped me come back to the top in pro golf."

Souchak was playing so badly last year, his worst in nine years as a top - drawer "name" on the pro circuit, that several times he contemplated quitting the tour and taking a club job.

Souchak earned only $13,000 over the whole year. That's not much when it costs more than $8,000 to make the tour and you have a wife and four children back home.

"But I didn't want to go out on a sour note," he explained. "I knew I was capable of beating most of the guys who were beating me."

"I had a lot of time to think," he remembered. "I knew I was thinking wrong, playing defensively instead of offensively. I had tinkered with my game so much I didn't know what I was doing."

Boxing To Continue At Garden

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Boxing will continue at Madison Square Garden after Sept. 11, new television contract or not.

Harry Markson, managing director of Garden boxing, said today he still hoped to work out a special network to carry the bouts on television after the current contract expires.

However, the fact that no new network has been arranged since ABC said last December that it would drop boxing, indicates that there is a strong possibility that regular fight programs on television may end Sept. 11.

"We still are working on setting up a network for boxing," said Markson. "It would be no problem finding enough stations across the nation but we must have outlets in the major markets such as Los Angeles, New York and Chicago. They are musts.

"Then you should have cities such as Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis, San Francisco, New Orleans, Cleveland, Washington and Pittsburgh as well as the smaller cities.

Buster Crabbe Sounds Warnings About Olympics

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"The rest of the world is catching up fast and we shouldn't be too disappointed if we don't match our great 1960 swimming record in the Tokyo Olympics."

Buster Crabbe, the 1932 Olympic 400-meter freestyle champion, sounded the warning today in talking about the prospects of the United States in the swimming and diving at the October Games.

"Our men should do all right although the competition will be much stiffer," said the handsome and still trim Olympian. "I think our girls won't come close to the 1960 medal collection because of the tremendous improvement by other girls all over the world."

American men bagged six of the 10 championships while the U. S. girls won five of the nine titles at Rome in 1960. Australian men took the other four golds. Among the women, Germany's Ingrid Kramer captured both diving golds and Australia's Dawn Fraser and England's Anita Lonsbrough each won one.

"We have wonderful talent and outstanding stars in Don Schollander, Roy Saari and Donna de Varona to name a few," said Crabbe. "We'll get a good share of the golds. But in the men's field the Russians have become threats for the first time, the Australians will be solidly represented again, the British have some real good ones, and you can count on the Japanese and others to have contenders.

"In the women's field, there is Australia's wonderful Dawn Fraser—if she makes a complete recovery from her accident—Japan's Satoko Tanaka, some great young English kids the always powerful Dutch, the Russians, Swedes, French and the very strong Germans, especially that Kramer girl in the diving."

At 56, Crabbe carries 185 pounds on his 6-foot-1½ frame. That's only a few pounds over what he weighed for the 1928 and 1932 Olympics.

The kids of today know him best for his movie parts as Tarzan, Flash Gordon and Buck Rogers and for his television role of Captain Gallant of the Foreign Legion.

He still makes movies when time permits but he is kept busy in various enterprises. He is executive director of Cascade Industries, Inc., which manufactures and markets residential swimming pools in his name; director of water activities at a Catskill resort and owner of two camps.

He will celebrate Buster Crabbe Day at the World's Fair today by performing five times in a swimming comedy routine.

"I still love to swim," he said, "but somehow those pools are beginning to seem longer."

Indy Veterans to Compete In Continental 250 Race

With four Indianapolis "500" winners —A. J. Foyt, Roger Ward, Parnelli Jones and Troy Ruttman — expected to head an estimated field of 30 drivers, the inaugural running of the 250-mile National Championship Late Model Stock Car race slated Sunday, June 28, at Continental Divide Raceways should be the biggest auto racing show in Colorado.

According to promoter John Rostek, the Continental 250 will draw four Indianapolis "500" winners and a host of veteran stock car veterans for the first time in the history of Rocky Mountain Empire racing. The race is slated to begin at 1 p.m.

Auto racing fans will also have an opportunity to view the 42nd running of the Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb the following Saturday, July 4. In addition to the many popular local drivers entered in the three classifications of the Hill Climb — championship, stock and sports car divisions—the Colorado Springs area racing enthusiasts will have a chance to see Jones race again in stock car competition during the "race to the clouds" up massive 14,110 foot Pikes Peak.

Although Jones was injured during a pit-stop fire which caused him to be eliminated from the Memorial Day classic at Indianapolis, the defending Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb stock car champion recovered in time to resume racing last weekend in California.

Jones will bring two stock cars here next week to complete in both the Continental 250 and the Hill Climb.

Other Indianapolis veterans expected to compete in the Continental 250 include Len Sutton, Jim Hurtubise, and Bill Cheesbourg. From the stock car circuit will be Don White and Norm Nelson, two former stock car champions. White is the defending champion and Nelson won the national stock car championship in 1962.

Jones leads the stock car drivers this year with Hurtubise, Nelson, White, Ward and Foyt among the top 10 in the stock car racing circles. The first U.S. Auto Club (USAC) race this year was won by Hurtubise in a Plymouth at Langhorne, Pa.

Foyt is the defending Indianapolis "500" winner and the Texan recorded his second big win Memorial Day in the last four year. Foyt will be driving a 1964 Ford. Ward also won the "500" twice and he will be wheeling a 1964 Mercury.

With the addition of several manufacturers awards, the posted awards for the Continental 250 stands at $16,000. USAC officials have announced that practice over the nine-turn 2.8 mile track, which was designed for sports car for Grand Prix racing, is scheduled from 9 to 11 a.m. and the qualifying is set for 11 a.m. The actual race will begin at 1 p.m.

Continental Divide Raceways is located one mile south of Castle Rock. Advance tickets may be purchased in Colorado Springs at either Blick's Sporting Goods Store or at the Underpass Texaco service station.

Two State Drivers Enter PP Hill Climb

Heading the latest entries for the 42nd annual Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb, Saturday, July 4, are Frank Sanborn, veteran stock car driver from Cascade, and Frank Peterson, veteran Corvette driver from Lakewood.

Frank, the oldest of the Sanborn twins, will be taking part in his ninth "race to the clouds." However, as chief of the patrol on the Pikes Peak Auto Highway, he runs up to the top of the 14,110 foot mountain daily in the performance of his duties. He is also chief of the Cascade Volunteer Fire Department.

Sanborn will be wheeling a 1964 Plymouth, powered by a 426 cu. in. hemispherical engine. It is entered by Johnny Banbimere of Denver, who took the brothers to see their first Hill Climb back in 1946. Frank made his racing debut on the "hill" in 1956, driving a championship car. He switched to stocks in 1958. His best effort was a third last year.

Other drivers set for the stock car division are defending champion Parnelli Jones, the 1963 Indianapolis winner; and his teammate Louis J. Unser, two-time stock car winner. They will be wheeling 1964 Mercury Marauders.

Peterson will make his sixth trip over the world's most spectacular road course in the Peterson Turkey Farm Special, a 326 cu. in. fuel injected Corvette. His best finish on the "hill" was a second to champion Ak Miller in 1962.

Frank is the third driver entered in the sports car division of the 12.42 mile race. The others are Al Daniels and Pat Livingston.

Peterson is currently helping Banbimere, Sanborn's car owner, build the Safety Proving Grounds of America in Denver.

Mizzou, Minnesota Clash In NCAA Finals Tonight

It looks like a toss-up. Even at third best, Stroud's 1.45 earned run average and 9-1 record compares favorably with Pollack, 10-2 and 1.82. Keith Weber, Missouri's No. 1 man, will be ready for relief.

"Don't forget, two of Minnesota's best hitters, Dave Hoffman and Bill Davis, are left-handed batters," said Hi Simmons, Missouri coach.

Missouri used its No. 2 man, sophomore Dennis Musgraves, to eliminate Maine's giant killers Wednesday night, 2-1. Maine had knocked Arizona State and Southern California out of the tournament.

Musgraves gave just two hits, both in the sixth when the tough Yankee Conference champs scored an unearned run.

He didn't walk a man, permitted only two balls out of the infield, retired the first 15 men and the last 10 in succession.

"Musgraves has terrific potential," Simmons said. "There is no better college sophomore pitcher in the United States. He's a good student and I hope he stays in college and gets his degree."

Maine's Dick Dolloff pitched a five-hitter in defeat.

This is Minnesota's third trip to the college world series. Dick Siebert's club won the crown in both its other trips, the election years of 1956 and 1960.

The 58-year-old Simmons, winner of 10 Big Eight crowns in his 25 years as coach, is making his fourth trip into the finals in six NCAA tourneys. Missouri won it in 1954, finished second in 1952 and 1958.

Minnesota's .287 hitting average is best in the tourney.

Missouri had a staff earned run average of 0.85 for the regular season and it's a scant 0.50 in the tournament. Missouri's hitting is only adequate, but its defense is outstanding.

"We don't shell anybody," Simmons said, "but they don't shut us out either. We have trouble with all pitchers—even the cunny-thumber—you know, the fellas who pitch sidearm with their thumbs up."

Despite five rainouts, attendance has totaled 51,309, just 1,448 short of the tournament record.

Missouri beat Minnesota 4-1 Monday night.

Indy Veterans to Compete In Continental 250 Race

With four Indianapolis "500" winners —A. J. Foyt, Roger Ward, Parnelli Jones and Troy Ruttman — expected to head an estimated field of 30 drivers, the inaugural running of the 250-mile National Championship Late Model Stock Car race slated Sunday, June 28, at Continental Divide Raceways should be the biggest auto racing show in Colorado.

According to promoter John Rostek, the Continental 250 will draw four Indianapolis "500" winners and a host of veteran stock car veterans for the first time in the history of Rocky Mountain Empire racing. The race is slated to begin at 1 p.m.

Auto racing fans will also have an opportunity to view the 42nd running of the Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb the following Saturday, July 4. In addition to the many popular local drivers entered in the three classifications of the Hill Climb — championship, stock and sports car divisions—the Colorado Springs area racing enthusiasts will have a chance to see Jones race again in stock car competition during the "race to the clouds" up massive 14,110 foot Pikes Peak.

Although Jones was injured during a pit-stop fire which caused him to be eliminated from the Memorial Day classic at Indianapolis, the defending Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb stock car champion recovered in time to resume racing last weekend in California.

Jones will bring two stock cars here next week to complete in both the Continental 250 and the Hill Climb.

Other Indianapolis veterans expected to compete in the Continental 250 include Len Sutton, Jim Hurtubise, and Bill Cheesbourg. From the stock car circuit will be Don White and Norm Nelson, two former stock car champions. White is the defending champion and Nelson won the national stock car championship in 1962.

Jones leads the stock car drivers this year with Hurtubise, Nelson, White, Ward and Foyt among the top 10 in the stock car racing circles. The first U.S. Auto Club (USAC) race this year was won by Hurtubise in a Plymouth at Langhorne, Pa.

Foyt is the defending Indianapolis "500" winner and the Texan recorded his second big win Memorial Day in the last four year. Foyt will be driving a 1964 Ford. Ward also won the "500" twice and he will be wheeling a 1964 Mercury.

With the addition of several manufacturers awards, the posted awards for the Continental 250 stands at $16,000. USAC officials have announced that practice over the nine-turn 2.8 mile track, which was designed for sports car for Grand Prix racing, is scheduled from 9 to 11 a.m. and the qualifying is set for 11 a.m. The actual race will begin at 1 p.m.

Continental Divide Raceways is located one mile south of Castle Rock. Advance tickets may be purchased in Colorado Springs at either Blick's Sporting Goods Store or at the Underpass Texaco service station.

Two State Drivers Enter PP Hill Climb

Heading the latest entries for the 42nd annual Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb, Saturday, July 4, are Frank Sanborn, veteran stock car driver from Cascade, and Frank Peterson, veteran Corvette driver from Lakewood.

Frank, the oldest of the Sanborn twins, will be taking part in his ninth "race to the clouds." However, as chief of the patrol on the Pikes Peak Auto Highway, he runs up to the top of the 14,110 foot mountain daily in the performance of his duties. He is also chief of the Cascade Volunteer Fire Department.

Sanborn will be wheeling a 1964 Plymouth, powered by a 426 cu. in. hemispherical engine. It is entered by Johnny Banbimere of Denver, who took the brothers to see their first Hill Climb back in 1946. Frank made his racing debut on the "hill" in 1956, driving a championship car. He switched to stocks in 1958. His best effort was a third last year.

Other drivers set for the stock car division are defending champion Parnelli Jones, the 1963 Indianapolis winner; and his teammate Louis J. Unser, two - time stock car winner. They will be wheeling 1964 Mercury Marauders.

Peterson will make his sixth trip over the world's most spectacular road course in the Peterson Turkey Farm Special, a 326 cu. in. fuel injected Corvette. His best finish on the "hill" was a second to champion Ak Miller in 1962.

Frank is the third driver entered in the sports car division of the 12.42 mile race. The others are Al Daniels and Pat Livingston.

Peterson is currently helping Banbimere, Sanborn's car owner, build the Safety Proving Grounds of America in Denver.

Impala Red To Run At Pueblo

PUEBLO — How do greyhounds that have been racing in Mexico compare with those running in the United States?

John Kendall, a Pueblo resident curious enough to find out, acquired a few that have been running on the Caliente track in Tiajuana, Mexico, in his first venture as a racing dog owner.

One of them, Impala Red, will make his first start of the season in Thursday night's featured eighth race after two straight schooling wins.

Competitors will include one of the new arrivals from Cloverleaf, Omer B. Rawlings' Spot Track, and Cecil W. Wilson's Happy Hook, a dog that raced in Colorado Springs last year and ran third in the Pueblo Inaugural on June 10.

More and more Cloverleaf dogs are being introduced this week as the Pueblo roster nears full strength. A few more arrivals from Raynham, Mass., later this month will complete the racing list.

Indy Veterans to Compete In Continental 250 Race

With four Indianapolis "500" winners —A. J. Foyt, Roger Ward, Parnelli Jones and Troy Ruttman — expected to head an estimated field of 30 drivers, the inaugural running of the 250-mile National Championship Late Model Stock Car race slated Sunday, June 28, at Continental Divide Raceways should be the biggest auto racing show in Colorado.

According to promoter John Rostek, the Continental 250 will draw four Indianapolis "500" winners and a host of veteran stock car veterans for the first time in the history of Rocky Mountain Empire racing. The race is slated to begin at 1 p.m.

Auto racing fans will also have an opportunity to view the 42nd running of the Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb the following Saturday, July 4. In addition to the many popular local drivers entered in the three classifications of the Hill Climb — championship, stock and sports car divisions—the Colorado Springs area racing enthusiasts will have a chance to see Jones race again in stock car competition during the "race to the clouds" up massive 14,110 foot Pikes Peak.

Although Jones was injured during a pit-stop fire which caused him to be eliminated from the Memorial Day classic at Indianapolis, the defending Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb stock car champion recovered in time to resume racing last weekend in California.

Jones will bring two stock cars here next week to complete in both the Continental 250 and the Hill Climb.

Other Indianapolis veterans expected to compete in the Continental 250 include Len Sutton, Jim Hurtubise, and Bill Cheesbourg. From the stock car circuit will be Don White and Norm Nelson, two former stock car champions. White is the defending champion and Nelson won the national stock car championship in 1962.

Jones leads the stock car drivers this year with Hurtubise, Nelson, White, Ward and Foyt among the top 10 in the stock car racing circles. The first U.S. Auto Club (USAC) race this year was won by Hurtubise in a Plymouth at Langhorne, Pa.

Foyt is the defending Indianapolis "500" winner and the Texan recorded his second big win Memorial Day in the last four year. Foyt will be driving a 1964 Ford. Ward also won the "500" twice and he will be wheeling a 1964 Mercury.

With the addition of several manufacturers awards, the posted awards for the Continental 250 stands at $16,000. USAC officials have announced that practice over the nine-turn 2.8 mile track, which was designed for sports car for Grand Prix racing, is scheduled from 9 to 11 a.m. and the qualifying is set for 11 a.m. The actual race will begin at 1 p.m.

Continental Divide Raceways is located one mile south of Castle Rock. Advance tickets may be purchased in Colorado Springs at either Blick's Sporting Goods Store or at the Underpass Texaco service station.

Two State Drivers Enter PP Hill Climb

Heading the latest entries for the 42nd annual Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb, Saturday, July 4, are Frank Sanborn, veteran stock car driver from Cascade, and Frank Peterson, veteran Corvette driver from Lakewood.

Frank, the oldest of the Sanborn twins, will be taking part in his ninth "race to the clouds." However, as chief of the patrol on the Pikes Peak Auto Highway, he runs up to the top of the 14,110 foot mountain daily in the performance of his duties. He is also chief of the Cascade Volunteer Fire Department.

Sanborn will be wheeling a 1964 Plymouth, powered by a 426 cu. in. hemispherical engine. It is entered by Johnny Banbimere of Denver, who took the brothers to see their first Hill Climb back in 1946. Frank made his racing debut on the "hill" in 1956, driving a championship car. He switched to stocks in 1958. His best effort was a third last year.

Other drivers set for the stock car division are defending champion Parnelli Jones, the 1963 Indianapolis winner; and his teammate Louis J. Unser, two - time stock car winner. They will be wheeling 1964 Mercury Marauders.

Peterson will make his sixth trip over the world's most spectacular road course in the Peterson Turkey Farm Special, a 326 cu. in. fuel injected Corvette. His best finish on the "hill" was a second to champion Ak Miller in 1962.

Frank is the third driver entered in the sports car division of the 12.42 mile race. The others are Al Daniels and Pat Livingston.

Peterson is currently helping Banbimere, Sanborn's car owner, build the Safety Proving Grounds of America in Denver.

Impala Red To Run At Pueblo

PUEBLO — How do greyhounds that have been racing in Mexico compare with those running in the United States?

John Kendall, a Pueblo resident curious enough to find out, acquired a few that have been running on the Caliente track in Tiajuana, Mexico, in his first venture as a racing dog owner.

One of them, Impala Red, will make his first start of the season in Thursday night's featured eighth race after two straight schooling wins.

Competitors will include one of the new arrivals from Cloverleaf, Omer B. Rawlings' Spot Track, and Cecil W. Wilson's Happy Hook, a dog that raced in Colorado Springs last year and ran third in the Pueblo Inaugural on June 10.

More and more Cloverleaf dogs are being introduced this week as the Pueblo roster nears full strength. A few more arrivals from Raynham, Mass., later this month will complete the racing list.

Mizzou, Minnesota Clash In NCAA Finals Tonight

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

It looks like a toss-up. Even at third best, Stroud's 1.45 earned run average and 9-1 record compares favorably with Pollack, 10-2 and 1.82. Keith Weber, Missouri's No. 1 man, will be ready for relief.

"Don't forget, two of Minnesota's best hitters, Dave Hoffman and Bill Davis, are left-handed batters," said Hi Simmons, Missouri coach.

Missouri used its No. 2 man, sophomore Dennis Musgraves, to eliminate Maine's giant killers Wednesday night, 2-1. Maine had knocked Arizona State and Southern California out of the tournament.

Musgraves gave just two hits, both in the sixth when the tough Yankee Conference champs scored an unearned run.

He didn't walk a man, permitted only two balls out of the infield, retired the first 15 men and the last 10 in succession.

"Musgraves has terrific potential," Simmons said. "There is no better college sophomore pitcher in the United States. He's a good student and I hope he stays in college and gets his degree."

Maine's Dick Dolloff pitched a five-hitter in defeat.

This is Minnesota's third trip to the college world series. Dick Siebert's club won the crown in both its other trips, the election years of 1956 and 1960.

The 58-year-old Simmons, winner of 10 Big Eight crowns in his 25 years as coach, is making his fourth trip into the finals in six NCAA tourneys. Missouri won it in 1954, finished second in 1952 and 1958.

Minnesota's .287 hitting average is best in the tourney.

Missouri had a staff earned run average of 0.85 for the regular season and it's a scant 0.50 in the tournament. Missouri's hitting is only adequate, but its defense is outstanding.

"We don't shell anybody," Simmons said, "but they don't shut us out either. We have trouble with all pitchers—even the cunny-thumber—you know, the fellas who pitch sidearm with their thumbs up."

Despite five rainouts, attendance has totaled 51,309, just 1,448 short of the tournament record.

Missouri beat Minnesota 4-1 Monday night.

In the 16 and under boys division, Bill Blount and Bill Pearce made the finals. Blount defeated John Petz, 6-2, 6-2 and Pearce defeated Jack Vickers, 6-0, 6-2.

McCovey-Mays Duo Plus Manager Lifts Giants Back Up NL Ladder

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Things are back to normal in Candlestick Park these days.

Willie McCovey is delivering souvenirs to the kids who gather beyond the right field fence when he swings. Alvin Dark is making the right moves and the Giants are winning ball games. Why things are so normal that Willie Mays is even hitting homers again.

That delightful combination of McCovey and Mays with a dash of Dark added for good measure, lifted San Francisco into a virtual tie for the National League lead Wednesday with a 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Of course, things didn't look took good for 8 1-3 innings, but then the wheels of success sometimes grind slowly.

Cincinnati starter Joe Nuxhall had a six-hitter and a 2-1 lead going into the ninth. The veteran left-hander had helped his own cause with a bon ● in the fifth to balance Mays' 19th leading off the ninth but then Jose Pagan rapped a smgle. That's when Dark made his big move.

He motioned McCovey, the rangy lefty hitter who's been battling a season-long slump, to bat for right-handed Del Crandall against the southpaw pitcher.

That's wrong you say? He's supposed to let the righty batter hit against the left pitcher? Maybe, but who can argue with success? Certainly not the Giant players who mobbed McCovey after Nuxhall's second pitch landed among the youngsters behind that right field fence.

Why did Dark ignore such long-standing baseball strategy? "We didn't have any right-handed pinch hitters," he told reporters after the game. Of such loggic is genius woven.

The victory moved the Giants within seven percentage points of the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies, who ran afoul of Billy Williams and lost to Chicago 9-5. In other NL games, Pittsburgh's Bob Friend won his 11th straight against New York Mets 3-2, St. Louis nipped Houston 2-1 and Sandy Koufax fired his fourth shutout as Los Angeles blanked Milwaukee 5-0.

Almost as welcome as McCovey's blast was the one Mays unloaded in the first inning. The Say-Hey Kid had been held homerless for 19 games before connecting.

Williams smashed two homers and knocked in five runs as the Cubs cut the Phillies down. He also had a triple and raised his league-leading batting average to .382.

Reliever Jack Baldschun wild pitched Chicago's lead run across in the seventh after the Phillies had blown an early lead.

Friend, who has never lost to the Mets, received shoddy fielding support from the Pirates, but survived with a strong eight-hitter. The Pirates tagged loser Tracy Stallard for all their runs in the first inning with Willie Stargell's ninth homer accounting for two of them.

Ray Washburn gave up hits to the first two Houston batters he faced and then held the Colts hitless into the eighth inning before tiring. Before it was over Manager Johnny Keane needed three more pitchers to lock up the Cardinal victory.

Washburn's double in the eighth started the winning rally for St. Louis. Ken Boyer's 11th homer accounted for the other Cardinal run.

Koufax had a no-hitter for 4 1-3 innings before Mike de la Hoz dropped a single off Maury Wills' glove. The Braves added two more hits but never threatened and the Dodger lefty coasted to his ninth victory.

Rookie Derrell Griffith homered to lead an 11-hit Dodger attack.

Twins Wrecking Crew Fenced in by Tribe

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sam Mele probably wonders where the wallop went.

The Minnesota Twins' manager watched his wrecking crew, home run scourge of the major leagues with 93 circuits, get fenced in by Cleveland pitching for 18 innings Wednesday night as the Indians swept a double-header, 3-2 and 5-0.

Pedro Ramos, a former Twin, didn't help Mele's disposition. Pistol Pete, whose gopher ball tendencies prompted his departure from Minnesota two years ago, blanked his old mates on seven hits and belted one of two Cleveland homers in the night-cap.

Max Alvis whose ninth inning clout broke up the opener, hit the other.

The Baltimore Orioles took the league lead by one game over Chicago when they defeated the White Sox 6-1 behind rookie sensation Wally Bunker. New York fell 1½ games off the pace, dropping a 4-3 decision to Boston in 12 innings.

The Detroit Tigers nipped Kansas City 3-2 on Dick McAuliffe's run-scoring smgle in the 10th inning and the Los Angeles outlasted Washington 5-3.

Minnesota managed two home runs—solo shots by Rich Rollins and Frank Kostro Tuesday—while losing three straight to the Indians.

Power failure is Wednesday's twilight opener negated a brilliant pitching performance by Camilo Pascual, who carried a one-hit shutout into the eighth inning. Larry Brown's double, a walk and singles by Vic Davalillo and Leon Wagner pulled the Indians into a 2-2 tie.

Alvis' eighth homer, with two out in the ninth, made Pascual a loser for the third time in 12 decisions.

Alvis connected again in the fourth inning of the afterpiece. Ramos gave up a hit in each of the first six innings, and Woodie Held made a spectacular grab of Zoilo Versalles' home run bid with two on in the seventh. It was the Twins' lone long ball gesture of the evening.

The Indians scored a pair of runs in the fifth and one in the seventh before Ramos completed the attack with his second homer of the season.

Bunker, pitching on the 189th anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill in Boston during the American Revolution, held Chicago to six hits and picked up his seventh victory.

Bears End Scoreless Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Denver Bears, their scoreless inning streak stopped at 22, went on to defeat Indianapolis Wednesday night, but most of the folks at the Pacific Coast League game in Denver went home thinking the score was 7-3 instead of 7-4.

Elsewhere, rain again postponed three games—San Diego at Tacoma, Hawaii at Seattle and Arkansas at Salt Lake City.

Spokane and Portland split a doubleheader, with Spokane blanking out the Bears 3-0 in the opener and losing the second game 5-2. Right-hander Bill Lindner boosted his pitching record to 3-0 as his visiting Dallas team blasted out 13 hits to defeat Oklahoma City 7-1.

The confusion in Denver came in the ninth when Gary Johnson of Indianapolis hit the ball into the right field stands. It bounced back onto the field, so umpire Emmett Ashford credited Johnson with a two-run double before the Bears retired the side.

That sent fans home thinking the score was 7-3.

"I didn't hear the usual ping of the ball hitting in the right field stands," Ashford said later. But he checked and found out the ball went into the stands without a bounce before bouncing out again. So he credited Johnson with a home run and changed the official score to 7-4.

Denver's scoreless inning streak, which gave the Bears shutouts over Hawaii Monday and Indianapolis Tuesday, was ended when Indianapolis scored one run in the fifth.

KOUFAX ENCOURAGES YOUNG ROOKIE — Sandy Koufax, left, who pitched a three-hitter and ran his string of scoreless innings to 22 Wednesday night with his fifth consecutive victory as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Milwaukee Braves 5-0 at Los Angeles, boosts the soaring spirits of young Darell Griffith by signing a souvenir ball for him. Griffith was brought to the Dodgers last week from Spokane, Wash., and hit his first major league homer in Wednesday night's game. (AP Wirephoto)

Emerson, Yank Rate Top Billing in Wimbledon Draw

LONDON (AP)—The seeding for the All-England Tennis Championships starting Monday at Wimbledon are set up for an Australian and an American — Roy Emerson and Chuck McKinley — to meet in the finals.

The way the draw came out Wednesday indicates that neither should have too much trouble getting as far as the semi-finals. And by that time the players in the second and third quarters may be worn out playing tough matches.

McKinley, the defending champion from San Antonio, Tex., was seeded second, putting him at the bottom of the draw-sheet. Emerson, given the No. 1 position, is on top.

McKinley will meet Terry Ryan of South Africa in the first round. Then there seems to be nobody but Billy Knight, the British Davis Cupper, or Tony Roche of Australia who could give him trouble on the way to a qaurter-final meeting with Italy's seventh-seeded Nicola Pietrangeli.

Emerson could get a good workout in the first round against Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md., No. 14 in the American rankings. Once past that, the only players in th efirst quarter capable of extending him appear to be Nicola Pilcic of Yugoslavia, young Cliff Richey of Dallas and eighth-seeded Martin Mulligan of Australia.

Dennis Ralston, McKinley's Davis Cup teammate from Bakersfield, Calif., and Rafael Osuna, Mexican holder of the U.S. singles title, are the second quarter seeds. Ralston opens against Tony Pickard, a British Davis Cup player, and likely will meet another, Mike Sangster, or Germany's Wilhelm only players in the first quarter finals. Osuna's first opponent is Larry Nagler of North Hollywood, Calif.

Manuel Santana of Suain, No. 3, and Fred Stolle of Australia, No. 6, may find the going even harder in the third quarter. Stolle meets a fellow Australian, John Newcombe, rookie star of last December's Davis Cup challenge round, in the opening match. Then there are such as Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., Eugene Scott of St. James, N.Y., Antonio Palafox of Mexico and Ken Fletcher of Australia between them and the quarter-finals.

Margaret Smith of Australia, defending women's champion, got a tough draw. After a first round bye, she meets the South African No. 1, Annette Van Zyl, who recentiy beat her. Next will be the winner of a match between the 1962 champion, Mrs. Karen Susman of San Antonio, Tex., and Russia's Anna Dmitrieva.

Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., the third seed, plays Roberta Beltrame of Italy, and Nancy Richey of Dallas, No. 5, opposes Justina Bricka of St. Louis in the first round.

Citations Lead Men's Golf League

The Shepards Citations continue to pace the City Men's Golf League at the Patty Jewett Municipal golf course but the City Electricians are close behind with the School Teachers linksters making the title chase a three-team race.

The Citations lead the golf league with 32½ points, followed by the City Electricians with 32 and the School Teachers with 28½.

Nick Pavlica was th e top medalist last week for the Citations as they scored a lopsided victory over the Farmers Insurance team to remain in first place.

The following is the league standings: Citations, 32½ points; City Electricians, 32 points; School Teachers, 28½ points; Farmers Insurance, 20 points; Telephone Company, 16½ points; and City Lawyers, 14½ points.

Oklahoma Saves Face For British

LONDON (AP)—An Oklahoma Sooner took credit today for leading Britain to a face-saving deadlock with an American team in Wednesday's resumption of the 69-year-old London-New York track and field rivalry.

Scottish-born Mike Lindsay, 25year-old Briton who attended the University of Oklahoma, captured the shot put, final event of the meet, with his last toss and salvaged a point tie for the favored London team. His heave of 57 feet, 11¼ inches beat out Ed Kohler and Yule Yost of New York.

Until then, victories by schoolboy Bill McClellon (6 feet, 8 inches in the high jump), Charlie Mays (24-9 in the broad jump), Charlie Butchta (1:52.3 in the 880-yard run), Al Oerter (196-8½ in the discus), Al Hall (207-8 in the hammer) and John McDonnell (4:08.5 in the mile) had paced the New Yorkers to a one point margin.

Fresno State Darkhorse For NCAA Track Title

By JACK STEVENSON

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — California's little Fresno State, coached by former pole vault champion Dutch Warmerdam, could pull the big surprise as collegians preview their Olympic track and field chances in the NCAA meet starting today.

Host Oregon is conceded the best chance of winning a second title in three years, yet Fresno's champions of the NCAA college division rank with the top teams.

Warmerdam has sprinter Darel Newman, with the best collegiate time for the 100-yard dash this year, excepting Bob Hayes, who will concentrate on the 200 meters here. Newman has run a 9.2 for 100 yards.

Fresno's Charles Craig posts the best triple jump with his 52 feet, 4 inch effort, and Sid Nickolas at 26-2¼ is second-best nationally in the broad jump.

Surprisingly, defending champion Southern California draws an underdog role despite an undefeated season of dual meets and the championship in last week's U.S. Track and Field Federation competition at Corvallis, Ore.

The Trojans, winners of 22 NCAA track titles in 42 years, have depth but not the individual standouts of recent seasons and some of their stars are not eligible for this meet.

Villanova comes as the best from the East.

In Wednesday's scratch session, the major withdrawals were Bob Schul from Miami of Ohio, who broke the American 5,000 meter record last month with 13:38; Villanova hurdler Larry Livers; Yale's quarter-miler Wendell Mottley, and Arizona State's Tom Hester in the 200 meters.

As in all Olympic years, the races are run in meters instead of yards to conform with the international program.

On today's opening program were trials in the pole vault, broad jump, high jump, 400 meters, 100 meters, high hurdles, 800 meters, 200 meters, intermediate hurdles, and finals in the 10,000 meter run.

Three finals are slated for Friday afternoon along with the preliminaries and semifinals. Competition concludes with a series of finals on Saturday afternoon.

"I figure there are at least seven teams which could win t hi s championship," declared Villanova's Jumbo Jim Elliott, whose team won the IC4A championship. "Oregon is strong, but this could be one of the closest meets in years."

Warmerdam conceded his Fresno State squad should be stronger than the teams which placed third in 1953 and 1957, but he said he would be surprised with a victory.

"If everything goes well, we could get close to 40 points," he said. "Oregon has more power if it runs up to par. Some of the rest of us are in a close bunch."

In addition to his fine broad jump mark, Nickolas won the college division high hurdles in last week's national meet at 13.-9 seconds with an aiding wind.

Sprinter Sam Workman could be the busiest of the Fresno crew. He'll sprint the 100, 220 and race on the relay team with Newman, Marv Bryant, and Nickolas.

McCovey-Mays Duo Plus Manager Lifts Giants Back Up NL Ladder

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Things are back to normal in Candlestick Park these days.

Willie McCovey is delivering souvenirs to the kids who gather beyond the right field fence when he swings, Alvin Dark is making the right moves and the Giants are winning ball games. Why things are so normal that Willie Mays is even hitting homers again.

That delightful combination of McCovey and Mays with a dash of Dark added for good measure, lifted San Francisco into a virtual tie for the National League lead Wednesday with a 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Of course, things didn't look took good for 8 1-3 innings, but then the wheels of success sometimes grind slowly.

Cincinnati starter Joe Nuxhall had a six-hitter and a 2-1 lead going into the ninth. The veteran left-hander had helped his own cause with a hom[illegible] in the fifth to balance Mays' 19th leading off the ninth but then Jose Pagan rapped a single. That's when Dark made his big move.

He motioned McCovey, the rangy lefty hitter who's been battling a season-long slump, to bat for right-handed Del Crandall against the southpaw pitcher.

That's wrong you say? He's supposed to let the righty batter hit against the left pitcher? Maybe, but who can argue with success? Certainly not the Giant players who mobbed McCovey after Nuxhall's second pitch landed among the youngsters behind that right field fence.

Why did Dark ignore such long-standing baseball strategy? "We didn't have any right-handed pinch hitters," he told reporters after the game. Of such loggic is genius woven.

The victory moved the Giants within seven percentage points of the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies, who ran afoul of Billy Williams and lost to Chicago 9-5. In other NL games, Pittsburgh's Bob Friend won his 11th straight against New York Mets 3-2, St. Louis nipped Houston 2-1 and Sandy Koufax fired his fourth shutout as Los Angeles blanked Milwaukee 5-0.

McCovey was batting .200 and had just three hits against left-handers this season before tagging Nuxhall. The homer was his 10th.

Almost as welcome as McCovey's blast was the one Mays unloaded in the first inning. The Say-Hey Kid had been held homerless for 19 games before connecting.

Williams smashed two homers and knocked in five runs as the Cubs cut the Phillies down. He also had a triple and raised his league-leading batting average to .382.

Reliever Jack Baldshun wild pitched Chicago's lead run across in the seventh after the Phillies had blown an early lead.

Friend, who has never lost to the Mets, received shoddy fielding support from the Pirates, but survived with a strong eight-hitter. The Pirates tagged loser Tracy Stallard for all their runs in the first inning with Willie Stargell's ninth homer accounting for two of them.

Ray Washburn gave up hits to the first two Houston batters he faced and then held the Colts hitless into the eighth inning before tiring. Before it was over Manager Johnny Keane needed three more pitchers to lock up the Cardinal victory.

Washburn's double in the eighth started the winning rally for St. Louis. Ken Boyer's 11th homer accounted for the other Cardinal run.

Koufax had a no-hitter for 4 1-3 innings before Mike de la Hoz dropped a single off Maury Wills' glove. The Braves added two more hits but never threatened and the Dodger lefty coasted to his ninth victory.

Rookie Derrell Griffith homered to lead an 11-hit Dodger attack.

Twins Wrecking Crew Fenced in by Tribe

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sam Mele probably wonders where the wallop went.

The Minnesota Twins' manager watched his wrecking crew, home run scourge of the major leagues with 93 circuits, get fenced in by Cleveland pitching for 18 innings Wednesday night as the Indians swept a doubleheader, 3-2 and 5-0.

Pedro Ramos, a former Twin, didn't help Mele's disposition. Pistol Pete, whose gopher ball tendencies prompted his departure from Minnesota two years ago, blanked his old mates on seven hits and belted one of two Cleveland homers in the nightcap.

Max Alvis, whose ninth inning clout broke up the opener, hit the other.

The Baltimore Orioles took the league lead by one game over Chicago when they defeated the White Sox 6-1 behind rookie sensation Wally Bunker. New York fell 1½ games off the pace, dropping a 4-3 decision to Boston in 12 innings.

The Detroit Tigers nipped Kansas City 3-2 on Dick McAuliffe's run-scoring single in the 10th inning and the Los Angeles outlasted Washington 5-3.

Minnesota managed two home runs—solo shots by Rich Rollins and Frank Kostro Tuesday—while losing three straight to the Indians.

Power failure is Wednesday's twilight opener negated a brilliant pitching performance by Camilo Pascual, who carried a one-hit shutout into the eighth inning. Larry Brown's double, a walk and singles by Vic Davalillo and Leon Wagner pulled the Indians into a 2-2 tie.

Alvis' eighth homer, with two out in the ninth, made Pascual a loser for the third time in 12 decisions.

Alvis connected again in the fourth inning of the afterpiece. Ramos gave up a hit in each of the first six innings, and Woodie Held made a spectacular grab of Zoilo Versalles' home run bid with two on in the seventh. It was the Twins' lone long ball gesture of the evening.

The Indians scored a pair of runs in the fifth and one in the seventh before Ramos completed the attack with his second homer of the season.

Bunker, pitching on the 189th anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill in Boston during the American Revolution, held Chicago to six hits and picked up his seventh victory.

Bears End Scoreless Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Denver Bears, their scoreless inning streak stopped at 22, went on to defeat Indianapolis Wednesday night, but most of the folks at the Pacific Coast League game in Denver went home thinking the score was 7-3 instead of 7-4.

Elsewhere, rain again postponed three games—San Diego at Tacoma, Hawaii at Seattle and Arkansas at Salt Lake City.

Spokane and Portland split a doubleheader, with Spokane blanking out the Bears 3-0 in the opener and losing the second game 5-2. Right-hander Bill Lindner boosted his pitching record to 3-0 as his visiting Dallas team blasted out 13 hits to defeat Oklahoma City 7-1.

The confusion in Denver came in the ninth when Gary Johnson of Indianapolis hit the ball into the right field stands. It bounced back onto the field, so umpire Emmett Ashford credited Johnson with a two-run double before the Bears retired the side.

That sent fans home thinking the score was 7-3.

"I didn't hear the usual ping of the ball hitting in the right field stands," Ashford said later. But he checked and found out the ball went into the stands without a bounce before bouncing out again. So he credited Johnson with a home run and changed the official score to 7-4.

Denver's scoreless inning streak, which gave the Bears shutouts over Hawaii Monday and Indianapolis Tuesday, was ended when Indianapolis scored one run in the fifth.

KOUFAX ENCOURAGES YOUNG ROOKIE — Sandy Koufax, left, who pitched a three-hitter and ran his string of scoreless innings to 22 Wednesday night with his fifth consecutive victory as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Milwaukee Braves 5-0 at Los Angeles, boosts the soaring spirits of young Darell Griffith by signing a souvenir ball for him. Griffith was brought to the Dodgers last week from Spokane, Wash., and hit his first major league homer in Wednesday night's game. (AP Wirephoto)

Emerson, Yank Rate Top Billing in Wimbledon Draw

LONDON (AP)—The seeding for the All-England Tennis Championships starting Monday at Wimbledon are set up for an Australian and an American — Roy Emerson and Chuck McKinley — to meet in the finals.

The way the draw came out Wednesday indicates that neither should have too much trouble getting as far as the semi-finals. And by that time the players in the second and third quarters may be worn out playing tough matches.

McKinley, the defending champion from San Antonio, Tex., was seeded second, putting him at the bottom of the draw-sheet. Emerson, given the No. 1 position, is on top.

McKinley will meet Terry Ryan of South Africa in the first round. Then there seems to be nobody but Billy Knight, the British Davis Cupper, or Tony Roche of Australia who could give him trouble on the way to a qaurter-final meeting with Italy's seventh-seeded Nicola Pietrangeli.

Emerson could get a good workout in the first round against Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md., No. 14 in the American rankings. Once past that, the only players in th efirst quarter capable of extending him appear to be Nicola Pilcic of Yugoslavia, young Cliff Richey of Dallas and eighth-seeded Martin Mulligan of Australia.

Dennis Ralston, McKinley's Davis Cup teammate from Bakersfield, Calif., and Rafael Osuna, Mexican holder of the U.S. singles title, are the second quarter seeds. Ralston opens against Tony Pickard, a British Davis Cup player, and likely will meet another, Mike Sangster, or Germany's Wilhelm only players in the first quarter finals. Osuna's first opponent is Larry Nagler of North Hollywood, Calif.

Manuel Santana of Suain, No. 3, and Fred Stolle of Australia, No. 6, may find the going even harder in the third quarter. Stolle meets a fellow Australian, John Newcombe, rookie star of last December's Davis Cup challenge round, in the opening match. Then there are such as Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., Eugene Scott of St. James, N.Y., Antonio Palafox of Mexico and Ken Fletcher of Australia between them and the quarter-finals.

Margaret Smith of Australia, defending women's champion, got a tough draw. After a first round bye, she meets the South African No. 1, Annette Van Zyl, who recently beat her. Next will be the winner of a match between the 1962 champion, Mrs. Karen Susman of San Antonio, Tex., and Russia's Anna Dmitrieva.

Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., the third seed, plays Roberta Beltrame of Italy, and Nancy Richey of Dallas, No. 5, opposes Justina Bricka of St. Louis in the first round.

Citations Lead Men's Golf League

The Shepards Citations continue to pace the City Men's Golf League at the Patty Jewett Municipal golf course but the City Electricians are close behind with the School Teachers linksters making the title chase a three-team race.

The Citations lead the golf league with 32½ points, followed by the City Electricians with 32 and the School Teachers with 28½.

Nick Pavlica was th e top medalist last week for the Citations as they scored a lopsided victory over the Farmers Insurance team to remain in first place.

The following is the league standings: Citations, 32½ points; City Electricians, 32 points; School Teachers, 28½ points; Farmers Insurance, 20 points; Telephone Company, 16½ points; and City Lawyers, 14½ points.

Oklahoma Saves Face For British

LONDON (AP)—An Oklahoma Sooner took credit today for leading Britain to a face-saving deadlock with an American team in Wednesday's resumption of the 69-year-old London-New York track and field rivalry.

Scottish-born Mike Lindsay, 25year-old Briton who attended the University of Oklahoma, captured the shot put, final event of the meet, with his last toss and salvaged a point tie for the favored London team. His heave of 57 feet, 11¼ inches beat out Ed Kohler and Yule Yost of New York.

Until then, victories by schoolboy Bill McClellon (6 feet, 8 inches in the high jump), Charlie Mays (24-9 in the broad jump), Charlie Butchta (1:52.3 in the 880-yard run), Al Oerter (196-8½ in the discus), Al Hall (207-8 in the hammer) and John McDonnell (4:08.5 in the mile) had paced the New Yorkers to a one point margin.

Fresno State Darkhorse For NCAA Track Title

By JACK STEVENSON

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — California's little Fresno State, coached by former pole vault champion Dutch Warmerdam, could pull the big surprise as collegians preview their Olympic track and field chances in the NCAA meet starting today.

Host Oregon is conceded the best chance of winning a second title in three years, yet Fresno's champions of the NCAA college division rank with the top teams.

Warmerdam has sprinter Darel Newman, with the best collegiate time for the 100-yard dash this year, excepting Bob Hayes, who will concentrate on the 200 meters here. Newman has run a 9.2 for 100 yards.

Fresno's Charles Craig posts the best triple jump with his 52 feet, 4 inch effort, and Sid Nickolas at 26-2¼ is second-best nationally in the broad jump.

Surprisingly, defending champion Southern California draws an underdog role despite an undefeated season of dual meets and the championship in last week's U.S. Track and Field Federation competition at Corvallis, Ore.

The Trojans, winners of 22 NCAA track titles in 42 years, have depth but not the individual standouts of recent seasons and some of their stars are not eligible for this meet.

Villanova comes as the best from the East.

In Wednesday's scratch session, the major withdrawals were Bob Schul from Miami of Ohio, who broke the American 5,000 meter record last month with 13:38; Villanova hurdler Larry Livers; Yale's quartermiler Wendell Mottley, and Arizona State's Tom Hester in the 200 meters.

As in all Olympic years, the races are run in meters instead of yards to conform with the international program.

On today's opening program were trials in the pole vault, broad jump, high jump, 400 meters, 100 meters, high hurdles, 800 meters, 200 meters, intermediate hurdles, and finals in the 10,000 meter run.

Three finals are slated for Friday afternoon along with the preliminaries and semifinals. Competition concludes with a series of finals on Saturday afternoon.

"I figure there are at least seven teams which could win t hi s championship," declared Villanova's Jumbo Jim Elliott, whose team won the IC4A championship. "Oregon is strong, but this could be one of the closest meets in years."

Warmerdam conceded his Fresno State squad should be stronger than the teams which placed third in 1953 and 1957, but he said he would be surprised with a victory.

"If everything goes well, we could get close to 40 points," he said. "Oregon has more power if it runs up to par. Some of the rest of us are in a close bunch."

In addition to his fine broad jump mark, Nickolas won the college division high hurdles in last week's national meet at 13.-9 seconds with an aiding wind.

Sprinter Sam Workman could be the busiest of the Fresno crew. He'll sprint the 100, 220 and race on the relay team with Newman, Marv Bryant, and Nickolas.

McCovey-Mays Duo Plus Manager Lifts Giants Back Up NL Ladder

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Things are back to normal in Candlestick Park these days.

Willie McCovey is delivering souvenirs to the kids who gather beyond the right field fence when he swings, Alvin Dark is making the right moves and the Giants are winning ball games. Why things are so normal that Willie Mays is even hitting homers again.

That delightful combination of McCovey and Mays with a dash of Dark added for good measure, lifted San Francisco into a virtual tie for the National League lead Wednesday with a 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Of course, things didn't look took good for 8 1-3 innings, but then the wheels of success sometimes grind slowly.

Cincinnati starter Joe Nuxhall had a six-hitter and a 2-1 lead going into the ninth. The veteran left-hander had helped his own cause with a homer in the fifth to balance Mays' 19th leading off the ninth but then Jose Pagan rapped a single. That's when Dark made his big move.

He motioned McCovey, the rangy lefty hitter who's been battling a season-long slump, to bat for right-handed Del Crandall against the southpaw pitcher.

That's wrong you say? He's supposed to let the righty batter hit against the left pitcher? Maybe, but who can argue with success? Certainly not the Giant players who mobbed McCovey after Nuxhall's second pitch landed among the youngsters behind that right field fence.

Why did Dark ignore such long-standing baseball strategy? "We didn't have any right-handed pinch hitters," he told reporters after the game. Of such loggic is genius woven.

The victory moved the Giants within seven percentage points of the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies, who ran afoul of Billy Williams and lost to Chicago 9-5. In other NL games, Pittsburgh's Bob Friend won his 11th straight against New York Mets 3-2, St. Louis nipped Houston 2-1 and Sandy Koufax fired his fourth shutout as Los Angeles blanked Milwaukee 5-0.

McCovey was batting .200 and had just three hits against left-handers this season before tagging Nuxhall. The homer was his 10th.

Almost as welcome as McCovey's blast was the one Mays unloaded in the first inning. The Say-Hey Kid had been held homerless for 19 games before connecting.

Williams smashed two homers and knocked in five runs as the Cubs cut the Phillies down. He also had a triple and raised his league-leading batting average to .382.

Reliever Jack Baldshun wild pitched Chicago's lead run across in the seventh after the Phillies had blown an early lead.

Friend, who has never lost to the Mets, received shoddy fielding support from the Pirates, but survived with a strong eight-hitter. The Pirates tagged loser Tracy Stallard for all their runs in the first inning with Willie Stargell's ninth homer accounting for two of them.

Ray Washburn gave up hits to the first two Houston batters he faced and then held the Colts hitless into the eighth inning before tiring. Before it was over Manager Johnny Keane needed three more pitchers to lock up the Cardinal victory.

Washburn's double in the eighth started the winning rally for St. Louis. Ken Boyer's 11th homer accounted for the other Cardinal run.

Koufax had a no-hitter for 4 1-3 innings before Mike de la Hoz dropped a single off Maury Wills' glove. The Braves added two more hits but never threatened and the Dodger lefty coasted to his ninth victory.

Rookie Derrell Griffith homered to lead an 11-hit Dodger attack.

Twins Wrecking Crew Fenced in by Tribe

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sam Mele probably wonders where the wallop went.

The Minnesota Twins' manager watched his wrecking crew, home run scourge of the major leagues with 93 circuits, get fenced in by Cleveland pitching for 18 innings Wednesday night as the Indians swept a doubleheader, 3-2 and 5-0.

Pedro Ramos, a former Twin, didn't help Mele's disposition. Pistol Pete, whose gopher ball tendencies prompted his departure from Minnesota two years ago, blanked his old mates on seven hits and belted one of two Cleveland homers in the nightcap.

Max Alvis, whose ninth inning clout broke up the opener, hit the other.

The Baltimore Orioles took the league lead by one game over Chicago when they defeated the White Sox 6-1 behind rookie sensation Wally Bunker. New York fell 1½ games off the pace, dropping a 4-3 decision to Boston in 12 innings.

The Detroit Tigers nipped Kansas City 3-2 on Dick McAuliffe's run-scoring single in the 10th inning and the Los Angeles outlasted Washington 5-3.

Minnesota managed two home runs—solo shots by Rich Rollins and Frank Kostro Tuesday—while losing three straight to the Indians.

Power failure is Wednesday's twilight opener negated a brilliant pitching performance by Camilo Pascual, who carried a one-hit shutout into the eighth inning. Larry Brown's double, a walk and singles by Vic Davalillo and Leon Wagner pulled the Indians into a 2-2 tie.

Alvis' eighth homer, with two out in the ninth, made Pascual a loser for the third time in 12 decisions.

Alvis connected again in the fourth inning of the afterpiece. Ramos gave up a hit in each of the first six innings, and Woodie Held made a spectacular grab of Zoilo Versalles' home run bid with two on in the seventh. It was the Twins' lone long ball gesture of the evening.

The Indians scored a pair of runs in the fifth and one in the seventh before Ramos completed the attack with his second homer of the season.

Bunker, pitching on the 189th anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill in Boston during the American Revolution, held Chicago to six hits and picked up his seventh victory.

Bears End Scoreless Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Denver Bears, their scoreless inning streak stopped at 22, went on to defeat Indianapolis Wednesday night, but most of the folks at the Pacific Coast League game in Denver went home thinking the score was 7-3 instead of 7-4.

Elsewhere, rain again postponed three games—San Diego at Tacoma, Hawaii at Seattle and Arkansas at Salt Lake City.

Spokane and Portland split a doubleheader, with Spokane blanking out the Bears 3-0 in the opener and losing the second game 5-2. Right-hander Bill Lindner boosted his pitching record to 3-0 as his visiting Dallas team blasted out 13 hits to defeat Oklahoma City 7-1.

The confusion in Denver came in the ninth when Gary Johnson of Indianapolis hit the ball into the right field stands. It bounced back onto the field, so umpire Emmett Ashford credited Johnson with a two-run double before the Bears retired the side.

That sent fans home thinking the score was 7-3.

"I didn't hear the usual ping of the ball hitting in the right field stands," Ashford said later. But he checked and found out the ball went into the stands without a bounce before bouncing out again. So he credited Johnson with a home run and changed the official score to 7-4.

Denver's scoreless inning streak, which gave the Bears shutouts over Hawaii Monday and Indianapolis Tuesday, was ended when Indianapolis scored one run in the fifth.

KOUFAX ENCOURAGES YOUNG ROOKIE — Sandy Koufax, left, who pitched a three-hitter and ran his string of scoreless innings to 22 Wednesday night with his fifth consecutive victory as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Milwaukee Braves 5-0 at Los Angeles, boosts the soaring spirits of young Darell Griffith by signing a souvenir ball for him. Griffith was brought to the Dodgers last week from Spokane, Wash., and hit his first major league homer in Wednesday night's game. (AP Wirephoto)

Emerson, Yank Rate Top Billing in Wimbledon Draw

LONDON (AP)—The seeding for the All-England Tennis Championships starting Monday at Wimbledon are set up for an Australian and an American — Roy Emerson and Chuck McKinley — to meet in the finals.

The way the draw came out Wednesday indicates that neither should have too much trouble getting as far as the semi-finals. And by that time the players in the second and third quarters may be worn out playing tough matches.

McKinley, the defending champion from San Antonio, Tex., was seeded second, putting him at the bottom of the draw-sheet. Emerson, given the No. 1 position, is on top.

McKinley will meet Terry Ryan of South Africa in the first round. Then there seems to be nobody but Billy Knight, the British Davis Cupper, or Tony Roche of Australia who could give him trouble on the way to a qaurter-final meeting with Italy's seventh-seeded Nicola Pietrangeli.

Emerson could get a good workout in the first round against Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md., No. 14 in the American rankings. Once past that, the only players in th efirst quarter capable of extending him appear to be Nicola Pilcic of Yugoslavia, young Cliff Richey of Dallas and eighth-seeded Martin Mulligan of Australia.

Dennis Ralston, McKinley's Davis Cup teammate from Bakersfield, Calif., and Rafael Osuna, Mexican holder of the U.S. singles title, are the second quarter seeds. Ralston opens against Tony Pickard, a British Davis Cup player, and likely will meet another, Mike Sangster, or Germany's Wilhelm only players in the first quarter finals. Osuna's first opponent is Larry Nagler of North Hollywood, Calif.

Manuel Santana of Suain, No. 3, and Fred Stolle of Australia, No. 6, may find the going even harder in the third quarter. Stolle meets a fellow Australian, John Newcombe, rookie star of last December's Davis Cup challenge round, in the opening match. Then there are such as Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., Eugene Scott of St. James, N.Y., Antonio Palafox of Mexico and Ken Fletcher of Australia between them and the quarter-finals.

Margaret Smith of Australia, defending women's champion, got a tough draw. After a first round bye, she meets the South African No. 1, Annette Van Zyl, who recently beat her. Next will be the winner of a match between the 1962 champion, Mrs. Karen Susman of San Antonio, Tex., and Russia's Anna Dmitrieva.

Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., the third seed, plays Roberta Beltrame of Italy, and Nancy Richey of Dallas, No. 5, opposes Justina Bricka of St. Louis in the first round.

Citations Lead Men's Golf League

The Shepards Citations continue to pace the City Men's Golf League at the Patty Jewett Municipal golf course but the City Electricians are close behind with the School Teachers linksters making the title chase a three-team race.

The Citations lead the golf league with 32½ points, followed by the City Electricians with 32 and the School Teachers with 28½.

Nick Pavlica was th e top medalist last week for the Citations as they scored a lopsided victory over the Farmers Insurance team to remain in first place.

The following is the league standings: Citations, 32½ points; City Electricians, 32 points; School Teachers, 28½ points; Farmers Insurance, 20 points; Telephone Company, 16½ points; and City Lawyers, 14½ points.

Fresno State Darkhorse For NCAA Track Title

By JACK STEVENSON

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — California's little Fresno State, coached by former pole vault champion Dutch Warmerdam, could pull the big surprise as collegians preview their Olympic track and field chances in the NCAA meet starting today.

Host Oregon is conceded the best chance of winning a second title in three years, yet Fresno's champions of the NCAA college division rank with the top teams.

Warmerdam has sprinter Darel Newman, with the best collegiate time for the 100-yard dash this year, excepting Bob Hayes, who will concentrate on the 200 meters here. Newman has run a 9.2 for 100 yards.

Fresno's Charles Craig posts the best triple jump with his 52 feet, 4 inch effort, and Sid Nickolas at 26-2¼ is second-best nationally in the broad jump.

Surprisingly, defending champion Southern California draws an underdog role despite an undefeated season of dual meets and the championship in last week's U.S. Track and Field Federation competition at Corvallis, Ore.

The Trojans, winners of 22 NCAA track titles in 42 years, have depth but not the individual standouts of recent seasons and some of their stars are not eligible for this meet.

Villanova comes as the best from the East.

In Wednesday's scratch session, the major withdrawals were Bob Schul from Miami of Ohio, who broke the American 5,000 meter record last month with 13:38; Villanova hurdler Larry Livers; Yale's quarter-miler Wendell Mottley, and Arizona State's Tom Hester in the 200 meters.

As in all Olympic years, the races are run in meters instead of yards to conform with the international program.

On today's opening program were trials in the pole vault, broad jump, high jump, 400 meters, 100 meters, high hurdles, 800 meters, 200 meters, intermediate hurdles, and finals in the 10,000 meter run.

Three finals are slated for Friday afternoon along with the preliminaries and semifinals. Competition concludes with a series of finals on Saturday afternoon.

"I figure there are at least seven teams which could win t hi s championship," declared Villanova's Jumbo Jim Elliott, whose team won the IC4A championship. "Oregon is strong, but this could be one of the closest meets in years."

Warmerdam conceded his Fresno State squad should be stronger than the teams which placed third in 1953 and 1957, but he said he would be surprised with a victory.

"If everything goes well, we could get close to 40 points," he said. "Oregon has more power if it runs up to par. Some of the rest of us are in a close bunch."

In addition to his fine broad jump mark, Nickolas won the college division high hurdles in last week's national meet at 13.9 seconds with an aiding wind.

Sprinter Sam Workman could be the busiest of the Fresno crew. He'll sprint the 100, 220 and race on the relay team with Newman, Marv Bryant, and Nickolas.

Oklahoma Saves Face For British

LONDON (AP)—An Oklahoma Sooner took credit today for leading Britain to a face-saving deadlock with an American team in Wednesday's resumption of the 69-year-old London-New York track and field rivalry.

Scottish-born Mike Lindsay, 25year-old Briton who attended the University of Oklahoma, captured the shot put, final event of the meet, with his last toss and salvaged a point tie for the favored London team. His heave of 57 feet, 11¼ inches beat out Ed Kohler and Yule Yost of New York.

Until then, victories by schoolboy Bill McClellon (6 feet, 8 inches in the high jump), Charlie Mays (24-9 in the broad jump), Charlie Butchta (1:52.3 in the 880-yard run), Al Oerter (196-8½ in the discus), Al Hall (207-8 in the hammer) and John McDonnell (4:08.5 in the mile) had paced the New Yorkers to a one point margin.

Canadian Air Vice Marshal Recalled From NORAD Duty

NORAD officials disclosed today that Royal Canadian Air Force Air Vice Marshal Murray D. Lister will be recalled to Canada in the near future to become Air Officer Commanding, Air Defense Command, with headquarters at St. Hubert, Quebec.

AVM Lister, who has served as deputy chief of staff, operations, at NORAD headquarters here since December 1960, will replace Air Vice Marshal M. M. Hendrick who will retire from the RCAF Sept. 1.

During his approximate three year NORAD tour, the Calgary, Alberta, officer and his family have resided at 12 Polo Drive in the Broadmoor area.

His daughter Sydney received her Associate of Arts Degree at Colorado Women's College during their residence in Colorado Springs. She is now completing work at a Canadian teachers college and will teach in Ottawa this coming school year.

Mrs. Lister has been active in the local Red Cross movement and has been a volunteer worker at the Ft. Carson Hospital.

Like many visitors or new arrivals in the Colorado Springs area, Air Vice Marshal Lister, after not having done any riding for 15 years, became a riding enthusiast.

He owns a horse and with his daughter Jaye, who has attended Cheyenne Mountain Schools for four terms, has spent many an hour on the local saddle trails during the past three years.

Jaye Lister is president of the Coxtails Riding Club and her father was chairman of the Coxtails Horse Show committee in 1963. He also made one Pikes Peak Range Ride in 1961.

Mrs. Lister adopted a hobby during her tour here. After purchasing two Labrador retrievers, she started to show the dogs in competition. During their tour here she has shown in Albuquerque and Santa Fe, New Mexico, as well as Pueblo, Colorado. She picked up her first blue ribbon at the latter show.

In speaking of his tour in Colorado Springs, the AVM — an abbreviation of Air Vice Marshal and commonly used when addressing an officer of this rank — stated: "It has been a tremendous experience for the entire family. We have become absorbed with many new interests and activities. The Listers have been fortunate in this assignment and when we leave we'll miss the wonderful mountains and the friendly people of Colorado.

"The experience of serving at NORAD in a two nation unified command has been most exhilarating and rewarding. It should be valuable to me back in Canada where we are now setting up a single unified Defence Structure. The exceptionally fine officers of all Services with whom I have worked here have been a real inspiration to me."

Air Vice Marshal Lester was educated in the Calgary lic schools and later graduated from the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ontario.

He joined the RCAF in 1935 and completed flying school at RCAF Station Camp Borden, Ontario in 1936. He served with No. 1 Fighter Squadron and as a flying instructor prior to World War II.

During the war years Lister served in various training capacities and later in command and staff positions in Western Air Command at Vancouver, British Columbia.

He went overseas in 1945 and served with an Air Disarmament Group in Germany and next as Director of Personnel at overseas headquarters in London.

During the immediate postwar period he was commandant of the Air Armament School at Mountain View, Ontario, and commanded the Flying Training School at RCAF Station, Centralia, Ontario.

He attended the National Defence College, Kingston, Ontario, and later served as Chief Staff Officer of the Canadian Joint Staff, London, England.

In 1962 he served as Air Force Director at the National Defence College in Kingston. Next he became chief of plans and intelligence at RCAF headquarters in Ottawa. In September 1963 he became deputy Chief of the Air Staff, a position he held until his posting to NORAD in 1960.

Canadian Air Vice Marshal Recalled From NORAD Duty

NORAD officials disclosed today that Royal Canadian Air Force Air Vice Marshal Murray D. Lister will be recalled to Canada in the near future to become Air Officer Commanding, Air Defense Command, with headquarters at St. Hubert, Quebec.

AVM Lister, who has served as deputy chief of staff, operations, at NORAD headquarters here since December 1960, will replace Air Vice Marshal M. M. Hendrick who will retire from the RCAF Sept. 1.

During his approximate three year NORAD tour, the Calgary, Alberta, officer and his family have resided at 12 Polo Drive in the Broadmoor area.

His daughter Sydney received her Associate of Arts Degree at Colorado Women's College during their residence in Colorado Springs. She is now completing work at a Canadian teachers college and will teach in Ottawa this coming school year.

Mrs. Lister has been active in the local Red Cross movement and has been a volunteer worker at the Ft. Carson Hospital.

Like many visitors or new arrivals in the Colorado Springs area, Air Vice Marshal Lister, after not having done any riding for 15 years, became a riding enthusiast.

He owns a horse and with his daughter Jaye, who has attended Cheyenne Mountain Schools for four terms, has spent many an hour on the local saddle trails during the past three years.

Jaye Lister is president of the Coxtails Riding Club and her father was chairman of the Coxtails Horse Show committee in 1963. He also made one Pikes Peak Range Ride in 1961.

Mrs. Lister adopted a hobby during her tour here. After purchasing two Labrador retrievers, she started to show the dogs in competition. During their tour here she has shown in Albuquerque and Santa Fe, New Mexico, as well as Pueblo, Colorado. She picked up her first blue ribbon at the latter show.

In speaking of his tour in Colorado Springs, the AVM — an abbreviation of Air Vice Marshal and commonly used when addressing an officer of this rank — stated: "It has been a tremendous experience for the entire family. We have become absorbed with many new interests and activities. The Listers have been fortunate in this assignment and when we leave we'll miss the wonderful mountains and the friendly people of Colorado.

"The experience of serving at NORAD in a two nation unified command has been most exhilarating and rewarding. It should be valuable to me back in Canada where we are now setting up a single unified Defence Structure. The exceptionally fine officers of all Services with whom I have worked here have been a real inspiration to me."

Air Vice Marshal Lester was educated in the Calgary lic schools and later graduated from the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ontario.

He joined the RCAF in 1935 and completed flying school at RCAF Station Camp Borden, Ontario in 1936. He served with No. 1 Fighter Squadron and as a flying instructor prior to World War II.

During the war years Lister served in various training capacities and later in command and staff positions in Western Air Command at Vancouver, British Columbia.

He went overseas in 1945 and served with an Air Disarmament Group in Germany and next as Director of Personnel at overseas headquarters in London.

During the immediate post-war period he was commandant of the Air Armament School at Mountain View, Ontario, and commanded the Flying Training School at RCAF Station, Centralia, Ontario.

He attended the National Defence College, Kingston, Ontario, and later served as Chief Staff Officer of the Canadian Joint Staff, London, England.

In 1962 he served as Air Force Director at the National Defence College in Kingston. Next he became chief of plans and intelligence at RCAF headquarters in Ottawa. In September 1963 he became deputy Chief of the Air Staff, a position he held until his posting to NORAD in 1960.

DEFINITIONS

NEW YORK (UPI) — A "wort," a "wash" and a "worm" are terms used in distillation of Irish Whiskey, according to researchers of the House of John Jameson. A "wort" is the unfermented liquid made from ground mash. "wash" is the fermented liquid ready for distillation and a "worm" is the huge condenser in which the distilled vapor is converted back to a liquid.

Greece and Turkey Given $7 Billion in Aid by U.S.

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Since the end of World War II, Greece and Turkey have received U. S. aid totaling around $7 billion, in roughly equal amounts.

In each case, approximately two-thirds of the amount went into a military build - up, with the remainder going into economic development plans.

Despite this aid, and further aid from the NATO and European Common Market nations, neither country is yet prepared to stand on its own two feet economically.

This fact alone points up the disastrous consequences of any war between the two over the Cyprus issue, aside from the further fact that the two would be shooting at each other with weapons supplied by the United States for quite another purpose.

It was in an attempt to ease the present dangerous situation that President Johnson invited premiers Ismet Inonu of Turkey and George Papandreou of Greece to meet separately with him in Washington this month.

Although there apparently is no thought at the moment of attempting to bring the two premiers together in peace-seeking talks, the United States is stepping into the dispute as a friendly broker between two nations with which it has relations stronger than merely economic.

The move is reflective of a growing belief that if the civil war on Cyprus is to be settled, the settlement will have to be imposed from the outside.

Since December Greek and Turkish Cypriots have been shooting at each other, with no change in previous positions.

Greek Cyproit President Archbishop Makarios remains adamant in his determination to establish a government which the Turks say would eliminate their minority rights, and the Turks equally determined in their demands for partition.

Between these warring forces stands a 7,000-man United Nations peace-keeping force whose stay originally was estimated optimistically at three months and now is to be extended another three.

Exhaust Fume Control Urged in California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Auto manufacturers wishing to sell 1966 models in California will have to add a device to eliminate a by-product of their wares —unburned hydrocarbons in auto exhaust fumes.

Experts say these hydrocarbons are a major cause of smog. The State Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board Wdenesday approved four devices to control them.

D. A. Jensen, the board's executive officer, estimated that by 1967 the installation of the devices priced from $26 to $75 on new cars will have eliminated 25 per cent of the hydrocarbons in the Los Angeles basin's atmosphere.

Greece and Turkey Given $7 Billion in Aid by U.S.

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Since the end of World War II, Greece and Turkey have received U. S. aid totaling around $7 billion, in roughly equal amounts.

In each case, approximately two-thirds of the amount went into a military build-up, with the remainder going into economic development plans.

Despite this aid, and further aid from the NATO and European Common Market nations, neither country is yet prepared to stand on its own two feet economically.

This fact alone points up the disastrous consequences of any war between the two over the Cyprus issue, aside from the further fact that the two would be shooting at each other with weapons supplied by the United States for quite another purpose.

It was in an attempt to ease the present dangerous situation that President Johnson invited premiers Ismet Inonu of Turkey and George Papandreou of Greece to meet separately with him in Washington this month.

Although there apparently is no thought at the moment of attempting to bring the two premiers together in peace-seeking talks, the United States is stepping into the dispute as a friendly broker between two nations with which it has relations stronger than merely economic.

The move is reflective of a growing belief that if the civil war on Cyprus is to be settled, the settlement will have to be imposed from the outside.

Since December Greek and Turkish Cypriots have been shooting at each other, with no change in previous positions.

Greek Cyproit President Archbishop Makarios remains adamant in his determination to establish a government which the Turks say would eliminate their minority rights, and the Turks equally determined in their demands for partition.

A Challenge of Our Sincerity

Some years ago, a rather ordinary criticism of the editorial policy of this newspaper was that it wasn't sincere.

In the intervening years most people have probably observed that whereas we are neither infallible nor as consistent as we would like to be, our efforts stem from a deep conviction of the validity of human liberty, which is entirely in harmony with sincerity.

It used to be said, we well remember, that we took the policy we did simply because it was good for business. And certainly it is true, that discussions about liberty have an exciting, challenging, stimulation to most people. Thus, it is probably true that our adherence to this cause proved no larger a deterrent to ordinary business operations than the support of any other cause might have occasioned. Most people are not as interested in causes as we are; and certainly fewer are concerned with liberty, as our drift toward full socialist controls attests

But only the other day we heard the charge again, that we were insincere.

And this time we could see why the charge was made.

Actually, it could well be that the accusation is little more than a jibe. Most of us enjoy "needling" an adversary, or even a friend. And the form of this charge causes us to suppose that such might be the case here.

For we were told that since we didn't believe in government assistance, government regulation or government control of our properties or our lives, we could demonstrate our sincerity by wholly avoiding all these things. Further, if we were sincere, that is just what we would do, regardless of the cost to us.

Actions speak louder than words, we were reminded. And surely there must be something inconsistent, not to say hypocritical, for us to object to government roads, mail service, and airports, while we continue to use them; to object to government taxes, while we continue to pay them.

On the surface such a complaint would surely appear valid. But, is it? We are not suggesting that difficulty with complying destroys the complaint. We are simply going to ask if, at the moment, the suggestion that we make our actions coincide with our beliefs, is POSSIBLE of fulfillment, regardless of difficulties.

You see, government has so expanded its functions and now so thoroughly blankets our lives, that we do not believe it is possible to escape government intrusion except by dying. But even here, the government coroner enters, government regulations have to be obeyed, final permits obtained, and so on.

The problem really is that we live in a world where our choices have been so limited by government that in some cases we have no choice at all, except to go along with the state, or die. But since dying once more involves the state, here again, escape is not possible.

There are, as it turns out, only three possible systems that could be adopted respecting the kind of society we can live in.

1. One in which everyone steals from everyone.

2. One in which some people steal from other people.

3. One in which no one steals from anyone.

Without hesitancy, we prefer the latter and suppose that you do. But that is certainly not what we have. We live in a system which resembles the second alternate and is probably fast approaching the first alternate

If we understand that government predation against our incomes and property is nothing but legalized theft, then the plight we are in can readily be seen.

Now, what do we do about it? We are not free to choose in hundreds of cases Thus, when we elect to use a government road, we are using one that has been provided by organized and legal theft. When we pay a tax that is demanded, we are in the process of joining, albeit unwillingly, the looting process. And, as our critic supposes, there is an inconsistency here that could only be avoided were we to die (possibly at sea so that the coroner would not be called).

Somehow the thought of martyrdom is not attractive. Not that we are afraid of dying and of dying for our convictions. It is that we believe we can be more useful by continuing to educate, even though the situation we seek to encourage is not available to us.

Thus, we would prefer to live for our convictions and we do not feel that such a wish is insincere. Nor do we think that it robs us of the strength of consistency and sincerity within the arena open to us.

THEY SAY HE NEVER MISSES AN OPPORTUNITY

The Local Scene

The Other Side

By RUFUS L. PORTER

I met Rudy Fahl, of mountain climbing fame, in the post office this morning And, after enjoying a good laugh with him over my recent story about a bridge being built in Cascade he informed me that the joke, if any, was on Charles Cusack and not Rudy Fahl But he admitted it was still a good joke.

I was in error on one point. The bridge was not being built over Fountain Creek, but over a small tributary known as Cascade Creek, which flows into Fountain Creek at Cascade.

Rudy says the water WAS shut off, by Cusack, by Providence, or somebody. At least the water was miraculously reduced to a mere trickle for a few hours and he was able to finish his bridge. He says it is a fine bridge and a beautiful one It also set him back $1,000, but he says it is worth it. I am going up and inspect it soon.

So much for the bridge and the run-off water that can seemingly be turned on or off by some valve closer or button pusher, or by mother nature — anyhow, by somebody. Rudy also gave me a copy of a poem he has recently written, presumably after he was able to finish his bridge.

Now, I do not intend to make a habit of using other people's poems in this space — I'd rather do 'em myself, mother. But this is one time I am going to use a guest artist's piece by way of diversity. The poem follows.

TAKE TIME FOR RIGHT LIVING
By RUDY FAHL

Take time for right living while rushing along,
And lighten life's load with the lilt of a song;
From living and learning, in wisdom we grow,
And reach our full stature while onward we go.
Take time for right living in habits of thought.
Remember sad errors will bring you to naught.
The truth has a tone like the peal of a bell.
Right doing brings water up from a deep well.
Take time for right living in all that you do,
In praying and planting and harvesting, too;
By seeking contentment, your greatest reward.
In finding joyfulness you sweeten life's chord.
Take time for right living.
exercise for a while,
To live in the sunshine that brightens your smile;
And seek a right mission, continue to strive.
To earn the reward: "I'm REALLY alive."

Rudy must be living right to be able to practically run up and down the Peak several times a season I used to make it in three hours — one way, that is. But I'm afraid it would take me close to three days now and I am only a year older than he is. My way of climbing mountains is "to take it kind of slow," as the following poem of mine attests.

THE WAY TO CLIMB A MOUNTAIN

On easy grades and level ground
You may gallop to and fro,
But the way to climb a mountain
Is to take it kind of slow.
If you try to go a-whooping
Your climb is apt to flop—
If you take it slow and steady
You will likely reach the top.
Impatient climbers will go by
And mark you down a snail,
But they will sprawl exhausted
Along the higher trail.
While you are plodding smoothly on
They're forced to stop and rest.
Before they reach the halfway mark
They've lost their urgent zest.
The same is true of living, friend;
We admire a brilliant burst,
But the guy who keeps on plugging
Will often get there first.
If you want to reach the summit
It always pays to know
That the way to climb a mountain
Is to take it kind of slow.

This was written, of course, for us ordinary mountain climbers who don't always find ourselves in too good shape, even at the start of a climb

Any time my readers complain of my poetry, I will gladly switch to an all-prose column. It is easier to write, and it seems to me that I write a heck of a lot of it lately

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 521: "Would the proper understanding of the commandment, 'Honor thy father and thy mother that thy days may be long in the land that thy God has given thee,' improve the well-being of mankind on this earth? Would it not take the place of the welfare state?"

Answer: Some people are confused by this commandment, "Honor thy father and thy mother." It doesn't mean, necessarily, that one regard his parents as ideal, but it does mean that he has an obligation to take care of them if they become destitute. The reason that this would improve the longevity of one who honors his father and mother and takes care of them if they are destitute is that it is setting a good example for his children, and so if the parents become destitute then their children will take care of them as a moral obligation. This would, naturally, relieve the state of doing what should be done by the children for their parents and relatives.

If the public didn't believe in having the right to use force on strangers to take care of destitute people, who should be taken care of by their children, we wouldn't be in the mess that we are in today with the taxes going up and the dollar's value going down.

But some people will say, "But what would happen to those people who have no children?" If they have no children then they should be able to save, or to so live that someone will voluntarily want to help them if they should become destitute.

One preacher told a friend of this writer that he didn't see how honoring thy father and thy mother had anything to do with the longevity of life. Evidently he didn't understand the commandment. Another preacher said that the commandments had been superseded by the Love Commandment. Evidently a lot of the men of the cloth do not really understand the meaning of the Human Relations Commandments.

Some claim that if people respected private property and did not steal, either individually or collectively, that people would not murder, would not bear false witness, and would not commit adultery.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

Doles to Foreign Governments

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

From time to time readers of this column exhibit a fascinating rapport with my sources of information. For instance: today I received a letter from a slightly irate, anonymous writer of letters to this effect. "You frequently refer to tax money being used for the support of foreign governments but our foreign aid goes to the poor people who need help, not to the governments except for the military aid. Surely you do not begrudge the use of a small portion of our great wealth for the saving of millions of lives throughout the 'free world.'"

Ma'am, I do begrudge every dollar stolen from me by government! I do not feel that an immoral act becomes moral if some portion of the plunder is used for some supposedly good purpose.

In the same mail which brought your letter, Ma'am, I received information which indicates that during fiscal 1963, $901,996,000 in American tax dollars was used to support budgetary deficits of foreign governments while your own government was going further in the red to the tune of more than 3 billion dollars. Obviously this paltry sum of more than $900,000,000 was in excess of all the other foreign aid, cash grants and on and on interminably

It's just possible, Ma'am, that you do not realize that the national debt of your government is greater than the national deficits of all the rest of the governments of the world combined but if you do not, it's your own fault because your daily newspaper has carried this information on more than one occasion, among other important facts.

Then there's the use of the undefined expression, "free world." Which socialist or fascist or communist government does not exert a horrible tyranny over its subjects? Let's stop kidding ourselves, Ma'am

Just the other night I listened while politicians and others anxious to slant history made completely silly conversation about the Marshall plan and the heroic activities of the father of that indecency

In the fashion typical of politicians and their cohorts, the instigator of this particular brand of thievery was lauded while not one mention was made of the earners and investors who were and are victims of the Robin Hoodery Yep, this country has bred a real strong strain of humanitarians who think nothing of handing out billions of dollars taken by force from the people who employ them, at the expense of those who earn and produce and create and invest, for the benefit of the fascist-socialist-communist governments of every country in the world today and the end is not in sight

Ma'am, I know you mentioned that you thought a great deal more of the foreign aid money should be retained here for the benefit of the poor and starving and illiterate and indigent, and you name them, but I don't agree with you about that, either The sums you refer to should remain in the hands of the rightful owners to do with as they please, because if a man does not have the right to every penny he earns, he has no property right at all and no amount of maudlin moralizing can change the fact

Think about facts for an hour or so, Ma'am No man or woman can be a humanitarian unless they give of the fruit of their own labor, creative energy or investments If they take YOUR money and give it away, they are simply thieves who give away what they have stolen from you You cannot change these facts no matter how many tears you shed for the poor or homeless or hungry or indigent, and I add this statement — even in our poverty-stricken state, no hungry person will be turned away from our door and I am happy to be able to say I have never seen a starving human being but when I do, the starving person will no longer be starving and I prefer to believe that normal or ordinary human beings will generally react in a similar fashion.

Thank you for taking the time to read my column, Ma'am I hope this reply will provide you with some food for thought, and good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Eager Investors

From Chicago Tribune

Investors snapped up the 10 million shares of stock in the new Communications Satellite Corporation so eagerly, at $20 a share, that brokers had to ration their quotas and guess that they could have sold double the amount. At the end of the first day, the bidding price was more than $22

Of the 200 million dollars obtained, half was provided last week by 163 companies in the communications industry led by American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and the other half of the stock has now been sold to individuals

Comsat, as the company is known, will provide the satellites for its orbital communications system and will pay the space agency to launch them The stock is not guaranteed by the government, nor does the company expect to pay any dividends for "an indeterminate period," probably at least 10 years. It may be that long, or longer, before the company can make up for its initial costs and acquire enough customers to make an adequate profit

Considering these uncertain prospects it is interesting that the stock should have sold so quickly. No doubt some investors merely wanted the thrill of buying a stake in space But most of them probably hope that, glamor or no glamor, the stock will eventually pay off in dividends and capital appreciation.

That the stock was sold so quickly shows that investors are generally willing to provide even vast sums of money, on what may be a little more than a gamble, as long as they can count on receiving whatever profit they are entitled to, when and if it materializes, subject only to more or less predictable taxes

This in turn demonstrates the fallacy of the familiar argument that the government must build such things as big power installations because private capital can't afford to do the job. Private capital is willing and able to take on enormous jobs if it has reasonable assurance that the government won't stick its fingers in the pudding while it is cooking. Already private companies have pooled their resources to build dams and hydro-electric plants whenever the government has seen fit to let them.

But the public power lobby still has dreams of empire, including a transmission system which would make or break any private company with which it dealt. If some investors are wary, it may because of this threat. They are afraid not of too little government "participation," but rather of too much

MINORITIES

To the Editor

Seemingly a very few short years ago, just out of school and eager to do whatever I possibly could to help our community become an ideal place to live for all citizens, I wrote several articles in the local and Denver papers about job and housing bias Today, I am happy to say there has been quite a change The job picture looks good and there are minority members scattered throughout most of the city This change in our community structure came as no surprise to me These changes are the result of outstanding leadership in our city government churches, business and professions and an enlightened community as a whole These characteristics are needed in every community in order to bring out the very best in our democratic way of life

Before going further, I would like to linger awhile on the housing situation Here is hoping that quite a few have found out that the dreams and aims of most minorities are basically the same as any other group on the American scene, that of providing the best possible for his family, a good home and the best possible location he can afford, educate the children and become active in community projects, projects that are geared to help the children and the community as a whole

Too, most minorities are a friendly lot, but proud on the other hand, if opinions are fixed, harmony is lost to a certain extent. Instead of a friendly hello that could possibly ease the tension that may exist, some are content to sit back and wait for home and possibly family deterioration And, as much as I hate to admit it, it does happen, but these people are a part of our community, the American community no matter where they may move in the good old U S A We owe it to our community to try to help them if at all possible. In some cases it's a lack of education or the proper guidance in life

I suppose I have no right to mention a lack of education because I am almost sure that with the proper education I could possibly be fulfilling my dream, that of becoming the winningest coach of all time no reflections on my alma mater, and for some time I laid the blame for my failure to get a position in the local school system on my outspoken opinions via the news media. Facts are hard to face, but knowing that our school systems try or should try to get the best personnel they can find I took another look at myself I was very seldom at the head of the class unless perhaps in the dining hall line

Colorado Springs is blessed with a countless number of outstanding men and women dedicated to the betterment of local and other communities — for instance the local pastor that ventured to Mississippi to lend a helping hand to the cause of freedom Though most of us take freedom for granted, "freedom is everybody's business" I mention that fact because there are many that frown on an individual or group that venture from one community to another to lend a hand in the fight for freedom. Let's not forget that "a government, local, state or national is no stronger than its weakest link" As a nation, if we are to remain "champions of freedom in the eyes of the world we will have to help promote and preserve freedom for all of our citizens

Then there is the historic two hundred, the two hundred local citizens that dared to stand up and be counted as citizens for fair play more or less These are but a few of the many outstanding citizens that are dedicated to the task of making our city an ideal place in which to live. Although I know that our community is but one of many communities throughout the nation trying to improve the community I am proud to be a part of a community that is helping to make the words "champions of freedom" a reality in our times.

CAMPAIGN ORATORY

To the Editor

The following are quotes taken from the numerous public speeches by Gov Scranton:

"I will not actively seek the nomination of the Republican Party for President but would accept it if drafted.

"I will not accept the Republican nomination as vice president unless there is an honest draft.

"I will join in no movement to stop Senator Goldwater."

I had thought Scranton to be a statesman with at least a modicum of integrity. It is disappointing to discover that he is just another politician full of "campaign oratory," and his attempt to clothe himself with the attributes of Abraham Lincoln, one of our greatest Presidents, was disgusting.

There was certainly no draft but somebody (reportedly Eisenhower) kept changing Scranton's mind.

With a mind so susceptible to change — by other people — what a push-over Scranton would be for Khrushchev!

Consistency Is Not Sincerity

Once, in discussing the nature of freedom, a student of liberty stated he did not believe it possible for man to ever be completely free. The reason he had so concluded relates to this fact. If a man jumps off a cliff, hoping to fly like a bird, he will not fly, he will fall to the base of the cliff and suffer injury or death. But if he were completely free, he could do anything he wanted to do. Obviously, he cannot.

We reminded the student that his illustration did not prove that man could not be free; it rather clearly demonstrated that man is not a bird. Thus, we argued that man is free, as man, not as bird. Man is bound by the natural laws of his own being. These he may not violate with impunity. But within the arena reserved for him, he may certainly be free. All that is necessary for such freedom to manifest is that each man govern himself and refrain from seeking to restrain or compel other men compulsively or coercively.

But as we have noted, we were born into a world where freedom is on the decline. We live in a society in which organized groups exert violence of a legal order, in order to force conformity to the will of the law, which law is not of natural origin but simply a man-made code of behavior. And since we do not believe in taking the law into our own hands, or in initiating violence against those who use force against us, we are confronted with what appears to be, and undoubtedly is, a kind of inconsistency between what we want and what we have.

But we should at once draw a line between consistency and sincerity. Consistency is a word denoting objective comparisons. Sincerity is subjective and relates to intention.

By force, we are compelled into inconsistent behavior. But this in no way invalidates the sincerity of our efforts to bring about a correction.

Let us consider this analogy. Let us suppose that a young man is born into a society that practices cannibalism. He, like all others of his tribe, learns to eat human flesh. It appears to him normal and correct. Indeed, it is meritorious.

Then, suddenly he finds himself able to reason himself out of this practice. He sees that in his society some men eat other men. He extends this practice through logic and sees that if it is continued, utimately all men will eat all other men and only the last man at the feast will survive. Thus, he longs for a society in which no men eat other men.

Of course, in this illustration, that young man might be capable of flight. There would, conceivably, be other places he could go where cannibalism is not practiced. But if he flees, he might be accused of cowardice, of seeking an easy and comfortable way out for himself.

Let us suppose that our former cannibal is not cowardly. Instead, he most sincerely wishes to inform his brothers of the truth that he has learned. So, he remains with his people. And he avoids eating human flesh at every opportunity that confronts him. But there are certain feasts each month that he is compelled, by tribal ritual, to attend. If he does not, he, in turn, will be eaten.

So, he rejects human flesh EXCEPT when he is forced to join in the ritual or suffer the consequences. In process, he stays alive and gradually he convinces others of his people that avoiding human flesh as a staple of diet, is both possible and desirable.

It would be true, of course, that in the midst of the grisly, tribe-compelled rituals, he will be inconsistent. But the inconsistency is forced upon him against his will and he finds it revolting. Does this inconsistency destroy his sincerity? We think not. Actually, if he is sincere, he will continue this effort so that utimately his own people will correct their custom.

But the analogy doesn't really hold. For in our illustration, the former cannibal might escape and go to some non-cannibal place. But in the real situation, no such place exists. The entire world is given over, not to dietetic cannibalism, but to forced conformity under more than a hundred states. These states have claimed all territories.

Further, even if a person in our present society sought to completely rid himself of government aid and assistance, he could not. Our economy, the economy of the whole world, is cross-pollinated with state duress. Even the things we know, were provided in schools that are government run. Even to die, calls upon the state to regulate the last disposal of the remains.

But we have a choice. We can work toward an improvement. We can teach that independence is desirable and possible. We can be consistent, until force is employed against us to limit or destroy our choices.

Even this need not destroy our sincerity.

Survival is not possible for anyone in this world over any extended period of time without the cooperation of others, the use of tools, or both. And because of cross-pollination with government, no tool or product is wholly free of some form of governmental interventionism somewhere along the line. Nor do men exist whose existence has not been constrained or promoted in some way by some state.

Actually, then, we have four choices. We cannot escape, and this is not a choice. But we can elect to accept as little help as possible from the state and to seek to reduce that assistance. Or we can elect to get as much out of the state as we know how. Or we can seek to do nothing but accept the status quo and merely vegetate, having no views one way or another. Or we can die.

All four of these choices involve the state to some degree. But only one choice will serve to reduce the power of the state and that is the first choice.

This is the one we have made.

A Challenge of Our Sincerity

Some years ago, a rather ordinary criticism of the editorial policy of this newspaper was that it wasn't sincere.

In the intervening years most people have probably observed that whereas we are neither infallible nor as consistent as we would like to be, our efforts stem from a deep conviction of the validity of human liberty, which is entirely in harmony with sincerity.

It used to be said, we well remember, that we took the policy we did simply because it was good for business. And certainly it is true, that discussions about liberty have an exciting, challenging, stimulation to most people. Thus, it is probably true that our adherence to this cause proved no larger a deterrent to ordinary business operations than the support of any other cause might have occasioned. Most people are not as interested in causes as we are; and certainly fewer are concerned with liberty, as our drift toward full socialist controls attests.

But only the other day we heard the charge again, that we were insincere.

And this time we could see why the charge was made.

Actually, it could well be that the accusation is little more than a jibe. Most of us enjoy "needling" an adversary, or even a friend. And the form of this charge causes us to suppose that such might be the case here.

For we were told that since we didn't believe in government assistance, government regulation or government control of our properties or our lives, we could demonstrate our sincerity by wholly avoiding all these things. Further, if we were sincere, that is just what we would do, regardless of the cost to us.

Actions speak louder than words, we were reminded. And surely there must be something inconsistent, not to say hypocritical, for us to object to government roads, mail service, and airports, while we continue to use them; to object to government taxes, while we continue to pay them.

On the surface such a complaint would surely appear valid. But, is it? We are not suggesting that difficulty with complying destroys the complaint. We are simply going to ask if, at the moment, the suggestion that we make our actions coincide with our beliefs, is POSSIBLE of fulfillment, regardless of difficulties.

You see, government has so expanded its functions and now so thoroughly blankets our lives, that we do not believe it is possible to escape government intrusion except by dying. But even here, the government coroner enters, government regulations have to be obeyed, final permits obtained, and so on.

The problem really is that we live in a world where our choices have been so limited by government that in some cases we have no choice at all, except to go along with the state, or die. But since dying once more involves the state, here again, escape is not possible.

There are, as it turns out, only three possible systems that could be adopted respecting the kind of society we can live in.

1. One in which everyone steals from everyone.

2. One in which some people steal from other people.

3. One in which no one steals from anyone.

Without hesitancy, we prefer the latter and suppose that you do. But that is certainly not what we have. We live in a system which resembles the second alternate and is probably fast approaching the first alternate.

If we understand that government predation against our incomes and property is nothing but legalized theft, then the plight we are in can readily be seen.

Now, what do we do about it? We are not free to choose in hundreds of cases. Thus, when we elect to use a government road, we are using one that has been provided by organized and legal theft. When we pay a tax that is demanded, we are in the process of joining, albeit unwillingly, the looting process. And, as our critic supposes, there is an inconsistency here that could only be avoided were we to die (possibly at sea so that the coroner would not be called).

Somehow the thought of martyrdom is not attractive. Not that we are afraid of dying and of dying for our convictions. It is that we believe we can be more useful by continuing to educate, even though the situation we seek to encourage is not available to us.

Thus, we would prefer to live for our convictions and we do not feel that such a wish is insincere. Nor do we think that it robs us of the strength of consistency and sincerity within the arena open to us.

THEY SAY HE NEVER MISSES AN OPPORTUNITY

Doles to Foreign Governments

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

From time to time readers of this column exhibit a fascinating rapport with my sources of information. For instance; today I received a letter from a slightly irate, anonymous writer of letters to this effect, "You frequently refer to tax money being used for the support of foreign governments but our foreign aid goes to the poor people who need help, not to the governments except for the military aid. Surely you do not begrudge the use of a small portion of our great wealth for the saving of millions of lives throughout the 'free world.' "

Ma'am, I do begrudge every dollar stolen from me by government! I do not feel that an immoral act becomes moral if some portion of the plunder is used for some supposedly good purpose.

In the same mail which brought your letter, Ma'am, I received information which indicates that during fiscal 1963, $901,996,000 in American tax dollars was used to support budgetary deficits of foreign governments while your own government was going further in the red to the tune of more than 3 billion dollars. Obviously this paltry sum of more than $900,000,000 was in excess of all the other foreign aid, cash grants and on and on interminably.

It's just possible, Ma'am, that you do not realize that the national debt of your government is greater than the national deficits of all the rest of the governments of the world combined but if you do not, it's your own fault because your daily newspaper has carried this information on more than one occasion, among other important facts.

Then there's the use of the undefined expression, "free world." Which socialist or fascist or communist government does not exert a horrible tyranny over its subjects? Let's stop kidding ourselves, Ma'am.

Just the other night I listened while politicians and others anxious to slant history made completely silly conversation about the Marshall plan and the heroic activities of the father of that indecency.

In the fashion typical of politicians and their cohorts, the instigator of this particular brand of thievery was lauded while not one mention was made of the earners and investors who were and are victims of the Robin Hoodery. Yep, this country has bred a real strong strain of humanitarians who think nothing of handing out billions of dollars taken by force from the people who employ them, at the expense of those who earn and produce and create and invest, for the benefit of the fascist-socialist-communist governments of every country in the world today and the end is not in sight.

Ma'am, I know you mentioned that you thought a great deal more of the foreign aid money should be retained here for the benefit of the poor and starving and illiterate and indigent, and you name them, but I don't agree with you about that, either. The sums you refer to should remain in the hands of the rightful owners to do with as they please, because if a man does not have the right to every penny he earns, he has no property right at all and no amount of maudlin moralizing can change the fact.

Think about facts for an hour or so, Ma'am. No man or woman can be a humanitarian unless they give of the fruit of their own labor, creative energy or investments. If they take YOUR money and give it away, they are simply thieves who give away what they have stolen from you. You cannot change these facts no matter how many tears you shed for the poor or homeless or hungry or indigent, and I add this statement — even in our poverty-stricken state, no hungry person will be turned away from our door and I am happy to be able to say I have never seen a starving human being but when I do, the starving person will no longer be starving and I prefer to believe that normal or ordinary human beings will generally react in a similar fashion.

Thank you for taking the time to read my column, Ma'am. I hope this reply will provide you with some food for thought, and good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Eager Investors

From Chicago Tribune

Investors snapped up the 10 million shares of stock in the new Communications Satellite Corporation so eagerly, at $20 a share, that brokers had to ration their quotas and guess that they could have sold double the amount. At the end of the first day, the bidding price was more than $22.

Of the 200 million dollars obtained, half was provided last week by 163 companies in the communications industry, led by American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and the other half of the stock has now been sold to individuals.

Comsat, as the company is known, will provide the satellites for its orbital communications system and will pay the space agency to launch them. The stock is not guaranteed by the government, nor does the company expect to pay any dividends for "an indeterminate period," probably at least 10 years. It may be that long, or longer, before the company can make up for its initial costs and acquire enough customers to make an adequate profit.

Considering these uncertain prospects it is interesting that the stock should have sold so quickly. No doubt some investors merely wanted the thrill of buying a stake in space. But most of them probably hope that, glamor or no glamor, the stock will eventually pay off in dividends and capital appreciation.

That the stock was sold so quickly shows that investors are generally willing to provide even vast sums of money, on what may be a little more than a gamble, as long as they can count on receiving whatever profit they are entitled to, when and if it materializes, subject only to more or less predictable taxes.

This in turn demonstrates the fallacy of the familiar argument that the government must build such things as big power installations because private capital can't afford to do the job. Private capital is willing and able to take on enormous jobs if it has reasonable assurance that the government won't stick its fingers in the pudding while it is cooking. Already private companies have pooled their resources to build dams and hydro-electric plants whenever the government has seen fit to let them.

But the public power lobby still has dreams of empire, including a transmission system which would make or break any private company with which it dealt. If some investors are wary, it may because of this threat. They are afraid not of too little government "participation," but rather of too much.

MINORITIES

To the Editor:

Seemingly, a very few short years ago, just out of school and eager to do whatever I possibly could to help our community become an ideal place to live for all citizens, I wrote several articles in the local and Denver papers about job and housing bias. Today, I am happy to say there has been quite a change. The job picture looks good and there are minority members scattered throughout most of the city. This change in our community structure came as no surprise to me. These changes are the result of outstanding leadership in our city government, churches, business and professions and an enlightened community as a whole. These characteristics are needed in every community in order to bring out the very best in our democratic way of life.

Before going further, I would like to linger awhile on the housing situation. Here is hoping that quite a few have found out that the dreams and aims of most minorities are basically the same as any other group on the American scene, that of providing the best possible for his family, a good home and the best possible location he can afford, educate the children and become active in community projects, projects that are geared to help the children and the community as a whole. Too, most minorities are a friendly lot, but proud, on the other hand, if opinions are fixed, harmony is lost to a certain extent. Instead of a friendly hello that could possibly ease the tension that may exist, some are content to sit back and wait for home and possibly family deterioration. And, as much as I hate to admit it, it does happen, but these people are a part of our community, the American community no matter where they may move in the good old U.S.A. We owe it to our community to try to help them if at all possible. In some cases it's a lack of education or the proper guidance in life.

I suppose I have no right to mention a lack of education because I am almost sure that with the proper education I could possibly be fulfilling my dream, that of becoming the winningest coach of all time (no reflections on my alma mater), and for some time I laid the blame for my failure to get a position in the local school system on my outspoken opinions via the news media. Facts are hard to face, but knowing that our school systems try or should try to get the best personnel they can find, I took another look at myself. I was very seldom at the head of the class unless perhaps in the dining hall line.

Colorado Springs is blessed with a countless number of outstanding men and women dedicated to the betterment of local and other communities — for instance, the local pastor that ventured to Mississippi to lend a helping hand to the cause of freedom. Though most of us take freedom for granted, "freedom is everybody's business." I mention that fact because there are many that frown on an individual or group that venture from one community to another to lend a hand in the fight for freedom. Let's not forget that "a government, local, state or national is no stronger than its weakest link." As a nation, if we are to remain "champions of freedom" in the eyes of the world we will have to help promote and preserve freedom for all of our citizens.

Then there is the historic two hundred, the two hundred local citizens that dared to stand up and be counted as citizens for fair play more or less. These are but a few of the many outstanding citizens that are dedicated to the task of making our city an ideal place in which to live. Although I know that our community is but one of many communities throughout the nation trying to improve the community I am proud to be a part of a community that is helping to make the words "champions of freedom" a reality in our times.

CAMPAIGN ORATORY

To the Editor:

The following are quotes taken from the numerous public speeches by Gov. Scranton:

"I will not actively seek the nomination of the Republican Party for President but would accept it if drafted.

"I will not accept the Republican nomination as vice president unless there is an honest draft.

"I will join in no movement to stop Senator Goldwater."

I had thought Scranton to be a statesman with at least a modicum of integrity. It is disappointing to discover that he is just another politician full of "campaign oratory," and his attempt to clothe himself with the attributes of Abraham Lincoln, one of our greatest Presidents, was disgusting.

There was certainly no draft but somebody (reportedly Eisenhower) kept changing Scranton's mind.

With a mind so susceptible to change — by other people — what a push-over Scranton would be for Khrushchev!

The Other Side

By RUFUS L. PORTER

I met Rudy Fahl, of mountain climbing fame, in the post office this morning. And, after enjoying a good laugh with him over my recent story about a bridge being built in Cascade he informed me that the joke, if any, was on Charles Cusack and not Rudy Fahl. But he admitted it was still a good joke.

I was in error on one point. The bridge was not being built over Fountain Creek, but over a small tributary known as Cascade Creek, which flows into Fountain Creek at Cascade.

Rudy says the water WAS shut off, by Cusack, by Providence, or somebody. At least the water was miraculously reduced to a mere trickle for a few hours and he was able to finish his bridge. He says it is a fine bridge and a beautiful one. It also set him back $1,000, but he says it is worth it. I am going up and inspect it soon.

So much for the bridge and the run-off water that can seemingly be turned on or off by some valve closer or button pusher, or by mother nature — anyhow, by somebody. Rudy also gave me a copy of a poem he has recently written, presumably after he was able to finish his bridge.

Now, I do not intend to make a habit of using other people's poems in this space — I'd rather do 'em myself, mother. But this is one time I am going to use a guest artist's piece by way of diversity. The poem follows.

TAKE TIME FOR RIGHT LIVING
By RUDY FAHL

Take time for right living while rushing along,
And lighten life's load with the lilt of a song;
From living and learning, in wisdom we grow,
And reach our full stature while onward we go.
Take time for right living in habits of thought,
Remember sad errors will bring you to naught.
The truth has a tone like the peal of a bell,
Right doing brings water up from a deep well.
Take time for right living in all that you do,
In praying and planting and harvesting, too;
By seeking contentment, your greatest reward,
In finding joyfulness you sweeten life's chord.
Take time for right living, exercise for a while,
To live in the sunshine that brightens your smile;
And seek a right mission, continue to strive,
To earn the reward: "I'm REALLY alive."

Rudy must be living right to be able to practically run up and down the Peak several times a season. I used to make it in three hours — one way, that is. But I'm afraid it would take me close to three days now and I am only a year older than he is. My way of climbing mountains is "to take it kind of slow," as the following poem of mine attests.

THE WAY TO CLIMB
A MOUNTAIN

On easy grades and level ground
You may gallop to and fro,
But the way to climb a mountain
Is to take it kind of slow.
If you try to go a-whooping
Your climb is apt to flop—
If you take it slow and steady
You will likely reach the top.
Impatient climbers will go by
And mark you down a snail,
But they will sprawl exhausted
Along the higher trail.
While you are plodding smoothly on
They're forced to stop and rest.
Before they reach the halfway mark
They've lost their urgent zest.

The same is true of living, friend;
We admire a brilliant burst,
But the guy who keeps on plugging
Will often get there first.
If you want to reach the summit
It always pays to know
That the way to climb a mountain
Is to take it kind of slow.

This was written, of course, for us ordinary mountain climbers who don't always find ourselves in too good shape, even at the start of a climb.

Any time my readers complain of my poetry, I will gladly switch to an all-prose column. It is easier to write, and it seems to me that I write a heck of a lot of it lately.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 521: "Would the proper understanding of the commandment, 'Honor thy father and thy mother that thy days may be long in the land that thy God has given thee,' improve the well-being of mankind on this earth? Would it not take the place of the welfare state?"

Answer: Some people are confused by this commandment, "Honor thy father and thy mother." It doesn't mean, necessarily, that one regard his parents as ideal, but it does mean that he has an obligation to take care of them if they become destitute. The reason that this would improve the longevity of one who honors his father and mother and takes care of them if they are destitute is that it is setting a good example for his children, and so if the parents become destitute then their children will take care of them as a moral obligation. This would, naturally, relieve the state of doing what should be done by the children for their parents and relatives.

If the public didn't believe in having the right to use force on strangers to take care of destitute people, who should be taken care of by their children, we wouldn't be in the mess that we are in today with the taxes going up and the dollar's value going down.

But some people will say, "But what would happen to those people who have no children?" If they have no children then they should be able to save, or to so live that someone will voluntarily want to help them if they should become destitute.

One preacher told a friend of this writer that he didn't see how honoring thy father and thy mother had anything to do with the longevity of life. Evidently he didn't understand the commandment. Another preacher said that the commandments had been superseded by the Love Commandment. Evidently a lot of the men of the cloth do not really understand the meaning of the Human Relations Commandments.

Some claim that if people respected private property and did not steal, either individually or collectively, that people would not murder, would not bear false witness, and would not commit adultery.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

Consistency Is Not Sincerity

Once, in discussing the nature of freedom, a student of liberty stated he did not believe it possible for man to ever be completely free. The reason he had so concluded relates to this fact. If a man jumps off a cliff, hoping to fly like a bird, he will not fly, he will fall to the base of the cliff and suffer injury or death. But if he were completely free, he could do anything he wanted to do. Obviously, he cannot.

We reminded the student that his illustration did not prove that man could not be free; it rather clearly demonstrated that man is not a bird. Thus, we argued that man is free, as man, not as bird. Man is bound by the natural laws of his own being. These he may not violate with impunity. But within the arena reserved for him, he may certainly be free. All that is necessary for such freedom to manifest is that each man govern himself and refrain from seeking to restrain or compel other men compulsively or coercively.

But as we have noted, we were born into a world where freedom is on the decline. We live in a society in which organized groups exert violence of a legal order, in order to force conformity to the will of the law, which law is not of natural origin but simply a man-made code of behavior. And since we do not believe in taking the law into our own hands, or in initiating violence against those who use force against us, we are confronted with what appears to be, and undoubtedly is, a kind of inconsistency between what we want and what we have.

But we should at once draw a line between consistency and sincerity. Consistency is a word denoting objective comparisons. Sincerity is subjective and relates to intention.

By force, we are compelled into inconsistent behavior. But this in no way invalidates the sincerity of our efforts to bring about a correction.

Let us consider this analogy. Let us suppose that a young man is born into a society that practices cannibalism. He, like all others of his tribe, learns to eat human flesh. It appears to him normal and correct. Indeed, it is meritorious.

Then, suddenly he finds himself able to reason himself out of this practice. He sees that in his society some men eat other men. He extends this practice through logic and sees that if it is continued, utimately all men will eat all other men and only the last man at the feast will survive. Thus, he longs for a society in which no men eat other men.

Of course, in this illustration, that young man might be capable of flight. There would, conceivably, be other places he could go where cannibalism is not practiced. But if he flees, he might be accused of cowardice, of seeking an easy and comfortable way out for himself.

Let us suppose that our former cannibal is not cowardly. Instead, he most sincerely wishes to inform his brothers of the truth that he has learned. So, he remains with his people. And he avoids eating human flesh at every opportunity that confronts him. But there are certain feasts each month that he is compelled, by tribal ritual, to attend. If he does not, he, in turn, will be eaten.

So, he rejects human flesh EXCEPT when he is forced to join in the ritual or suffer the consequences. In process, he stays alive and gradually he convinces others of his people that avoiding human flesh as a staple of diet, is both possible and desirable.

It would be true, of course, that in the midst of the grisly, tribe-compelled rituals, he will be inconsistent. But the inconsistency is forced upon him against his will and he finds it revolting. Does this inconsistency destroy his sincerity? We think not. Actually, if he is sincere, he will continue this effort so that ultimately his own people will correct their custom.

But the analogy doesn't really hold. For in our illustration, the former cannibal might escape and go to some non-cannibal place. But in the real situation, no such place exists. The entire world is given over, not to dietetic cannibalism, but to forced conformity under more than a hundred states. These states have claimed all territories.

Further, even if a person in our present society sought to completely rid himself of government aid and assistance, he could not. Our economy, the economy of the whole world, is cross-pollinated with state duress. Even the things we know, were provided in schools that are government run. Even to die, calls upon the state to regulate the last disposal of the remains.

But we have a choice. We can work toward an improvement. We can teach that independence is desirable and possible. We can be consistent, until force is employed against us to limit or destroy our choices.

Even this need not destroy our sincerity.

Survival is not possible for anyone in this world over any extended period of time without the cooperation of others, the use of tools, or both. And because of cross-pollination with government, no tool or product is wholly free of some form of governmental interventionism somewhere along the line. Nor do men exist whose existence has not been constrained or promoted in some way by some state.

Actually, then, we have four choices. We cannot escape, and this is not a choice. But we can elect to accept as little help as possible from the state and to seek to reduce that assistance. Or we can elect to get as much out of the state as we know how. Or we can seek to do nothing but accept the status quo and merely vegetate, having no views one way or another. Or we can die.

All four of these choices involve the state to some degree. But only one choice will serve to reduce the power of the state and that is the first choice.

This is the one we have made.

Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

A Challenge of Our Sincerity

Some years ago, a rather ordinary criticism of the editorial policy of this newspaper was that it wasn't sincere.

In the intervening years most people have probably observed that whereas we are neither infallible nor as consistent as we would like to be, our efforts stem from a deep conviction of the validity of human liberty, which is entirely in harmony with sincerity.

It used to be said, we well remember, that we took the policy we did simply because it was good for business. And certainly it is true, that discussions about liberty have an exciting, challenging, stimulation to most people. Thus, it is probably true that our adherence to this cause proved no larger a deterrent to ordinary business operations than the support of any other cause might have occasioned. Most people are not as interested in causes as we are; and certainly fewer are concerned with liberty, as our drift toward full socialist controls attests.

But only the other day we heard the charge again, that we were insincere.

And this time we could see why the charge was made.

Actually, it could well be that the accusation is little more than a jibe. Most of us enjoy "needling" an adversary, or even a friend. And the form of this charge causes us to suppose that such might be the case here.

For we were told that since we didn't believe in government assistance, government regulation or government control of our properties or our lives, we could demonstrate our sincerity by wholly avoiding all these things. Further, if we were sincere, that is just what we would do, regardless of the cost to us.

Actions speak louder than words, we were reminded. And surely there must be something inconsistent, not to say hypocritical, for us to object to government roads, mail service, and airports, while we continue to use them; to object to government taxes, while we continue to pay them.

On the surface such a complaint would surely appear valid. But, is it? We are not suggesting that difficulty with complying destroys the complaint. We are simply going to ask if, at the moment, the suggestion that we make our actions coincide with our beliefs, is POSSIBLE of fulfillment, regardless of difficulties.

You see, government has so expanded its functions and now so thoroughly blankets our lives, that we do not believe it is possible to escape government intrusion except by dying. But even here, the government coroner enters, government regulations have to be obeyed, final permits obtained, and so on.

The problem really is that we live in a world where our choices have been so limited by government that in some cases we have no choice at all, except to go along with the state, or die. But since dying once more involves the state, here again, escape is not possible.

There are, as it turns out, only three possible systems that could be adopted respecting the kind of society we can live in.

1. One in which everyone steals from everyone.

2. One in which some people steal from other people.

3. One in which no one steals from anyone.

Without hesitancy, we prefer the latter and suppose that you do. But that is certainly not what we have. We live in a system which resembles the second alternate and is probably fast approaching the first alternate.

If we understand that government predation against our incomes and property is nothing but legalized theft, then the plight we are in can readily be seen.

Now, what do we do about it? We are not free to choose in hundreds of cases. Thus, when we elect to use a government road, we are using one that has been provided by organized and legal theft. When we pay a tax that is demanded, we are in the process of joining, albeit unwillingly, the looting process. And, as our critic supposes, there is an inconsistency here that could only be avoided were we to die (possibly at sea so that the coroner would not be called).

Somehow the thought of martyrdom is not attractive. Not that we are afraid of dying and of dying for our convictions. It is that we believe we can be more useful by continuing to educate, even though the situation we seek to encourage is not available to us.

Thus, we would prefer to live for our convictions and we do not feel that such a wish is insincere. Nor do we think that it robs us of the strength of consistency and sincerity within the arena open to us.

Answer: Some people are confused by this commandment, "Honor thy father and thy mother." It doesn't mean, necessarily, that one regard his parents as ideal, but it does mean that he has an obligation to take care of them if they become destitute. The reason that this would improve the longevity of one who honors his father and mother and takes care of them if they are destitute is that it is setting a good example for his children, and so if the parents become destitute then their children will take care of them as a moral obligation. This would, naturally, relieve the state of doing what should be done by the children for their parents and relatives.

If the public didn't believe in having the right to use force on strangers to take care of destitute people, who should be taken care of by their children, we wouldn't be in the mess that we are in today with the taxes going up and the dollar's value going down.

But some people will say, "But what would happen to those people who have no children?" If they have no children then they should be able to save, or to so live that someone will voluntarily want to help them if they should become destitute.

One preacher told a friend of this writer that he didn't see how honoring thy father and thy mother had anything to do with the longevity of life. Evidently he didn't understand the commandment. Another preacher said that the commandments had been superseded by the Love Commandment. Evidently a lot of the men of the cloth do not really understand the meaning of the Human Relations Commandments.

Some claim that if people respected private property and did not steal, either individually or collectively, that people would not murder, would not bear false witness, and would not commit adultery.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

Consistency Is Not Sincerity

Once, in discussing the nature of freedom, a student of liberty stated he did not believe it possible for man to ever be completely free. The reason he had so concluded relates to this fact. If a man jumps off a cliff, hoping to fly like a bird, he will not fly, he will fall to the base of the cliff and suffer injury or death. But if he were completely free, he could do anything he wanted to do. Obviously, he cannot.

We reminded the student that his illustration did not prove that man could not be free; it rather clearly demonstrated that man is not a bird. Thus, we argued that man is free, as man, not as bird. Man is bound by the natural laws of his own being. These he may not violate with impunity. But within the arena reserved for him, he may certainly be free. All that is necessary for such freedom to manifest is that each man govern himself and refrain from seeking to restrain or compel other men compulsively or coercively.

But as we have noted, we were born into a world where freedom is on the decline. We live in a society in which organized groups exert violence of a legal order, in order to force conformity to the will of the law, which law is not of natural origin but simply a man-made code of behavior. And since we do not believe in taking the law into our own hands, or in initiating violence against those who use force against us, we are confronted with what appears to be, and undoubtedly is, a kind of inconsistency between what we want and what we have.

But we should at once draw a line between consistency and sincerity. Consistency is a word denoting objective comparisons. Sincerity is subjective and relates to intention.

By force, we are compelled into inconsistent behavior. But this in no way invalidates the sincerity of our efforts to bring about a correction.

Let us consider this analogy. Let us suppose that a young man is born into a society that practices cannibalism. He, like all others of his tribe, learns to eat human flesh. It appears to him normal and correct. Indeed, it is meritorious.

Then, suddenly he finds himself able to reason himself out of this practice. He sees that in his society some men eat other men. He extends this practice through logic and sees that if it is continued, utimately all men will eat all other men and only the last man at the feast will survive. Thus, he longs for a society in which no men eat other men.

Of course, in this illustration, that young man might be capable of flight. There would, conceivably, be other places he could go where cannibalism is not practiced. But if he flees, he might be accused of cowardice, of seeking an easy and comfortable way out for himself.

Let us suppose that our former cannibal is not cowardly. Instead, he most sincerely wishes to inform his brothers of the truth that he has learned. So, he remains with his people. And he avoids eating human flesh at every opportunity that confronts him. But there are certain feasts each month that he is compelled, by tribal ritual, to attend. If he does not, he, in turn, will be eaten.

So, he rejects human flesh EXCEPT when he is forced to join in the ritual or suffer the consequences. In process, he stays alive and gradually he convinces others of his people that avoiding human flesh as a staple of diet, is both possible and desirable.

It would be true, of course, that in the midst of the grisly, tribe-compelled rituals, he will be inconsistent. But the inconsistency is forced upon him against his will and he finds it revolting. Does this inconsistency destroy his sincerity? We think not. Actually, if he is sincere, he will continue this effort so that utimately his own people will correct their custom.

But the analogy doesn't really hold. For in our illustration, the former cannibal might escape and go to some non-cannibal place. But in the real situation, no such place exists. The entire world is given over, not to dietetic cannibalism, but to forced conformity under more than a hundred states. These states have claimed all territortories.

Further, even if a person in our present society sought to completely rid himself of government aid and assistance, he could not. Our economy, the economy of the whole world, is cross-pollinated with state duress. Even the things we know, were provided in schools that are government run. Even to die, calls upon the state to regulate the last disposal of the remains.

But we have a choice. We can work toward an improvement. We can teach that independence is desirable and possible. We can be consistent, until force is employed against us to limit or destroy our choices.

Even this need not destroy our sincerity.

Survival is not possible for anyone in this world over any extended period of time without the cooperation of others, the use of tools, or both. And because of cross-pollination with government, no tool or product is wholly free of some form of governmental interventionism somewhere along the line. Nor do men exist whose existence has not been constrained or promoted in some way by some state.

Actually, then, we have four choices. We cannot escape, and this is not a choice. But we can elect to accept as little help as possible from the state and to seek to reduce that assistance. Or we can elect to get as much out of the state as we know how. Or we can seek to do nothing but accept the status quo and merely vegetate, having no views one way or another. Or we can die.

All four of these choices involve the state to some degree. But only one choice will serve to reduce the power of the state and that is the first choice.

This is the one we have made.

Doles to Foreign Governments

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

From time to time readers of this column exhibit a fascinating rapport with my sources of information. For instance; today I received a letter from a slightly irate, anonymous writer of letters to this effect. "You frequently refer to tax money being used for the support of foreign governments but our foreign aid goes to the poor people who need help, not to the governments except for the military aid. Surely you do not begrudge the use of a small portion of our great wealth for the saving of millions of lives throughout the 'free world.'"

Ma'am, I do begrudge every dollar stolen from me by government! I do not feel that an immoral act becomes moral if some portion of the plunder is used for some supposedly good purpose.

In the same mail which brought your letter, Ma'am, I received information which indicates that during fiscal 1963, $901,996,000 in American tax dollars was used to support budgetary deficits of foreign governments while your own government was going further in the red to the tune of more than 3 billion dollars. Obviously this paltry sum of more than $900,000,000 was in excess of all the other foreign aid, cash grants and on and on interminably.

It's just possible, Ma'am, that you do not realize that the national debt of your government is greater than the national deficits of all the rest of the governments of the world combined but if you do not, it's your own fault because your daily newspaper has carried this information on more than one occasion, among other important facts.

Then there's the use of the undefined expression, "free world." Which socialist or fascist or communist government does not exert a horrible tyranny over its subjects? Let's stop kidding ourselves, Ma'am.

Just the other night I listened while politicians and others anxious to slant history made completely silly conversation about the Marshall plan and the heroic activities of the father of that indecency.

In the fashion typical of politicians and their cohorts, the instigator of this particular brand of thievery was lauded while not one mention was made of the earners and investors who were and are victims of the Robin Hoodery. Yep, this country has bred a real strong strain of humanitarians who think nothing of handing out billions of dollars taken by force from the people who employ them, at the expense of those who earn and produce and create and invest, for the benefit of the fascist-socialist-communist governments of every country in the world today and the end is not in sight.

Ma'am, I know you mentioned that you thought a great deal more of the foreign aid money should be retained here for the benefit of the poor and starving and illiterate and indigent, and you name them, but I don't agree with you about that, either. The sums you refer to should remain in the hands of the rightful owners to do with as they please, because if a man does not have the right to every penny he earns, he has no property right at all and no amount of maudlin moralizing can change the fact.

Think about facts for an hour or so, Ma'am. No man or woman can be a humanitarian unless they give of the fruit of their own labor, creative energy or investments. If they take YOUR money and give it away, they are simply thieves who give away what they have stolen from you. You cannot change these facts no matter how many tears you shed for the poor or homeless or hungry or indigent, and I add this statement — even in our poverty-stricken state, no hungry person will be turned away from our door and I am happy to be able to say I have never seen a starving human being but when I do, the starving person will no longer be starving and I prefer to believe that normal or ordinary human beings will generally react in a similar fashion.

Thank you for taking the time to read my column, Ma'am. I hope this reply will provide you with some food for thought, and good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Eager Investors

From Chicago Tribune

Investors snapped up the 10 million shares of stock in the new Communications Satellite Corporation so eagerly, at $20 a share, that brokers had to ration their quotas and guess that they could have sold double the amount. At the end of the first day, the bidding price was more than $22.

Of the 200 million dollars obtained, half was provided last week by 163 companies in the communications industry, led by American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and the other half of the stock has now been sold to individuals.

Comsat, as the company is known, will provide the satellites for its orbital communications system and will pay the space agency to launch them. The stock is not guaranteed by the government, nor does the company expect to pay any dividends for "an indeterminate period," probably at least 10 years. It may be that long, or longer, before the company can make up for its initial costs and acquire enough customers to make an adequate profit.

Considering these uncertain prospects it is interesting that the stock should have sold so quickly. No doubt some investors merely wanted the thrill of buying a stake in space. But most of them probably hope that, glamor or no glamor, the stock will eventually pay off in dividends and capital appreciation.

That the stock was sold so quickly shows that investors are generally willing to provide even vast sums of money, on what may be a little more than a gamble, as long as they can count on receiving whatever profit they are entitled to, when and if it materializes, subject only to more or less predictable taxes.

This in turn demonstrates the fallacy of the familiar argument that the government must build such things as big power installations because private capital can't afford to do the job. Private capital is willing and able to take on enormous jobs if it has reasonable assurance that the government won't stick its fingers in the pudding while it is cooking. Already private companies have pooled their resources to build dams and hydro-electric plants whenever the government has seen fit to let them.

But the public power lobby still has dreams of empire, including a transmission system which would make or break any private company with which it dealt. If some investors are wary, it may because of this threat. They are afraid not of too little government "participation," but rather of too much.

MINORITIES

To the Editor:

Seemingly, a very few short years ago, just out of school and eager to do whatever I possibly could to help our community become an ideal place to live for all citizens, I wrote several articles in the local and Denver papers about job and housing bias. Today, I am happy to say there has been quite a change. The job picture looks good and there are minority members scattered throughout most of the city. This change in our community structure came as no surprise to me. These changes are the result of outstanding leadership in our city government, churches, business and professions and an enlightened community as a whole. These characteristics are needed in every community in order to bring out the very best in our democratic way of life.

Before going further, I would like to linger awhile on the housing situation. Here is hoping that quite a few have found out that the dreams and aims of most minorities are basically the same as any other group on the American scene, that of providing the best possible for his family, a good home and the best possible location he can afford, educate the children and become active in community projects, projects that are geared to help the children and the community as a whole. Too, most minorities are a friendly lot, but proud, on the other hand, if opinions are fixed, harmony is lost to a certain extent. Instead of a friendly hello that could possibly ease the tension that may exist, some are content to sit back and wait for home and possibly family deterioration. And, as much as I hate to admit it, it does happen, but these people are a part of our community, the American community no matter where they may move in the good old U.S.A. We owe it to our community to try to help them if at all possible. In some cases it's a lack of education or the proper guidance in life.

I suppose I have no right to mention a lack of education because I am almost sure that with the proper education I could possibly be fulfilling my dream, that of becoming the winningest coach of all time (no reflections on my alma mater), and for some time I laid the blame for my failure to get a position in the local school system on my outspoken opinions via the news media. Facts are hard to face, but knowing that our school systems try or should try to get the best personnel they can find, I took another look at myself. I was very seldom at the head of the class unless perhaps in the dining hall line.

Colorado Springs is blessed with a countless number of outstanding men and women dedicated to the betterment of local and other communities — for instance, the local pastor that ventured to Mississippi to lend a helping hand to the cause of freedom. Though most of us take freedom for granted, "freedom is everybody's business." I mention that fact because there are many that frown on an individual or group that venture from one community to another to lend a hand in the fight for freedom. Let's not forget that "a government, local, state or national is no stronger than its weakest link." As a nation, if we are to remain "champions of freedom" in the eyes of the world we will have to help promote and preserve freedom for all of our citizens.

Then there is the historic two hundred, the two hundred local citizens that dared to stand up and be counted as citizens for fair play more or less. These are but a few of the many outstanding citizens that are dedicated to the task of making our city an ideal place in which to live. Although I know that our community is but one of many communities throughout the nation trying to improve the community I am proud to be a part of a community that is helping to make the words "champions of freedom" a reality in our times.

CAMPAIGN ORATORY

To the Editor:

The following are quotes taken from the numerous public speeches by Gov. Scranton:

"I will not actively seek the nomination of the Republican Party for President but would accept it if drafted.

"I will not accept the Republican nomination as vice president unless there is an honest draft.

"I will join in no movement to stop Senator Goldwater."

I had thought Scranton to be a statesman with at least a modicum of integrity. It is disappointing to discover that he is just another politician full of "campaign oratory," and his attempt to clothe himself with the attributes of Abraham Lincoln, one of our greatest Presidents, was disgusting.

There was certainly no draft but somebody (reportedly Eisenhower) kept changing Scranton's mind.

With a mind so susceptible to change — by other people — what a push-over Scranton would be for Khrushchev!

Florence Woman Retires From Civil Service

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Capella was recently granted Civil Service retirement at Ft. Carson with 21 years of service.

In order to maintain their home in Florence, Mrs. Capella commuted to Ft. Carson each work day for 21 years. It was necessary to leave at an early hour and during the winter months travel was hazardous when blizzard conditions existed. Mr. and Mrs. Capella reside at 109 Frazier Ave.

At a brief ceremony, Mrs. Capella was presented a gold army medallion and a parchment retirement certificate, which reads, in part: "Your loyalty devotion to duty throughout have reflected the highest credit upon you and the military service."

She was cited as an outstanding employe and had performed all duties assigned to her in a commendable manner.

Mrs. Capella began her service as a laundry operator. She was promoted to foreman and later to department supervisor. When transferred to maintenance facility, she received $80 for an adopted suggestion for modifications of obsolete sleeping bag zippers. This resulted in an annual savings of $33,210 for the army.

Elizabeth Capella was born in Coal Creek, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Morganstein. She and Max Capella were married in 1911 and lived in Coal Creek until they moved to Florence in 1940. Mr. Capella was employed as a coal miner until his health failed in 1942.

CATFISH STORY

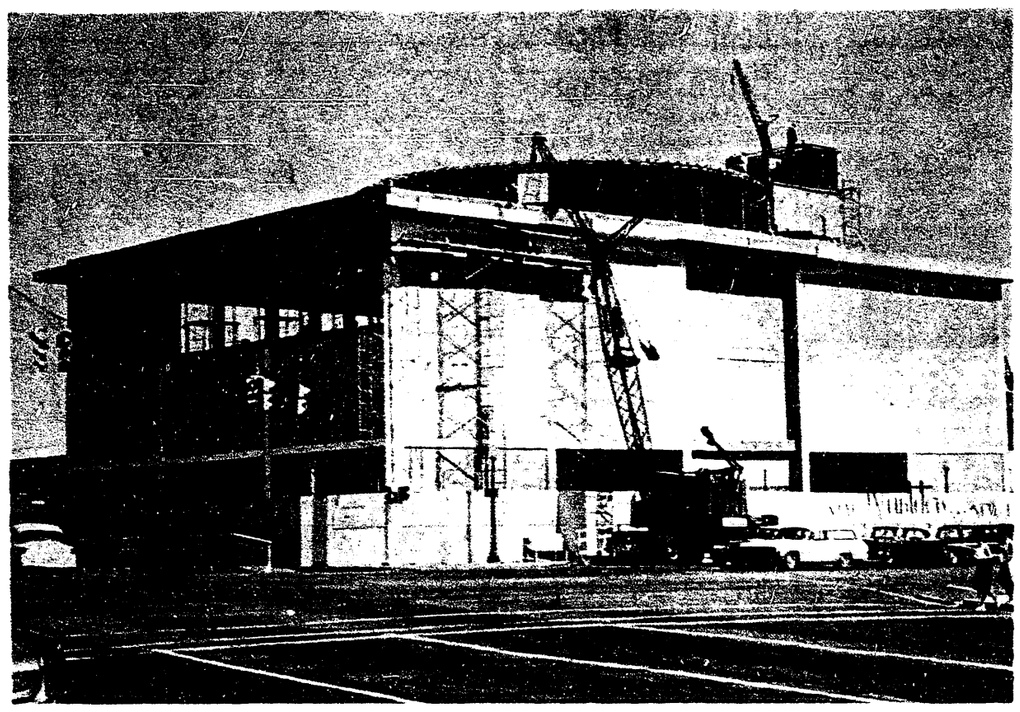
CARROLLTON, Ky. (AP) — Bonk president Perry Dean and cashier Jack Way are telling a new kind of fish story.

They say a line was dropped out the window of the Kentucky State Bank when floodwaters from the Ohio River lapped at the building.

To their surprise, a one-pound catfish was landed.



SHAPING UP—Neusteter's store building, under construction at the southeast corner of Cascade Avenue and Kiowa Street, is 62 per cent complete. The building is 145 feet long, facing on Cascade Avenue, and 85 feet wide. The exterior walls are of marble and exposed stone aggregate, and sections separanitg the panels and around the roof line are of pre-cast concrete with a honed finish. The indented section on the west marks the store's main entrance, and the circular section on top of the building is part of the penthouse restaurant which will seat 100. Due for completion this summer, the store will represent an investment of more than $3 million. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Most Business News Better Than Expected

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A slowdown in the growth of personal incomes for the first time in months is about the only sour note in the lilting chorus of good times.

Most business news has been so much better than expected in the spring now ending that about the only worry has been: Is it too good to last?

Personal spending is the biggest bulwark of the economy. It is broader than either government or business spending. The steady climb in personal income totals has strengthened this bulwark. This in turn has bolstered industry and trade and above all has inspired hopes that the general upturn will continue into the foreseeable future.

And personal income did climb in May. The only disappointment is that it's growth was only about half that of April. Available signs show June pretty much like May.

If May is a new trend rather than an exception the question becomes. Can personal consumption expand enough, and fast enough, to justify all of the high hopes on which business is now basing its planning?

Personal debts are rising. And these often represent prior repayment claims when the weekly paycheck is up for distribution.

The May figures for personal incomes put the total at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of about $485 billion. This would be about $1.25 billion above the revised April rate which at first was estimated to have topped March by $2.2 billion.

One reason that personal incomes are expected to go on rising, at whatever rate, is that the very business boom itself will generate expanded pay rolls. If all of the corporate plans for spending on new plants and equipment are carried out, there will be new jobs and longer work weeks.

And employment totals did go up in May to a record 71 million, with 81,000 new jobs in manufacturing alone. The factory work week was the longest and the overtime hours the highest for any May in nearly 10 years.

Expectant Mother Flees Hospital Blood Transfusion

NEPTUNE, N.J. (UPI)—An expectant mother ordered by the state Supreme Court to submit to blood transfusions over her religious objections, has disappeared, authorities at Fitkin Memorial Hospital said today.

Ernest Kovats, assistant administrator at the hospital said "we have not been able to locate her for several days. She has disappeared."

Kovats said the hospital has been trying unsuccessfully to locate the woman through friends and relatives.

The state Supreme Court in Trenton Wednesday ordered Mrs. Willumina Anderson, 29, to submit to the transfusions to safeguard the well being of her unborn child. Mrs. Anderson has refused the transfusions on the grounds they violate her religious beliefs as a Jehovah's Witness.

A neighbor of the Andersons said she had not seen the woman since she went to the hospital earlier this month.

First Federal Increases Rate To 4½ Per Cent

First Federal Savings and Loan Assn., 421 N. Tejon St., will increase its dividend rate to 4½ per cent per year for the second half of 1964, but other savings and loan associations here will continue to pay the same rates of dividends they have paid in the first half.

First Federal's action will make the dividend rate 4½ per cent for three of the four savings and loan associations here. Columbia and Security Savings have paid 4½ in the first half of this year and will continue to do so in the half beginning July. Western Federal Savings will pay 4¼ per cent.

At the first of the year, First Federal and Western Federal reduced their dividends rates from 4½ to 4¼ per cent and Security Savings cut its rate from 4¾ to 4½. Columbia, which paid 4½ last year, continued at the same rate this year.

First Federal will pay dividends for the first half of this year at the 4¼ per cent rate.

In a latter to depositors, Donald W. Nienhuser, executive vice president of First Federal said the dividend increase was possible "because of a healthy and growing demand for home loans and the active cooperation of our depositors, as well as borrowers and staff members in bringing new customers to us and accelerating our growth."

Nienhuser said First Federal "is keeping pace with the region's growth and prosperity, and is progressing satisfactorily with its plans to establish a branch at 2500 E. Pikes Peak Ave., where it can better serve its customers in that expanding area."

Repealing of Income Tax To Be Major Issue by 1966

By SAM CAMPBELL

The trouble with a presidential contest as an indicator of men's opinions is that the personalities involved tend to obscure the issues involved.

A candidate, committed to winning, cannot also be committed to following a course that is right if that course leads to defeat at the polls.

A better barometer, therefore, of political moods that influence the business climate are those issues in which doctrine is paramount and personalities are largely absent.

The pending Liberty Amendment that would take the federal government out of competition with private business and repeal the personal income tax is one such indicator. How is it doing?

This reporter had some direct knowledge both of the grassroots movement that culminated in the recent California presidential primary and the early efforts on behalf of the Liberty Amendment.

The planning that went into the primary began in 1960. It was kept alive by a skeleton state organization comprised of people of modest influence, but of intense dedication. One year ago last January, with more vision than practicality, the effort was shifted to the precincts by a petitioning process.

Early this year the movement began to snowball, and the most drastic, best-financed counterattack through the mass media could not stop it.

The history of the Liberty Amendment in its present form goes back to 1957. Progress has been slow. To date seven state legislatures have approved it, the last being Mississippi.

Without heavy financing, but with fervent dedication, a nationwide organization has been forged. Today Liberty Amendment committees are at work in all of the 50 states.

Once again California is the key state. A victory here would set the hinterlands afire with an outcry for tax reform. And once again the California contest focuses down to the Los Angeles basin comprising Orange and Los Angeles counties where 40 per cent of the voters reside.

Just one year ago the mere mention of the utel "Liberty Amendment" or the suggestion "repeal the personal income tax" was commonly met with either shock or indifference by persons who consider themselves responsible.

But today outspoken advocates of income tax repeal are high in the political structure, and some candidates are finding it hard to win endorsements unless they too speak up in favor. Still other candidates are giving off - the - record support.

Today Liberty Amendment committees are at work in each of the 55 counties of California. In Orange County, incubator of libertarian efforts, hardly a weekday passes without a precinct level meeting somewhere in behalf of the Liberty Amendment.

The precinct meetings are particularly meaningful because they give a chance to answer face - to - face with facts and figures the most commonly encountered question, how the government can operate without income - tax revenues.

In the judgment of this writer, the movement for the Liberty Amendment is further along in development than was the presidential primary effort one year ago. From this, it can be safely forecast that repeal of the income tax will be a major issue in California by 1966.

Florence Woman Retires From Civil Service

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Capella was recently granted Civil Service retirement at Ft. Carson with 21 years of service.

In order to maintain their home in Florence, Mrs. Capella commuted to Ft. Carson each work day for 21 years. It was necessary to leave at an early hour and during the winter months travel was hazardous when blizzard conditions existed. Mr. and Mrs. Capella reside at 109 Frazier Ave.

At a brief ceremony, Mrs. Capella was presented a gold army medallion and a parchment retirement certificate, which reads, in part: "Your loyalty devotion to duty throughout have reflected the highest credit upon you and the military service."

She was cited as an outstanding employe and had performed all duties assigned to her in a commendable manner.

Mrs. Capella began her service as a laundry operator. She was promoted to foreman and later to department supervisor. When transferred to maintenance facility, she received $80 for an adopted suggestion for modifications of obsolete sleeping bag zippers. This resulted in an annual savings of $33,210 for the army.

Elizabeth Capella was born in Coal Creek, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Morganstein. She and Max Capella were married in 1911 and lived in Coal Creek until they moved to Florence in 1940. Mr. Capella was employed as a coal miner until his health failed in 1942.

CATFISH STORY

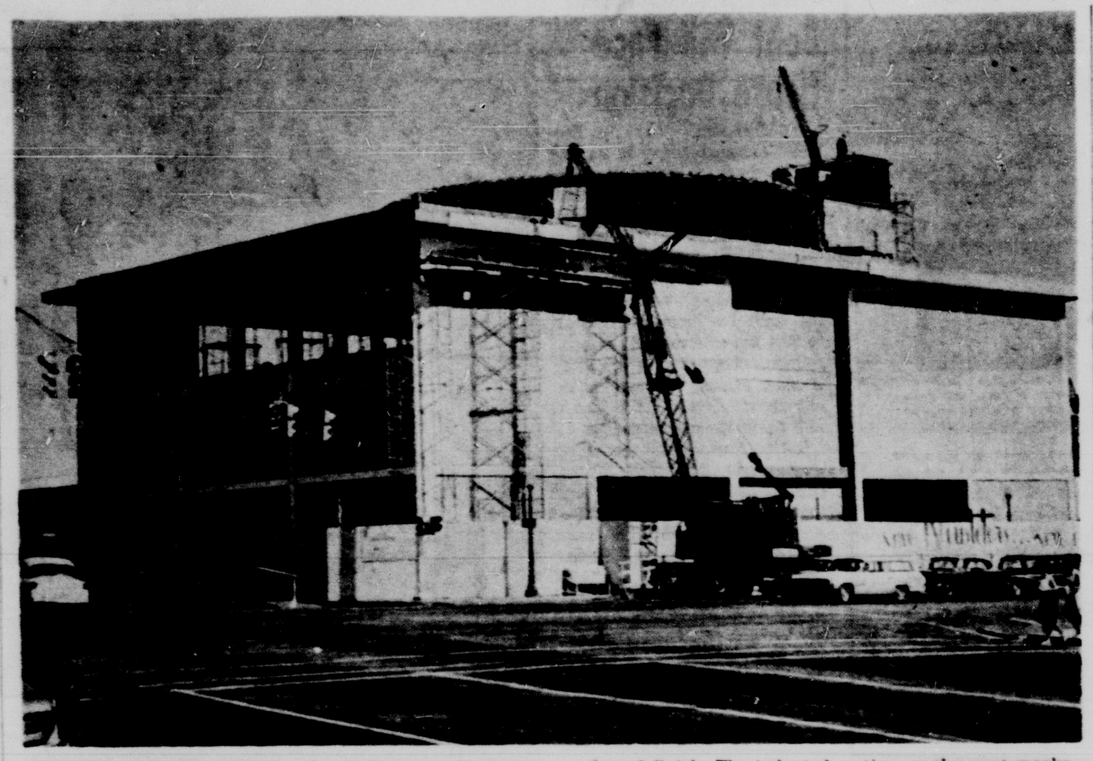
CARROLLTON, Ky. (AP) — Bonk president Perry Dean and cashier Jack Way are telling a new kind of fish story.

They say a line was dropped out the window of the Kentucky State Bank when floodwaters from the Ohio River lapped at the building.

To their surprise, a one-pound catfish was landed.



SHAPING UP—Neusteter's store building, under construction at the southeast corner of Cascade Avenue and Kiowa Street, is 62 per cent complete. The building is 145 feet long, facing on Cascade Avenue, and 85 feet wide. The exterior walls are of marble and exposed stone aggregate, and sections separanitg the panels and around the roof line are of pre-cast concrete with a honed finish. The indented section on the west marks the store's main entrance, and the circular section on top of the building is part of the penthouse restaurant which will seat 100. Due for completion this summer, the store will represent an investment of more than $3 million. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Most Business News Better Than Expected

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A slowdown in the growth of personal incomes for the first time in months is about the only sour note in the lilting chorus of good times.

Most business news has been so much better than expected in the spring now ending that about the only worry has been: Is it too good to last?

Personal spending is the biggest bulwark of the economy. It is broader than either government or business spending. The steady climb in personal income totals has strengthened this bulwark. This in turn has bolstered industry and trade and above all has inspired hopes that the general upturn will continue into the foreseeable future.

And personal income did climb in May. The only disappointment is that it's growth was only about half that of April. Available signs show June pretty much like May.

If May is a new trend rather than an exception the question becomes: Can personal consumption expand enough, and fast enough, to justify all of the high hopes on which business is now basing its planning?

Personal debts are rising. And these often represent prior repayment claims when the weekly paycheck is up for distribution.

The May figures for personal incomes put the total at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of about $485 billion. This would be about $1.25 billion above the revised April rate, which at first was estimated to have topped March by $2.2 billion.

One reason that personal incomes are expected to go on rising, at whatever rate, is that the very business boom itself will generate expanded payrolls. If all of the corporate plans for spending on new plants and equipment are carried out, there will be new jobs and longer work weeks.

And employment totals did go up in May to a record 71 million, with 81,000 new jobs in manufacturing alone. The factory work week was the longest and the overtime hours the highest for any May in nearly 10 years.

Expectant Mother Flees Hospital Blood Transfusion

NEPTUNE, N.J. (UPI)—An expectant mother ordered by the state Supreme Court to submit to blood transfusions over her religious objections, has disappeared, authorities at Fitkin Memorial Hospital said today.

Ernest Kovats, assistant administrator at the hospital, said "we have not been able to locate her for several days. She has disappeared."

Kovats said the hospital has been trying unsuccessfully to locate the woman through friends and relatives.

The state Supreme Court in Trenton Wednesday ordered Mrs. Willimina Anderson, 29, to submit to the transfusions to safeguard the well being of her unborn child. Mrs. Anderson has refused the transfusions on the grounds they violate her religious beliefs as a Jehovah's Witness.

A neighbor of the Andersons said she had not seen the woman since she went to the hospital earlier this month.

First Federal Increases Rate To 4½ Per Cent

First Federal Savings and Loan Assn., 421 N. Tejon St., will increase its dividend rate to 4½ per cent per year for the second half of 1964, but other savings and loan associations here will continue to pay the same rates of dividends they have paid in the first half.

First Federal's action will make the dividend rate 4½ per cent for three of the four savings and loan associations here. Columbia and Security Savings have paid 4½ in the first half of this year and will continue to do so in the half beginning July. Western Federal Savings will pay 4¼ per cent.

At the first of the year, First Federal and Western Federal reduced their dividends rates from 4½ to 4¼ per cent and Security Savings cut its rate from 4¾ to 4½. Columbia, which paid 4½ last year, continued at the same rate this year.

First Federal will pay dividends for the first half of this year at the 4¼ per cent rate.

In a latter to depositors, Donald W. Nienhuser, executive vice president of First Federal said the dividend increase was possible "because of a healthy and growing demand for home loans and the active cooperation of our depositors, as well as borrowers and staff members in bringing new customers to us and accelerating our growth."

Nienhuser said First Federal "is keeping pace with the region's growth and prosperity, and is progressing satisfactorily with its plans to establish a branch at 2500 E. Pikes Peak Ave., where it can better serve its customers in that expanding area."

Repealing of Income Tax To Be Major Issue by 1966

By SAM CAMPBELL

The trouble with a presidential contest as an indicator of men's opinions is that the personalities involved tend to obscure the issues involved.

A candidate, committed to winning, cannot also be committed to following a course that is right if that course leads to defeat at the polls.

A better barometer, therefore, of political moods that influence the business climate are those issues in which doctrine is paramount and personalities are largely absent.

The pending Liberty Amendment that would take the federal government out of competition with private business and repeal the personal income tax is one such indicator. How is it doing?

This reporter had some direct knowledge both of the grassroots movement that culminated in the recent California presidential primary and the early efforts on behalf of the Liberty Amendment.

The planning that went into the primary began in 1960. It was kept alive by a skeleton state organization comprised of people of modest influence, but of intense dedication. One year ago last January, with more vision than practicality, the effort was shifted to the precincts by a petitioning process.

Early this year the movement began to snowball, and the most drastic, best-financed counterattack through the mass media could not stop it.

The history of the Liberty Amendment in its present form goes back to 1957. Progress has been slow. To date seven state legislatures have approved it, the last being Mississippi.

Without heavy financing, but with fervent dedication, a nationwide organization has been forged. Today Liberty Amendment committees are at work in all of the 50 states.

Once again California is the key state. A victory here would set the hinterlands afire with an outcry for tax reform. And once again the California contest focuses down to the Los Angeles basin comprising Orange and Los Angeles counties where 40 per cent of the voters reside.

Just one year ago, the mere mention of the titel "Liberty Amendment" or the suggestion "repeal the personal income tax" was commonly met with either shock or indifference by persons who consider themselves responsible.

But today outspoken advocates of income tax repeal are high in the political structure, and some candidates are finding it hard to win endorsements unless they too speak up in favor. Still other candidates are giving off - the - record support.

Today Liberty Amendment committees are at work in each of the 55 counties of California. In Orange County, incubator of libertarian efforts, hardly a weekday passes without a precinct level meeting someplace in behalf of the Liberty Amendment.

The precinct meetings are particularly meaningful because they give a chance to answer face - to - face with facts and figures the most commonly encountered question, how the government can operate without income - tax revenues.

In the judgment of this writer, the movement for the Liberty Amendment is further along in development than was the presidential primary effort one year ago. From this, it can be safely forecast that repeal of the income tax will be a major issue in California by 1966.

Florence Woman Retires From Civil Service

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Capella was recently granted Civil Service retirement at Ft. Carson with 21 years of service.

In order to maintain their home in Florence, Mrs. Capella commuted to Ft. Carson each work day for 21 years. It was necessary to leave at an early hour and during the winter months travel was hazardous when blizzard conditions existed. Mr. and Mrs. Capella reside at 109 Frazier Ave.

At a brief ceremony, Mrs. Capella was presented a gold army medallion and a parchment retirement certificate, which reads, in part: "Your loyalty devotion to duty throughout have reflected the highest credit upon you and the military service."

She was cited as an outstanding employe and had performed all duties assigned to her in a commendable manner.

Mrs. Capella began her service as a laundry operator. She was promoted to foreman and later to department supervisor. When transferred to maintenance facility, she received $80 for an adopted suggestion for modifications of obsolete sleeping bag zippers. This resulted in an annual savings of $33,210 for the army.

Elizabeth Capella was born in Coal Creek, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Morganstein. She and Max Capella were married in 1911 and lived in Coal Creek until they moved to Florence in 1940. Mr. Capella was employed as a coal miner until his health failed in 1942.

CATFISH STORY

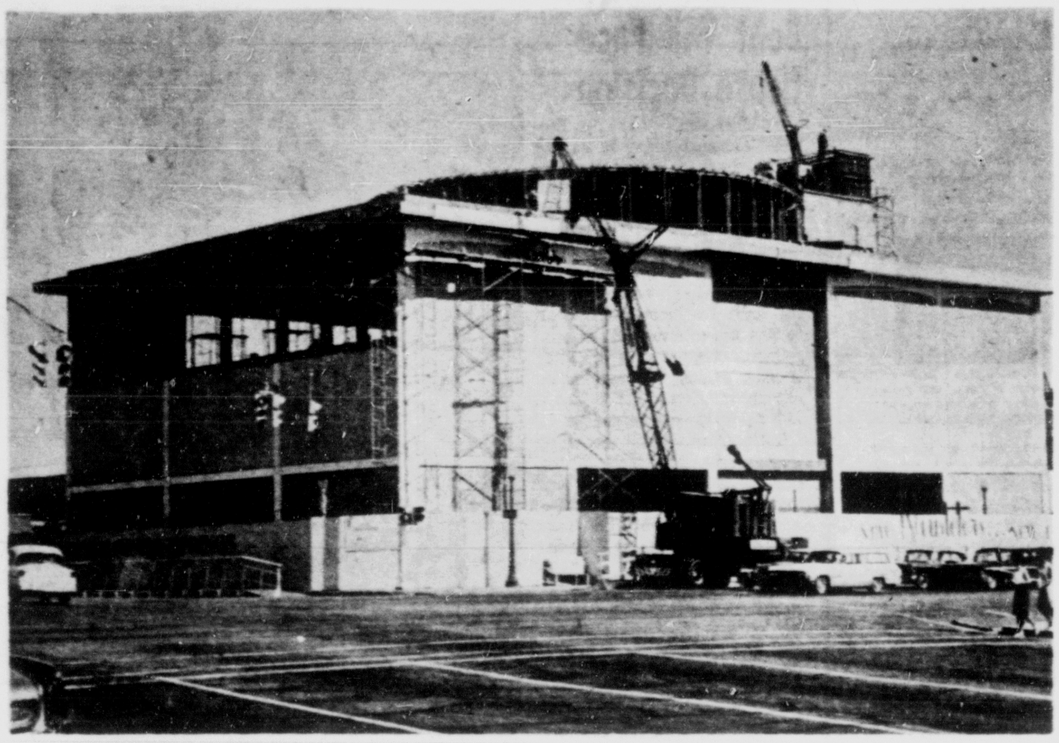
CARROLLTON, Ky. (AP) — Bonk president Perry Dean and cashier Jack Way are telling a new kind of fish story.

They say a line was dropped out the window of the Kentucky State Bank when floodwaters from the Ohio River lapped at the building.

To their surprise, a one-pound catfish was landed.



SHAPING UP—Neusteter's store building, under construction at the southeast corner of Cascade Avenue and Kiowa Street, is 62 per cent complete. The building is 145 feet long, facing on Cascade Avenue, and 85 feet wide. The exterior walls are of marble and exposed stone aggregate, and sections separanitg the panels and around the roof line are of pre-cast concrete with a honed finish. The indented section on the west marks the store's main entrance, and the circular section on top of the building is part of the penthouse restaurant which will seat 100. Due for completion this summer, the store will represent an investment of more than $3 million. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Most Business News Better Than Expected

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A slowdown in the growth of personal incomes for the first time in months is about the only sour note in the lilting chorus of good times.

Most business news has been so much better than expected in the spring now ending that about the only worry has been: Is it too good to last?

Personal spending is the biggest bulwark of the economy. It is broader than either government or business spending. The steady climb in personal income totals has strengthened this bulwark. This in turn has bolstered industry and trade and above all has inspired hopes that the general upturn will continue into the foreseeable future.

And personal income did climb in May. The only disappointment is that it's growth was only about half that of April. Available signs show June pretty much like May.

If May is a new trend rather than an exception the question becomes: Can personal consumption expand enough, and fast enough, to justify all of the high hopes on which business is now basing its planning?

Personal debts are rising. And these often represent prior repayment claims when the weekly paycheck is up for distribution.

The May figures for personal incomes put the total at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of about $485 billion. This would be about $1.25 billion above the revised April rate, which at first was estimated to have topped March by $2.2 billion.

One reason that personal incomes are expected to go on rising, at whatever rate, is that the very business boom itself will generate expanded payrolls. If all of the corporate plans for spending on new plants and equipment are carried out, there will be new jobs and longer work weeks.

And employment totals did go up in May to a record 71 million, with 81,000 new jobs in manufacturing alone. The factory work week was the longest and the overtime hours the highest for any May in nearly 10 years.

Vera's Bridal Shop will emphasize personal service at prices that are reasonable.

Mrs. Anderson has had 20 years of experience in the field of fashion, and Mrs. Clark 30 years of retail experience. Both were with Kaufman's for many years, and the bridal shop is their first venture into a business of their own.

Both are members of Columbine Chapter, American Business Women's Assn. Mrs. Anderson is a member of the First Baptist Church and Mrs. Clark of First Methodist.

Favors will be given away and punch served during the grand opening.

Expectant Mother Flees Hospital Blood Transfusion

NEPTUNE, N.J. (UPI)—An expectant mother ordered by the state Supreme Court to submit to blood transfusions over her religious objections, has disappeared, authorities at Fitkin Memorial Hospital said today.

Ernest Kovats, assistant administrator at the hospital, said "we have not been able to locate her for several days. She has disappeared."

Kovats said the hospital has been trying unsuccessfully to locate the woman through friends and relatives.

The state Supreme Court in Trenton Wednesday ordered Mrs. Willimina Anderson, 29, to submit to the transfusions to safeguard the well being of her unborn child. Mrs. Anderson has refused the transfusions on the grounds they violate her religious beliefs as a Jehovah's Witness.

A neighbor of the Andersons said she had not seen the woman since she went to the hospital earlier this month.

First Federal Increases Rate To 4½ Per Cent

First Federal Savings and Loan Assn., 421 N. Tejon St., will increase its dividend rate to 4½ per cent per year for the second half of 1964, but other savings and loan associations here will continue to pay the same rates of dividends they have paid in the first half.

First Federal's action will make the dividend rate 4½ per cent for three of the four savings and loan associations here. Columbia and Security Savings have paid 4½ in the first half of this year and will continue to do so in the half beginning July. Western Federal Savings will pay 4¼ per cent.

At the first of the year, First Federal and Western Federal reduced their dividends rates from 4½ to 4¼ per cent and Security Savings cut its rate from 4¾ to 4½. Columbia, which paid 4½ last year, continued at the same rate this year.

First Federal will pay dividends for the first half of this year at the 4¼ per cent rate.

In a latter to depositors, Donald W. Nienhuser, executive vice president of First Federal said the dividend increase was possible "because of a healthy and growing demand for home loans and the active cooperation of our depositors, as well as borrowers and staff members in bringing new customers to us and accelerating our growth."

Nienhuser said First Federal "is keeping pace with the region's growth and prosperity, and is progressing satisfactorily with its plans to establish a branch at 2500 E. Pikes Peak Ave., where it can better serve its customers in that expanding area."

Repealing of Income Tax To Be Major Issue by 1966

By SAM CAMPBELL

The trouble with a presidential contest as an indicator of men's opinions is that the personalities involved tend to obscure the issues involved.

A candidate, committed to winning, cannot also be committed to following a course that is right if that course leads to defeat at the polls.

A better barometer, therefore, of political moods that influence the business climate are those issues in which doctrine is paramount and personalities are largely absent.

The pending Liberty Amendment that would take the federal government out of competition with private business and repeal the personal income tax is one such indicator. How is it doing?

This reporter had some direct knowledge both of the grassroots movement that culminated in the recent California presidential primary and the early efforts on behalf of the Liberty Amendment.

The planning that went into the primary began in 1960. It was kept alive by a skeleton state organization comprised of people of modest influence, but of intense dedication. One year ago last January, with more vision than practicality, the effort was shifted to the precincts by a petitioning process.

Early this year the movement began to snowball, and the most drastic, best-financed counterattack through the mass media could not stop it.

The history of the Liberty Amendment in its present form goes back to 1957. Progress has been slow. To date seven state legislatures have approved it, the last being Mississippi.

Without heavy financing, but with fervent dedication, a nationwide organization has been forged. Today Liberty Amendment committees are at work in all of the 50 states.

Once again California is the key state. A victory here would set the hinterlands afire with an outcry for tax reform. And once again the California contest focuses down to the Los Angeles basin comprising Orange and Los Angeles counties where 40 per cent of the voters reside.

Just one year ago, the mere mention of the titel "Liberty Amendment" or the suggestion "repeal the personal income tax" was commonly met with either shock or indifference by persons who consider themselves responsible.

But today outspoken advocates of income tax repeal are high in the political structure, and some candidates are finding it hard to win endorsements unless they too speak up in favor. Still other candidates are giving off - the - record support.

Today Liberty Amendment committees are at work in each of the 55 counties of California. In Orange County, incubator of libertarian efforts, hardly a weekday passes without a precinct level meeting someplace in behalf of the Liberty Amendment.

The precinct meetings are particularly meaningful because they give a chance to answer face - to - face with facts and figures the most commonly encountered question, how the government can operate without income - tax revenues.

In the judgment of this writer, the movement for the Liberty Amendment is further along in development than was the presidential primary effort one year ago. From this, it can be safely forecast that repeal of the income tax will be a major issue in California by 1966.

Shriver Reported Interested in Maryland Race

BALTIMORE (AP) — City Comptroller Hyman A. Pressman says Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps and a brother-in-law of the late President John F. Kennedy, "showed an interest" when asked about running for the Democratic nomination for governor of Maryland in 1966.

Pressman made the statement Wednesday. He did not give the circumstances under which Shriver was asked about seeking the governorship.

Shriver is a resident of Montgomery County, Md., on the outskirts of Washington.

Pressman is allied with Joseph D. Tydings, who won the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator in the May 19 primary against Louis L. Goldstein, the state comptroller, backed by Gov. J. Millard Tawes.

Tawes, ineligible for a third term, reportedly is grooming state Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan as his successor.

Shriver, a descendant of a family which obtained an original land grant from Cecil Calvert, Lord Baltimore, was born in Westminster, Md. He left the state when a teen-ager but returned after Kennedy took office as president.

Negro Businessmen Will Get Technical Advice

NEW YORK (AP)—An interracial group, with a son of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as cochairman, will provide technical advice for Negro businessmen who need loans but don't know how to get them.

Fourteen leading commercial banks including the Chase Manhattan Bank and the First National City Bank of New York have agreed to cooperate in the program.

The plans of the Interracial Council for Business Opportunity were announced at a news conference Wednesday by Rodman Rockefeller and Harvey C. Russell, the other cochairman and vice president of the Pepsi-Cola Co.

The council is cosponsored by the American Jewish Congress and the Urban League of Greater New York.

Only 18 per cent of the retail businesses in Harlem are owned by Negroes, the council says, and in the entire city there are only a dozen Negro-owned businesses employing more than 10 persons.

Growth of Redwoods Reported Increasing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The California Redwood is reputed to be one of the fastest growing of the commercial timber trees.

When thick forests are thinned out, permitting an increase in light, air and water for new growth, the redwood "second growth" is accelerated according to the California Redwood Association.

More than 200,000 acres of the original, big trees are protected in state and national forests, but more than 1,000,000 acres are farmed commercially. Thousands of high quality "second growth" trees three to four feet in diameter are to be seen in areas which were heavily logged in past decades.

The letter begins: "This is to explain what a telephone is and how it works. A telephone is shown in the picture. A long time ago a man named Alexander Graham Bell discovered. . . ."

Rise in National Debt Will Face House Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house faces up today to its periodic chore of considering an increase in the national debt limit to allow for expected red ink spending.

It is expected to approve, after considerable criticism, the administration's request that the limit be increased July 1 to $324 billion from $315 billion.

Unless Congress acts, the limit under existing law automatically drops July 1 to $285 billion—well below the expected debt.

Rather than suggest a smaller increase, as they have in the past, Republicans this year are moving to defeat the bill. This would force the debt limit issue back into the Ways and Means Committee.

Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior Republican member of that tax-writing group, has said he thinks the federal government could live with a limit of about $320 billion if it kept a tight rein on spending.

While the committee was considering the increase, Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon forecast a deficit June 30 of $8.8 billion from operations of the fiscal year now ending, and a deficit for the following year of $5.8 billion. The administration has said it expects the budget to balance a year or two later.

Shriver Reported Interested in Maryland Race

BALTIMORE (AP) — City Comptroller Hyman A. Pressman says Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps and a brother-in-law of the late President John F. Kennedy, "showed an interest" when asked about running for the Democratic nomination for governor of Maryland in 1966.

Pressman made the statement Wednesday. He did not give the circumstances under which Shriver was asked about seeking the governorship.

Shriver is a resident of Montgomery County, Md., on the outskirts of Washington.

Pressman is allied with Joseph D. Tydings, who won the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator in the May 19 primary against Louis L. Goldstein, the state comptroller backed by Gov. J. Millard Tawes.

Tawes, ineligible for a third term, reportedly is grooming state Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan as his successor.

Shriver, a descendant of a family which obtained an original land grant from Cecil Calvert, Lord Baltimore, was born in Westminster, Md. He left the state when a teen-ager but returned after Kennedy took office as president.

Negro Businessmen Will Get Technical Advice

NEW YORK (AP)—An interracial group, with a son of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as cochairman, will provide technical advice for Negro businessmen who need loans but don't know how to get them.

Fourteen leading commercial banks including the Chase Manhattan Bank and the First National City Bank of New York have agreed to cooperate in the program.

The plans of the Interracial Council for Business Opportunity wert announced at a news conference Wednesday by Rodman Rockefeller and Harvey C. Russell, the other cochairman and vice president of the Pepsi-Cola Co.

The council is cosponsored by the American Jewish Congress and the Urban League of Greater New York.

Only 18 per cent of the retail businesses in Harlem are owned by Negroes, the council says, and in the entire city there are only a dozen Negro-owned businesses employing more than 10 persons.

Growth of Redwoods Reported Increasing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The California Redwood is reputed to be one of the fastest growing of the commercial lumber trees.

When thick forests are thinned out, permitting an increase in light, air and water for new growth, the redwood "second growth" is accelerated, according to the California Redwood Association.

More than 200,000 acres of the original big trees are protected in state and national forests, but more than 1,000,000 acres are farmed commercially. Thousands of high quality "second growth" trees three to four feet in diameter are to be seen in areas which were heavily logged in past decades.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF CANADA

IT'S ALL CREE TO THEM—When Cree Indians along the shores of James Bay in northern Ontario got their first telephones, the Bell Telephone Co. of Canada had a little problem—explaining to them just how the things worked. Thanks to the Rt. Rev. H. E. Hives, Bishop of Kenora, a company letter was translated into the Cree language. Part of it is reproduced above. The letter begins: "This is to explain what a telephone is and how it works. A telephone is shown in the picture. A long time ago a man named Alexander Graham Bell discovered. . . ."

Rise in National Debt Will Face House Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house faces up today to its periodic chore of considering an increase in the national debt limit to allow for expected red ink spending.

It is expected to approve, after considerable criticism, the administration's request that the limit be increased July 1 to $324 billion from $315 billion.

Unless Congress acts, the limit under existing law automatically drops July 1 to $285 billion—well below the expected debt.

Rather than suggest a smaller increase, as they have in the past, Republicans this year are moving to defeat the bill. This would force the debt limit issue back into the Ways and Means Committee.

Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior Republican member of that tax-writing group, has said he thinks the federal government could live with a limit of about $320 billion if it kept a tight rein on spending.

While the committee was considering the increase, Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon forecast a deficit June 30 of $8.8 billion from operations of the fiscal year now ending, and a deficit for the following year of $5.8 billion. The administration has said it expects the budget to balance a year or two later.

Vertical Plane Tests Are Slated in Texas

GRAND PRAIRIE, Tex. (AP) —Test flights will start next month for a transport able to take off vertically and hailed as promise of a new era in military and commercial aviation.

Ling-Temco-Vought wheeled the craft—an XC142A—from a hangar for the first public inspection Wednesday.

LTV officials call it a deflected slipstream type of aircraft, which also lands vertically and can fly faster than 400 miles an hour.

DENVER (UPI) — Two State Institution Department officials have recommended that Colorado become the 29th state in an interstate compact regarding transfers of mental patients. ## Talks On Malaysian Crisis Planned

By ROBERT LIU

TOKYO (AP) — The foreign ministers of Malaysia, Indonesia and the Philippines met Thursday to try to complete arrangements for a summit conference of their government chiefs on the Malaysian crisis.

The three men exchanged conciliatory speeches, agreed to establish three additional checkpoints to verify the withdrawal of Indonesian guerrillas from Malaysian Borneo, and adjourned to await word that the withdrawal has begun.

At the conference table were Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio, Deputy Prime Minister and Foreign Minister Tun Abdul Razak of Malaysia Foreign Secretary Mauro Mendez of the Philippines, and Phillippine special envoy Salvador P. Lopez. Their major task—still ahead of them—is to draw up an agenda for the first summit conference on Malaysia since last August.

If they succeed in drawing up an agenda, the road will be open for a new effort at the highest level to resolve the grave problems created in Southeast Asia by formation of Malaysia last September.

President Sukarno of Indonesia, Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman of Malaysia and Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal are already here awaiting only the foreign ministers' agreement before sitting down around the conference table themselves.

Virginia County Seeks to Reopen Public Schools

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A federal court has given the Prince Edward County Board of Supervisors one week to appropriate funds to reopen and operate public schools.

U.S. Dist. Judge Oren R. Lewis Wednesday night ordered the supervisors to levy taxes and raise funds to open the schools, closed in 1959 to avoid racial desegregation.

Judge Lewis told the board to act by June 25, one month to the day after the U.S. Supreme Court ordered Prince Edward to reopen the schools.

During an hour-long hearing Wednesday and at preliminaries Monday, Judge Lewis offered the supervisors the initiative in reopening the schools. They did not take it. His tough order followed.

Judge Lewis declined to spell out exactly how much money the board should appropriate, as sought by Negro attorneys. He told the supervisors they must operate schools substantially equal to those in other rural counties.

The court continued its injunction against the payment of tuition grants for private education in the county as long as the public schools remain closed.

Lewis turned down a request by the Negro attorneys that he order the county to hire a public school faculty and school employes on a nondiscriminatory basis. He said the Supreme Court had not required it.

He said, however, the schools must be operated on a nondiscriminatory basis for the pupils.

A spokesman for the supervisors said in Farmville that he thought the board would meet before the weekend for a briefing by its special counsel, J. Segar Gravatt, and would "reach some decision by June 25."

Gravatt on Monday had asked the court what penalties the supervisors might expect if they "find it impossible to comply."

Lewis said Wednesday that prejudgment was improper. "Just let them disobey it," he said. "I'll tell them then what the penalty will be."

The supervisors cut off operating funds for the schools in 1959 after the U.S. District Court ordered Prince Edward to admit Negro pupils.

Since then white pupils have attended private, segregated schools. Negro children were without education until last September when free schools supported by public contributions were opened on a one-year emergency basis.

Woman Who Sent Threat to LBJ Is Hospitalized

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Johnnie Mae Hackworthe, 59, accused by the Secret Service of writing a threatening letter to President Johnson, has been committed to a government hospital for observation and examination.

Mrs. Hackworthe was taken to the hospital in Lexington, Ky. in accordance with a court order, Lane Bertran, agent-in-charge of the Secret Service here said Wednesday.

The order was signed by Judge Ben C. Connally after Jerald Mize, an assistant U.S. attorney, filed a motion requesting that Mrs. Hackworthe undergo psychiatric examination to determine her sanity at the present time and on May 13, the day she allegedly mailed a letter to President Johnson threatening his life.

Mize said Mrs. Hackworthe, a frequent candidate for public office and the operator of a House of Prayer in Brenham, Tex., had been arrested by federal authorities twice before, in 1958 and 1960, and charged with writing threatening letters to President Dwight D. Eisenhower. She was committed to a mental hospital in Austin after the 1955 threat against Eisenhower, he said.

Connally after Jerald Mize, an assistant U.S. attorney, filed a motion requesting that Mrs. Hackworthe undergo psychiatric examination to determine her sanity at the present time and on May 13, the day she allegedly mailed a letter to President Johnson threatening his life.

Mize said Mrs. Hackworthe, a frequent candidate for public office and the operater of a House of Prayer in Brenham, Tex., had been arrested by federal authorities twice before, in 1956 and 1960, and charged with writing threatening letters to President Dwight D. Eisenhower. She was committed to a mental hospital in Austin after the 1955 threat against Eisenhower, he said.

Looking At Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

BOOKS ON MARION DAVIES ARE NOW BEING WRITTEN

HOLLYWOOD — It's almost a certainty that Marion Davies' life will be put on the screen. at least two books about her are in the works by people who never knew her. But I have in my safety deposit box the most revealing documents about Marion in the world — William Randolph Hearst's love letters (in his own handwriting) to her. When he was terribly lonely, he wrote her poetry and very good it is, too. The letters show a side of him that the public never knew.

A pal of mine was in England when Carl Foreman's "The Victors" was released and says the press was unanimous in being ashamed of Foreman for being so anti-American. "Not even the Russians would have been that bitter."

When Foreman called on Winston Churchill with a check for 100,000 pounds (a down payment to film his early life), he asked the great man what his reaction was on being appointed prime minister. "Were you distraught or upset when you went home?"

"No," said Churchill, "what I really thought was they had made the right choice and got the right man for the job. I slept like a baby."

---

Dan Jenkins, who did public relations for Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger during World War II (now does the same service for Danny Kaye), told me this one. The night Tojo shot himself, the general and Dan were roused out of bed at 3 a.m. and taken to the field hospital where he was. Tojo spoke not a word of English. The general had the room cleared except for two surgeons, Dan, and an Australian captain who served as interpreter. Tojo came to and muttered something.

"What's he saying?" asked the general.

The Aussie captain leaned down to catch the words and said, "He apologizes for all the inconvenience he's caused."

Eichelberger, with a frosty smile, looked Tojo in the eye and said, "You little s. o. b., are you talking about tonight or the last four years?"

The Hollywood press club handed Mayor Sam Yorty, Polly Bergen, Barry Sullivan, Jud Baker and me the hot topic: "Should Hollywood and politics mix?" invited us to discuss it, and stood by with a first aid kit. But everybody agreed that actors should speak out. Mayor Yorty said, "I think actors should take part in politics and express opinions — if they're on my side. If they're not, I think they're completely incompetent, expressing opinions that are ill-founded and illogical." Then he exploded the myth that Earl Warren was a great vote getter. I don't like to plug a Democrat, but I'd vote for Yorty for governor.

---

Deborah Kerr writes from Madrid that she'll fly to New York for the "Iguana" premiere; then jet right back. She hopes to do another American picture, but hasn't decided which one.

Deborah is delightful and delectable in "The Chalk Garden." So is Hayley Mills, her father, and Dame Edith Evans, undoubtedly one of the greatest actresses of our time. You can't beat those old girls — or the seasoned boys either.

Rock Hudson opened his home for the first time and played host to cast and crew of his present picture. It's a charming place, once the home of Manager Sam Jaffe who moved to England. I'll bet he regrets giving it up.

What a pleasant surprise to see Rupert Hughes' adopted son, Rush. He walked into my office to say hello after spending many years in Florida. He's moved back and will open the fourth radio station in Palm Springs this fall. Rush was a sportscaster on radio for many years; reported the Rose bowl game and all the big ones.

Boost in Voter Registration Is Being Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)—A nonpartisan drive to increase voter registration and participation this election year was unveiled today and drew a warm welcome from the chairmen of the two major political parties.

The campaign was outlined at a news conference by representatives of its cosponsors, the American Heritage Foundation and the Advertising Council.

The simple message which will be carried by newspapers, radio, television and other media this year was this:

"Vote — and the choice is yours!

"Don't vote—and the choice is theirs!

"Register — or you have no choice!"

Officials of the Advertising Council said the program would be aimed particularly at the 21- to 29-year-old age group, about 27 million Americans, only half of whom voted in 1960.

Republican Chairman William E. Miller hailed the registration and vote drive and said "I think it's really an indictment of the American process that in 1960 an election was decided by 100,000 votes when 30 million people failed to register and vote."

Miller said decisions will always be made in Washington about such matters as the economy and war and peace but that the nature and direction of these decisions can only reflect the opinions of those who expend time, money and effort on the electoral process.

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey said the party is backing up the nonpartisan drive with a registration and vote campaign of its own. He said it consists mainly of getting volunteers to spend four hours each week on voter registration.

Pointing out that there are 189,000 precincts in the United States, he said "if we get 10 more votes in each we feel there is no question who will win in November."

Both men later replied to questions about who would benefit the most from the nonpartisan registration drive. Each thought it would be his party.

Thomas D'Arcy Brophy, president of the American Heritage Foundation, and Theodore S. Repplier, president of the Advertising Council, both estimated the cost of advertising space and time being donated to the campaign at more than $10 million.

Scientists Still Cannot Forecast Earthquakes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Tuesday's disaster in Japan underscored again the unhappy fact that no means exists of forecasting killer earthquakes.

The conference began March 9 and ended March 20. Seven days later, on Good Friday, one of the worst earthquakes of all time hit Alaska, catching everybody by surprise.

Jack Oliver of the Lamont Geological Observatory of Columbia University, one of the American delegates at the Tokyo meeting, reported that:

"The general tenor of the conference was that, while specific earthquake predictions are not now possible, a number of promising lines of investigation offer the hope that at some time in the future fairly detailed predictions can be accomplished."

Generally speaking, Soviet and Japanese seismologists have been more optimistic than their American counterparts. All three are pushing research in the hope of finding clues to whether quakes give any advance warning.

These warning signals might consist of tiny foreshocks, the building up of stresses in rock toward the breaking point, or perhaps geomagnetic effects thought to be associated with earthquakes.

Dr. S.T. Algermissen of the Coast and Geodetic Survey said, "No one has cracked the problem; there has been no breakthrough. There will have to be a lot more research."

Looking At Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964, By the Chicago Tribune

BOOKS ON MARION DAVIES ARE NOW BEING WRITTEN

HOLLYWOOD — It's almost a certainty that Marion Davies life will be put on the screen, at least two books about her are in the works by people who never knew her. But I have in my safety deposit box the most revealing documents about Marion in the world — William Randolph Hearst's love letters (in his own handwriting) to her. When he was terribly lonely, he wrote her poetry, and very good it is, too. The letters show a side of him that the public never knew.

A pal of mine was in England when Carl Foreman's "The Victors" was released and says the press was unanimous in being ashamed of Foreman for being so anti-American. "Not even the Russians would have been that bitter."

When Foreman called on Winston Churchill with a check for 100,000 pounds (a down payment to film his early life), he asked the great man what his reaction was on being appointed prime minister. "Were you distraught or upset when you went home?"

"No," said Churchill, "what I really thought was they had made the right choice and got the right man for the job. I slept like a baby."

Dan Jenkins, who did public relations for Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger during World War II (now does the same service for Danny Kaye), told me this one. The night Tojo shot himself, the general and Dan were rousted out of bed at 3 a.m. and taken to the field hospital where he was. Tojo spoke not a word of English. The general had the room cleared except for two surgeons, Dan, and an Australian captain who served as interpreter. Tojo came to and muttered something.

"What's he saying?" asked the general.

The Aussie captain leaned down to catch the words and said, "He apologizes for all the inconvenience he's caused."

Eichelberger, with a frosty smile, looked Tojo in the eye and said, "You little s. o. b., are you talking about tonight or the last four years?"

The Hollywood press club handed Mayor Sam Yorty, Polly Bergen, Barry Sullivan, Jud Baker and me the hot topic: "Should Hollywood and politics mix?" invited us to discuss it, and stood by with a first aid kit. But everybody agreed that actors should speak out. Mayor Yorty said, "I think actors should take part in politics and express opinions — if they're on my side. If they're not, I think they're completely incompetent, expressing opinions that are ill-founded and illogical." Then he exploded the myth that Earl Warren was a great vote getter. I don't like to plug a Democrat, but I'd vote for Yorty for governor.

Deborah Kerr writes from Madrid that she'll fly to New York for the "Iguana" premiere; then jet right back. She hopes to do another American picture, but hasn't decided which one.

Deborah is delightful and delectable in "The Chalk Garden." So is Hayley Mills, her father, and Dame Edith Evans, undoubtedly one of the greatest actresses of our time. You can't beat those old girls — or the seasoned boys either.

Rock Hudson opened his home for the first time and played host to cast and crew of his present picture. It's a charming place, once the home of Manager Sam Jaffe who moved to England. I'll bet he regrets giving it up.

What a pleasant surprise to see Rupert Hughes' adopted son, Rush. He walked into my office to say hello after spending many years in Florida. He's moved back and we'll open the fourth radio station in Palm Springs this fall. Rush was a sportscaster on radio for many years; reported the Rose bowl game and all the big ones.

Peter Stark, Ray's son, tells me his father's picture "Iguana" about lizards is being shown at the Claremont college as a benefit for the Shakespearean festival. Patrons for the Pomona Valley festival include 31 star names.

WESTCLIFFE (UPI)— Gov. John Love spent much of Tuesday in his cabin, studying the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision which struck down Colorado's new system of legislative apportionment. Love is expected to make an announcement soon whether to call the Legislature into special session to devise a new method of distributing seats. The decision ruled that state senates must be apportioned according to population, not area as in Colorado.

19 Types Throat Lozenges May Be Barred

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration announced today it proposes to cancel certification of 19 types of throat lozenges or troches containing antibiotics, on the ground that evidence of efficacy is lacking. The effect would be to bar the products from sale in interstate commerce.

The agency said interested persons have 90 days within which to furnish any information which, in their opion, demonstrates substantial efficacy of the drugs or to submit written comments.

A spokesman said the proposal applies to some 30 products, made by something like 11 basic manufacturers and handled by about 25 distributors including the manufacturers.

The proposal would affect only those troches containing antibiotics, for which certification was required before May 1, 1963, when regulations went into effect making all antibiotic products certifiable by FDA.

It would not apply to at least 200 other troches on the market which contain antibiotics which were not certifiable prior to that time.

The spokesman said the manner in which these 200 other troches will be dealt with has not been announced.

FDA said the proposal would cover the following troches, most of which are sold without prescription:

Bacitracin, gramicidin, neomycin; bacitracin, neomycin, polymyxin; bacitracin, neomycin; bacitracin, polymyxin; bacitracin; bacitracin, trothricin, neomycin; bacitracin, tyrothricin, chlortetracycline; penicillin, bacitracin, penicitin;

Also penicillin, zinc bacitracin; tetracycline hydrochloride, zinc bacitracin, gramicidin, neomycin; zinc bacitracin, neomycin, polymyxin; zinc bacitracin, neomycin; zinc bacitracin, polymyxin; zinc bacitracin, zinc bacitracin, trothricin, neomycin; zinc bacitracin, tyrothricin.

CLOWNING COLLEGIATE

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Steven Bender, 21, clowned his way through college. Bender applied through the Washington University student employment office for an unspecified job that promised $10 for 20 minutes of work at a shoe store. It turned out Bender was to do a clown-magician trick to entertain children.

Bender, who was graduated this June, was a freshman at the time. He invested in $8 worth of magic equipment. Today, Bender has saved $8,500. He entertains children at private birthday parties, doing a clown act.

CLOWNING COLLEGIATE

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Steven Bender, 21, clowned his way through college. Bender applied through the Washington University student employment office for an unspecified job that promised $10 for 20 minutes of work at a shoe store. It turned out Bender was to do a clown-magician trick to entertain children.

Bender, who was graduated this June, was a freshman at the time. He invested in $8 worth of magic equipment. Today, Bender has saved $8,500. He entertains children at private birthday parties, doing a clown act.

Crowds Continue To Visit Grave Of J. F. Kennedy

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Baby's shoe, a woman's glove, a religious medal, a lone flower have been placed on the hillside grave.

They rest on the sun-seared grass, along with the berets and caps of fighting men—some of the personal remembrances from the multitude which daily moves slowly and silently past the place where John F. Kennedy is buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

The caps—the deep green beret of the Army Special forces, the standard Army green of the conventional forces, the forest green of the Marines and the Air Force blue—remain.

But each morning the tributes of the visitors are removed, packed away and sent once a week to the White House. From there they are made available to Mrs. Kennedy, who decides what should be done with them. Some presumably are set aside for the time when a Kennedy memorial is built.

An estimated three million persons have visited the grave. Only a comparative few drop mementos on the grave, but these now total hundreds or thousands.

Some of the tribute objects obviously are brought with the intention of leaving them. Others are spontaneous, like the glove removed and dropped onto the grave by a woman.

A group of pupils from a Richmond, Va., school trooped slowly past. When they were gone, attendants found a five-dollar bill. Clipped to it was a note—contributed to the Kennedy Memorial Library at Cambridge.

There are, of course, the formal floral pieces. Most of them come from organizations, from church groups, from visiting foreign statesmen or diplomatic missions.

But a child passes by and drops a single flower on the grave.

The military mementos started on the day of Kennedy's burial. A sergeant of the Army Special Forces, standing by the grave when the funeral throng was gone, removed his beret and placed it on the mound.

The other services were quick to follow the sergeant's gesture and the caps of soldiers, sailors, Marines and Air Force men joined the green beret.

Winter storms and summer sun and rain weathered the caps, then worked at the fabric. A few days before last Memorial Day, officials of the Military District of Washington decided they needed replacing. This was done.

There are other remembrances from the fighting men for their commander-in-chief.

With the caps is the arm band of the Military Police, with the insignia of the Military District of Washington.

And there is the polished black leather "buff strap," hallmark of the famous 3rd Infantry Regiment which guards Arlington and provides troops for Washington's ceremonial occasions.

Integration Move Spreads Through Dixie

ATLANTA (AP) — The number of Negro students attending former white colleges and universities in the South has increased this summer — and all entered peacefully.

Most schools do not list students by race and that policy may become a factor in easing the integration problem in more-sensitive areas in the Deep South.

The Negroes go their way hardly noticed by white students. Some of the schools have had few or no Negroes in the past but their presence is attracting little general interest, an Associated Press survey shows.

Negroes are attending summer classes at the University of Mississippi and the University of Alabama — scenes of rioting during earlier integration attempts.

Three Negroes have started classes at Northeast Louisiana State College without incident.

The University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa has three Negro coeds in summer classes. They include Vivian Malone, one of two Negro students who desegregated the university a year ago under federal court orders.

Others are Ruth Benella Lewis of Birmingham and Mrs. Velma Thompson of Tuscaloosa.

The campus hardly knows they are around. It was different when federalized National Guardsmen stood by while Gov. George Wallace made his unsuccessful stand in the school house door last June.

It is different, too, from the rioting which erupted at Tuscaloosa nearly nine years ago when Autherine Lucy became the first of her race to attend the university.

Violence erupted at Ole Miss in September 1962 when James H. Meredith was admitted under court orders. Two white men were killed and hundreds were injured.

Summer Letdown Absorbed by Steel

NEW YORK (UPI) — The steel industry has pumped out enough metal in the first half to absorb a substantial summer letdown without killing chances of a record year for 1964, Iron Age said Tuesday.

The national metalworking weekly said the mills will have produced 61.5 million tons of steel as of June 30, thereby requiring second half output of slightly over 55.5 million tons to top the 1955 production record of 117 million tons.

Looking toward summer, the magazine said July orders are coming in much better than expected and that "even more surprising, the outlook for August continues to improve and the possibility of a really severe summer slump appears to be fading."

"They disguised the roadblock as a tollgate knowing I'm honest in all things except banks."

Lynda Bird to Return To Honolulu Area

HONOLULU (AP) — Lynda Bird Johnson was to return here from her four-day tour of Hawaii's islands today for a state dinner given by Gov. John A. Burns.

The slim, 20-year-old daughter of President Johnson is winding up a visit to the 50th state. Tuesday she toured the 13-mile lip of Kilauea volcano on Hawaii Island and shopped with the aid of a Secret Service escort for a muumuu dress.

Miss Johnson tried on several of the shift dresses in a Kailua-Iona shop and each time turned to the Secret Service escort for his opinion. She finally selected a red muumuu with a sunburst design that the agent had approved.

Panama Canal Area Reports Business Slack

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

PANAMA (AP)—The "gringos out" sign has disappeared from Boly Khan's cocktail lounge and the welcome mat is out for the Yankee visitor. But business is slack.

"It isn't the same and probably never will be again," says a patron.

That about sums up the picture in this deceptively tranquil-looking capital six months after the Canal Zone violence between Panamanians and Americans that claimed more than 20 lives.

A subtle but distinct change has muted Panama's once sprightly, colorful moods. There is an undercurrent of tension. Although the wounds seem healed, tender scars remain.

Most heavy damage to buildings and homes on the American side of the Canal Zone border has been repaired. The upper walls of the 12-story legislative palace on the Panamanian side remain bullet-splattered near windows from which snipers fired at American soldiers. Other buildings on the Panama side have bullet marks carefully circled in red paint to attract attention.

The Pan American World Airways building, set afire by rioters in the mistaken belief it was American-owned, remains a burnt-out shell. It once was one of the most attractive buildings in the city.

Under an agreement to symbolize Panama's titular sovereignty over the Canal Zone, Panamanian flags now fly along side the U.S. banner at 29 public sites in the American-sector. An attempt by Panamanian students to hoist their flag at Balboa High School in the zone led to the January fighting.

Although American tourists freely roam downtown Panama shops in increasing numbers and U.S. citizens living in the city say they are not molested, many American residents refuse to go into Panama City.

A wave of small-scale terrorism and violence of vague origin is helping prolong the state of anxiety under which Panama has lived since January.

The purely national character of the current turbulence has Panamanians looking inward for the source and scope of their new troubles.

Reminder of the grim episode came last week when the International Jurists' Commission, invited by the Panama Bar Association to look into the disorders, issued a report denying Panama's claims that the United States violated principles of human rights.

Most Panamanians seemed to have only passing interest in the findings. President Roberto Chiari and other political leaders declined to comment. A presidential aide said the issue of human rights had been raised by a private organization, not by the government.

An unavoidable impression is that hardly anything will convince Panamanians the United States was not guilty.

Crowds Continue To Visit Grave Of J. F. Kennedy

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Baby's shoe, a woman's glove, a religious medal, a lone flower have been placed on the hillside grave.

They rest on the sun-seared grass, along with the berets and caps of fighting men—some of the personal remembrances from the multitude which daily moves slowly and silently past the place where John F. Kennedy is buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

The caps—the deep green beret of the Army Special forces, the standard Army green of the conventional forces, the forest green of the Marines and the Air Force blue—remain.

But each morning the tributes of the visitors are removed, packed away and sent once a week to the White House. From there they are made available to Mrs. Kennedy, who decides what should be done with them. Some presumably are set aside for the time when a Kennedy memorial is built.

An estimated three million persons have visited the grave. Only a comparative few drop mementos on the grave, but these now total hundreds or thousands.

Some of the tribute objects obviously are brought with the intention of leaving them. Others are spontaneous, like the glove removed and dropped onto the grave by a woman.

A group of pupils from a Richmond, Va., school trooped slowly past. When they were gone, attendants found a five-dollar bill. Clipped to it was a note—contributed to the Kennedy Memorial Library at Cambridge.

There are, of course, the formal floral pieces. Most of them come from organizations, from church groups, from visiting foreign statesmen or diplomatic missions.

But a child passes by and drops a single flower on the grave.

The military mementos started on the day of Kennedy's burial. A sergeant of the Army Special Forces, standing by the grave when the funeral throng was gone, removed his beret and placed it on the mound.

The other services were quick to follow the sergeant's gesture and the caps of soldiers, sailors, Marines and Air Force men joined the green beret.

Winter storms and summer sun and rain weathered the caps, then worked at the fabric. A few days before last Memorial Day, officials of the Military District of Washington decided they needed replacing. This was done.

There are other remembrances from the fighting men for their commander-in-chief.

With the caps is the arm band of the Military Police, with the insignia of the Military District of Washington.

And there is the polished black leather "buff strap," hallmark of the famous 3rd Infantry Regiment which guards Arlington and provides troops for Washington's ceremonial occasions.

Widow Flies Around World for New Record

NEW YORK (AP)—A 72-year-old widow is flying around the world by commercial jet in an attempt to set a record of 59 hours and five minutes.

Anna Hirschberg of Lake Hopatcong, N.J., left here Tuesday night for London. Her flight will stop at Frankfurt, Istanbul, Beirut, Karachi, Bangkok, Saigon, Hong Kong, Tokyo, Honolulu and San Francisco. She is due back in New York Friday morning.

The woman's record for a round-the-world regularly scheduled flight is claimed by Sue Snyder of Manhattan, who says she did it in 62 hours and 59 minutes in June 1960.

Cranes fly with their necks and feet extended.

BID OPENING

DENVER (UPI)— Two construction projects with an estimated cost of $681,000 will be up for bids July 7. The Colorado Highway Department has called for bids on grading, structures and paving 5.4 miles of U.S. 40 west of Baybell; and gravel surfacing and paving on 5 miles of Colorado 82 at the eastern foot of Independence Pass.

Topless Swimming Suits Create Furor on Coast

By CLAUDE V. BURGETT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"It's—it's unbelievable," gasped shopowner Nasimo Sargis, groping for words. "There's no middle-of-the stream. It's either shock or 'wow!'"

That was Miss Sargis' reaction after she introduced topless swimsuits in San Francisco.

The first dozen suits were snapped up and another 14 ordered for immediate delivery she said.

"Mostly to men," said Miss Sargis, "for their wives. Or at least that's what they said."

Reaction of other San Franciscans to the weekend showing of latest low in high fashion was immediate, and predictable.

"Nakedness," snapped a clergyman, "almost perversion."

The police department wondered aloud what it would do with the first bare bosomed lass to breach the beach.

Another downtown San Francisco shop placed the suits on sale Tuesday.

Held up by two narrow straps that cross in front and back, the suits were denounced by the clergy as an invitation to lust, a return to paganism, a corruptor of morals and "not very nice."

"Just two straps closer to the moral decay in America," declared the Rev. Jacob Belling of Oakland's Neighborhood Church.

"I'm a prude," said the Rev. Marsh.

Rev. Mines of the Southern Baptist Convention. "If such a suit should come anywhere within my sphere of influence I'd strongly oppose it."

"Nakedness and paganism go hand in hand," warned Dr. Cecil J. Lowry of the Oakland Revival Tabernacle.

"I haven't given it any thought," said the Rev. C. H. Wells of the Church of Christ, "but I don't think it would be very nice."

"It's probably designed to be provocative," said the Rev. James Roamer of Lincoln Park Baptist church, "and in this sense might pose a threat to the public morals. But nudity apart from lustful purpose is not sinful."

What do the cops say?

"A touchy, legal subject," said Assistant Police Chief Alfred Arnaud. "Nudity isn't illegal unless it's lewd. This'll have to be settled when they show up on the beaches—and I guess they will."

Capt. Daniel W. Keily, responsible for policing the city beaches, observed that when the first woman appears in the suit "the main police problem will be the riot that occurs. The size of the riot probably depends how well she's endowed."

They'll be tabu at public pools however, city officials said.

Gale Hiett, Miss San Francisco of 1963 and now a dancer at Bimbo's night club - restaurant in North Beach, said "I think it's a great idea—but I would not have the nerve to do it."

From show - conscious Hollywood far to the south came a dissent.

"These suits are terrible," said stripteaser Jennei Lee, president of the Exotic Dancers League of America. "They'll put exotic dancers out of business. Who'd pay money to go to a theater?"

Ex-Ambassador Convicted of Dope Smuggling

NEW YORK (AP)—A former Mexican ambassador to Bolivia, an ex-employe of the Uruguayan Foreign Ministry and a Frenchman have been convicted in a multimillion-dollar narcotics case.

A U.S. District Court jury Tuesday night found the three men guilty of possessing narcotics and conspiring to bring them into the United States.

Those convicted are Salvador Pardo Bolland, 64, the former diplomat; Juan Aritzi, 64, formerly of Uruguay, and Rene Bruchon, 50, of Marseille.

They could get up to 20 years in prison and fines of $20,000.

U.S. authorities accused them of conspiracy to illegally transport and receive narcotics estimated to be worth between $13½ million and $25 million in the illicit market.

When they were arrested here last Feb. 21, as a result of a trap laid by Canadian police, federal agents said the arrests had broken an international narcotics ring that had a "definite link with the Cosa Nostra," the organized underworld.

Canadian police said they found 134 pounds of heroin in suitcases in railroad station lockers at Montreal. They substituted flour for all but two pounds of the heroin.

Aritzi allegedly picked up the suitcases in Montreal and carried them by train to New York City. They were found in lockers in Pennsylvania Station.

Pardo Bolland, who had flown here from Paris, and Aritzi were arrested together in a New York City hotel room. Narcotics agents arrested Bruchon on a Manhattan street and said they found checks for the suitcases in his possession.

The Mexican government termed Pardo Bolland's involvement in the case "a very dishonorable and painful thing" and fired him shortly after his arrest.

Aritzi, according to the Uruguayan government, had resigned as a Foreign Ministry employe and at the time the narcotics case was broken he had been in Canada as a private citizen. Bruchon had been deported from the United States in 1949. This was a year after his conviction—later reversed—on a charge of smuggling 26 pounds of heroin into this country.

The total assessed valuation of real property in New York City in 1964 is estimated to amount to nearly $30 billion.

Integration Move Spreads Through Dixie

ATLANTA (AP) — The number of Negro students attending former white colleges and universities in the South has increased this summer — and all entered peacefully.

Most schools do not list students by race and that policy may become a factor in easing the integration problem in more-sensitive areas in the Deep South.

The Negroes go their way hardly noticed by white students. Some of the schools have had few or no Negroes in the past but their presence is attracting little general interest, an Associated Press survey shows.

Negroes are attending summer classes at the University of Mississippi and the University of Alabama — scenes of rioting during earlier integration attempts.

Three Negroes have started classes at Northeast Louisiana State College without incident.

The University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa has three Negro coeds in summer classes. They include Vivian Malone, one of two Negro students who desegregated the university a year ago under federal court orders.

Others are Ruth Benella Lewis of Birmingham and Mrs. Velma Thompson of Tuscaloosa.

The campus hardly knows they are around. It was different when federalized National Guardsmen stood by while Gov. George Wallace made his unsuccessful stand in the school house door last June.

It is different, too, from the rioting which erupted at Tuscaloosa nearly nine years ago when Autherine Lucy became the first of her race to attend the university.

Violence erupted at Ole Miss in September 1962 when James H. Meredith was admitted under court orders. Two white men were killed and hundreds were injured.

Summer Letdown Absorbed by Steel

NEW YORK (UPI) — The steel industry has pumped out enough metal in the first half to absorb a substantial summer letdown without killing chances of a record year for 1964, Iron Age said Tuesday.

The national metalworking weekly said the mills will have produced 61.5 million tons of steel as of June 30, thereby requiring second half output of slightly over 55.5 million tons to top the 1955 production record of 117 million tons.

Looking toward summer, the magazine said July orders are coming in much better than expected and that "even more surprising, the outlook for August continues to improve and the possibility of a really severe summer slump appears to be fading."

"They disguised the roadblock as a tollgate knowing I'm honest in all things except banks."

Lynda Bird to Return To Honolulu Area

HONOLULU (AP) — Lynda Bird Johnson was to return here from her four-day tour of Hawaii's islands today for a state dinner given by Gov. John A. Burns.

The slim, 20-year-old daughter of President Johnson is winding up a visit to the 50th state. Tuesday she toured the 13-mile lip of Kilauea volcano on Hawaii Island and shopped with the aid of a Secret Service escort for a muumuu dress.

Miss Johnson tried on several of the shift dresses in a Kailua-Iona shop and each time turned to the Secret Service escort for his opinion. She finally selected a red muumuu with a sunburst design that the agent had approved.

Panama Canal Area Reports Business Slack

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

PANAMA (AP)—The "gringos out" sign has disappeared from Boly Khan's cocktail lounge and the welcome mat is out for the Yankee visitor. But business is slack.

"It isn't the same and probably never will be again," says a patron.

That about sums up the picture in this deceptively tranquil-looking capital six months after the Canal Zone violence between Panamanians and Americans that claimed more than 20 lives.

A subtle but distinct change has muted Panama's once sprightly, colorful moods. There is an undercurrent of tension. Although the wounds seem healed, tender scars remain.

Most heavy damage to buildings and homes on the American side of the Canal Zone border has been repaired. The upper walls of the 12-story legislative palace on the Panamanian side remain bullet-splattered near windows from which snipers fired at American soldiers. Other buildings on the Panama side have bullet marks carefully circled in red paint to attract attention.

The Pan American World Airways building, set afire by rioters in the mistaken belief it was American-owned, remains a burnt-out shell. It once was one of the most attractive buildings in the city.

Under an agreement to symbolize Panama's titular sovereignty over the Canal Zone, Panamanian flags now fly along side the U.S. banner at 29 public sites in the American sector. An attempt by Panamanian students to hoist their flag at Balboa High School in the zone led to the January fighting.

Although American tourists freely roam downtown Panama shops in increasing numbers and U.S. citizens living in the city say they are not molested, many American residents refuse to go into Panama City.

A wave of small-scale terrorism and violence of vague origin is helping prolong the state of anxiety under which Panama has lived since January.

The purely national character of the current turbulence has Panamanians looking inward for the source and scope of their new troubles.

Reminder of the grim episode came last week when the International Jurists' Commission, invited by the Panama Bar Association to look into the disorders, issued a report denying Panama's claims that the United States violated principles of human rights.

Most Panamanians seemed to have only passing interest in the findings. President Roberto Chiari and other political leaders declined to comment. A presidential aide said the issue of human rights had been raised by a private organization, not by the government.

An unavoidable impression is that hardly anything will convince Panamanians the United States was not guilty.

CHINA LENDS MONEY

ZANZIBAR (UPI) — Zanzibar signed an agreement with Communist China Tuesday for an interest-free loan of $14 million. The debt is to be repayed in 10 years starting in 1975, and is to promote economic and technical cooperation between the two nations.

GRANT AMNESTY

VIENNA (UPI) — The Communist government in Romania Tuesday granted amnesty to 2,500 political prisoners.

A Radio Bucharest report said the state council decreed the amnesty because "of the big successes of our socialist society."

PRIVATE DROWNS

NEEDLES, Calif. (UPI)—Operation Desert Strike has claimed its 39th victim, Pvt. Otto Schlegel, 23, who drowned Monday in the Colorado River, the Army reported today.

Widow Flies Around World for New Record

NEW YORK (AP)—A 72-year-old widow is flying around the world by commercial jet in an attempt to set a record of 59 hours and five minutes.

Anna Hirschberg of Lake Hopatcong, N.J., left here Tuesday night for London. Her flight will stop at Frankfurt, Istanbul, Beirut, Karachi, Bangkok, Saigon, Hong Kong, Tokyo, Honolulu and San Francisco. She is due back in New York Friday morning.

The woman's record for a round-the-world regularly scheduled flight is claimed by Sue Snyder of Manhattan, who says she did it in 62 hours and 59 minutes in June 1960.

Cranes fly with their necks and feet extended.

BID OPENING

DENVER (UPI)— Two construction projects with an estimated cost of $681,000 will be up for bids July 7. The Colorado Highway Department has called for bids on grading, structures and paving 5.4 miles of U.S. 40 west of Baybell; and gravel surfacing and paving on 5 miles of Colorado 82 at the eastern foot of Independence Pass.

Topless Swimming Suits Create Furor on Coast

By CLAUDE V. BURGETT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"It's—it's unbelievable," gasped shopowner Nasimo Sargis, groping for words. "There's no middle-of-the stream. It's either shock or 'wow!'"

That was Miss Sargis' reaction after she introduced topless swimsuits in San Francisco.

The first dozen suits were snapped up and another 14 ordered for immediate delivery she said.

"Mostly to men," said Miss Sargis, "for their wives. Or at least that's what they said."

Reaction of other San Franciscans to the weekend showing of latest low in high fashion was immediate, and predictable.

"Nakedness," snapped a clergyman, "almost perversion."

The police department wondered aloud what it would do with the first bare bosomed lass to breach the beach.

Another downtown San Francisco shop placed the suits on sale Tuesday.

Held up by two narrow straps that cross in front and back, the suits were denounced by the clergy as an invitation to lust, a return to paganism, a corruptor of morals and "not very nice."

"Just two straps closer to the moral decay in America," declared the Rev. Jacob Belling of Oakland's Neighborhood Church.

"I'm a prude," said the Rev. Marsh.

Rev. Mines of the Southern Baptist Convention. "If such a suit should come anywhere within my sphere of influence I'd strongly oppose it."

"Nakedness and paganism go hand in hand;" warned Dr. Cecil J. Lowry of the Oakland Revival Tabernacle.

"I haven't given it any thought," said the Rev. C. H. Wells of the Church of Christ, "but I don't think it would be very nice."

"It's probably designed to be provocative," said the Rev. James Roamer of Lincoln Park Baptist church, "and in this sense might pose a threat to the public morals. But nudity apart from lustful purpose is not sinful."

What do the cops say?

"A touchy, legal subject," said Assistant Police Chief Alfred Arnaud. "Nudity isn't illegal unless it's lewd. This'll have to be settled when they show up on the beaches—and I guess they will."

Capt. Daniel W. Keily, responsible for policing the city beaches, observed that when the first woman appears in the suit "the main police problem will be the riot that occurs. The size of the riot probably depends how well she's endowed."

They'll be tabu at public pools however, city officials said.

Gale Hiett, Miss San Francisco of 1963 and now a dancer at Bimbo's night club - restaurant in North Beach, said "I think it's a great idea—but I would not have the nerve to do it."

From show - conscious Hollywood far to the south came a dissent.

"These suits are terrible," said stripteaser Jennei Lee, president of the Exotic Dancers League of America. "They'll put exotic dancers out of business. Who'd pay money to go to a theater?"

Ex-Ambassador Convicted of Dope Smuggling

NEW YORK (AP)—A former Mexican ambassador to Bolivia, an ex-employe of the Uruguayan Foreign Ministry and a Frenchman have been convicted in a multimillion-dollar narcotics case.

A U.S. District Court jury Tuesday night found the three men guilty of possessing narcotics and conspiring to bring them into the United States.

Those convicted are Salvador Pardo Bolland, 64, the former diplomat; Juan Aritzi, 64, formerly of Uruguay, and Rene Bruchon, 50, of Marseille.

They could get up to 20 years in prison and fines of $20,000.

U.S. authorities accused them of conspiracy to illegally transport and receive narcotics estimated to be worth between $13½ million and $25 million in the illicit market.

When they were arrested here last Feb. 21, as a result of a trap laid by Canadian police, federal agents said the arrests had broken an international narcotics ring that had a "definite link with the Cosa Nostra," the organized underworld.

Canadian police said they found 134 pounds of heroin in suitcases in railroad station lockers at Montreal. They substituted flour for all but two pounds of the heroin.

Aritzi allegedly picked up the suitcases in Montreal and carried them by train to New York City. They were found in lockers in Pennsylvania Station.

Pardo Bolland, who had flown here from Paris, and Aritzi were arrested together in a New York City hotel room. Narcotics agents arrested Bruchon on a Manhattan street and said they found checks for the suitcases in his possession.

The Mexican government termed Pardo Bolland's involvement in the case "a very dishonorable and painful thing" and fired him shortly after his arrest.

Aritzi, according to the Uruguayan government, had resigned as a Foreign Ministry employe and at the time the narcotics case was broken he had been in Canada as a private citizen. Bruchon had been deported from the United States in 1940. This was a year after his conviction—later reversed—on a charge of smuggling 26 pounds of heroin into this country.

The total assessed valuation of real property in New York City in 1964 is estimated to amount to nearly $30 billion.

ACTIVITY OF THE PIGMENT CELLS

Pigment (melanin) in the skin produces the different colors or races, including white Caucasians, yellowish Orientals, reddish Indians, and black Negroes. The amount and kind of pigment that forms determine the skin color. The differences are hereditary and originate in special pigment-producing cells (melanocytes) located in the deeper layers of the skin and in areas surrounding the hair roots.

The pigment granules are passed along through branching tubules to the cells near the surface that do not form melanin. The pigment disintegrates on coming closer to the surface and little remains by the time the outermost layers of the skin are shed.

The distribution of the melanocytes is not uniform, with a greater concentration on the face, forehead, behind the ears, and in body folds. The palms and soles have the least. There is no difference in the number of melanocytes in the races; the amount of melanin produced depends upon the activity of these cells.

The malanocytes surrounding the hair bulb act differently from those in the skin. This explains why some persons have light skin and black hair or dark skin and gray hair. It is believed melanocytes are responsible for the hair shade — except in redheads, who have, in addition, a pigment containing iron.

The production of melanin is influenced by exposure to ultra-violet and by the behavior of the endocrine glands and the nervous system. The skin darkens when the melanocytes are stimulated and lightens when these cells are inhibited. The skin tans, for example, because the manufacture of melanin is stepped up by oxidation through a complicated chemical process. Freckles develop in areas where melanocytic activity is increased by sunlight. The tendency to freckle is genetically determined.

The pituitary gland puts out a melanocyte stimulating hormone (MSH). This hormone is responsible for the mask of pregnancy, for example. Hyperpigmentation also may occur in hyperthyroidism, pernicious anemia, sprue, and insufficiency of the adrenal glands.

Have we invented the thirstiest paper towel in the world?

It just could be. At least we spent two years perfecting our new Crown Zee before we were willing to advertise it as a "towel."

And the women who have tried it at home seem to back us up.

One said: "When you take it in two hands and snap it, it sounds like cloth." (It would take a woman to think of a test like that.)

Another wrote: "It's just as strong wet as dry." (A claim we wouldn't want to make ourselves, but it gives you an idea.)

Most people simply suggested: "It sops up liquid like a sponge."

That's good enough for us. And quite possibly for you, too?

At any rate there is no question that the new Crown Zee towel is very, very thirsty.

When you see it in the store, be kind. Take it home for a drink.

Glasgow to Allow Singing in Pubs

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — Glasgow, where drinking long has been recognized as a serious business, is going to allow singing in pubs.

City magistrates Tuesday approved 123 applications for pub music licenses, the first they have issued. Those who prefer their scotch in silence still can seek refuge in more than 1,000 non-musical pubs.

City magistrates Tuesday approved 123 applications for pub music licenses, the first they have issued. Those who prefer their scotch in silence still can seek refuge in more than 1,000 non-musical pubs.

Have we invented the thirstiest paper towel in the world?

It just could be. At least we spent two years perfecting our new Crown Zee before we were willing to advertise it as a "towel."

And the women who have tried it at home seem to back us up.

One said: "When you take it in two hands and snap it, it sounds like cloth." (It would take a woman to think of a test like that.)

Another wrote: "It's just as strong wet as dry." (A claim we wouldn't want to make ourselves, but it gives you an idea.)

Most people simply suggested: "It sops up liquid like a sponge."

That's good enough for us. And quite possibly for you, too?

At any rate there is no question that the new Crown Zee towel is very, very thirsty.

When you see it in the store, be kind. Take it home for a drink.

Take these home, too: Crown Zee Toilet Tissue and Crown Zee Napkins.

Garry Moore Resents End Of His Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—"I don't know who those geniuses are going to put on Tuesday nights next year," said comedian Alan King, "but it's going to be a very lonely Tuesday."

He reffered to the demise, after six years, of CBS' "Garry Moore Show," whose swan song Tuesday night was bright, amusing, sentimental and sad.

Moore, speaking of the sudden cancellation of the show, minced no words and showed a bit of resentment. The studio audience expressed its feelings with loud and long clapping, cheers and whistles for the star and members of the show's family—Durward Kirby, Marion Lorne, Carol Burnett, King and Allen Funt whose "Candid Camera" was a spin-off of the show. Moore was close to tears at the end.

The abrupt dropping of the show is a real mystery. It has been consistently, from 1958 on, a lively, joyous variety hour, invariably in good taste and with imaginative production numbers.

It will indeed be a lonely Tuesday night for a lot of people. The CBS programmers will replace it next season with "The Nurses," moved over from another night. Hospital drama is no real substitute for people who enjoy comedy - variety shows.

Moore, as often has been pointed out, isn't a terribly funny comedian and he can neither dance nor sing. But he projects as a fine, kindly man and works well with a lot of people of diverse talents. The result has been, usually, an entertaining hour. The show will really be missed.

Tuesday night's re-run of "Mr. Novak" on NBC was an earnest little tale about the triumph of a fine teacher over his personal problems, mostly involving alcohol.

It was interesting to compare that serious-minded show with the trite half - hour comedy called "Hey Teacher," on CBS Monday night, first of a summer series replacing "The Lucy Show." The program was made as a pilot for a projected series but never was sold.

Dawyne Hickman played a scared young teacher on his first day with his third graders strictly for laughs. The students were smarter and tougher than teacher: the smartest man in the whole school was the janitor and the hero was so inadequate he hid in a closet as the kids tropped into the classroom.

Both programs were made at about the same time. One, understandably, got nowhere. The other was a mild success. The only difference and it was a very big one, was the very different treatment.

German Defense Chief Denies Charges

KIEL, Germany (AP) — Defense Minister Kai-Uwe von Hassel says he is convinced West Germany's army "deserves the trust of the German people and that it will not disappoint them."

Von Hassel said in a speech Tuesday his ministry will do all it can to correct the impression given by Inspector General Hellmuth Heye that the Bundeswehr is a reactionary army developing "in a questionable way."

Heye claimed in a magazine article that the army was becoming "a state within a state" as in the times of Hitler and the kaiser. Heye was appointed by Parliament to see that the armed forces are a democratic organization responsive to civilian government.

MEXICO CITY — Small taxis will be tested in Mexico.

Winds of Change May Be Reaching East Germany

By PHILNEWSOM
UPI Foreign New Analyst

The winds of change which of late have seemed to be sweeping many of the Communist satellite states of Eastern Europe have set to reach East Germany.

Almost nightly, shots ring out from behind the Berlin wall against some East German who is at once a desperate human being making an all-or-nothing bid for personal freedom and a symbol of a people imprisoned.

For the East Germans today marks a date of singular emotional importance, and to the Communist leadership of Eastern Europe one best forgotten.

It is in fact a date of double significance.

For it was on June 17, 1953, that workers up to an estimated 50,000 in East Berlin took to the streets in the first large-scale revolt in a Soviet satellite state.

And it was on June 17, 1958, that the Communist Hungarian Ministry of Justice announced the execution of Imre Nagy, a crumpled little man who, although a dedicated Communist for 40 years, had attempted to lead the Hungarian people in their 1956 revolt against Moscow.

Nagy was not a natural leader and certainly did not seek the role of martyrdom thrust upon him.

His was a revolution that failed.

Yet, his betrayal at the hands of the Soviets, his 18 months of imprisonment and finally his execution have linked him indelibly with a revolt which today is credited with much of the new freedom Hungarians enjoy.

Intellectuals sparked the Hungarian revolt. In East Berlin in 1953 it was the workers.

On June 17, 1953, Stalin had been dead only a little more than three months, de-Stalinization still was a thing of the future.

On that morning, East Berlin construction workers demonstrated against a 10 per cent increase in production quotas without a corresponding increase in pay.

The demonstrations quickly turned to riots in which government buildings were attacked and Soviet flags burned. Russian troops and tanks put down the uprising, with death to at least 16 of the demonstrators and the arrest of more than 100 others.

But before the uprising finally had died, it spread to Magdeburg, Rathenow and to the uranium mining district of Saxony where demonstrators launched police and state security officers.

Said the New Statesman in London: "The lid was blown off the Communist pressure cooker and the whole world could see what was seething inside."

This also was a revolution that failed.

But the warning flag was up. Gradually the word seeped out that miners in Czechoslovakia had gone into widespread passive resistance to the Prague regime. Later it was to spread to Poland and to Hungary.

By its nature communism despises the individual.

But June 17 stands as a memorial day to those individuals who, thought caught in the Communist net, still found the strength to fight it.

German Defense Chief Denies Charges

KIEL, Germany (AP) — Defense Minister Kai-Uwe von Hassel says he is convinced West Germany's army "deserves the trust of the German people and that it will not disappoint them."

Von Hassel said in a speech Tuesday his ministry will do all it can to correct the impression given by Inspector General Hellmuth Heye that the Bundeswehr is a reactionary army developing "in a questionable way."

Heye claimed in a magazine article that the army was becoming "a state within a state" as in the times of Hitler and the kaiser. Heye was appointed by Parliament to see that the armed forces are a democratic organization responsive to civilian government.

Winds of Change May Be Reaching East Germany

By PHILNEWSOM
UPI Foreign New Analyst

The winds of change which of late have seemed to be sweeping many of the Communist satellite states of Eastern Europe have set to reach East Germany.

Almost nightly, shots ring out from behind the Berlin wall against some East German who is at once a desperate human being making an all-or-nothing bid for personal freedom and a symbol of a people imprisoned.

For the East Germans today marks a date of singular emotional importance, and to the Communist leadership of Eastern Europe one best forgotten.

It is in fact a date of double significance.

For it was on June 17, 1953, that workers up to an estimated 50,000 in East Berlin took to the streets in the first large-scale revolt in a Soviet satellite state.

And it was on June 17, 1958, that the Communist Hungarian Ministry of Justice announced the execution of Imre Nagy, a crumpled little man who, although a dedicated Communist for 40 years, had attempted to lead the Hungarian people in their 1956 revolt against Moscow.

Nagy was not a natural leader and certainly did not seek the role of martyrdom thrust upon him.

His was a revolution that failed.

Yet, his betrayal at the hands of the Soviets, his 18 months of imprisonment and finally his execution have linked him indelibly with a revolt which today is credited with much of the new freedom Hungarians enjoy.

Intellectuals sparked the Hungarian revolt. In East Berlin in 1953 it was the workers.

On June 17, 1953, Stalin had been dead only a little more than three months, de-Stalinization still was a thing of the future.

On that morning, East Berlin construction workers demonstrated against a 10 per cent increase in production quotas without a corresponding increase in pay.

The demonstrations quickly turned to riots in which government buildings were attacked and Soviet flags burned. Russian troops and tanks put down the uprising, with death to at least 16 of the demonstrators and the arrest of more than 100 others.

But before the uprising finally had died, it spread to Magdeburg, Rathenow and to the uranium mining district of Saxony where demonstrators launched police and state security officers.

Said the New Statesman in London: "The lid was blown off the Communist pressure cooker and the whole world could see what was seething inside."

This also was a revolution that failed.

But the warning flag was up. Gradually the word seeped out that miners in Czechoslovakia had gone into widespread passive resistance to the Prague regime. Later it was to spread to Poland and to Hungary.

By its nature communism despises the individual.

But June 17 stands as a memorial day to those individuals who, thought caught in the Communist net, still found the strength to fight it.

Garry Moore Resents End Of His Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—"I don't know who those geniuses are going to put on Tuesday nights next year," said comedian Alan King, "but it's going to be a very lonely Tuesday."

He reffered to the demise, after six years, of CBS' "Garry Moore Show," whose swan song Tuesday night was bright, amusing, sentimental and sad.

Moore, speaking of the sudden cancellation of the show, minced no words and showed a bit of resentment. The studio audience expressed its feelings with loud and long clapping, cheers and whistles for the star and members of the show's family—Durward Kirby, Marion Lorne, Carol Burnett, King and Allen Funt whose "Candid Camera" was a spin-off of the show. Moore was close to tears at the end.

The abrupt dropping of the show is a real mystery. It has been consistently, from 1958 on, a lively, joyous variety hour, invariably in good taste and with imaginative production numbers.

It will indeed be a lonely Tuesday night for a lot of people. The CBS programmers will replace it next season with "The Nurses," moved over from another night. Hospital drama is no real substitute for people who enjoy comedy - variety shows.

Moore, as often has been pointed out, isn't a terribly funny comedian and he can neither dance nor sing. But he projects as a fine, kindly man and works well with a lot of people of diverse talents. The result has been, usually, an entertaining hour. The show will really be missed.

Tuesday night's re-run of "Mr. Novak" on NBC was an earnest little tale about the triumph of a fine teacher over his personal problems, mostly involving alcohol.

It was interesting to compare that serious-minded show with the trite half - hour comedy called "Hey Teacher," on CBS Monday night, first of a summer series replacing "The Lucy Show." The program was made as a pilot for a projected series but never was sold.

Dawyne Hickman played a scared young teacher on his first day with his third graders strictly for laughs. The students were smarter and tougher than teacher: the smartest man in the whole school was the janitor and the hero was so inadequate he hid in a closet as the kids tropped into the classroom.

Both programs were made at about the same time. One, understandably, got nowhere. The other was a mild success. The only difference and it was a very big one, was the very different treatment.

German Defense Chief Denies Charges

KIEL, Germany (AP) — Defense Minister Kai-Uwe von Hassel says he is convinced West Germany's army "deserves the trust of the German people and that it will not disappoint them."

Von Hassel said in a speech Tuesday his ministry will do all it can to correct the impression given by Inspector General Hellmuth Heye that the Bundeswehr is a reactionary army developing "in a questionable way."

Heye claimed in a magazine article that the army was becoming "a state within a state" as in the times of Hitler and the kaiser. Heye was appointed by Parliament to see that the armed forces are a democratic organization responsive to civilian government.

Winds of Change May Be Reaching East Germany

By PHILNEWSOM
UPI Foreign New Analyst

The winds of change which of late have seemed to be sweeping many of the Communist satellite states of Eastern Europe have set to reach East Germany.

Almost nightly, shots ring out from behind the Berlin wall against some East German who is at once a desperate human being making an all-or-nothing bid for personal freedom and a symbol of a people imprisoned.

For the East Germans today marks a date of singular emotional importance, and to the Communist leadership of Eastern Europe one best forgotten.

It is in fact a date of double significance.

For it was on June 17, 1953, that workers up to an estimated 50,000 in East Berlin took to the streets in the first large-scale revolt in a Soviet satellite state.

And it was on June 17, 1958, that the Communist Hungarian Ministry of Justice announced the execution of Imre Nagy, a crumpled little man who, although a dedicated Communist for 40 years, had attempted to lead the Hungarian people in their 1956 revolt against Moscow.

Nagy was not a natural leader and certainly did not seek the role of martyrdom thrust upon him.

His was a revolution that failed.

Yet, his betrayal at the hands of the Soviets, his 18 months of imprisonment and finally his execution have linked him indelibly with a revolt which today is credited with much of the new freedom Hungarians enjoy.

Intellectuals sparked the Hungarian revolt. In East Berlin in 1953 it was the workers.

On June 17, 1953, Stalin had been dead only a little more than three months, de-Stalinization still was a thing of the future.

On that morning, East Berlin construction workers demonstrated against a 10 per cent increase in production quotas without a corresponding increase in pay.

The demonstrations quickly turned to riots in which government buildings were attacked and Soviet flags burned. Russian troops and tanks put down the uprising, with death to at least 16 of the demonstrators and the arrest of more than 100 others.

But before the uprising finally had died, it spread to Magdeburg, Rathenow and to the uranium mining district of Saxony where demonstrators launched police and state security officers.

Said the New Statesman in London: "The lid was blown off the Communist pressure cooker and the whole world could see what was seething inside."

This also was a revolution that failed.

But the warning flag was up. Gradually the word seeped out that miners in Czechoslovakia had gone into widespread passive resistance to the Prague regime. Later it was to spread to Poland and to Hungary.

By its nature communism despises the individual.

But June 17 stands as a memorial day to those individuals who, thought caught in the Communist net, still found the strength to fight it.
